Foreword

In the production of the Memorial Number of the Moundbuilder, it had been our desire to make it an expression of life at Southwestern.

We offer it as a book of pleasant and worth while memories, that to those who read may come again the thrill of college life to strengthen the determination to prove themselves worthy, and do honor to the name of Southwestern.

THE COLLEGE

The Old Stone Arch

IN behalf of the trustees, faculty, Junior class, and the entire student body of Southwestern College, I send these words of greeting to the friends of Southwestern and of Christian Education throughout the great Southwest. This volume, published by the Junior class of Southwestern, carries with it not only information concerning the institution which it represents, but the good cheer and best wishes of all those loyal hearts whose lives have been built into that peculiar institution, the "Southwestern Family."

During the years of its history the school has stood for a high standard of scholarship and a wide range of student activity. In forensics, athletics and in the development of the social life, there has been only the attempt toward the development of a well-rounded manhood and womanhood. That this ideal has been, in a measure, attained, is proved by the quality of the men and women who have gone out as representatives of the institution. During the years the purpose has been to keep abreast of the educational development of the time.

To all the men and women who have entered into the work of building the institution, as a faculty, as students; to the trustees who have toiled so long and so well; to the great constituency throughout the Southwest Kansas Conference, led by a loyal ministry; to all the friends of education who have prayed and toiled and given for the success of Southwestern College, we send most cordial greetings in this volume dedicated to the memory of those lives, though shortened in days, shall be projected far into the future through the lives of others.

CLASSES

THE Senior class comes to the end of its college road, forty-eight strong. The Seniors will leave Southwestern, a group of typical Kansas Americans, for such has the College striven to make them. In manifold experiences of classroom, of social life, of athletic field, and of debating floor they have learned the virtues and gained the strength and power that comes from earnest effort, from tasks accomplished. They know the bitterness of defeat, the sting of disappointment—but they know, too, in full measure the joy of co-operation, the comfort of friendship, the elixir of success.

To them, commencement is pleasant, as a milestone marking the end of a period of development well and wisely spent. What is coming just next is to many yet a secret, but it may be viewed with equanimity and met with courage for that part of life which has been well-lived always provides the strength and the tools for the living of the next stage.

As a class, the men and women of '17 have had their full share of college life and work; borne their full share of responsibility; given their full share of service. As a class they will leave Southwestern's walls and campus but they will always be Southwesterners, realizing that it is for them to stand for her principles and to honor her name.

What it Means to be a Junior

PLUNGED helplessly into the problems, the difficulties and the perplexities of his education, the Freshman finds himself struggling to gain any significance to the maze of facts which seems to engulf him. The first two years of his college life he spends in hopeless floundering. His studies are not wholly meaningless but they have opened doors before him that he little dreamed had ever existed. However, by the time that the student enters his Junior year he begins to gain that vital connection of his work, his studies with the living things and the real things of life.

The object of the college is the development of the intellectual and spiritual life of the individual. The upper classmen realize this and in the outside activities of the students, in what they do and talk of and place before themselves as ideals, is found the real intellectuality of the students. The Junior in his activities is then set apart distinctly from the under classmen. It is not what a man is studying that makes him a Sophomore or a Senior. It is the stage that the college process has reacted in him; college in itself is a process of development. It is a slow evolution from the schoolboy and the boy's mental attitude to the man and the man's radically different attitude toward the world. In the Junior is found the first evidences of the new outlook toward life. He feels that now he is beginning to find the solutions to the puzzles which heretofore have been unanswered and at last his college has become his life.

The Southwestern Junior of this year splendidly typifies the ideal Junior. He has reached that stage of development which makes him not a Sophomore nor a Senior, but a real Junior. He is beginning the application, the use of his knowledge. He can do as well as know. He has seen the broader field that opens out before him and is taking his place in it. He knows how much it means to be a Junior and is doing his share to deserve his rights and privileges. All honor is due him. May his present strength and success live on through the years with him. So here's to the Class of '18, the Junior of today, the Senior of tomorrow!

From the View Point of a Sophomore

AND behold! in the reign of King Mossman, there appeared a prophet who said: "So a great multitude shall appear in September, in the year of our Lord 1915, who shall conquer all about them; who shall be Southwestern's refuge and strength in athletics and wisdom, and whose flag shall fly from the highest pinnacle of the land."

And when they came, they were called by some, Freshmen; by others "Genesis," but in September, 1916, they called themselves Sophomores, or those of the Class of '19.

And it came to pass as the prophet hath said—their flag did wave from the greased pole and they who lived next and were known as Juniorites, from fear were stricken dumb by the wisdom and athletic strength of the Sophomoreites, and from that time to this have always remained so.

And during this time there was great commotion among all the rest, and then they came together amid great rejoicing.

Then the Sophies were ITS and the Freshies, the Juniorites, the Seniorites, the Townites, and all the people round about including Faculites, did them honor, saying: "The Sophies are a great nation for they have produced the great kings, rulers and orators of all the land of Southwestern. We will bow to the Kings, Jerrell and Stickel, who proclaimed peace throughout the land of Kansas, Stansbury the advocator of Prohibition and Olive Vaughn the queen of women's oratory. So shall all Southwestern render obeisance to the great men of mighty strength and valor; the noted Sophies who composed the baseball team, the eight "S" men of football, the captains of baseball, basketball and the seven Sophomores of the ten braves on the Varsity basketball squad, as we bow to men of strength and valor, so shall we bow to men and women of knowledge and leadership; Heil Bollinger the most noted debater throughout the land of Southwestern; the Christian leaders, and the great band leader, Martin.

And it was even so.

But time has passed, wounds from the raids of the Sophies have been healed, pledges have been signed and peace has been made. And they who are bravest and best shall soon cross the river called Exams and shall take their place in the land of the Juniorites.

Freshman Conceit

GREEN? Freshmen? Not this year—we're an extraordinary bunch. We convinced everyone of that fact, too, before we had been many days in Southwestern. We were the ones who inaugurated the Freshman cap custom. That act in itself disclosed our unusual powers of initiative. Next, of course, we vanquished the Sophomores in the annual scrimmage. Talk about colors! Those Sophs were mighty blue individuals when we got through with them. However, we were not content with that one victory, but immediately began seeking other worlds to conquer.

In football, nothing less than the school championship satisfied us. Three of our men made the Varsity eleven. In basketball, by defeating the other three classes, we captured the college cup.

Our girls come in for honors, too, since a majority on the girls' basketball team are Freshmen.

Besides all this, a Freshman (think of it!) was elected student manager of school athletics. That's a rather good score for green Freshman, isn't it?

And we have other talents. A large number of our class are members of the college glee clubs, and we have taken an important part in oratory, debates, and dramatics. Did we say we were extraordinary? Here's another indication of that face—we study. If you don't believe it, go to Room 25, open that fateful record, the grade book and count the A's and I's and honor credits piled up by the side of our names.

And yet, strange as it may seem, we realize that there is still much to learn and much to achieve. But we have just begun. Three more years lie before us. With the super-abundance of intelligence, skill, energy and enthusiasm that is distributed among the members of our class, we expect to accomplish great things in Southwestern before the spring of 1920.

Southwestern Academy

THERE are residents of College Hill who tell us of the days when students swarmed over the campus and through the halls of Southwestern, to exceed the eight-hundred mark—deduct about one hundred for the College enrollment and you have the numerical strength of the Academy in those pre-high-school days. It may be safely surmised that it was not the seven hundred who had to walk softly and speak respectfully to the Cap-and-Gown men; the Academy student was the “man of the hour.” Now its roll-book does not need three figures to represent its numbers.

The high school has brought efficient training nearer home, and the student delays his sojourn at the College on the Mound.

The Academy still helps to fill up the ranks of orators, debaters, honor students and the leaders of Southwestern College. Our representative this year in the Old Line contest, the Senior ranking highest in scholarship, and also the student receiving the nomination to K. U. scholarship, are all graduates of the Academy.

The Academy is still the hostess of the scores of high schools that assemble annually for the inter-high-school track meet and literary contests, and with a generous hand crowns the winners with the trophies of victory.

The School of Fine Arts

ELVIS C. MARSHALL
Mus. B., 1897, Kansas University;
Pupil of William Nelson Burritt,
New York; Dean of the Department of Fine Arts, and Instructor in Voice.

IN the spring of 1916 the Board of Trustees united the School of Music, the School of Oratory and the School of Art into one department and named it the School of Fine Arts. Professor E. C. Marshall, former Director of the School of Music, was made Dean, continuing to be the head of the Voice Department; Professor Foster, head of the Piano Department, with Miss Irene Grieder as assistant; Professor Gordon, head of the Violin Department; Miss Ruth Trice, head of the Expression Department; Miss Grace Raymond, head of the Art Department, and Mrs. Lockwood at the head of the China Painting work.

All these teachers except Miss Trice had been connected with the College. The co-operation of this faculty in one school instead of three has added very much to its efficiency, and makes the School of Fine Arts of Southwestern College one of the strongest of its kind in the state. The studios are beautifully furnished, and are easy of access, so that no time is lost in going from recitations to the lessons in this department.

The highest ideals in each department are adhered to tenaciously; thoroughness and scholarly attainments conceived as important to artistic results. The school has for two years granted the degree of Bachelor of Music upon those who completed the scheduled courses. It is the purpose to prepare men and women for the higher efficiency in the field of Art as truly as Science or Literature.

Many students of the College of Arts make use of the courses in the School of Fine Arts, for which they may receive credit upon their Bachelor of Arts degree, and also others that are purely cultural, or so-called applied courses, which increase their efficiency as college men and women.

Training in the Glee Clubs is not open only to men, but to the women of the school as well, and the Women's Glee Club is larger this year than it has ever been in the history of the school. Its work has been very interesting and highly profitable to those who have taken advantage of the training it has offered. It does not make an annual tour as does the Men's Club, but while on its trip to and from the Annual Conference at Lyons, it gave its very enjoyable concerts at some of the intervening towns.

Besides the home concert, it responds to the calls which come in from the near-by towns for evening programs.

The Men's Glee Club is one to the men of all the departments open of the school, and offers them the opportunity of a musical training that otherwise they would not have.

Formerly there has been a definite number of men chosen as members of the club, but this year the number was unrestricted, thus giving a great advantage to any who wished to come into the group and secure the drill and training which it afforded. Then from this entire group the sixteen men were chosen who would represent the school on the annual tour.

The club attended the Annual Conference at Lyons where it appeared with the Women's Club. Besides the trip to the Conference, the club went on its regular tour, consisting of six dates, which was one of the most successful trips the Glee Club has ever made.

Athens

IN the early days of Southwestern College, there were twelve men who felt that the old literary society, the Cadmus, did not give the adequate means of development for those who were unskilled in literary work, and in pursuit of better literary training they organized the Athenian Literary Society. Since that time approximately seven hundred men have been members of this organization. They have derived the benefits from the training herein offered, and have enjoyed to the full extent the fellowship which only Athenians know. And now after more than twenty-five years, this brotherhood of Athenians still retains the characteristics which those twelve men gave it; dissatisfaction with that which is inefficient and falls beneath the possibility of attainment, and encouragement to strive for those things which make for a broader and bigger manhood.

In the field of her training is offered splendid opportunities for the development of literary qualities and leadership, and the means for social development, so necessary to the truly educated man.

Since 1894, when John Wesley Wetzel, now professor of Oratory in Yale University, won the local oratorical contest for Athens, twenty-four men have represented the school in the State Old Line Contests and in every case save four the representative in the state contest has been an Athenian. Three times has Southwestern won first in the State, and each time the contestant has been an Athenian.

One of the reasons for such a record is the system by which orators are developed. The Chairman of Oratory maintains interest among the members, supervises the work of all contestants of the society, and works in conjunction with the consul in arranging for the annual society contest.

For the development of debaters there has been a system of training placed in her curriculum which fully meets the needs of those whose ambitions are in the field of forensics. The system, known as the Gold Medal Debate series, was instituted in 1912 and has proved itself to be a very efficient method for larger development and has placed a number of men on the College Debate squad.

The Debate Chairman has this work in hand and gives his services to the men who are working up toward the preliminary in which the College teams are chosen. The Gold Medal series is open only to the under classmen and the winner of first and second places in this series is given a gold and a silver medal, respectively.

In the work of music and drama, Athens has a splendid record, for the activity of this department is encouraged and each year there is appointed a man of musical ability whose duty it is to secure musical numbers for the regular programs and to encourage this work among the members of the society. Working in conjunction with Belles Lettres, various musical and dramatic productions are given, thus enabling the one who has musical or dramatic inclinations to express and develop them.

Athens stands for social development and in her halls many men have come to know the real meaning of friendship. She strives to develop manhood that will be of social worth to the communities in which her members shall find their fields of activity in life after they have gone from the halls of Southwestern College. The banquets, receptions, picnics and hikes which are enjoyed with the sister society, Belles Lettres, affords ample opportunity for the formation of ideal social habits. Athens reaches her ideal, for her members only as she enables them whether in formal banquet halls, in informal meetings, in parliamentary gatherings, or in a friendly conversation with a single individual, to act in a manner worthy of a true man.

The standing of Athenians in the school is worthy of attention, for they have filled more places of responsibility in various associations and organizations of the school than any other men's society, yet it cannot be said that it has been her greatest ambition to excel her rival in collegiate activities. In the decade just closing, fully seventy per cent of all elective and appointive offices of the school have been filled by her followers. In the society itself it is purposed that the offices shall be filled by men who are capable, worthy and efficient, thus rewarding true merit and service. If this were not the case it would not be true that Athens has furnished so great a per cent of the men who have been presidents of the classes, presidents of the Y. M. C. A., presidents of the oratorical associations, presidents of the various clubs and organizations of the school; her men would not have been selected in so great numbers as captains and managers of the athletic teams, editors and managers of the Collegian, all the editors of the Moundbuilder and all the managers of the same save one, and a very large majority of the winning orators.

The ranking of her men in scholarship is manifest by a review of the school, which shows that most of the assistant positions, open to the men of the school, have been held by Athenians, and also the fact that a majority of the fellowships and scholarships given to the men of the school have been held by them, and that some of her men have returned to the position of faculty in the college.

Athens offers to one man in each Senior class an honor which but very few men may enjoy—the Gown of the Athenian Succession. It was originally purchased by Jesse R. Derby of the class of 1911. Since that time it has been worn by Leonard Bacon, 1912; John Calbeck, 1913; Guy Tetrick, 1914; J. Rufus Gray, 1915; Thomas A. Williams, 1916, and W. Glenn Harris, 1917.

The gown was presented to the Society by Thomas A. Williams, 1916. The objective being that it might become an Athenian Endowment and also the highest token of honor which the society can give in appreciation of faithful, meritorious service.

To the man with ambition to develop himself in the fields in which a college man should excel, Athens offers an opportunity and a hearty welcome.

At the southwest corner on the second floor of Richardson Hall is the society home of Delphi. Here, "far above the Walnut Valley," every Friday evening of the school year, just as the sunset time comes the men of Delphi and their friends gather in their splendidly equipped hall for their weekly literary program and business session. Although the youngest men's literary society in school, Delphi has had a steady growth from its beginning seventeen years ago, until she now asks odds of no one and gives place to none.

The epitome of Delphi's ideals and successes is that inscribed upon the Delphian fane, "Know Thyself." Here in Delphi, the open-minded rural graduate of the high school and the more or less sophisticated urban graduate alike are given the invaluable service and experience of the best talent of Delphi and Southwestern in developing and preparing themselves for later work. This training from week to week cannot be overestimated. Each number of the weekly program must be approved by the preliminary critic before presentation. After the number has been given, the regular critic makes valuable constructive criticism. It is this progressive plan that has enabled Delphi to retain the lead in the quality of weekly programs.

The Frazier Medal, given by Steve D. Frazier, a valuable honorary member of Delphi, is awarded annually to the man who is adjudged the best all-round accomplished member of the society. The contest included all active members and to gain the Frazier Medal is the highest competitive honor attainable. The medal itself is worthy of the efforts of the most talented, in addition to this unique prize there are other awards given annually in society debates and oratorical contests, the purpose of which is to encourage interest along these lines.

Delphi's systematized plan of society work is of great efficacy in bringing forth the latent possibilities of even the most uncouth. The results of this training are not limited to the society, but extend to the general activities of college life, for the qualities of leadership necessary for society usually gain recognition from the school at large.

In collegiate debate, Delphi stands unquestionably foremost, both in number and rank of members of the many teams which have victoriously represented Southwestern. Since the time of reorganized debate, Delphi has furnished sixty per cent of the men composing the debate squads. Two out of every three leaders of the teams have been Delphians. This records the last nine years of debate; such a record is well worth more than a superficial consideration.

In oratory as well, Delphi has done excellent work. Since 1911, including the present year, there have been fourteen representatives of Southwestern in the three oratorical contests. Of this number nine have been Delphians.

The musical leaders for years have been Delphians and Sigmas, though there has been no more effort made than in other departments. The recognized leadership is simply a product of thorough work. Each year there is given a joint musical and dramatic production. Several times there has been given a high-class operetta. Last year the usual order was changed and a Greek play was staged with unusual success—the first play of its kind to be attempted here. In addition, less formal productions are presented in the regular society work. The Delphian glee club and quartet, and the Sigma-Delphian Orchestra of fourteen pieces make occasional appearances. With one exception the College Quartet has always been Delphian, and the Majority of the College Glee Club likewise have been lovers of Apollo.

In the field of athletics, Delphi believes in and encourages clean and manly sportsmanship. From the gridiron huskies to tennis sharks, men of Delphi have upheld the honor of the Purple and White.

Delphi means more than a literary society. The good comradeship of the society is of no small import. In the Philippines and the Orient, in the Americas and in Europe, Delphian alumni are contributing their share to the world's work. Scientists, ministers, teachers, lawyers and doctors, some of them already among the foremost of their profession, form the brotherhood of the Greater Delphi. Nor is this bond one that is lightly esteemed.

Much more might be said of the work and the aims of the society, but it is hoped that this will give an insight into the character and the meaning of Delphi. The records are open to scrutiny and the claims and aspirations of Delphi do not lose by examination. To those who desire a democratic comradeship, who are eager to work and know how to play, Delphi gives the glad hand of fellowship.

Belles Lettres

THE Belles Lettres Literary Society is the home of an ever-increasing number of happy, earnest, ambitious college women. By the training received within her halls, her members have been able to succeed in every school activity which is open to women. They stand high in scholarship, they excel in debate and oratory; they are prominent in athletics. The drama is pre-eminently their field. Belles Lettres gives annually a Shakespearian play and has written and staged several of her own. Not the least of her achievements is in the realm of music, which is attested by the popular Belles Lettres Trio, the Glee Club and the Belles Lettres-Athenian Orchestra.

Her members are also efficiently active in in the Christian work of the school and the city, filling important Y. W. C. A. offices and lending their assistance to the various churches in which they work.

Of social affairs there is no dearth; memories of happy camp-fire gatherings, spreads, breakfasts and receptions, constitute some of the brightest recollections of the Belles Lettres girl's life.

Her members never forget their associations and friendships within the sisterhood. To them the spirit of Belles Letters is a living tangible reality which they understand and the world outside must feel.

Gleaming gold of fair Belles Lettres
Tells of wealth in store untold.
Wealth of honor, truth and love,
Wealth of learning, striving, knowing,
Wealth of strength and power for growing.
Eager friendship, earnest life.

Shining white of fair Belles Lettres
Breathes of purity and peace,
Purity in thought and motive,
Peace of heart in quiet giving,
Peace of soul in tender loving,
Happiness in service true.

Bravest spirit of Belles Lettres,
Onward, upward ever rise.
Weld the chain of friendship stronger,
Lift the souls of men up higher,
Fill each heart with eager fire,
"No Steps Backward," be thy cry.

Sigma Pi Phi

SIGMA PI PHI stands today as she stood at her organization twelve years ago, for those three biggest factors in college life—Friendship, Loyalty and Learning. She proposes to attain the first of these by a series of social events during the year, and by the comradeship of the business meeting; the second ideal is attained by means of the association and co-operation of members in working for the society for which they feel themselves to be responsible; Learning, the last ideal, is furthered by the hard work and the thoughtful preparation necessary for appearance on the program.

Sigma Pi Phi has always striven to keep each member at work and to develop each one to the fullness of her potentialities along literary and social lines. As an added incentive to real literary work, Edith Fleming, a Senior, presents this year and will continue to present annually, a handsome medal known as the Sigma Honor Medal, to the Sophomore or Freshman girl who does the best literary work during the school year.

Members of Sigma Pi Phi have always evinced a decided interest in athletics, as is shown by the fact that until last year the women's tennis teams were always Sigmas. The society of the Green and White has always been well represented on the basket-ball teams of Southwestern.

A large majority of the women wearing the Sigma crescent have always been prominent in the Christian activities of the school, for the girl who joins a collegiate literary society is wise enough to know that in a well-rounded, efficient womanhood the religious life cannot remain undeveloped. Naturally, then, at least half of the officers and cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. are Sigmas.

In the realm of scholarship, Sigma Pi Phi is the foremost. The honor students during the past four years have been Sigmas: Lucile Stevens, 1914; Inez Coldwell, 1915; Lucile Lynch, 1916, and Avis Dungan, of the class of 1917. Two of the three woman associate editors of the Collegian have been Sigmas. Since 1914, every representative to the State Women's Oratorical Contest has been a follower of the Green and White.

From this brief summary of their most noteworthy achievements in the last few years, it is easy to see that members of Sigma Pi Phi are strong, capable young women who are willing to give the best of themselves to their society and college. Although much of the old bitter society rivalry has died out, it is certain that as long as these three ideals—Friendship, Loyalty and Learning—blaze in the lives of her members, the spirit of Sigma Pi Phi cannot diminish in its power.

The Young Men's Christian Association

THE Southwestern plan of organization for the Young Men's Christian Association is commonly known as the Promotion Plan. This system is urged for every college association by the State and International Committees. It preserves the spirit and objective of the association and makes possible preparation for promotion and conservation of all activities to a degree impossible with any other plan suggested. It is a constant "check up" on officers and cabinet men as to whether they are really doing intensive work. Its very success depends upon efficient personal work, which we all admit to be imperative. It further insures that our organization shall be kept vital at its heart.

It is the experience of the present cabinet that too much care cannot be exercised in the selection and training of officers and committeemen. They recommend the adoption of the following qualifications for each and every cabinet member:

1. That he be a man of recognized sincere Christian life, who believes in and subscribes to the complete objective of the association.

2. That he will put the Association absolutely first in his voluntary college activities.

3. That he believes in prayer and will unite sincerely in the united intercessions of the cabinet, and take the leadership of the prayer life of his committee.

4. That he will keep the morning watch.

5. That he will attend the summer conference.

Our Y. M. C. A. organization is composed of a President, who is the leader of all its activities; a General Secretary, who is the chairman of all the committees and sub-committees and assumes the position of Vice-President, although his duties are different from those in the old plan of organization; a Secretary; a Treasurer and a Board of Directors composed of five general committee chairmen. The five main departments of the Association are really small organizations within a large one. They are as follows:

1. Administration—The duties of the chairman are to appoint as many men as necessary to make a complete canvass for membership, to carry on an efficient campaign at the beginning of the school year to meet the yearly budget, and to make known publicly the activities and regular meetings of the associations. He must assume the entire responsibility of his department and must formulate all the plans for the most efficient work in that department.

2. Religious Education—The head of this department organizes Bible and Mission classes. The Bible Study classes are taken up each year by the special Y. M. C. A. classes in the Sunday Schools. A "Series of Social Principles" is studied, with definite guidance for handling social conditions. One of the most important functions of the department is to supply speakers for the regular weekly meetings. Some of the best men of near and more distant cities have spoken before the men of the Association. Their lectures and talks have been of real worth, full of power and influence, and dealing generally with character-building and better living.

3. Campus Service—This department is one of real service, especially to the new students. The Employment Bureau purposes to help the students find employment which will help them through school. The sick are properly cared for and, in fact, it reaches a helping hand to any student who may be in need.

4. Community Service—Under this head is the direction of the Gospel Team movement, which aims to provide efficient teams to those who need their assistance in meetings. It aims further in the religious organization of communities, to touch the life of individuals in the jails and hospitals, and where it is possible, to work out constructive plans for community betterment.

5. Life Work Guidance—This chairman of the department assists the men to find the work in which he will be able to live the largest and most helpful life. There are meetings given over to the discussion of the various activities of life and the motives which should control in the choice of a life work. It is also the duty of this department to arrange interviews for the students and see that there are delegates to the large conferences which meet throughout the country. The Promotion Plan makes it possible to secure the best officers for the respective offices.

Y. M. C. A. Gospel Teams

IN the last few years, Gospel Team community work as an outlet for Y. M. C. A. activity, has become very popular. Week-end teams are sent out occasionally during the year in response to the call of student pastors or anyone who may desire their services. Christmas vacation teams are also sent out regularly. Team standards are rigidly kept very high, for the purpose of the teams' going is to benefit the community to which they go. Thus they represent the spirit of Southwestern College.

In 1916 plans were made to send out two vacation teams, but one of the engagements was unavoidably canceled at the last hour. The other team, composed of J. E. Robinson, leader, Paul McCaffree, Folsom Jackson, Ward Miller, Verne Stansbury, Isaac Martin and Wilbur White, went to Dexter where they conducted a very successful meeting.

This year, three teams were sent out after Christmas. Byron White, leader, with John Englehardt, Earl Myers, Adel Throckmorton and Verne Stansbury conducted a helpful meeting at Hesston Kansas. A second team composed of J. E. Robinson, leader, with Chas. Schrepel, Ernest Bartlett, Carl Riggs and Earl Thomas, conducted a meeting on the Elk City charge. The third team, Isaac Martin, leader, Donald Carter, Howard Burnett, Roy Harding and Wilbur White, was at Bluff City.

The splendid effects of these strenuous college-style campaigns on the communities reached, upon Southwestern College itself, and especially upon the Y. M. C. A., can scarcely be over-estimated.

Wakefield—"Because the water is warmer then."

The Young Women's Christian Association

Motto—"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

THE Young Women's Christian Association is the one organization at Southwestern in which practically all of the women of the school meet together. Out of one hundred thirty-eight women enrolled this year, one hundred twenty are members of the Young Women's Christian Association. The meetings are held in one of the society halls every Wednesday morning at the regular chapel hour. The character of the service varies with the needs of the women; sometimes the sessions are student-led, and again they are conducted by one of the faculty, or by the wife of some faculty member. The Association has been fortunate in having Dr. Winfield Scott Hall of Northwestern speak this year. Other instructive and helpful addresses have been made by Dr. Gibson, Dr. Lister, Miss Lillian Walton, Professor Gowans and the following ministers: H. E. Wark, Wm. B. Lampe, R. W. Gentry and C. F. Matthews, all of Winfield. The aim is to have the meetings practical, spiritual, and uplifting.

In the fall the Membership Committee meets trains and helps the new girls find their rooms and boarding places. Social affairs are held in which all the women meet and become acquainted, climaxed by a joint reception with the Young Men's Christian Association for the entire student body.

The mission work has extended and this year the Woman's College at Foochow, China, has been adopted as a sister college. The mission pledge has increased from thirty-three dollars last year to one hundred dollars this year.

The Big Sister movement among the women has been launched and has proved helpful and beneficial.

One of the cabinet of twelve, this year represents at Denver, the three colleges, Friends, Fairmount and Southwestern. Here national workers meet to plan for bigger and greater conferences and conventions for the Young Women's Christian Association.

Eighteen members of the Association were in attendance at the Spring Conference held in Wichita March, 1916. This winter one cabinet member was sent to Baldwin as a delegate to the Student Volunteer Convention.

So this Christian Association in Southwestern College meets the women as they enter and follows them through their college course, aiming to win them for Christ, to build them up in Christ, and then to send them out for Christ.

Y. W. C. A.---Estes Park

ESTES PARK, Colorado, with the wonderful snow-capped Rockies beckoning one in all directions, is perhaps the most beautiful of the many beautiful sports where Association conferences are held. There are long hikes, stiff climbs, over rough mountain trails, rides on horseback or by auto. There is a conference bonfire with games, delegation songs and stunts. On Mountain Day the whole conference goes to Long's Peak Inn, where Mr. Enos Mills, the naturalist, tells mountain stories.

The conference sessions are full of new life and courage for the year to come, with the morning study classes, the evening addresses—and all day, through it all, the spirit of worship that the mountains themselves inspire.

In August, 1915, Dora Baker, Hazel Scandrett and Mattie Denning were in attendance at the Summer Conference. Last summer there was a much larger representation. Dorothy Meade, Irma Macklin, Alma Bernstorff, Ola McCluskey, Grace Graham and Dorothy Cate represented the Southwestern Association. This summer the conference is to be held in the Ozarks along the beautiful White River near Hollister, Missouri. Since this nearer location has been selected it is hoped that a larger number may have the privilege of attending.

THE Student Volunteer Band is a group of young people who are interested in the Foreign Field as a life work and who are endeavoring to get an adequate preparation for their life task. It meets once each week for the purpose of studying the needs of the respective fields, the necessary equipment of the missionary, and by knowing the various situations and the needs of the fields they are able to intelligently grasp the situation, thus knowing where they may place their lives to be of the greatest service to the Kingdom of Christ. The Volunteers seek to stimulate an interest in the State Volunteer conventions, and see to it that the college is there represented.

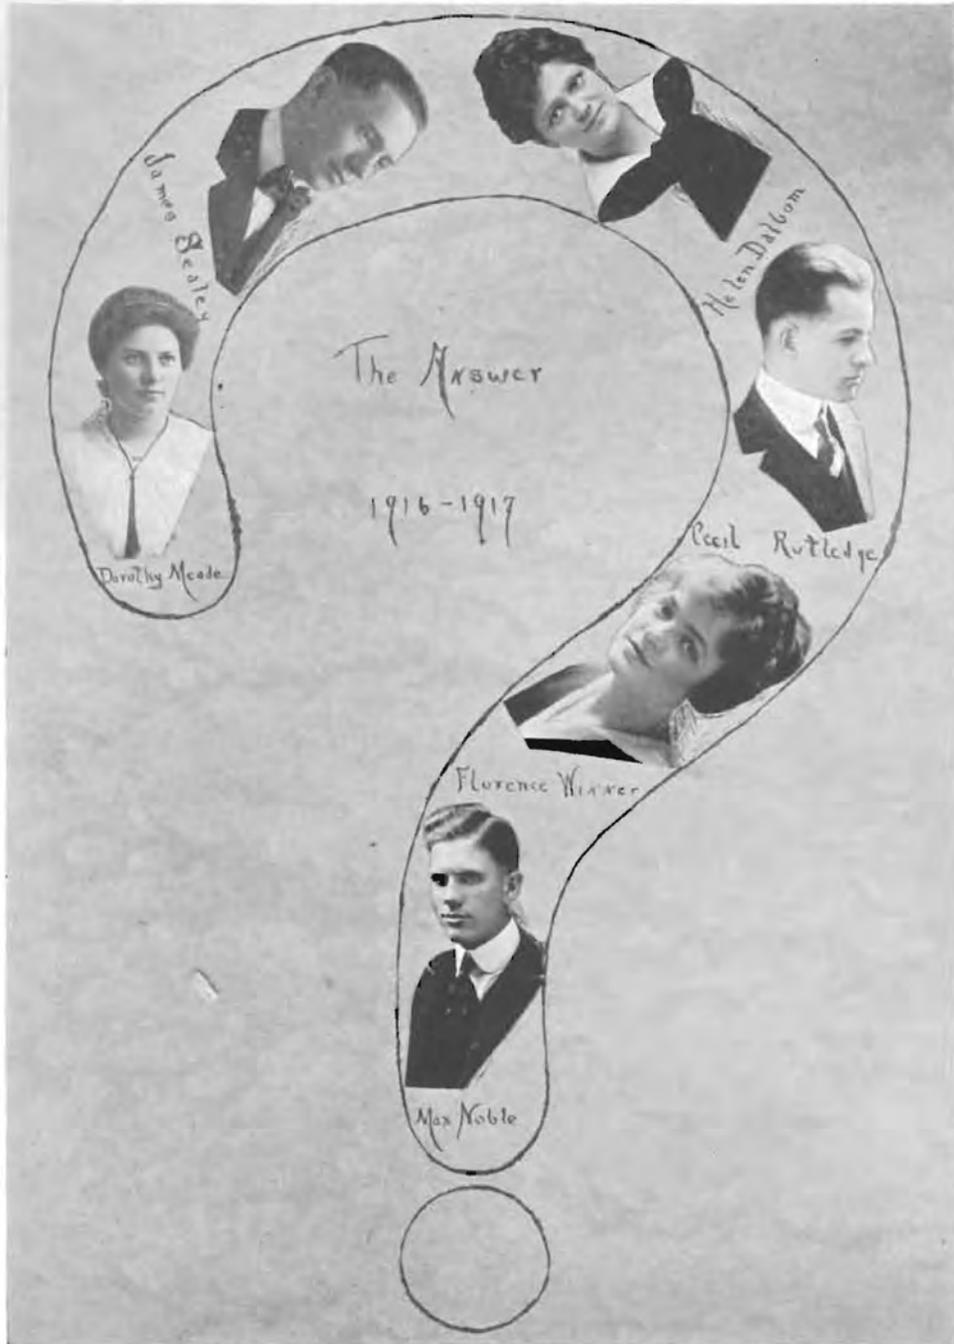

The course of study changes throughout the year, thus bringing to them the inspiration of those many men who have studied the field from close range. This year the Band has made a study of the needs of South America, which study has proved itself very helpful.

The Student Council

STUDENTS of Southwestern govern themselves in all their student activities through their own representatives who compose the Student Council. This Council is made up of four representatives from the Senior class, four from the Junior class, three each from the Sophomore and Freshmen classes and one each from the School of Fine Arts and the Southwestern Academy. Professor J. F. Phillips is president of the Council through virtue of both student and faculty choice and particular fitness for the position. Milton Dudey is vice-president and Esther Bray is secretary. Louis Thomas is general treasurer of the student funds.

All questions in regard to student activities are handled by the Student Council, the entire amount of the student funds being administered through that body. The routine work is carried on by committees made up of the members best fitted to do the work. Provision for initiative and referendum make it possible for the majority of the members of the class to force their representative to enact legislation which is agreeable to them.

That student self-government is satisfactory is fully demonstrated by the success of the Student Council of Southwestern since its organization in 1911.

Collegian Management 1916-17

THE SOUTHWESTERN COLLEGIAN

THE Southwestern Collegian is a four-page weekly college newspaper, published every Tuesday of the school session. Its purpose is quite as much historical as journalistic, for in a school of the size of Southwestern, news reaches the rest of the student body with practically the same speed at it comes to the staff.

The direct management of the paper is in the hands of an Editor, a Business Manager and two Associate Editors. A competent staff of special reporters and reporters on general assignments is chosen by the editor. Staff and management usually number about twenty. The management is elected annually, by and is directly responsible to

THE COLLECIAN BOARD

The Collegian Board has entire and absolute control of the general policies of the paper. It exercises direction in much the same way as the board of directors of a corporation. The membership consists of one faculty member whom the student members choose, and six other members, elected in annual meeting, from and by

THE COLLEGIAN ASSOCIATION

The Collegian Association comprises every regularly enrolled student of Southwestern College, and all special students and faculty members who have paid their Student Enterprise Fee. This fee includes one year's subscription to The Collegian.

Moundbuilder

The Moundbuilder, published by the Junior Class of every alternate year, is a book of interest to the students and the alumni of Southwestern College. The task of publishing this book falls to two or three unfortunates who usually, with already too much to do, have had no experience in such work as is required. Hence it means many varied and new experiences along with almost endless woe.

The aim of the book is to present student life as it is in Southwestern College, thus preserving in the memories of the present students many things which will be of value to them when they have gone from the halls of the school and mingle with the student body no more. From the angle of the College itself, the book is a valuable advertising medium, going out to many of the high schools throughout the great Southwest and entering many of the homes, claiming the young people of the home for Southwestern.

The rewards which come to those unfortunates who spend so many hours in compiling its pages are sleepless nights, distracted brains, and despite the wrath of those who are displeased, the consciousness of an honest effort, regardless of success or failure. These rewards are accepted with thanks on the part of the management who have become hardened to them.

A more satisfactory solution of the problem of a Moundbuilder in Southwestern seems to be in the annual production of a book. This would eliminate much of the waste of inexperience, since the former management would be able to render valuable service to the new staff, and the production would be of smaller proportions.

Clubs ♣

The Rooters' Club

THE Rooters' Club of Southwestern is one of the cosmopolitan clubs of the school; everybody belongs. The only qualifications are to yell and to support the student enterprises. The purpose of this club is to arouse the necessary "pep" for the debates, oratorical and athletic contests. And it accomplishes these ends by means of chapel stunts, parades and night-time rallies, in which performances the College Band has an active part.

The effective work of the club during the past two years has been due to the work of the presidents and the yell leaders. Last year Ward Miller piloted the bunch in some of its wildest and most original depredations; McQuerry, Hestwood and Helen Dalbom were masters at getting the lazy students to engage in vocal gymnastics. Mary Falls was secretary for the year.

During this season Kelley Beach, president, and Jack Harris, vice-President, have kept up the pep of the student body by many new and astonishing antics. McQuerry is still successful in getting the bunch to yell, while Mattie Denning is the custodian of the recorded action of the mad group.

Le Cercle Francais

WHAT irrepressible afternoon section of Beginning French has broken loose again?" This was the way that the college at large greeted the frequent reports of parties, campus-picnics and boat-rides of these socially-inclined French students a year ago. The climax of these "breakings loose" came on the twenty-fifth of November, 1916, when seven choice spirits who remained out of this group entertained all the French students, past and present, of the college, with an elaborate soiree in Association Hall.

The outcome of the gathering was the permanent organization of Southwestern's first French club, Le Cercle Francais, in the parlors of the Women's Dormitory, December 18, 1916, with a membership, active and inactive of 38. An executive council, composed of the president, H. Ogden White; the vice-president, Ola McClusky; secretary-treasurer Esther Detter, and the two members of the executive committee, Mabel Croson and Marie Harlan, was elected. Professor Florence M. Cate, head of the department, is the faculty advisor. Enthusiastically attended social meetings featured by French games and songs, and without exception by half an hour of French conversation, are held one night each month, with club members entertaining.

The organization is distinctly not a study club, but has, although its primary purpose is the improvement of its members' conversational French, the additional aims of furnishing unique social opportunities and strengthening the esprit de corps of the department.

All Stars

While the Moundbuilder Varsity is winning their quota of football games each season, they are eclipsed only by a more famous squad at Southwestern. The "All-Stars," ever-victorious and all-conquering, have never lost a contest in history, and the deeds of these battered heroes are each year sung far and near. After the last game has been won by a magnificent score, the battle scarred warriors gather with their favorite ladies in the upper attic of Richardson Hall where their victories are celebrated at the annual banquet. Each brave repeatedly recounts his valorous deeds of the season while the courses are served. For two years Coach Oleomargarine Boethius Baldwin has led his "All-Stars" through the season without defeat. His fame as coach of this organization is widespread. At after-dinner speaking he is approached only by retiring captain Isocrates Valerius Martin and ex-manager Etem Alive McInnes. Next season Bankerius Malevolentia Burchfiel, lay back, and Jackanapes Harmless Harris, crab back, as captain and manager, will lead the squad. As in the past, the future will find none who can equal the ne'er defeated and ever-victorious "All-Stars."

A. O. U. S.

THE A. O. U. S. is one of the most ancient and renowned fraternal orders now in existence on this terrestrial globe. It goes back for its origin to our venerable ancestor, Noah, and his famous floating zoological garden, known to theological students as the ark. The sacred books and traditions of this most ancient order have been handed down through the centuries to the Greeks, then to the Romans, and finally, having been carefully preserved during all the dark and stormy period of the Middle Ages, they have come safely into the hands of the Southwestern Chapter, organized in 1915.

The eighteen highly-esteemed men on whom the mystic choice has fallen, pass on the sacred light from year to year, annually recruiting their number as brother after brother leaves the college halls to spread the fame of its awful symbols throughout the world. The work of the order is felt through the entire school in the high friendships it stimulates between members of the male sex. But one law unbreakable binds the brethren: "Beware of women!" Strict is the punishment befalling any member who so far forgets himself as to seek the company of the fair sex.

OUR debate records show that we have had a remarkable career in debate in the last ten years. We are able to count more than a score of victories with no single debate with a school or series of debates lost.

Southwestern's Preliminary was held on December 19th last year, twenty-nine men participating. After more than five hours of "Labor Unions as Combinations in Restraint of Trade," the judges gave places on the team to the following: Williams, White, Hickman, Sealey, Hantla, Bollinger, with Newby and Jerrel as alternates.

The first debate of the year was held at Southwestern, March 30th, with the University of Redlands, California. Williams and White so successfully defended "Government Ownership" that we were given an unanimous decision.

Our next debate was a dual with Salina Wesleyan. Williams and Hantla defended the negative of the try-out question at Salina, winning by a decision of two to one. White and Kelley lost at home on the affirmative of the "Labor Union" question by a similar vote, two to one.

On April 22d, the try-out question was debated with the A. & M. College, of Stillwater, Oklahoma. The affirmative was upheld by White and Hickman, and lost by a two to one decision at Stillwater. On the home floor, Hantla and Ross successfully defended the negative as the two to one decision of the judges showed.

The preliminary of this year was held on January 19th with eighteen men entered. The six men receiving places on the team were: Bollinger, Burgess, Hantla, McShane, Ross, Sealey, with Rosecrans and Snyder as alternates.

A pentangular debate with Oklahoma schools has been arranged. On May 24th, Hantla and Sealey will defend the negative of "Compulsory Arbitration" against Phillips University at Enid, while the affirmative will be upheld at home by Bollinger and Burgess against Henry Kendall College of Tulsa, Oklahoma. On May 27th, Bollinger and McShane will uphold the affirmative against A. & M. College at Stillwater, Oklahoma, while Hantla and Rosecrans will take the negative against the Baptist University, Shawnee, Oklahoma, on the home floor. Southwestern is confidently expecting to carry off the honors in the pentangular this year.

Oratory

OLD LINE ORATORY

For twenty-five years Southwestern has had representatives in Old Line Oratory. Last year Ernest McInnes was the winner of the local contest, but did not enter the state contest. The winner of the contest this year was Jesse Whitt. In the state contest there were fourteen schools participating, seven of which were eliminated before the contest. In the first contest Jesse Whitt ranked third for Southwestern.

PROHIBITION

Southwestern has been represented each year in the Prohibition Contest of the state by the winners of the local contests.

Last year Harry G. Carlson won first in the state in thought and composition, but ranked fourth place in the state contest. Roy Compton represented us this year, winning third in the state contest.

WOMEN'S ORATORY

The school has fostered oratory among the women of the student body by the local contest and the participation in the Women's Oratorical of the state. Last year Esther Randall represented us, winning fourth place for the school. This year the contest was won by Olive Vaughn. We hope to place another stone on our Builders' Mound after the state contest this year.

Pi Kappa Delta

THE Southwestern Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta was organized on March 30, 1916, by Egbert Ray Nichols, the National President of the organization. Pi Kappa Delta is an honor society, the membership of which is composed of those representing the school in some form of forensics. The aim is to foster clean forensics and promote where possible a more general interest in this art. In recognition of service done, degrees are given by the national organization together with the right of wearing a stone in the eye of the key, representing the degree which has been attained. The Southwestern Chapter has among its members the president of the state organization.

SUMMER WORK IN ATHLETIC TRAINING IN DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

THE problem of maintaining a Physical Training Department, which would in some way affect every student in Southwestern, is what confronts Coach Bates. Without the aid of a gymnasium it is a problem indeed, but with an ideal athletic atmosphere, a hearty co-operation by the different departments of the College, this is made possible. Systematic outdoor work by the Varsity teams, in conjunction with the class teams, includes most of the students. A large gymnasium is a near possibility, and before the issue of another Moundbuilder will probably be a reality.

The gymnasium is a necessity from the standpoint of giving different work with apparatus, in order to build up those parts of the body in which the student may be deficient. The outdoor physical work may be indulged in to a great extent in this climate, and for the near-physically-perfect, is the correct thing. But the gymnasium is needed for the minor details and also for the work in calisthenics.

At the present time the students enjoy football, baseball, basketball, tennis, field and track sports, both men and women competing. In a conference composed of fifteen other colleges, Southwestern seldom drops below fourth place. Besides the competition with other colleges, the different classes compete in the same events. Splendid loving cups and other prizes are given by the business men of Winfield. To make the work more interesting, sweaters are given to the men making places on the Varsity teams.

FARL THOMAS; "Be patient Louie, I am in love."

CAPTAIN JOHN HANTLA

180 lbs.

Probably as husky a combination of speed and grit as ever represented the Purple. A powerful and heady line-plunger, and many a last down has been made by "Jawn." A wizard at goal kicking with almost a perfect record of free goals. In his three years as a gridiron man Hantla has played guard one season and fullback two years, landing a fullback position on the All-Kansas team this year. The team under his leadership made a great record and we look forward to great work from him next year.

ERNEST DALBOM

165 lbs.

"Swede" without a doubt is one of the hardest fighting quarterbacks in the Kansas Conference. As a Freshman he landed a job as pilot of the Varsity, and as a result of his efficient work and his fighting spirit, he was elected Captain for the coming year. We look forward to "Swede" as a great leader, and are confident that he will help keep us in the Championship class.

VERNE STANSBURY

180 lbs.

Stansbury is an old-timer. He played with the 1913 Champs, and unfortunately had to leave school. In him Southwestern had a lineman of great ability. He is a husky, and hard to stop and when "Stan" is going good he is a match for the best of them. With three years' experience and two years ahead of him, he should do wonders next year.

DILLMAN SHAW

196 lbs.

Just a big husky line-plunging tackle, whose work throughout his first year of college football placed him as second choice on the All-Kansas team. Dillman was a marvel at punting, and his long spirals added materially in the Moundbuilder's great record this year. We regret that he cannot be with us next year, and wish to congratulate him on the great showing he made on the gridiron.

MARK MOLLETT

170 lbs.

Mark was not a spectacular player, but as steady and consistent a tackle as Southwestern has seen for some time. He was a "never-quit-fighting" kind, who was a match for the best of them on defensive, and a very aggressive offensive man. At opening holes he was a wonder. This is Mark's second year on the team, and with two years before him he should be a Conference giant before he graduates.

ELLIS CUMMINGS

178 lbs.

Curley, playing his second year of Varsity football, showed himself to be a real asset to the team. He is a good tackler and stands in a class of the best when it comes to receiving passes. His work at end in the Fairmount game will be remembered for some time, and we hope to see him report next fall.

HOWARD McQUERRY

166 lbs.

"Mac," after playing a year of football, was a real find this season. A steady, consistent ground gainer at half, and a powerful defensive man. His stellar performance this year was his sensational run from the kickoff through the entire Friends' team to the seven-yard line. McQuerry is only a Sophomore and is a sure "comer." His "stick-to-it-iveness" will make him a power on the football field next year.

ALBERT HESTWOOD

165 lbs.

"Hestie" did not report for football during his first two years of college, but as a Junior this year showed his ability by landing a berth on the Varsity. Hestwood at half did some of the best open-field running seen this year. He turned the tide of battle in the Friends game, recovering a fumble and running seventy yards through a ragged field. He is a consistent and gritty ground gainer, and uses his head at all times.

CLARENCE LITTLE

130 lbs.

At the beginning of the season Clarence was working at quarterback position, but later was tested at the wing positions and the backfield. Little's speed and deadly tackling make him a good end. He still has two years to play, and his natural ability with a little more "Bates," should make a great player out of him.

CASSIUS SHOEMAKER

187 lbs.

"Shoec" is another of last year's Freshmen who made good. While he did not appear in the lime-light at the beginning of the season, he played a good game at guard whenever he had the opportunity. Cassius was not only a powerful defensive guard, whose 187 pounds were difficult to dislodge, but he distinguished as a line-plunger in the Bethany game, when he carried the ball like a veteran. His injury on the last game did not keep him from getting his letter, and we hope to see him report next fall.

GEORGE LEATHERMAN

173 lbs.

Another surprise of the season. George got started a little late on account of injuries at the first of the season, but his weight and bulldog determination won him a place as guard. He is a mighty hard man to handle, and a wonder at getting through the line. He should be a tower of strength to the line next year, and will certainly be called upon to help Southwestern College win next year.

AUSTIN JENNINGS

270 lbs.

Austin, the weightiest man on the Kansas Conference. A real find for the Builders. Around "Fat" at center was built one of the most powerful lines that has represented the Purple. Playing his first year of college football, he distinguished himself as an accurate passer, and the best of them "go around" Fat. Here's hoping next year finds him a wearer of the moleskin.

AVERIL GRIMSLEY

165 lbs.

Snave is one of the Freshies who made the Varsity this year. He showed his mettle in the reserve game with Blackwell High School, and Bates found a place for him at end. A hard man to spill on defensive, heady and full of fight. He has three years to play, and with more coaching will make a mighty good man next year.

OUR COACH

Willis Bates has been with us now for three years. As a friend, his jovial disposition has made him a favorite, even though he "crabs" sometimes. As a coach, Bill has helped to place Southwestern on the athletic map. He has that ability which helps him to know a man when he sees him, and then he knows how to make him deliver the goods. What we like best about his is, that he has the qualities of true sportsmanship, and he is a gentleman.

1916 Football Review

WHEN Coach Bates made his call for football candidates last fall, seven letter men, with some thirty other huskies, responded. Most of them came from the farm or harvest fields, and all were in splendid physical condition. Practice began with the best prospects that Southwestern has had for some time. Out of that wealth of good material, Bates was to develop the machine which would represent the Purple, so for three weeks Athletic Park was the scene of some real driving practice, where the dummy was battered from four till four-thirty. There "Bill" taught the rudiments of passing, falling on the ball, tackling, punting and catching the ball. Such was the scene on the gridiron last fall, and when the grind was over it was a weary bunch who welcomed the shower bath.

Enthusiasm ran high when the conference season opened with Cooper. A comparatively easy game was expected because Bates had gathered together one of the shiftest backfields and heaviest lines that ever represented the Moundbuilders. Hope, however, went below par when the light Cooperites, in a very slow, hot, hard-fought game held the Purple to one touchdown. The game was marked by poor interference and lack of teamwork, and the fact that the Builders must improve in offensive was evident.

The Moundbuilder supporters, however, staked their hope in the future, and on October 6th, the squad went to meet the Kansas Aggies with hopes of a battle royal, and possible victory. There the team was battered and beaten by the heavy Missouri Valley aggregation and before the final whistle the Aggies had crossed the goal line some eight times. It was a badly crippled team that returned with the short end of a 53-0 score, but they also brought home some fight. They had been beaten, but were far from "licked."

With a few new tactics in coaching and shifting of the lineup, it was a different team that met the Fairmount eleven in the annual clash. During the first few minutes it looked like an even match, but when Hantla and Shaw began hitting the line for consistent gain, the Shocker defense weakened and cracked by the spectacular work of the ends on offensive, and the great defensive work of the line. The Fairmount team was overwhelmed by a score of 28-6.

The jinx, however, struck the Moundbuilder camp when the shifty Pittsburg Manuals, in a close and thrilling game nosed out the Builders by a 28-21 score. The game was lost, not because of the poor playing of Southwestern, but because of a lack of defense to meet the puzzling forward pass formation of the Pittsburg eleven, and the work of the speedy backfield. The Batesmen, however, got to going the last half and more time would have probably meant victory. It was an unexpected, heartbreaking defeat, but proved to be the real beginning of the hardest fighting and best balanced team in the Kansas Conference.

Our second and last defeat of the season came on the Normal field at Emporia, where they met the heavy Teachers. There, in a hard-fought battle consisting mostly of straight football, the Normals hammered their way to a 19-2 victory. The game was much harder than the score would indicate, for twice the Purple carried the ball within the 10-yard line but failed to put it over.

With two Conference games lost, and the dope 2-1 on Baker, the Moundbuilder squad journeyed to Baker, and there in a last-quarter rally, upset the dope bucket of the season by completely routing the Northern Methodists, 20-10.

When the last quarter began, Southwestern had a ten point margin to overcome. Then the unexpected happened. Shaw, Dalbom and Hantla in the backfield, and Mollett and Cummings in the line, opened up a combination of line-smashing and forward passing that completely bewildered the Baker defense, and before the final whistle blew Southwestern had marched across the goal line three times, making a complete victory and shattering Baker's hopes of championship.

After thirteen days' rest from battle, the Purple and White squad, with some two hundred rooters, journeyed to "Quakertown," where they expected the battle of the year. And a battle it was. The game perhaps was one of the most thrilling and spectacular ever played in Wichita. Long forward passes and open field running were the features of the game. In the first few minutes of play, Hestwood, taking advantage of a fumble, carried it seventy yards, within striking distance, and Shaw carried it over. This was the turning point of the game, for the Quakers had been making from 3 to 16 yards on every play. The Quakers evened things in the third quarter by scoring their only touchdown. The last quarter began by a sensational sixty-five yard run by McQuerry from the kickoff to the seven-yard line, and there on the fourth down Hantla carried it over, for Southwestern's winning touchdown. Score, 13-7.

On the following week, with several regulars out of the game, the Batesmen easily outclassed the Swedes in a slow game, which was marred by mud and penalties. Bethany, however, was not in the Moundbuilder class and returned with the short end of a 20-0 score.

Then on Turkey Day the team journeyed to Ottawa, where on a foreign field they completed the season by winning their sixth victory by the score of 7-0. It was a hard-fought contest, Southwestern resorting mostly to line plunging and forward passes, while Ottawa made most of their gains by end runs. Beck's carrying of the ball, Hantla's line plunging and Shaw's punting were responsible to a great extent for the victory.

At the annual meeting of the Athletic Conference, Southwestern was awarded second place in the championship race, with a percentage of .750, six won and two lost. Southwestern also placed four men on the mythical All-State team. The selection of Hantla for fullback on the first team was undisputed. He received fourteen votes for the position.

Dillman Shaw, a Freshman, was awarded tackle position on the second All-State team, and was a close contender for the first team position. Perhaps all that kept Shaw off the first team was his lack of experience as compared with other state tackles.

Captain-elect "Swede" Dalbom was awarded the quarterback position on the third All-State team. His work in this position was spectacular, but all-state competition at quarterback position was very close.

Austin Jennings, another Freshman, drew the center position on the third All-State team. Another year's work will make Fat a center in a class of his own.

SUCCESSFUL football season had no more than closed when Coach Bates made a call for basketball candidates, and before the Christmas holidays came the mid-year sport had begun with some eighty men practicing at the gymnasium during various hours of the day.

With the four letter men, Capt. Cummings, Beck and Warren, trying for guard positions, Hamilton at forward and with a wealth of good material in Whitt, Dalbom, Mollett and McQuerry, all men of experience, the prospects were as good as could be wished. Out of these men our coach was able to develop a team which had a seventeen-game schedule that called for the best teams in the Conference.

On January 9th, just after the Christmas holidays, Southwestern opened the basketball season here by defeating the Cooper quintet by the score of 50-26 in an easy contest, marked by poor passing and indiscriminate goal shooting. For the opening game of the season it was played well and in that contest Bates had the opportunity to work all his new men. Whitt and Dalbom showed themselves to be in Varsity class by their goal shooting.

On January 13th the Moundbuilders met a surprise at the St. John gym, by losing a hard-fought battle to the Lutherans by the score of 31-25. It was a rough and tumble game in which personal fouls were the feature. The teams were evenly matched, but the "Saints" were simply "right" and they deserved to win, proving decisively that they were championship contenders.

On January 15th Coach Bates with eight men, started on a four-game trip, playing the best aggregations in the Conference.

At Emporia on a slick floor, the Builders' quintet met their only defeat on the trip. Nervousness and lack of teamwork kept the Bates machine from scoring. Both teams were in poor form and the Teachers won in a slow contest by a score of 26-12.

Top Row—Warren, Coach Bates, Hamilton.
Bottom Row—Muchmore, Robeison, Zeigler, Cummings.

It was a different team, however, that met the College of Emporia the following night. Southwestern took the lead at the start and the College bunch were never able to head them. When the first half was over the score was 17-11 in favor of the Purple. The second half was easily Southwestern's and when the final count was made the score stood 34-24. Hamilton and Dalbom distinguished themselves at goal shooting.

On the following night at Baldwin, Southwestern started the game with a rush and scored eight points before the Bakerites realized that the game had begun. Lucky shots and free throws however, tied the score at the end of the half. During the second half the Bates machine showed some real teamwork and by caging four baskets straight from the tip-off, practically broke Baker's chance of winning. When the final whistle blew Southwestern had a good margin over Baker, the score being 33-26.

At Ottawa where the last game on the trip was played, a battle-royal took place when the Builder five met the Baptists, last year's champs. In a game that was tied up at least ten times Southwestern defeated almost the same team that Ottawa had on the floor last year. At the end of the first half the score was 13-12 in favor of the Baptists. The second half was even harder fought, but with Mollett playing a stellar game at center and the guards and forwards working to perfection, Southwestern was playing a winning game. When the final whistle blew S. C. had won, 27-24.

On February 5th the Batesmen added another victory to the list by defeating the Baker quintet the second time. The game started rather slowly but as it progressed it became a fast, clean game, featured by the long goal shooting of Hamilton and Cummings. The Purple was never headed and the game ended with a score of 35-22 in favor of Southwestern.

The following week Southwestern met and hopelessly outclassed the Quaker five at Wichita, by the score of 44-18. Bates used a team of second-string men, but was able to land a 30-point margin with little opposition. Cummings, McQuerry and Whitt were in excellent form.

Top Row—Coach Bates, Hamilton, Thomas (Athletic Manager).
Center Row—Mollett, Whitt, Cummings, Beck.
Bottom Row—Warren, Dalbom, McQuerry.

With enthusiasm at its zenith, two of the best conference teams in the state clashed at the H. S. gym on Saturday, February 17th. There the Moundbuilders triumphed over the Lutherans of St. John by a score of 22-17. It was one of the fastest, hardest-fought games of the season. Every man was at his best and the game was in doubt till the whistle blew.

On a three-game trip north, Southwestern added three more victories, by defeating Fairmount by the score of 46-17 in a rather slow and entertaining game featured by the goal shooting of Beck. On the following night Cooper was completely smothered by the score of 57-15, Southwestern securing 19 points before Cooper succeeded in locating the basket. The last game of the trip was with Bethany at Lindsborg, where the Builders practically duplicated the victory of the previous night by unmercifully swamping the Swedes, 42-19.

The trip made a list of ten straight victories and showed that a real championship contender had been developed.

Moundbuilder hopes were however shattered by the Ottawa Baptists during the last period of a hard-fought game. It was probably the best exhibition of basketball ever seen in Winfield. Both teams were at their best and each a championship contender. The Builders succeeded in taking the long end the first half, but the last period, with Ottawa's changed line-up, was fatal. The combination was one which Southwestern could not solve. We lost, 30-25.

In a slow contest at the High School gymnasium, Southwestern triumphed over the Wheatshockers by a score of 45-15. During the last half the Fairmount quintet was kept from scoring a single counter while Southwestern netted 33 counters.

The College of Emporia on their southern journey, went to defeat here, in a one-sided game as far as score was considered. 40-22 was the count, but it was harder fought than the score would indicate. S. C.'s teamwork was beyond reproach and the Collegians were outclassed.

Southwestern closed the local season on March 10th, defeating the Saints 39-23 and thereby winning the city championship. It was Southwestern's fourteenth victory.

The only post-season game of the season was played with the championship team of '10. At the High School gymnasium a good crowd witnessed the old stars trying to show their good form. The game was fast but the Varsity was too much for the "old-timers" and when the final whistle blew the score was 38-20 in favor of Varsity.

The basketball season of 1917 was, without a doubt, the most successful since the championship team of '10. Out of seventeen scheduled conference games, Southwestern won fourteen. Eight games were played on foreign courts, all of which were won except the Normal game. Nine were played on local courts, seven being victories for S. C.

Too much cannot be said of the men who made up this aggregation. Mollett at center played a wonderful game the entire season. He was a match for the best of them when it came to jumping and he got his share of baskets.

Beck, playing his second year for the Purple, played such a game that he was awarded that position on the All-State quintet. A faster, more aggressive guard probably never represented Southwestern.

Capt. Cummings, at guard, showed himself to be a power to the team. He probably made his stellar performance against the Saints in the second contest. He was good all the time and led the best team that has represented Southwestern for many years.

Ray Warren, playing his last year for the Purple, showed his old-time fight until he was injured. His work will be remembered among athletic fans of Southwestern.

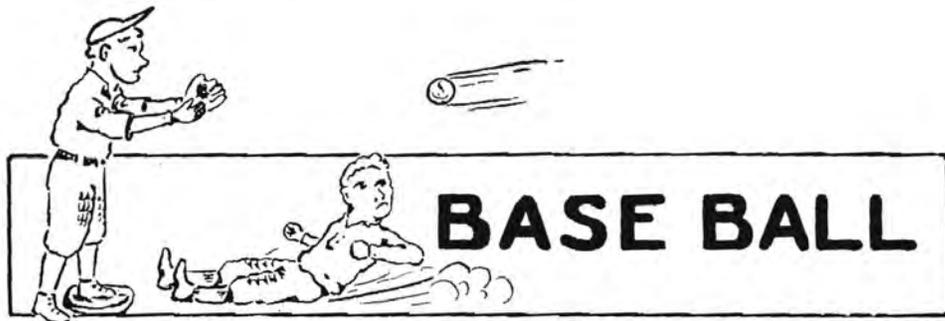

Glenn Hamilton was on the job when it came to putting them through the hoop. Peg played his third year at forward and did some sensational goal shooting during the season. He will lead the team next year.

Howard McQuerry showed his basketball ability when Southwestern met the Quakers at Wichita. He is a steady, consistent, defensive guard who is after them all the time.

Jesse Whitt, playing his first year on the Varsity, unfortunately received injuries at the beginning of the season which slowed his stride, but when Jersey had the opportunity he proved his worth to the team.

Dalbom played the same fast, aggressive game at basketball that he displayed on the gridiron. At forward he was fast on the floor, and a good goal shooter.

EVERY Southwesterner has been looking forward to the baseball season, expecting to see a winning team. In the season preceding, the Builders showed up well at the very last of the season. While several games were lost by close scores, the team showed phenomenal development under the leadership of Coach Bates, and prospects for a winning team are the best they have been since the championship team of 1914.

The season began this year with some thirty candidates reporting for practice. Among these were seven letter men who will undoubtedly form the nucleus for a good team. Captain McQuerry, Cummings, Hester, Dudey, Dalbom, Ross, and Shell have reported in suit, and the practice of the season has been heavy. Out of all the material, Bill has gotten together a good team. They have met three of the teams, of the thirteen in their schedule, and have won one and lost two.

Friends, by hard hitting and costly errors on the part of Southwestern, easily won the opening game of the season by a score of 12-4. McQuerry pitched good ball but the Quakers were able to gather twelve hits and as many runs, while Southwestern hit seven times and bagged four runs.

In the second game of the season, the Builders nosed out the Bethany Swedes in an exciting game which the Swedes threatened to tie in a ninth inning rally. Dalbom did good work on the mound, but was relieved by McQuerry in the ninth inning, when the Swedes threatened to tie the score.

Base Ball Squad 1916

Top Row—McQuerry, Ellwanger, Coach Bates, Cummings, Crick.
Center Row—Ross, Dudey, Rutledge, Hester, Scribner.
Bottom Row—Dalbom, Tode (Mascot), Muchmore.

The third game which was with Baker, was a very poor exhibition of baseball. Baker won by a score of 15-5 in a ragged, uninteresting game, featured by errors.

With the greater part of the season ahead, the Builders expect that the team will make a better showing in the up-state games, and hope to put a big percent in the "won" column.

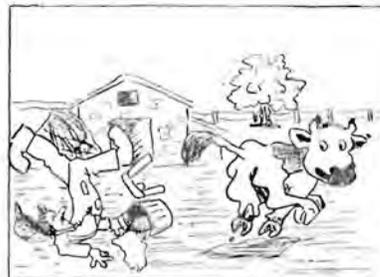

THE season of 1916 was, perhaps, one of the most successful and encouraging in the history of Southwestern, both in the personnel of the team and in its achievements. The team was splendidly balanced. With Tiny Zeigler, the man on whom we could always depend when it came to the weights, and who was a good sprinter as well; Yank Robeison, who was a sure winner in the pole-vault and the discus; Compton, the man with springs in his feet, and Jump, who was a gun in the hurdle races. These, taken together, were a combination hard to beat. Tommy, Mollet and Scott were invincible in the long races and no long race was lost until Tommy got a broken jaw by a fall from a ladder.

We are hopeful for this season, for there are only two of the last year's team who are out of school, and there is a lot of new material that is showing up well.

There are five meets scheduled:

Southwestern vs. Oklahoma Aggies.....	Stillwater, Oklahoma
Southwestern vs. Manual Training.....	Pittsburg, Kansas

Kansas Winds

In sheltered vale the softened zephyrs soothe
Impassioned hearts with gentle whisperings.
But zephyrs' kisses ever fail to move
The heart of man to strive for conquerings.
So zephyrs breeze a thousand times its strength
Must multiply to Kansas winds outstrip.
Her sweep of winds that blow with hurried breath
The willing air, the growing fields to whip;
The bag of sportive winds Ulysses kept
Unloosed upon the prairie's bounding slopes;
They spell of life, of freedom's cause unwept,
Of actions done, of great unstinted hopes;
They speak of spurned ground, of vaulted sky;
To earth the moving breath of the Most High.

LIFE'S PATHWAY

I sit by my cosy fire and dream
Of days that used to be—
When life did ever joyful seem,
And my heart was young and free.
In that beautiful, mirthful, far-off time
My heart was young and gay.
My pulses beat like the glad bells' chime
And I danced along life's way.

I sit by my cozy fire and dream
Of life as it is today;
No more does my path so joyous seem
Nor the song fill all the day;
For often sorrow doth fill my heart,
And the bitter tears must flow,
And between my joys doth my grief have part;
Life's torturous way I know.

Oh, I sit by my cozy fire and dream
Of the days that used to be;
But not for the wealth of a golden stream
Would I bring them back to me.
For the very most beautiful things of life
Follow the saddest day;
And a glimpse of heaven comes after the strife
On life's most rugged way.

—Dorothy Cate '18

SUNSET

I stand in the light of the setting sun
And watch its splendors grow;
The gleaming hosts of rainbow clouds
Like triumphant armies grow.
With banners of carmine and gold they charge;
You can almost hear them shout,
As the victors gather—the charge is won—
Glad streamers they fling out.

I stand in the light of the setting sun
And watch its splendors die—
The gold and the scarlet pass away,
A soft flush tints the sky.
The battle's over, the evening star
A lone camp-fire now seems
And darkness settles o'er the world—
The world of peace and dreams.

Dorothy Cate '18

LIFE

With careless heart and liting song
I loitered half the way along
Secure in youth and happiness
Afraid of nothing, I.

I danced at last into the haze
Of shimmering romance, golden days,
When earth was all a glowing mass
Of tender changing color.

A cold breath came, of poisonous air
It blighted all the colors fair,
The joy all changed to bitterness
The world was cold and stark.

My struggling soul pressed onward slow,
It built a path of ice and snow
And fought its way in cold disdain
And reached the goal it set.

EDUCATION

Oh Education, 'tis for thee
That I have striven patient, long,
And still will I strive on.
Many the sleepless nights, and yet
Think not that I regret it.
Humbly do I bow before thee
And do thee all obeisance.
Gladly will I struggle
And bravely bear
My cross for thee.
Thou art my stay, my hope, my all.
Thy History I have made my own;
I revel in thy victories
And am made sad
Whenever thou hast failed.
Thy Principles I have learned to understand.
Thy Methods and thy Management
Have become my rules and guides.
But now at last when I tho't
That I had conquered thee,
I wake and find
Thou hast conquered me.

Jokes

Tommy—"Had I better go to church and get religion or stay at home and get German?"

Passmore—"You had better go where you had a chance to get something."

Dundrey (to Beach, Ross and Harris)—"Well, I see that I have exhausted your common store of information."

Baldwin—"Some people are making plans to go to hell."

Hesty—"You don't need any plans."

Prof. Quick—"Here is an article written by a scientist who says that insects have emotions.

He claims he has frequently seen a mosquito weep.

Archie—"Well, I have often seen a moth ball."

Tinkins—"What was night drawing on?"

Max—"Search me."

Timpkins—"The close of day."

Mabel—"Gracious, it is close in here."

Avis—"That is all right, the orchestra will change the air soon."

Palmer—"How does that man keep his pants on without suspenders?"

Smith—"O, he had an iron constitution and magnetic personality."

Souls Laid Bare

The NIGHT before the Morning After

Ruth Pine—"Do you ever talk in your sleep?"
Sealey—"No, but I often talk in other people's I am a preacher you know."

Miss Prince—"Shoes are made from all kinds of skins now days."

Smiley—"Even banana skins make good slippers."

A bachelor's exclamation—"A lass."
A maiden's exclamation—"A man."

Turn about is fair play.
 "Yes," said Throckmorton, "when a fellow wins a girls heart it is only natural that she should win a diamond."

Prof. Baldwin had been up for three nights with a colicky baby. When he brought home a bottle of soothing syrup and his wife asked him if he was going to give it to the baby. He replied, "No, I am going to take it myself."

Prof. Dunleavy—"Can you tell me what will happen to gold when it is left uncovered in the air."

Casad—"It will be stolen."

Esther—"You ought to seen Helen run the quarter."

Tuffy—"What did she run it in?"

Esther—"I don't know what you call the darn thing anyway."

Fern (thoughtfully)—"Did you ever think much of reincarnation?"

Alvon (otherwise)—"Think about it: I eat it nearly every day and we call it hash."

Cummings—"Baker hasn't the habit of talking to himself anymore?"

Cummings—"He caught himself cheating at solitaire and hasn't spoken to himself since."

Jessica (at the ball game)—"Isn't that fine? we have a man on every base."

Helen—"That is nothing, so have they"

Rut—"Prof. McCulloh, I want to take up International law. What course of study would you recommend?"

Prof.—"Constant target practice."

Abe—"This college certainly takes an interest in a fellow doesn't it?"

Jesse—"How is that?"

Abe—"I read that they would be glad to hear of the death of any of their alumni."

Zola—"Retta, haven't you and Verne been engaged long enough to get married?"

Retta—"Too long, he hasn't got a cent left."

Gross—"Is this college denominational?"

Smith—"No, it's co-educational."

Lucile Elliot—"They refused to cash a check for me this morning because they said the account was overdrawn. I would really like to know what is the good of having a federal reserve board any way?"

Timpkins—"Don't you think Hantla's vitality is wonderful?"

Archie—"Oh, I don't know. A man who can talk continuously and not think is likely to live forever."

Johnson—"I am all right but I can't get my breath."

Palmer—"Well you are extremely lucky."

Helen—"I wish the Lord had made me a man!"

Everett—"He did. I'm the man."

Eubank—"Say can I borrow your coat?"

Schrep—"Sure, why the formality?"

Eubank—"Well, I couldn't find it."

Raymond—"Have you read the 'Knickerbocker History of New York?'"

Dorothy—"No, I am not interested in those reports of the clothing trade."

Ruth McNeff (in biology lab.)—"Open the window or carry me out."

Jack opened the window.

From the would-be Collegian:

Following the music program, Edith Burns read a paper on "Personal Devils." Seventeen were present.

Clarence—"Schrep did not take his cold bath this morning did he?"

Buck—"No, I heard him kicking because there was not any hot water."

Selfridge to Wake—"What are these marks on my note book for?"

Wake—"That was to tell you your writing was poor."

Jack—"What causes death, Amperage or Voltage?"

Prof.—"Old Age."

Prof.—"What are the new electric lights filled with?"

Eubank—"A vacuum."

Dunleavy—"I hope the good Lord remembers your good deeds better than you remember your physics lessons."

Baldwin—"The students were so entranced this morning that they remained in my lecture room all through the dinner hour."

Mrs. B.—"Why didn't you wake them up?"

Miss Trice—"Act like you were loving her and were caught; were you ever caught?"

Baker—"No, I was never caught."

Prof. McCulloch—"Stop this quibbling, sir, who was King Henry the VIII. Answer yes or no."

Tom—"As I was saying, Doris, when I start out to do a thing I stay on the job. I am no quitter."

Doris (yawning)—"Don't I know it."

Definition of a boarding house short cake: A circular solid, every point of whose perimeter is equidistant from the strawberry.

President—"The band will furnish the brass at the game tonight, and the coach the lack of grey matter."

Prof. Baldwin—"See what associations the words I dictate have for you. Miss Carter, 'Kiss?'"

Jenny—"Bliss."

Prof. Baldwin—Mr. Selfridge.

Selfridge—"Don't have any associations."

Prof. Baldwin—Miss Harlan, "matrimony?'"

Maria—John Payne.

Prexy—"Miss Race called to me across the street this morning. I would know that voice in heaven."

Mrs. Prexy—"Are you sure you'll hear that voice in heaven?'"

Prexy—"Oh, I think Miss Race is headed that way all right."

Mrs. Prexy—"I wasn't thinking of her."

Coach Bates (before the Bethany game, where the basketball court is octagonal, and where the players names are hard-sounding Swedish)—"You want to watch out for that octagon!"

Zag—"Just point him out to me and I'll take care of him."

Instance of Coach Bates' cruelty, "on the basketball trip last year, the freshmen men had to swipe the cuspidors from the trains, and pawn them for grab money."

Ira Newman (sleepily)—"Don't make me steal all of them, kid."

Cunning—"Ira, when you get through hugging my pillow, I'd like to sleep on it."

The class of philosophy was discussing the Epicurean attitude toward pleasure.

Hesty (suddenly very interested)—"Does that mean that any kind of play is all right?"

Prof. Baldwin—"I think we'd better not take up the cards and dancing, Mr. Hestwood."

Mabel Croson (reading paper)—"There are more talented artists working now in New York City than there are hung in the Metropolitan Museum."

Ruth Holmes—"Tell me something sweet."

Throck (who sees Florence listening)—"Well, sh—er—dear—"

Ruth—"Oh, I mean something sweet that you can put your hands on."

Throck—"You might try me."

Helen Dalbom, alias Prof. Maude A. Price (in mock chapel)—"Why when Swede broke away for that touchdown, it gave me a thrill like the first time I read Gray's 'Elegy in a Country Churchyard!'"

Hesty—"No, we didn't get kicked out of the gym. Louis and I left because we couldn't study there."

Yank—"They say a diamond is a good investment. I don't know—I never tried one."

Prof. Baldwin—"But you hope to soon?"

Prof. Baldwin—"Managing a man is a woman's sphere; she needs no other career."

Coppedge—"What if she misses her man?"

Prof. Baldwin—"If she is properly educated, she won't." (Beware of Baldwin's lady pupils, you men!)

The general query at the breakfast-picnic was: "What shall we play next?"

Crick—"I move we play something to change partners!"

Dudley—"Look how bow-legged I am. No wonder I can't play baseball!"

Peg—"Aw, Duke, don't blame your legs."

Coach Bates (telling of state tennis meet)—"She weighed 300 lbs. Her name was Mary Ford—but she was a whole touring car. She could runabout, too!"

Prof. McCulloch—"Did you ever see a cat run to cover at a clap of lightning?"

Selfridge (excitedly)—"That doesn't prove anything."

Snyder (heatedly)—"But I tell you it—"

Prof. Baldwin (hurriedly)—"L-let's go on! I agree with both of you."

They had taken Doughty for an auto ride and left him at Hackney.

Prexy (in chapel next day)—"The next time you feel like hazing anybody, go after a man. Come to my house, and I'll be ready for you!"

Historical Sketch of Campaign for Greater Southwestern

DURING the thirty-two years of its existence Southwestern College has had all of the varied experiences due to the building of such an institution in a new and growing community. The following historical sketch is given in the College catalog:

"Southwestern College was founded in 1885. At its annual session, March 19-23, of that year, the Southwest Kansas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church decided to establish an institution of learning within its boundaries. Six members of the Conference and three laymen were elected as charter members of the board of Trustees. A committee of seven was appointed to select a location. Among the propositions received by the committee on location was one from the City of Winfield, dated June 9th of the same year, which was accepted. In the spring of 1886 the foundation of the first building was laid and the work pushed vigorously forward. As the college building was not ready for occupancy when the time came for school to open in the fall, McDougal Hall in Winfield was rented for that purpose. School opened on Wednesday morning, September 7, 1886, with an enrollment of forty-three. The next spring arrangements were made for the erection of a woman's dormitory on the College campus. This building was destroyed by fire in 1894. At the beginning of the school year 1887, the number of the Board of Trustees was increased from nine to fifteen; in 1901 the charter of the College was changed to provide that the Board of Trustees should consist of twenty-four. At the present time there are thirty."

The history of education makes clear the fact that schools cannot live wholly on tuitions gathered from the student body. They must have an income independent of tuition to insure the permanence of the school. There are three sources of income, namely, to tax, which is the means of support of those institutions cared for by the state, and by special gifts or endowments. In the case of special gifts there is no surety as to the future of the institution so supported. Endowments properly invested seem to be the only method of continued and unhampered existence. The need of such support independent of the tuitions from the student body are evident, inasmuch as, in the history of schools of higher learning, it is found that the tuitions meet about one-third of the expense of operation. The difference between the operating expense and the tuition paid leaves an annual deficit which must be provided for. This cannot be done by increasing the tuition, for it would defeat its own purpose by forcing a large percentage of the student body away from the institution. The only other method of securing the deficit is by special gifts or endowments. This latter method is the one employed by the trustees of our institutions in order that they may secure permanency

The Trustees of Southwestern College found themselves confronted with a debt which had been increasing at the rate of from $10,000 to $15,000 per year. This annual deficit, plus some debts from building, had reached the amount of $93,000 at Conference time, 1915. The school had grown and developed grad-

the twenty-five cents as shall be required to make the full dollar per member per year."

At this time the Trustees became aware of the fact, after careful study, that should they secure the $100,000 endowment and the $200,000 of sustention fund, they would still be unable to conduct the School without annual deficit. At this juncture the Secretary of the Board of Education was called in consultation and on January 15, 1913, after a thorough discussion, the officers of the Board agreed to make a study of the situation and help in the development of a program for the School which would be adequate. A representative of the Board of Education met with the Executive Committee in Winfield, and after thorough investigation as to the condition of accounts and all data with respect to the school and its work, it was agreed that such representative should be at the seat of the Annual Conference to be held at Dodge City and help in the working out of an adequate program.

At the session of the Annual Conference held at Dodge City a special committee was appointed to bring in a report on Southwestern College. That report is as follows:

"Your committee, appointed to consider the interests and study the problem of Southwestern College, finds as follows:

(1) The present indebtedness over all, as shown by the report of the Fiscal Secretary at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1914, is $93,040. This represents:

(a) Unprovided balances in buildings and equipments.....	$40,000
(b) Aggregate deficit in budget	53,040
	$93,040

(2) The total indebtedness is practically the same now that it was at June 30, 1914. However, this does not mean that there is no accruing deficit in the budget. Cash resources have come in from the Sustention Fund and have been applied to the budgets in amounts practically equal to the otherwise accruing deficit. The aggregate annual deficit in the budgets for the past five years, exclusive of special gifts, has averaged practically $15,000. The deficit last year was a little short of $19,000. It will be seen that the tendency in annual deficits is toward increase rather than decrease. Your committee hopes that the Trustees may be able to cull the budget and materially reduce the amount total, and urgently suggests to them the importance of such effort.

(3) The canvass for the Sustention Fund has covered practically half the territory and fully half the membership. Thus far the pledges to this fund aggregate $85,000. Payments have been made to this fund in cash aggregating $20,000. This amount has been applied to the current account which explains why the total liabilities have not increased materially during the past two years.

(4) The proposed $100,000 for additional endowment, embodied in the Forward Movement now in progress, has bona fide subscriptions as follows:

(a) Regularly executed and in hand, exclusive of any duplicates.....	$37,000
(b) Gifts of land to which the College holds title in fee simple, held by the Valuation Committee to have been appraised conservatively at.....	12,000
(c) Gifts in cash.....	11,000
	$60,000

In addition to the above, certain individuals have made verbal pledges in substantial amounts; other certain organizations have pledged to raise fixed and definite sums. The aggregate of these two contingent resources is $40,000. The Campaign Committee is confident that more than that amount can be realized from these two contingent resources in bona fide subscriptions within a very few months. It would seem from the above statements, all of which are verified by the Fiscal Secretary, that the second $100,000 of endowment for Southwestern College is practically in sight, and ought to be closed up within a reasonably short time.

(5) In view of the above facts and the present urgent needs of the College, we recommend that the campaign for the present Forward Movement be immediately intensified and pushed forward to complete success as speedily as possible, and we suggest that the Sustentation Fund campaign should be entirely completed by the 30th day of June and that the proposed $100,000 additional endowment ought to be completed in bona fide pledges by that date, but if that shall not seem feasible it should be completed at latest by the 31st day of August, 1915.

The developments in educational processes and requirements in the recent years make it perfectly apparent to your Committee that when all this shall have been completed Southwestern College will not yet be adequately financed to meet the requirements of the most economic budget possible. The growing roster of students in the College Department, which is the expensive department, emphasizes truth of this conclusion. The President of a New England college stated in public this month of March that every student that graduates from that splendid old standard college costs them $1,100 more than he pays them during his four years' course. While that is extraordinary, the average cost of educating young people in college, throughout the country, is three times the aggregate of the fees they pay the colleges for their education. The cost of educating a student in the College Department in Southwestern is practically twice what the fees are.

We therefore suggest to the Conference that it recommend to the Board of Trustees of Southwestern College that the amount of money originally asked for the Forward Movement be doubled and that henceforth the Southwestern College Forward Movement Campaign be for $600,000 instead of $300,000, as hitherto. The development of this Movement to its final conclusion would be as follows:
(a) A Sustentation Fund of $200,000, already under way, as indicated above, to

be completed by June 30th; (b) Additional endowment of $100,000, likewise indicated above, to be completed not later than August 31st. The above two items shall constitute the first unit of this Forward Movement. (c) A second unit of $300,000 additional endowment to be begun as soon after the completion of (a) and (b) as the Campaign Committee deem proper, and to be pushed forward to final conclusion as a part of the great Forward Movement of the Board of Education of our Church, which Movement is to close in 1918. If the Conference shall recommend and the Trustees adopt and achieve this program it would liquidate all the liabilities of the College and give it a complete permanent endowment of roundly one-half million dollars. We further recommend to the Trustees that they appoint or elect a Campaign Committee, to be made up as follows: (a) Seven members of the Board of Trustees, at least three of whom shall be laymen; (b) The District Superintendents of the Conference, two pastors and three laymen from each district; (c) seven members of the Alumni Association; (d) three members of the faculty, (e) One representative of the student body from each of the student organizations, such as College literary societies, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. Athletic Association, etc. This should include at least one representative of the Academy. (f) Three members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The chairman of this Campaign Committee should be a layman, selected for his executive ability, his interest in the College, his probable general acceptability to the constituency, and his natural endowment of leadership. This committee will seem cumbersome because of its numbers, but it might elect an Executive Committee of, say, fifteen to which it may confer some of its powers as may seem to it feasible. Such committee should be authorized to add to its number and to appoint subordinate committees as it should deem wise and necessary.

If this program shall be adopted, we suggest that the Trustees and the Campaign Committee both request the co-operation and helpful counsel of the Board of Education in the organization and throughout the progress of the campaign."

This report was adopted by the Annual Conference and also the Laymen's Association, after careful consideration.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Trustees, March 19, 1915, at Dodge City, Kansas, the following motion was adopted: "To increase the Forward Movement to $600,000; $200,000 for Sustentation and $400,000 for additional endowment, as recommended by the Conference and by the Laymen's Association." A committee was appointed by the Trustees to nominate a chairman for the Campaign Committee. This committee was constituted as follows: A. O. Ebright, Frank E. Mossman, L. E. Simes, D. D. Akin and D. M. Yetter. They reported to the Conference the name of E. R. Burkholder of McPherson, who was elected to the position of Chairman of the Campaign Committee. The campaign was organized with a committee of sixty-four, of which Mr. Burkholder was the Chairman, and an Executive Committee of fifteen, in whose hands the carrying out of the campaign was to rest. This organization carried forward the campaign in the following units, namely: the Trustees, the Alumni, Cowley County, Ministry of the Conference, and the General Public, in the whirlwind campaign.

It was thought that the territory nearest the School should lead in the campaign. The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees on October 19, 1915, took the following action: "First that the matter of the campaign be presented to the Commercial Club of Winfield, November 1, 1915; second, that the College invite the business men of Winfield to a luncheon Thursday evening, October 28; and third, that the plan of conducting the campaign should be presented to a committee of business men on October 22d." The committee chosen by the Executive Committee to present the matter to the Commercial Club was Dr. H. L. Snyder, Mayor H. A. McGreagor and Mr. Art Johnston. At a luncheon served in Richardson Hall Thursday evening, October 28th, this committee of three laid the needs of the School before about two hundred men who were present and discussed with them the necessity of Cowley County's taking a share of the amount to be raised. On November 1st the Commercial Club took action endorsing the campaign and recommending that Cowley County should undertake the raising of $100,000 on condition that a total of $600,000 should be secured. They appointed a committee of thirty to be known as The Cowley County Campaign Committee, to have charge and to conduct the campaign in the county.

The campaign opened Wednesday, October 3d, headquarters were established in the Commercial Club rooms on West Ninth Avenue, telephones were installed, desk room provided and help employed. On this date Dr. G. F. Ream of the Board of Education came and took charge of the campaign from the angle of the Jubilee Commission. Friday, October 5th, Dr. John W. Hancher arrived and took personal oversight of the campaign. The organization of the committee consisted of P. H. Albright, Chairman, M. B. Light, vice-chairman, H. E. Kibbe, treasurer, and C. M. Gray, secretary. Rev. A. E. Kirk of Wichita had charge of the publicity work. A mailing list of 10,000 names was provided and material was sent out indicating the needs of the School, and the imperative need of immediate action. During the three weeks of the campaign a series of seven bulletins were sent to the entire mailing list. The newspaper fraternity of the county aided very materially by their hearty and sympathetic co-operations throughout the campaign.

The Campaign Committee organized the territory thoroughly, the wards in the city of Winfield were each organized with teams in charge, so that the entire community was thoroughly canvassed and every family given an opportunity of helping. The publicity material sent to the mailing list, the use of the public press, the platform and pulpit, and by personal appeal, gave all of the necessary information to the constituency. The campaign was to close November 24th. On Sunday, November 14th, every pulpit in the county presented the matter regardless of church affiliations. The afternoon on the 12st a union meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church, Winfield, Kansas, at which Dr. Hislop, President of the Oklahoma Methodist University, P. H. Albright and Dr. C. F. Martin, spoke. The campaign closed Wednesday, November 24. Winfield itself took $75,000 and felt the county outside should raise the remaining $25,000. At the close of the campaign it was found that Winfield had actually secured $78,000. The outside territory within the county did not finish its $25,000 at this time, but did secure it by the close of the campaign, November 29, 1916, totalling in the county $105,000. The form of pledge used in the Cowley County unit was as follows:

No.

This movement tended to electrify the constituency as a whole, and it was planned to immediately pursue and complete the campaign throughout the patronizing territory. At the meeting of the Annual Conference held in Wichita, Kansas, 1916, it was thought best to complete the campaign beginning June 1st. As the first of June approached, it seemed advisable to postpone action until the fall time, owing to the fact that a number of the workers were absent from the conference in attendance at the General Conference and it was felt that the organization was not yet ready. This was done.

The Trustees met March 10, 1916, at the seat of the Conference. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss with Dr. J. W. Hancher of New York, plans for the furtherance of the campaign. After a careful discussion of the plans for the proposed Conference subscription, prayer was offered and the Board adjourned. At the Conference session held in Grace Church, Wichita, Kansas, on Saturday morning, March 11, 1916, an hour was set aside for prayer and consultation with respect to the furtherance of the work. At this time the Districts sat together as such. Bishop Thirkield was in the chair. After prayer the men of the Conference subscribed $51,455 on condition that the total amount of $600,000 be secured.

It was a scene long to be remembered. There was a deep spirit of meditation and quiet. Men wept and shouted for the very joy of giving. God's spirit seemed wonderfully present.

PREPARATION FOR FINALS

During the summer of 1916 there was much to do in the way of gathering data for use when the whirlwind finish should be undertaken. Mailing lists were completed until a total of 12,000 names were secured. These names were catalogued by the card system. There were four separate forms, one for the Heads of Families, another for the Widows, Maiden Ladies and Bachelors, another for the Children of Giving Age, and another for Childless Homes. On each of these cards was information with respect to their interest in education, their ability to give, full name, address, district, and charge. This mailing list had much to do with the success of the campaign.

There were three elements entering into the work: First, publicity; second, organization; third, prayer. The Secretary of the Jubilee Commission, Dr. John W. Hancher, in his outline of the work, had as a representative of the Commission, Dr. S. S. Murphy as publicity secretary. He arrived in Winfield Saturday, September 16, 1916, and established his office in Richardson Hall. With a secretarial force and assistants at hand, he furnished between the time of his coming and the closing of the campaign, nine bulletins and twenty-five series of letters for publication. These were mailed out to the general and special lists of names.

On the opening Sunday, October 15th, there were present in the territory and occupying pulpits within the bounds of the Conference, John W. Hancher, Secretary of the Board of Education; Theodore L. Kemp, President of Illinois Wesleyan; Samuel Plantz, President of Lawrence College; S. L. Kerfoot, President of Hamline University; Dr. Hurt, President of McKendree College; Wilbur N. Mason, President of Baker University; Edward L. Hislop, President of the Methodist University of Oklahoma; Secretary Myers of Illinois Wesleyan; W. L. Blackstock, W. M. Dudley, J. L. Jenkins of the Jubilee Commission; Secretary Church of Baker University; Claudius B. Spencer of the Central Christian Advocate; and J. R. Harker, President of Illinois Women's College. On this opening Sunday every pulpit within the Conference was supposed to have some other than its own pastor presenting the matter of Christian Education in general and the needs of Southwestern specifically. It was a great Sunday in the Conference. A spirit of enthusiasm possessed both pastors and people. The campaign was given great impetus. During the interval between these opening days and the Review Sunday, November 12th, time was given in the solicitation of larger amounts—sums of $500 and above. On Review Sunday, November 12, every pastor presented in his own pulpit the matter of Christian Education and announced the progress of the campaign. For the two weeks following this date a hand-to-hand campaign was conducted with thorough organizations throughout the Conference for the purpose of calling on every family within the church and belonging on our constituency roll, asking them to help in the conduct of the campaign by giving what they could. The plan of organization was put out in a folder known as the Working Program, which covered the organization of the entire Conference, as follows:

On Saturday, November 25th, Bishop Shepard addressed every pastor in the Conference by telegraph, stressing the need of a final rally on the following day, which would be known throughout the Conference as "Gleaning Sunday." A telegram was also sent to each pastor by the Executive Committee having the campaign in charge, asking them to make a general rally and to reach the last individual in their charge on this day for whatever amount they might see fit to give. The three days ensuing before the close of the campaign, November 29th, were busy days throughout the entire Conference. Bishop Shepard and Secretary Hancher were in constant communication with the District Superintendents, they in turn by direct touch, both by letter and wire, with their sub-district chairmen, and each sub-district chairman in touch with the pastors in his group, they in turn with the local committees and local membership. Wherever there was a weak spot there the forces were thrown in that it might be strengthened. All were ready to move under orders.

PRAYER

We have named two of the elements in the campaign—publicity and organization. These two without the third would have been quite powerless. The Trustees in their initial meeting, waited before God in prayer. At the suggestion of the President of the Board, when men had seemingly failed and there was no way out, in the Board meeting held in Richardson Hall, they knelt before God and prayed for direction. The meetings, both district and in the groups, were opened and closed with a prayer to God for his blessing upon the work. Prayer was the keynote—man's faith in God was the only hope of success. It seemed an impossibility; no one had the solution for the problem; the only way out seemed to be, trust in God. In the direction of the campaign Secretary Hancher emphasized prayer; in the district meetings held throughout the Conference Bishop Shepard emphasized the element of prayer; throughout the Districts the Superintendents emphasized, with their pastors, the element of prayer. The sub-district chairmen throughout the sub-districts called on their men to go to God in prayer. Pastors prayed publicly Sunday after Sunday and at the prayer meeting services, and called upon their people to remember the campaign in prayer at the family altar and in private, until a mighty voice of prayer reached Heavenward from the thousands of Methodist homes throughout the territory. The publicity secretary, Dr. Murphy, put the element of prayer into the publicity work, and called on men to trust in God. On Sunday night, November 12th, Dr. Murphy fell at his post, but only after he had completed his work by outlinging all of the publications up to and for the completion of the campaign. The last time it was our privilege to meet him we knelt with him Sunday morning, November 5th, at his bedside, in prayer, and, as his voice faltered, he said, "Brother, if this campaign fails I will almost lose faith in Methodism. It seems to me I have never seen a better organization and such a spirit of prayer and trust."

PREPARATION

Bishop Shepard and the six District Superintendents planned for a meeting in each one of the six Districts. All of the cabinet were to be present at each meeting. These meetings were held as follows: Bucklin, Thursday, September 14th; Kinsley, Friday, September 15th; Hutchinson, Monday, September 18th; Kingman, Tuesday, September 19th; Wichita, Wednesday, September 20th; Wellington, Thursday, September 21. The Bishop presided in each instance. The plan of organization of the district was discussed, and the necessities of the occasion. Much time was spent in prayer for God's blessing upon the work. Without these meetings it is doubtful whether the ends sought would have been attended with as large a degree of success as was achieved. Many questions were answered and plans for the organization of the sub-districts were laid. It was heroic work by the Bishop and cabinet and was so well done that, as a result, the Conference breathed a spirit of confidence and trust which had not been felt previous to this time.

THE CLOSING

November 29th was a day long to be remembered in the history of Southwestern College. The friends of the School kept arriving all day long and many of the pastors of the Conference had come in for the closing day of the campaign. There was an air of expectancy mingled with a feeling of very grave concern lest the outcome should not be sufficient to claim the subscriptions as made, all of which were conditioned on the securing of the $600,000 by written pledge. The entire working force were busy by long distance telephone and telegraph in connection with the sub-district chairmen and were endeavoring to bring together in the last great effort a sum total sufficient to reach the guarantee. The Trustees were in session at four o'clock when Kinsley, of the Great Bend District, reported in $33,450. Immediately following the Pratt District brought in pledges amounting to $26,000. This, with the rally of the other districts throughout the Conference, brought the total pledge up to $678,000.

A luncheon was served by the Ladies Auxiliary in the Association Hall. The visitors and friends sat down together and after the luncheon responses were given by different ones on the success of the campaign.

An evening program in the chapel presided over by Bishop Shepard was a jubilee service. The District Superintendents and other workers spoke. There were college songs and college yells interseperated throughout the evening. At ten-thirty o'clock the entire body, visitors, friends, student body, faculty and Trustees, went out on the mound south of Richardson Hall and a bonfire was made and there was speech making by representatives of the student body. All joined in singing Alma Mater and giving the college yell.

As the midnight hour closed in word had been sent out to the entire territory of the victory and the fact that Southwestern College was saved to the Southwest Kansas Conference. Telegrams came pouring in from other educational institutions and the leaders of the church expressing their appreciation of the great victory. God had honored the faith of his people.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

A committee which had been provided for in the subscription, one member to be chosen from the Winfield Commercial Club, namely, Mr. Harry Caton, President of the Club; one member by the Board of Trustees of Southwestern College, Dr. T. E. Hinshaw; and one member by the Southwest Kansas Conference, Rev. W. H. Moore, met and passed officially on the subscription by going over each piece of paper and giving it its face value for the purpose of finding whether or not the $600,000 had actually been secured. This Committee reported to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees their findings, and an announcement was sent to each subscriber stating the findings of the committee to the effect that the subscription totaled more than $500,000, and making the first of March as the day on which the first payment would be made.

There were over 13,000 subscriptions taken. A careful accounting was kept in the office of these subscriptions as they came in and an individual account opened with each subscriber. The subscriptions were kept by Districts and a careful check made to prevent any mistakes in the office work.

The Trustees, at a meeting held on January 4, 1917, passed the following action: "That of the proceeds of the recent campaign $400,000 be placed in the endowment fund; and to accomplish this the division of all of the funds resulting from said campaign be made on the following basis: $400,000 to be set aside for endowment, and the balance of the funds subscribed and collected, less the campaign expenses amounting to date to $8,653.26, to be used for the payment of the college debts and for sustentation. The percentage of the moneys collected to be on the basis of one-third for sustentation and indebtedness and two-thirds for endowment until $400,000 has been fully set aside for the endowment fund. This amount added to the $100,000 already subscribed to said fund will raise the total endowment to $500,000. Of the one-third of each dollar collected which is to go to the general fund for sustentation and indebtedness, we recommend that one-half be applied on the payment of monies borrowed from the endowment fund and loaned to the general fund; and that the other one-half be used in the payment of present running expenses. But if not needed the same shall be used for the payment of outstanding warrants in the order in which they were issued. We recommend that the amount necessary for the payment of campaign expenses be deducted from the total of $678,000 subscribed before a division is made."

THE ALUMNI

The Alumni of the School took an active part and a lively interest in this great struggle. At the annual meeting in June, 1911, before the launching of the Forward Movement, the Alumni of the School pledged $10,000 for endowment. This was the initial movement for the additional endowment which they felt to be necessary if the institution were to continue to do efficient service. The total amount of $10,000 was secured in subscription form previous to their meeting in June, 1914. At this time an additional $10,000 was voted. At the close of the campaign it was found that the Alumni had given altogether, as individuals, $25,000. The work of the Alumni was in the hands of the Field Secretary who, through correspondence and personal solicitation, secured and wrote these subscriptions.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

This, our own areal paper, did us most effective service. It was ready, both by editorial and in every way possible, to give its support. Its columns were opened throughout the campaign, as they always have been by editorial, to the use of the Committee, and by this means much and effective help was given.

SECULAR PRESS

The work of the newspapers throughout the territory gave such help as was asked of them, and aided very largely in popularizing the work and in carrying forward the program.

CAMPAIGN IN WICHITA

The campaign in Wichita, Kansas, was organized as a unit; headquarters were established at the Young Men's Christian Association and a secretary put in charge. There was a hearty and interested response on the part of the membership of the Church; banquets and luncheons were served by the Ladies' Aid Societies; groups of men studied the situation together and gave unstintedly of their time in the carrying out of the organization and the completion of the work. Their local committee consisted of Mr. Tom Deal, Chairman, A. E. Kirk, Sub-district Chairman, and the pastors of the churches as members of the local committee.

GREETINGS RECEIVED ON THE COMPLETION OF THE CAMPAIGN AND SENT OUT BY BULLETIN
TELEGRAM

Wichita, Kansas, December 4, 1916

I greatly rejoice in the spiritual response of the ministers and churches, and praise and love them all. I also hope the same devotion will win still dearer spiritual triumphs in every church in the Southwest Kansas Conference.

W. O. SHEPARD

Chicago, Ill., November 30, 1916

To the faculty, alumni, students, patrons, and friends of Southwestern College
Greetings:—

The Educational-Jubilee movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the work of the Board of Education and the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the work of the Methodist societies on American soil. It includes, has included, or will include campaigns for practically all of the schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the American republic.

These campaigns work to better kept campi, reconstructed buildings, new buildings, better equipped laboratories, larger and better libraries, especially departmental libraries, better and more adaptable curricula, larger and more purposeful student bodies, and greatly enriched and intensified spiritual life of our institutions of learning.

Six hundred thousand dollars was a great objective for Southwestern College, and I congratulate you upon the successful achievement of this quest for it. But six hundred thousand dollars is not adequate in itself. The money is only a means to an end. It will be a very valuable factor in helping to bring about the worthy values and developments for which the Educational-Jubilee stands and strives as indicated above.

Accordingly I am writing you this message of greeting in the name of the President of the Educational-Jubilee, Bishop Wm. F. McDowell, and of the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Educational-Jubilee, Bishop Thomas Nicholson, as well as in my own name. They have authorized me to impart to you, through the method of this college bulletin, their grateful appreciation of the task you have achieved and their assurance of the importance and value of Southwestern College as a factor in the highest development and noblest living of the people of this great central empire.

In all this I join most cordially and sincerely,

JOHN W. HANCHER,

Director of the Educational-Jubilee

New York, November 30, 1916

President Frank E. Mossman,
Southwestern College,
Winifield, Kansas

My dear President Mossman:

I am pleased to learn from Dr. Hancher of your success and triumph at Southwestern.

Six hundred thousand dollars is a sum total worthy the devoted service and heroic sacrifice of the men and women of the Southwest Kansas and the alumni, patrons, and friends of Southwestern College throughout the country and the world who have made it possible.

I am clearly of the opinion that Southwestern College worthy as is its record, faces much greater responsibilities in the future. I believe it is needed and greatly needed in its own important field, and I am confident that it will be stronger and better in every way for its future service because of the victory you now celebrate.

Very respectfully,

ABRAM W. HARRIS,

Corresponding Secretary.

November 30, 1916

To the Friends of Christian Education.

Honored and respected co-workers:

This is a day of Thanksgiving to all of the friends of Southwestern College. On November 29, 1916, was closed the campaign for $600,000. This will give the Institution an endowment fund of $500,000, when collected, and $200,000 for the payment of debt and running expenses. The completion of this undertaking marks a new era in the history of Christian education within the bounds of the Southwest Kansas Conference. It has aroused an interest in the work of the College which is helpful to the work of the church on each charge and in almost every home represented.

Our own Bishop Shepard gave unstintedly of his time and strength to the carrying forward of this work. The representatives of the Educational-Jubilee did their part and did it so well that there was no question either as to method or spirit in the manner of their co-operation. The six District Superintendents displayed genuine leadership on their respective Districts. Each of them devoted his entire time to the organization of the work. The pastors of the Conference permitted nothing to interfere with the work on their individual charges, but worked and prayed, leading their people through, proving themselves real leaders. The membership of the Conference came up loyally to the support of the work and gave liberally.

The bulk pledges in the campaign were all more than full. The first was by the Trustees for $25,000. As a board they pledged $25,000, to be secured by subscriptions as individuals. This was taken amounting to $45,000. The Alumni Association voted to raise $20,000. They actually raised in individual subscriptions $25,000. Winfield and Cowley County undertook the securing of $100,000; the amount secured in individual pledges was $105,000. The ministers of the Conference gave personally $51,495.

The $600,000 was divided into two units: $400,000 for endowment, and $200,000 for sustentation. In the securing of the $675,000 both units are completed. We have now, as a Conference, accomplished that which we started out to do.

There were many who did heroic service in the campaign. The sub-district chairmen labored indefatigably. The individual pastors rallied to them. It would be impossible to name all who deserve special mention, and it would be necessary to name the pastors individually if all were to be named who deserve to be mentioned as having thrown themselves into the very heat of the battle.

The financial statement in the bulletin gives the total for each District and the amount given by each charge.

The element of prayer which entered into the campaign, and the success which was achieved in the face of what was deemed by all to be impossible, would seem to indicate the Heavenly Father's approval of the plan. There was a spiritual glow over the entire Conference during the Campaign. Many people who were visited seemed to have been touched by the Holy Spirit prior to the coming of the canvasser.

The Board of Trustees and the faculty render praise and thanks to Almighty God for his blessing upon the work, and are praying for his direction in the future interest of the School and the administration of its affairs. They send you greetings as friends and co-workers, and ask that you do not forget to remember the Conference college and pray for the continuation of divine oversight and blessings on its work.

Very sincerely and truly,
A. O. EBRIGHT,
President of the Board of Trustees
FRANK E. MOSSMAN

THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE A NECESSITY

Clippings from Campaign Literature

A president of one of the greatest state universities in the nation delivered a recent address on the permanent necessity of the denominational college, in which he made the following points of convincing argument:

1. The Christian college is the only one which can protect the nation against the growing danger of secularism.
2. The Christian college is vitally necessary to the training of the active membership of Christian churches and to the preparation of the Christian ministry.
3. Only the Christian colleges now maintain a wholesome discipline, which is necessary to the formative periods of youth.
4. The Christian college is one of the most vital channels through which the Church may make the contribution of ideals and leadership to the enrichment of the state.
5. The Christian college provides a most fitting outlet for the benevolent impulses of Christian people, because it is in harmony with their ideals of service and influence.
6. The Christian college is best adapted to the needs of many in its spirit of democracy in the privileges which it makes possible to the young people of small means.
7. The Christian college has the permanent geographical value. It is always near home. Ninety per cent of those who attend college attend an institution less than a hundred miles away.
8. Finally—instead of the state schools displacing the denominational schools, the real situation is that unless the denominational schools continue and maintain their service of culture and inspiration in higher educational ideals, the state institution must inevitably suffer loss. The Christian college is a permanent necessity to the highest and best in our Christian and civil life.

RALLY FOR WORLD LEADERSHIP

This is a matter of great importance, deserving special attention. All Europe is being devastated of its mature and young manhood, as even the boys of eighteen are being thrust by the million into untimely graves, so that all Europe will be unprovided with men for her affairs, and must look to the United States for her leadership. John R. Mott, a statesman of world wide recognition and observation, twice offered the position of Minister to China by President Wilson, says:

"To secure trained leadership is the object of transcendent, urgent, and world wide concern."

So we must not only educate for Kansas, but Southwestern must do her part in the world's great work of higher education.

GENERAL PLAN OF CAMPAIGN

The Aim—To reach and reach effectively, every man, woman and child of our Methodist homes, and the friends of Methodism in the interests of Southwestern College and Higher Christian Education.

The Methods—Publicity; Organization; and Prayer. College literature will tell the story—and a thrilling one it is—of Southwestern, her splendid history, her invaluable services, and her imperative needs to all her friends. In every pulpit of the Conference earnest men—Pastors, College Presidents, Professors,

Bishops, and General Secretaries—will plead the cause of Southwestern and the claims of Higher Christian Education, on Launching Sunday and Review Sunday, and every Sunday the pulpit Bulletin will bring its message of good cheer and progress.

The Conference will be organized into Districts; the Districts into groups; and the groups into teams, so that by personal solicitation every one will be given opportunity to give to Southwestern in this great crisis.

Prayer must be the great right arm of power if victory is secured. Constant, believing prayer must vitalize all. All true Christians can help by prayer; many can give only by prayer; but by prayer they help most efficiently.

Prayer from every pulpit, every family altar, and every closet will insure success.

SOUTHWESTERN'S MISSION

1. To teach the arts, sciences, and literature as well or better than secular colleges.
2. To link the entire circle of art, science, and literature with the Gospel of Christ.
3. To solve the intellectual difficulties of our youth, and save them from skepticism and infidelity.
4. To make the discoveries of science and the teachings of philosophy tributary to religion, by showing the harmony of all truth; that science and philosophy, rightly interpreted, mean a more intelligent and devout Christianity, and that such Christianity recognizes true science and philosophy as the hand maids of religion, and rejoices in them.
5. To develop in the students the highest Christian character.

POINTS TO REMEMBER

Southwestern campaign is a part of a great nation-wide church movement for the endowment and equipment of our Methodist schools. The church has raised over twelve millions of dollars for such purpose during the last quadrennium and plans to raise over twenty millions more during this Jubilee Movement ending February, 1918. Other colleges have completed campaigns during the quadrennium as follows: Baker University $500,000, with a margin of $100,000; Simpson College $500,000, with a margin of $30,000; Kansas Wesleyan $250,000, with a small margin; College of the Pacific, San Jose, California $100,000, with a margin of $14,000, is after $200,000 more to make a unit of $300,000; and other colleges for other sums.

The latest report of the U. S. Commissioner of Education places the average annual cost of college education in this country at $303.00 per student. This is the average amount spent by the colleges in furnishing the education, and has nothing to do with the student's personal expenses. The cost to the tax payers of Kansas is $230.00 for each student taking collegiate work in the State University.

In contrast to these figures statistics show that in the year 1911 the average cost per student in Methodist Colleges was $140.00. That was four years ago, and that cost, in harmony with everything else, is rising. During the last six years the average annual cost to Southwestern for each student enrolled was $96.00. Last year it was $130.00.

Contrast Southwestern's showing in this particular with that of three other colleges in the state. The average cost per student is given as $170.00, $162.00, and $136.00.

It must be considered, also, that the budget of Southwestern carries a very heavy item of interest on the debt, and also a considerable item of annuities paid on property willed to the college but not yet in possession. When these items are deducted from the account the $130.00 per student is brought down to where it becomes a marvel how such high grade college training has been given at such small expenditure.

SOUTHWESTERN COLLEGE ALUMNI

Teachers 135, Ministers 72, Home Keepers 40, Professors in College 18, Merchants 15, Attorneys 12, Farmers 12, Missionaries 12, Physicians 6, Insurance 4, Editors 3, Bankers 3, Government Employ 2, Lectures 2, Machinists 1, Nurse 1, Deceased 6. Total 344.

It is worth noticing that 72 of the Alumni are recorded as ministers and about 33 are members of the Southwest Kansas Conference. Her contribution of 12 to the missionary field is certainly generous and worth while; and it is worth while to consider that 40 have that noble profession of home keepers, showing that higher Christian education does not disqualify for that high and sacred office. One hundred thirty-five teachers shows the every enlarging influence of the College in duplicating itself in the world's great work of teaching the young people of our country not only in scholastic learning but the highest ideals and morals.

Over sixty per cent of the young men in Southwestern are partly or wholly self-supporting.

In the past ten years the College Department which is the department from which all standards are reckoned, has increased six-fold in enrollment.

THE RELIGIOUS INTERESTS OF WINFIELD

WINFIELD is indeed a center of religious institutions and influence. There is no class of organizations within the city which profits more by the development of the community than do the churches. And moreover, there is no other group of institutions which contributes more to the elevation of the morals of the city and to the preservation, within its bounds, of the right to the awarded honor of being "the most nearly ideal city in which to raise children."

The more than four thousand church members of Winfield representing nearly fifty per cent of its population, are divided among fifteen organizations of eleven denominations. But they are united in earnest efforts to promote righteousness and morality in every phase of community and private life.

The Sunday Schools of the city are well organized and equipped and the classes are instructed by competent teachers. More than thirty-five hundred scholars are enrolled in the Sunday Schools throughout the city. And the percentage of regular attendance in proportion to the enrollment is remarkably high. Several of the prominent Sunday Schools offer courses in Bible for which credit is allowed towards graduation, from the high school. These classes are conducted by teachers possessing the qualifications required for high school instructors. They meet at the regular Sunday School hour and term and final examinations are given as in other school courses.

One remarkable fact which speaks well for the thoroughness and efficiency of the Sunday Schools is that ninety-six per cent of the pupils enrolled in the grade schools and ninety-six per cent of the high school students are also enrolled in Sunday School.

CHAUTAQUA ASSEMBLY AND WINTER LECTURE COURSE

Another of the organizations which makes for the betterment of Winfield is the Chautauqua. The Chautauqua Assembly has been maintained since 1887 at a cost of five or six thousand dollars annually. It is said to rank fifth in size in the United States and is ranked third in efficiency by the Mother Chautauqua near Chautauqua Lake, New York, after which it is modeled. Some of the important departments included in the Assembly are: Home Economics, Rural Community, Sacred Literature, English Literature, Child Welfare, Art, and Kindergarten. Besides the departments there are special lectures and entertainments given in the afternoon and evening. The attendance at these ranges from two thousand to five thousand people.

The Chautauqua has its own permanent buildings and grounds located in Island Park, where many of the attendants take advantage of the cool shade and camp there during the Assembly. The business affairs are managed by a Board of Directors composed of twenty-one of Winfield's best citizens. This Board also secures the platform talent and the department instructors.

The Community-Chautauqua course of entertainments and lectures, given during the winter months, is also managed by a committee of the Chautauqua Board. Besides excellent numbers furnished by representatives of the professional bureaus there are numbers given by the Winfield Orchestral Club and the High School students. These have been under the direction of Prof. E. B. Gordon, who has attained a national reputation for his community work.

The aim of these has been to supply adequately rendered programs of high character. But fundamental to this purpose has been the idea of developing in the young people the desire for community service and endeavoring to make them feel that it is not only a duty but a privilege as well, to contribute of their talents for community uplift.

AN EDUCATIONAL CENTER

A community which looks well to the life of its young people and prepares them for lives of useful service, lays a foundation for its future which will withstand the severest industrial or economic panic. And one will be compelled to seek far and wide before he can find a city more completely equipped for thorough education from kindergarten to college.

Over $12,000 has been spent during the past year for enlarging three of the five grade schools. In these, two thousand of Winfield's youngsters are instructed by a corps of thirty-six able teachers.

Winfield High School has the largest enrollment in the state, in proportion to the city's population and it is fifth in enrollment regardless of population. Of the 603 high school students, 125 are in the Senior class. A faculty of twenty members offers a comprehensive curriculum in the classical, commercial, general and normal courses. Some interesting features of the Winfield High School are: A school farm of ten acres conducted by the students of agriculture; a special aid teacher for backward pupils; summer vacation courses in domestic art and manual training; the emphasis placed upon self-expression as developed by dramatic, literary and physical productions; supervised physical training and playgrounds; and a library of four thousand volumes.

A $60,000 annex to the high school building has just been completed. This will be used principally for classes in Domestic Art and Manual Training. The first floor contains all forms of modern machinery and equipment for woodworking and will be devoted exclusively to manual training. Domestic Art and Science predominate on the second floor. This contains a model house of five rooms besides large cooking and dining rooms, a fitting room and two large sewing rooms.

The gymnasium, with a seating capacity of fifteen hundred, occupies the third floor. This is arranged so that it can also be used as an auditorium.

All lockers in both the domestic science and manual training departments, the bleachers in the gymnasium and the wardrobe for the dramatic costumes were made by the advanced students of manual training.

THE WINFIELD COLLEGE OF MUSIC

This institution located in the heart of the city has an enrollment of three hundred pupils and a faculty of ten. It offers courses in Harmony, Teaching of Music, Expression, Voice, Piano, and other instrumental music.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE

The youngest member of the Kansas Athletic Conference has an enrollment of one hundred forty-five, nearly all of whom are young men. A large percentage of these are pursuing courses leading to the ministry. The faculty includes fourteen instructors. The regular course covers a period of six years and includes all of the important classical branches. Emphasis is placed upon the use of the German language as the medium of instruction. St. John's is one of the few Kansas colleges which offers Hebrew. Besides a two-year residence course it offers a correspondence course in this language. Courses in commercial and musical branches are also given.

The equipment of this college has been increased so that now it includes besides the large administration building, a $5,000 gymnasium and a fireproof dormitory completed in 1916 at a cost of $75,000. The latter is modern in every respect and has accommodations for one hundred fifty students and a dining hall for one hundred seventy-five. The entire plant is free from all indebtedness.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

This is an educational institution in which the entire community is interested. Since the privilege of its use has been extended to the people of rural districts its patronage of 3,108 is drawn from thirteen towns and villages in the vicinity.

The library is conducted by the open shelf system and has 6,128 volumes on its shelves besides unclassified reports. The loans made during 1916 amounted to 28,974. A circulation of 2,957 volumes was made in December, 1916, which was the largest monthly circulation in the history of the library. There are eighty-three papers and magazines in its well-lighted reading rooms. The co-operation of the librarians with the teachers make the library a very valuable aid to students of all classes.

THE COMMERCIAL ACTIVITIES OF WINFIELD

Winfield has three national banks and two state banks. These have over $3,000,000 on deposit and a surplus of $700,000. There has not been a bank failure or suspension of payment by Winfield banks in the history of the city.

The per capita wealth of Winfield is the largest of any city in the state. And the assessed valuation of $8,000,000 is the largest of any city of the same class while Cowley County is seventh in the state in total valuation.

Three railway systems furnish the means of communication with the surrounding territory over five lines on which there are twenty passenger and twenty-two regular freight trains daily. Cowley county is fifth in the state in valuation of railroads. Winfield has an interurban line fifteen miles in length and electric street railway service. A rock road traversing the county fifteen miles north and south of the city makes a fine channel for Winfield's extensive country trade.

Winfield is the second city in the state in butterproduction, which accounts for the two large produce houses whose annual business exceeds $1,000,000 and enables them to manage a payroll of $53,000 annually.

Winfield has a large wholesale grocery which handles 7,500 tons of merchandise annually. It has two wholesale and retail nurseries, one of which has an annual payroll of $50,000. The two monument works of the city have an annual business of $60,000. The flour mills of Winfield have a capacity of 1,300 barrels daily and the ice plant has an annual capacity of 16,000 tons.

The new postoffice building completed in 1916 at a cost of $85,000 is the clearing house for ten rural carriers and seven city carriers. The annual postoffice receipts is $30,000.

Winfield is to have a modern $60,000 hotel, which will be constructed in the near future.

Other items of commercial importance are a wholesale bottling works; wholesale dairy and ice cream factory; five large department stores, two daily and one weekly newspaper; office fixture factory and a galvanized tank factory.

Winfield is in the center of the great alfalfa belt of the Southwest. Some of the land producing as high as five tons per acre in favorable seasons. An important section of Winfield's neighboring farms lies in the valley between the Arkansas and the Walnut rivers. This valley is ten miles in width and twenty miles long and is underlaid by the Arkansas underflow which makes it an ideal garden spot for corn, wheat and alfalfa besides fruit and garden truck. Land values vary from $150 per acre for bottom land to as low as $20 for upland pasture.

The oil and gas industry near Winfield is undergoing a rapid but normal development. Several strong oil companies are operating in the territory and may prove Cowley county to be one of the richest oil fields of the state. Cowley county is completely surrounded by oil-producing territory. Chautauqua and Sumner counties to the east and west respectively, have extensive oil fields. While the Southfield in Kay County, Oklahoma, is one of the largest producing fields known, and to the north are the productive fields of Butler county.

An abundance of gas is reached at a depth of 600 feet; oil is reached at depths ranging from 1,420 to 3,000 feet.

Of the fifty test wells drilled in Cowley county in the last two years, twenty-five are now producing. This proportion shows this field to be as promising as the adjacent counties, for there were 2,000 wells drilled in Butler county to obtain the 1,000 wells that are now producing.

Judging from its favorable location in the center of this great field and from the promise shown by the tests already made, the development of the next few years should mean great things for Cowley county and Winfield.

WINFIELD AS A PLACE TO LIVE

During the year of 1914-'15 the Welfare Department of the University of Kansas conducted a contest among the second-class cities of Kansas for the purpose of determining which was the most nearly ideal city in which to raise children. At the close of the year a committee of judges visited and spent a day scoring each of the fifteen cities which presented the strongest claim to the honor. Winfield was awarded first place and the $1,000 prize donated by ex-Governor W. R. Stubbs was presented by Prof. McKeever on the opening night of the Chautauqua of 1915.

That Winfield justly deserves the decision is attested by a more thorough knowledge of and a daily experience with its conditions. Besides the splendid churches and schools already mentioned and the commercial activities of the city, there are many other factors which make Winfield a desirable residence city.

The city is well supplied with pure filtered water, and natural gas is available in unlimited quantities at low rates. Both the business section and residence districts are well lighted by means of the municipal lighting system.

The city has a good supply of recreation parks. Island Park is the seat of the Chautauqua and other outdoor public gatherings, while Hiatt's and Riverview Parks afford the best boating and bathing facilities as they border on the Walnut River. The mineral springs with medicinal properties add to the attractiveness of these places in making ideal picnic grounds.

The sixteen miles of brick and macadam paving make transportation about the city possible and regular under all conditions of weather.

That Winfield is satisfied with the efficiency of its city administration under the Mayor-Council plan of government is attested by the rejection of the proposed city manager form of government. Several important steps have been taken by the city officials to make Winfield a better place in which to live. Pool halls were eliminated at a special referendum election held April 4, 1916. City ordinances prohibit the sale of cigarettes and cigarette papers to anyone and prohibits the sale of tobacco in any form to minors.

The effectiveness with which these are enforced may be judged from the following statement from the Judge of the Juvenile Court: "My own personal observation bears out the results of my constant investigation along this line and I would give it as my judgment that it is impossible to obtain cigarettes and cigarette papers in Winfield."

City ordinances also prohibit such exhibitions as street fairs and carnivals being located within the city, thus protecting the morals of the city.

A city health officer is maintained by the city who makes regular and thorough tours of the city and attempts to discover and eradicate conditions which would be dangerous to health.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

One of the most active organizations for improving the city and bringing new ideas and new industries to the city, is the Commercial Club. It now has a membership of around 300, has its own permanent quarters centrally located, where an active secretary is always on the job, working for a better Winfield. This club is always in the lead, either initiating or boosting in every worthy enterprise undertaken in the city, and although it is often ridiculed as being visionary, there is scarcely a worthy institution, campaign or reform which has not received support from this organization and been helped to success by its efforts.

A Retrospect

At last this task is completed, and we experience a genuine feeling of relief as we place it in the hands of our readers. It has been a strenuous and trying task; we have given ourselves to its completion. The sun has never set upon our work and we gladly rest.

We shall be glad if the 1917 "Moundbuilder" may serve to keep alive memories of the things of value that have come to you during the time you have spent in Southwestern.

To those who have labored with us, whose efforts we have appreciated, we express our sincere thanks.
