VICTORY

Foreword

To give to the public some slight record of Southwestern's share in the world conflict; to pay tribute to those who, gallantly and triumphantly, met death itself that victory might be assured; to create a memoir of their share in the war that will long be treasured by every Southwestern man in the service; and to provide, at the same time, a reminder of those happiest of all days—college days—for all Southwestern students—this has been the four-fold purpose of the Junior class in presenting this Annual.

We offer it to our readers, not only as a chronicle of deeds and days, but as an expression of that spirit which made those deeds possible. May it bring to each of you a like determination so to live, and learn, and serve that victory may be sustained, that the visions for which men fought and died may become realities, and that you may build worthily for the nation and the school, in the classroom, on the athletic field, and in your life service.

The Victory Moundbuilder

Dedication

To those sons of Southwestern who have given their services to the American Flag, that
---through the triumph of that Flag---
Honor, Justice, Freedom, Democracy might be preserved in every land,
The Class of Nineteen Hundred Twenty dedicates this,

Greetings

Greetings to that group of men who, in the crucial moment of the world's history, offered themselves for their country's service. From countryside, village, and city they responded to the call to play a man's part in guaranteeing to humanity standards of political idealism, economic freedom and social uplift. In camp, on the high seas, and at the battle front they bore arms as sons worthy of the descendants of seventy-six and the sixties. The glory of their achievement will be written in the histories of the world. The men of seventy-six fought for national freedom; the men of the sixties fought for racial freedom; the men of nineteen-eighteen and nineteen-nineteen fought for world freedom. We welcome them home again. Greetings to each from his Alma Mater! May the glory of their achievements reflect a still greater spirit of service on the Institution which they were privileged to represent.

Honor to that noble group of men who gave their lives. The spirit in which they made the supreme sacrifice is best expressed by the words of Howard Burnett, one of our own. The following note was received by his mother after his death, written to be mailed in case death should overtake him in the fight: "First, I shall say that life is very dear to me as it is to every youth,—but if it be God's will that I should give that life, why, I am willing—and hope all of you see my loss in that light. Always remember that the cause is so wonderfully great, and that we as God's children are the only means of bringing Him victory. So just think that if I am lost why I helped win,—and remember I kept the faith in Christ whom you taught me to know since a babe—and that has kept me a man always in this army. So don't grieve for such a service but rather be proud—that is what would please me most!"

Greetings to the three hundred seventy-four Southwestern men who gave themselves in life and, if need be, in death! To the Living—we welcome you home again. To the Honored Dead—your memory shall be written into the heart life of the Institution. Greetings from your own Southwestern!

FRANK E. MOSSMAN.

Our men have given their lives. That is the supreme fact. We love them, reverence them, are proud of them, but no word that we can say can add to their glory.

"It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated—to the unfinished task which they—have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this world under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Greetings

Greetings to all Moundbuilders, past, present and future. Most cordial greetings to those who have upheld Old Glory, and what Old Glory stands for, on the battle fields of France. Most cordial greetings to the fair Moundbuilders who, like the women of France, have given the good-byes, dry-eyed and smiling, to their men as they went away to lay their lives on their country's altar. In anxious and harassing days and nights in trenches; in long and weary marches by day and night, in sun and rain; in pitiless, destroying days and nights of battle, I saw Southwestern men tested to the limit, and all who came under my observation conducted themselves with a high courage worthy of the best traditions of the soldiers of America.

Sincerely,

JOHN H. O'CONNOR,
Lieut.-Col., 137 Inf.

Wounded

My division was situated west of the Meuse on the Aire River. At 5:30 on the morning of September 26th, we went over the top, and a real American does feel a thrill as he goes over. All day long, we kept the Germans on the run, until about six o'clock, when we met a real resistance. I had never seen nor heard so many machine guns popping away at once as there were at that time. We were advancing to take the town, Charpentry. As Co. K. was on the first wave, you may imagine—no, you can't imagine—how thick those bullets were! I really think it grew dark, they were so thick. At the same time, the artillery was pouring big ones around us. One lit behind me, and over I went, but I was not wounded. As we went on the fire grew more dense.

All at once, two of them hit me. It felt like an army mule had kicked me in the right leg, and sent me heels over head. At the same time, I thought I had struck a live wire of at least 100,000 volts. I landed near a shell hole about two feet in diameter. I crowded all of myself in except my feet. I never knew before that they were so large! When I couldn't make room for them, I said:

"Dear feet, good-bye. You brought me over, but if Jerry doesn't have mercy on you, you will never take me back."

Thank goodness, I still have them, and they will still carry me up and down those seventy-seven steps that lead to Richardson Hall.

By the time I reached the hospital, I had thought of all the mean things I had ever done;—even the time when I helped move Prexy's chicken house. It is very hard to tell, "How it feels to be wounded," but if I had it to do over again I would join the S. O. S.

The First Day of Peace

"Oh, I can't get 'em up,
I can't get 'em up,
I can't get 'em up in the morning!"

tootles the battery bugler, and the battery, to a man, rouses from the luxurious warmth of three blankets and a straw tick on the floor. Vengeful, to a man, is the battery, with dark thoughts that,—

"Some day I'm going to murder the bugler,
Some day they're going to find him dead;
I'll amputate his reveille
And step upon it heavily,
And spend the rest of my life in bed!"

It is dawn, dark, dripping, fog-choked, of the eleventh of November, 1918, in a small village of central France.

"Will they sign? Do you believe they'll sign? Bet you five francs they don't sign! Take you! Bet my next month's wages we'll be fighting next spring. I'll go you twenty they have quit firing already!"—and so on through reveille and breakfast mess. For the German representatives are in France, there are conditions preliminary to the armistice they have formally demanded which they must sign or reject; their seventy-two hours for consideration are nearly passed.

Ask the French inhabitants if they will sign: "Mais, oui! Assurement, ils signeront! Toute de suite, ils signeront! Ils se savent battus—il leur faut signer. La guerre est finie!" But the French have said nothing but "guerre finie" for the last month. They are over-emotional, over-confident.

The battery turns its attention to "policing up" the streets on front of its billets. Mud starts flying. At a creaking upper window, heads rise. A French flag appears from the opening—another across the street. Up a block they come out by dozens—flags, and then more flags, big and little, new and tattered, French flags and American flags,—but no British! Peculiar American flags, many of them, with stripes any way from eight to eighteen in number, and a corresponding variety in quantity of stars. Seven and eleven preponderate. Do they think the United States a nation of crap shooters? Why all the flags—all the gathering and scattering knots of excitedly talking gesticulating people? "What is the excitement? What the heck, Bill, what the heck? Where's the fire?"

"Guerre finie! Guerre finie! L'armistice est signe! Ils l'ont signe!"

The armistice is signed! They have signed! Whoop! Hooray!

Drill is pretty much of a mockery. Officers are as excited as the men, though more successful in camouflaging their feelings.

Three "Second Loueys" heard around a corner are covetously speculating on the possibility of leave in Paris. No one knows, for no official dispatch has been received; but everyone believes that they have signed!

The Victory Moundbuilder

Rub-a-dub-dub! Rub-a-dub-dub! Rub-a-dub-dub-dub-dub-dub!! Behind the rattle of the squeaky drum, appears the formidably grizzled and bewhiskered face of the village crier. From a mouth of enormous proportions, with a voice more surprisingly enormous for the size of the man, issues a sing-song, freely translated thus:

"The mayor has the honor to announce that he has received an official dispatch stating that the conditions of the armistice have been signed; and he invites the citizens of Aix to join with him in decorating their houses with flags, and illuminations."

Rattles by a two-wheeled cart, driven by a German prisoner a French soldier riding on the seat beside him. Two large French flags wave from the harness. The Boche drives France's triumphal chariot! Earlier in the day, a group of German prisoners being marched to work were halted by their French armed guards, and held standing rigidly at attention, as the guards saluted the national colors flying from every side.

With the coming of dusk, the illuminations invited by the mayor appear at every window. Clusters of gay Japanese lanterns, rows of flickering candles—gay, dancing, glimmering lights of peace—blink among the flags up and down the streets. Strings of French youths dance hand in hand up and around and down, singing and yelling. Girls follow, in knots more demure, but not less gay.

Around a turn issues a throng of children, led by drum and bugle. Laughter and shouts, re-echoing from the canyon-like street walls, are taken up by eager bystanders. Above the procession hovers a multi-colored myriad of darting fire-flies—no, they are dozens of Japanese lanterns carried at the ends of long poles. A French version of the torchlight procession, it winds up and away, around the crooked, rutty little town.

"La guerre finie! La guerre finie!!"

So chants the French village on the first day of peace.

And the battery hears the bugler play:

"Going home, going home, going home,

Going home, soldier boy, going home!"

instead of "Taps" that night. The battery smiles—and dreams!

2nd Lt. Richter.....	Rifle Instructor

The Southwestern S. A. T. C. was established in accordance with the provision of the War Department for the installation of such units in the colleges of the entire United States. The men were inducted into the service on the morning of October 1, 1918. Association Hall and the men's Dormitory were transformed into regulation army barracks. The Winfield Commercial Club built a large mess hall at the rear of Holland Hall. A canteen was established by the Y. M. C. A. for the convenience of the boys. The S. A. T. C. was a genuine military organization, conducted under military regulations. The course included certain prescribed collegiate subjects in addition to the regular military work. Ninety-three men were enrolled in the corps. Thirteen of these men were sent to the Central Officers Training School at Camp Grant. As a part of the general demobilization after the signing of the armistice, on November 11, the S. A. T. C. men were mustered out of the service on December 20, 1918.

Reserve Officers Training Corps

Upon recommendation of the War Department, and under the direction of First Lieutenant Orris Jones, Southwestern has established a unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Forty-two men are enrolled. Two hours each week are devoted to drill, and one hour to class instruction. There is a probability of such training being continued in the college next year.

Greetings

Southwestern College extends to you greetings. Her doors are open to those young men and women who, equipped by High School training to enter, have an earnest desire to qualify themselves by a liberal education for the fullest life and the largest service. Coming to Southwestern, such will find a well rounded college course fully accredited and of the highest standard, an ideal college community in which to live, and a school in which the high ideals of scholarship are matched by equally high ideals of social and moral conduct. Our faculty is efficient; our student body is earnest and thoroughly democratic. Student activities: Literary Societies, Debating, Oratory, Y. M. and Y. W. Association work, Athletics—are at full tide. Of the past thirty-seven intercollegiate debates Southwestern won twenty-nine. The social life is full and wholesome. Christ is honored and emulated. Of all this and more, this Annual is an illustrated commentary, and expresses more fully our most cordial greetings to you.

ALBERT E. KIRK,
President.

Frank C. Mossman, A. M., D. D.

President of Southwestern College 1905-1918.

By his undaunted vision of a greater Southwestern, his unswerving faith in God and man, and the magnetism of his Christian personality, he secured the erection of Richardson Hall, the establishment of an endowment fund of one-half million, and the expansion of Southwestern into a fully accredited college that is unsurpassed in its standards. But greater even than his upbuilding of the college, has been his influence in molding, inspiring, and directing the lives of the young men and women of the school. As he goes on into even larger fields of service and opportunity, he carries with him the sincere love, respect, and gratitude of all those who know him.

Loyalty League Staff 1917-18

Ogden White (president and founder), Scott, Sommermier, Bray R. White, Cate.

In the spring of 1917, shortly after the entry of the United States into the war, when the first score of Southwestern's sons had taken the initial step against the Huns by entering the First Reserve Officers' Training Camp, the Southwestern Loyalty League was organized. In its beginning, it was without form, definiteness of purpose, or even name. It was the spontaneous expression of Southwestern's passionate interest and firm support of her men who were fighting for her.

The fall term brought with it definiteness of aim, firmness of organization, and practical experience without end. The reorganized cabinet of six enrolled every member of the faculty and student body in the League, with dues of one dollar per year. Enough Collegians were subscribed to for every man in the service to receive his copy each week. The group letter plan was initiated, and every Saturday were mailed to six Moundbuilders under the Colors. Each was a personal letter, contributed to by as large a number as possible of their supporters in school.

Thanksgiving night saw a veritable Southwestern orgy at Camp Doniphan, Oklahoma, where a barrel of "eats" from the League was opened by President Mossman, in the shack of Chaplain Homer E. Wark, to the immense delectation of forty Moundbuilders in khaki there present. Home made cookies, fruit cake, a pound of homemade candy for each man, nuts, raisins, figs, dates, pickles, and olives crammed the barrel first and the fellows afterwards. At Christmas, each of the other warriors of the college was sent a pound box of cookies and candy. A similar shipment was made in the spring.

To render available, and to preserve the messages of appreciation and the souvenirs received in great numbers by the League, a letter file was opened in the library; and the more unique enclosures were permanently mounted in an olive-drab memory book, entitled "Our Boys in Khaki." The women of the school made a large service flag, with each man's star individually marked thereon. In the spring, a photograph was taken of the flag, and a print sent to every man in the service, his own star being encircled.

The Victory Moundbuilder

The Loyalty League elected its staff for the year 1918-19 in the spring of 1918. This staff took up the work where the faithful executives of the past year had left them, and endeavored to follow the programme so successfully initiated by the League during the winter of 17-18. During the summer bi-monthly typeletters were written by various members of the League and sent to every man in the service. Strict record was kept of all changes in addresses, and of all new names for the Honor Roll. Funds sufficient to cover the summer expenses had been subscribed by the alumni in the spring.

In the fall of 1918 Loyalty League business started with a rush. Every Southwesterner became a member and a loyal supporter of the various committees. The dues were changed to one dollar for the school rather than the ten cents per month of the past winter and were paid promptly. The committee work was reorganized, the members of the executive committee each heading one of the committees on Memorials, Letters, Collegian and Red Cross. Supervision of the Red Cross had been added and was backed by the League to the extent of subscribing two hours each week for Red Cross work by each girl in school. The composite letters were written to the individual men as before, but the number written each week was increased to ten. Collegians were sent to all the men in service, both in camps at home and with the A. E. F. The work of the League was much hampered by the numerous vacations due to the influenza epidemic. No letters or Collegians were available and the quarantine kept the workers from the Red Cross room. However, the Loyalty League kept its mission in view even in these trying times, and unique Christmas greetings were sent to all the men during one of the enforced absences from school.

In honor of the men of Southwestern who have given their lives in this great war the Loyalty League has conducted memorial services purely from the student angle. These services were led by the president of the League and expressed the deep veneration and pride of the students for their fellows who made the supreme sacrifice.

The Young Woman's Christian Association

The Young Women's Christian Association is the one organization in Southwestern in which practically every woman plays a part. The work of the Association is so planned that every member has a definite place on some committee, as far as possible, the one on which she can work to the best advantage. In working together toward a common goal—the advancement of the kingdom of Jesus Christ—the women of the school are brought into closer friendship and fellowship with one another. There is a deepening of spiritual life, and a broadening of the vision of the world need for Christian leadership.

During the past two years the Y. W. C. A. has had to face almost insurmountable difficulties in the shape of war conditions of different kinds. The spirit of restlessness which has been felt everywhere, has not been lacking in college circles. In the fall of 1918 came the establishment of the S. A. T. C. with its consequent complications and problems. Almost immediately following this, the epidemic of Spanish influenza broke out, making necessary two prolonged vacations. In the face of every obstacle the members of the Young Women's Christian Association remained undaunted, and by their untiring efforts have kept alive and burning in the hearts of her students the spirit and ideals of Southwestern.

Much credit for the work of the past year is due to the Big Sisters who play an important part in the lives of the new girls. During the past year the Big Sisters have been especially active, and by their ready willingness and the spirit of co-operation they have done much toward the building up of a real sisterhood in Southwestern. One of the direct results of the interest in the Big Sister program was the organizing of a Big Sister's Club which, it is hoped, may become a permanent feature of the Association.

The devotional meetings of the association are held every Wednesday morning at the chapel hour in one of the Society Halls. Sometimes these meetings are student lead and members of the organization discuss the various problems of college life. At other times outside speakers are invited to address the women. Several splendid addresses have been made during the past year.

The Y. W. C. A. seeks to develop its members not only spiritually but socially as well. A big get-acquainted hike is given the first week of school. This is followed by a joint reception with the Y. M. C. A. which all the students and faculty members attend. Various other affairs are given during the year. The luncheon which is given in the spring in honor of the senior women is the culminating event of the year.

The Y. W. C. A. places especial emphasis upon the inspiration received in conventions and summer conferences. The Association was represented by ten girls at the District Convention at Wichita in the spring of '18 and by one delegate, Lucy Headrick, at the National Student Convention at Chicago in February '19. Every year several delegates from Southwestern attend the Summer conference at Hollister, Missouri. In June, 1917, five girls, Dorothy Cate, Lucy Headrick, Olive Bishop, Mary Story, and Jennie Cavit represented Southwestern, and in 1918, Alice Steele, Hazel Wilson, Lila Horton, Olive Hull, and Lovana Stone were the delegates. Each year the girls have come back filled with new spirit and enthusiasm.

The work of the World-Fellowship and Bible Study committees is to be commended. Mission Study classes and Bible Study discussion groups are conducted. The discussion group plan as worked out the past year has been very successful.

It is hoped that each succeeding year's work may prove to be even bigger and better than the last, and that the spirit which is expressed in the national motto of the Young Women's Christian Association—"I am come that they may have life, and that they may have it abundantly," may come more and more to be felt in the lives of the girls at the college.

ECHOES FROM HOLLISTER

The Big Sister Club

The Big Sister Club of Southwestern was organized in the spring of '18. At this time plans were made for the opening of school the following autumn. The "Big Sisters" were chosen, and each was assigned a "Little Sister," some girl who was planning to enter school in the fall. During the summer months each "Big Sister" became acquainted with her "Little Sister" through correspondence. At the beginning of the school year the "Big Sisters" met all the trains, helped the girls to enroll and secure suitable rooms and saw to it that each girl became acquainted with the other students, and that she was not allowed to become homesick.

Chalcea White was chosen President of the Club, and once a month the girls have met for the purpose of discussing school problems and making plans for an even bigger work next year.

The girls, believing that each life has a definite purpose and striving for a real sisterhood for Southwestern, show their spirit in helpfulness, co-operation, and Christian kindness.

The Student Volunteer Movement is a national organization whose motto is, "The Evangelization of the world in this generation." It was first organized in 1886 and already it has carried the missionary message to more than a thousand institutions in North America. It has waged a great educational campaign for the study of missions and has done the pioneering work for all our modern missionary movements. Its distinctive mission has been in its appeal for life. Thousands of America's best college men have responded to that appeal and today are preparing for a life of service among the world's Christless millions. Five thousand have already gone to the foreign field as Student Volunteers, under the regular missionary societies. The central idea of the movement is being transplanted to other lands and like organizations are found in England, France, Sweden, Holland, Germany, China, and Japan.

Only those who are or have been students in an institution of higher learning in Canada or the United States are entitled to membership in the Movement. To be a Student Volunteer does not mean that one has pledged himself to become a foreign missionary. It means, he has registered his willingness to be one, and his belief, that so far as he is able to interpret God's will for his life, he believes that vocation to be God's plan for him.

The Student Volunteer Band of Southwestern College has always been a powerful missionary force in the school. Their weekly meetings have been given to a study of the various fields and forms of service in which its members may invest their lives for the Master. They believe God has a plan for each life. He has made. It has been their purpose to interest every student in Southwestern in that place which God meant for him to fill.

The Victory Moundbuilder

The Objective of the Young Men's Christian Association is stated as follows:

- I. To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.
- II. To lead students into membership and service of the Christian Church.
- III. To promote their growth in Christian faith and character.
- IV. To train them for work and leadership in applying the principles of Christ to the problems of human society.
- V. To win their life devotion for the evangelization of the world.

With these ends in view the Y. M. C. A. is organized under the five departments of ADMINISTRATION, RELIGIOUS EDUCATION, CAMPUS SERVICE, COMMUNITY SERVICE, and LIFE WORK GUIDANCE.

The work of the Administration Department consists in making a canvass for membership, and for raising the annual budget, and in making public the various activities of the Association.

The committee on Religious Education is responsible for the organization of Bible Study classes and for the securing of speakers for the regular weekly meetings.

The Campus Service Department has charge of the social events which the Association wishes to have. These include a joint reception with the Y. W. C. A., and a "STAG" social at the beginning of the year, followed by other events during the year. The Y. M. C. A. gives a banquet each year at the installation of the new officers.

The Department of Community Service has for its work the organization of Gospel Teams. In 1918 a team went to Wauneta and to Burden.

It is the plan of the Association to keep in touch with Association Leaders. Under the direction of the Department of Life Work Guidance, the Association sends delegates to the large state and inter-state conferences. This department assists the men in their choice of a life work.

These five departments cover a wide field of work. Men who have charge of the departments are leaders of ability. The work is practical, and the attempt is made to be of real help to the men of Southwestern.

The Y. M. C. A. offers an opportunity for service for developing qualities of Christian leadership. Perhaps the most outstanding activity of the Y. M. C. A. is the weekly devotional meeting on Wednesday morning at the chapel hour. Men from various businesses and professions are secured to address these meetings and their ideas have always been helpful and inspiring.

Discussion Groups

In accordance with the preparation for the Reconstruction, the last semester the Y. M. C. A. organized a systematic discussion of initial and interesting problems dealing with local, national, and international phases of life. The men of the school were divided into groups of ten with a student leader. These leaders met previous to the group meetings to plan and to develop the topic. The aim of these "discussion groups" was to get the men to think of world problems, and to show how Christianity should aid in the solution of these problems.

Canteen Service

The regular work of the Y. M. C. A. was interrupted by the organization of the S. A. T. C. in October, 1918. However, this interruption gave an opportunity for some practical Christian work. During the period of the quarantine, the men were in need of a place to read, write letters, play games, or to buy many things which a soldier craves. By the aid of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., a canteen was established in Richardson Hall, which was operated on the same principle, as far as practicable, as the regular Army Y. M. C. A. It was the desire of the Y. M. C. A. to be as helpful as possible and this opportunity of real service was gladly taken advantage of. This canteen met a real need, and was always in use by a large number of men whenever they were off duty.

The joyous gaiety of reception, hike, and frolic, the wholesome comradery class-room, society session, and campus life, and the cordial relationship with their brothers, the Delphians, inspired by the watchword FRIENDSHIP enrich the life of every Sigma girl, and fit her for a service of constructive friendliness.

The spirit of LOYALTY has so unified the members of Sigma Pi Phi, that, although she is the youngest of the literary organizations, she has played a leading role in Southwestern life. Four of the members of the girl's basketball team, including the captain and captain-elect, are Sigmas. The Editor, Business Manager, and one associate Editor of this Moundbuilder, and the Business manager and associate Editor of the Collegian are Sigmas. Through the Y. W. C. A., the Student Volunteer, and other organizations the wearers of the green and white have given their full support to every movement for the moral and social uplift of Southwestern. This LOYALTY to society and school is but a manifestation of that spirit which Sigma inculcates, LOYALTY to self and Christian ideals.

LEARNING, that tangible fitness to be, and do, and dare, which is the third element in the Sigma ideal has been fostered by an excellent system of literary programs. To add zest to superior literary work, the Fleming medal is annually awarded to the Freshman or Sophomore girl who ranks highest in a series of literary activity. Sigma's record is evidence of this LEARNING. In '14, '15, '16, and '17 the Honor Students were Sigmas. Under the new system of ranking, six Sigmas have been elected to the Honor Society. Three of the four members of the women's debate squad in '18, the First rank debater in '19, and all orators except one in the Woman's contests since 1914 have been members of Sigma Pi Phi.

FRIENDSHIP, LOYALTY, and LEARNING—this the ideal which Sigma offers to every student who cares to attain it.

Delphi

At the southwest corner of the third floor of Richardson Hall, its windows looking out across the vast stretches of the lovely Walnut Valley, is the society home of those sturdy men of Southwestern who have chosen to call themselves the "Sons of Apollo." Here, on Friday evenings, just as the slanting rays of the setting sun kiss the western slope of Builders Mound good night, the men of Delphi, with their friends, gather for their weekly literary program and business session.

Delphi has always held for her members the highest standards in every field of college activity. In the regular literary work of the society, no production is considered worthy of a Delphian unless it is his best. She stands not only for high grade literary work, but, as well, for thorough scholastic work, clean athletics, and noble social ideals and practices.

For the realization of her literary standards, Delphi is organized upon a competitive basis, and each man, as he appears from time to time on the regular society programs, is graded on his production by three judges, chosen from among the active membership of the society. As an added incentive to those who wish to develop their literary talents, there are awarded each year three prizes to the highest ranking man in three competitive contests. The first, and the one which bespeaks the greatest proficiency in literary attainment is the Frazier Medal, given annually by Steve D. Frazier, an honorary member of Delphi, to the man who, through the entire year, has ranked highest in all-around literary work. The second is the Kantz Medal. The donor of this medal is Ralph C. Kantz, an alumnus of Southwestern and a former member of Delphi. This medal is given each year to the man in the freshmen class who wins first place in a series of debates arranged for freshmen only. Recognizing the fact that the men in society who most need encouragement in participation in literary activities, are the new men, Harold Ogden White, of the class of 1918, gives annual the White Trophy, a ring bearing the seal of Delphi upon it, to be awarded to the freshman who is adjudged best in all-around society work.

Although Delphi is primarily a literary society, her literary work is by no means her only glory. In collegiate forensics, athletics, and school activities, the men of Delphi have stood at the forefront. Perhaps the form of college activity in which Delphians have excelled more than in any other is debate. During the past fifteen years, sixty per cent of the men who have represented Southwestern on the debate floor have been Delphians. Among the leaders of debate teams, the proportion of Delphians is even greater than among the total number who have composed the teams. Since her organization, Delphi has furnished her full quota of orators, athletes, and musicians. With only three exceptions, the college quartette has always been composed of Delphians, and a majority of those who have composed the college glee club have been worshippers of Apollo.

When America entered the great world conflict two years ago, and the call came for men to go in the cause of freedom and liberty, the men of Delphi were quick and eager to respond. In all, one hundred twenty-four Delphians gave themselves to the service of their country. Her honor roll tells the story more eloquently than mere words possibly could.

To those who, having completed their high school training, and having enrolled in college, wish to learn to live more nobly, to serve more largely, and to lead more effectively in the work of the world, Delphi extends an invitation and a hearty welcome to the fellowship of an organization that knows no ideal too high to be striven for.

BELLES LETTRES

They plucked a yellow rose, and said,
 "She shall be fair and sweet as this rare flower."
 They cast a golden bell, and said,
 "Her voice shall ring with music every hour."
 They chose a motto fine, and said,
 "With no Steps Backward she shall surely grow."
 And then they gave themselves, and said,
 "We'll do our best to make Belles Lettres so".

Down through the years have come the roses fair,
 Down through the years has come the bell's sweet voice,
 Down through the years has come our motto rare,
 And brought success and fame and blessings choice;

But best of all the gifts they gave so free
 Was that great gift of self that made us strong:
 The call to give ourselves, our all, 'til we
 Have given, too, and made our work our song.

The Victory Moundbuilder

In order to know and understand Athens one must recognize and appreciate the Athenian Ideal. The society has always striven to develop men intellectually, socially, morally, and physically. She weighs her triumphs in terms of success in these four different fields. The spirit of co-operation and lofty thinking was so fixed in the minds of her members, that while only twelve men were not in military service last fall, they secured as pledges sixty-four per cent of the Freshman Class.

If the Athenian Ideal is worth while, it must justify itself by succeeding in practical affairs. Of the thirteen men sent from the S. A. T. C. to the Officers Training School seven were Athenians. Of fourteen men on the S. A. T. C. football team, ten were Athenians, while all but two men on the basketball squad belonged to Athens.

In Forensics, her work is equally notable. She has always been represented in Oratory; in fact, of the twenty-five men who have represented Southwestern in the "Old Line" contests, twenty-one have been Athenians. One of the reasons for this record is the system by which orators are developed. A chairman of Oratory is appointed who plans a society oratorical contest each year and for which Gold and Silver Medals are awarded. This year, Albion R. King represents the College in the "Old Line" Contest.

Athens also has a winning system of developing Debators. It is known as the Gold Medal Series. This system has proven itself very efficient in the development of new men and has placed a number of men on the College Debate Team. The Debate Chairman has this work in hand and gives his services to the men who are working up toward the preliminary in which the College teams are chosen. The Gold Medal Series is open only to under-classmen and the winner of first and of second places in this series is given a Gold and Silver Medal, respectively. The Gold Medal was won in 1916 by Bruner Burchfiel, in 1917, by Albion King, and in 1918, by Cord Wells.

Music and drama are encouraged by Athens and each year, in conjunction with Belles Lettres, Athens gives a number of musical and dramatic productions, thus enabling the one who has musical or dramatic inclinations to express and develop them.

In scholastic standing Athens always ranks high as will be seen by a review of the School records. Many of the Scholarships and Fellowships given by the School have been held by Athenians and only last year two of her men, Bruner Burchfiel and Harold Wakefield, were given Fellowships.

Athens offers to one man in each Senior Class an honor which few men enjoy—the Gown of the Athenian Succession. It was originally purchased by Jessie R. Derby of the Class of 1911. Since that time it has been worn by Leonard Bacon in 1912, John Calbeck in 1913, Guy Petrick in 1914, J. Rufus Gray in 1915, Thomas A. Williams in 1916, W. Glenn Harris in 1917, Ernest McInnes in 1918, and J. Mark Scott in 1919. The Gown was presented to the society by Thomas A. Williams in 1916. It is the highest token of honor which the society can give in appreciation of faithful meritorious service.

To the man with an ambition to develop himself in the fields in which a College man should excel, Athens offers an opportunity and a hearty welcome.

Southwestern's power of self-government is vested in the Student Council. The members are elected from the four classes, four each from the Senior and Junior classes, three from each of the Sophomore and Freshman classes, and one appointed from the Fine Arts Department. Through the choice of faculty and students, and his special fitness, Vice-President Phillips is President of the Council.

The duties of the Student Council are numerous. Questions relating to student activities, apportioning of the student enterprise funds, and regular routine work are handled by the Council, either as a body, or through committees. The Council members endeavor to enact the legislation desired by the classes they represent.

The Collegian

IRMA THOMAS, Editor

VELMA MEINZER, Business Manager

The Southwestern Collegian is a four-page paper edited once a week. The editor, business manager, associates, and assistant business manager are elected by the Collegian Board. The rest of the staff is appointed by the editor. There are usually about sixteen on the entire staff. The Collegian Board is elected by the student body.

Like most typical college papers, the purpose of this paper is to keep a historical record of all the activities of the college. No attempt is made to make this a newspaper, as the events of the school are known to the students before the Collegian is edited.

French is by far the most popular of all foreign languages at the present time. This popularity is due to the great interest in the French people which the war has created, and to our appreciation of the price this nation has paid in helping to bring about the successful close of the struggle. Nearly all high schools and colleges of the United States have established a French department; and there are but few students of these institutions who are not taking advantage of this opportunity.

In connection with the French department of Southwestern College "Le Cercle Francais" was organized January 10, 1917, for the purpose of promoting interest and enjoyment in the study of the French tongue.

This club is composed of students who have at least one year of French, and of students of Beginning French who have made high grades in the first semester's work. It meets semi-monthly in the homes of the members. Part of the evening is spent in conversing in French; the rest in playing games which employ French words.

The officers of the club are Esther Warren, President first semester; Lovana Stone, President second semester; Marie Murphy, Vice-President; Secretary, Hazel Drake; Treasurer, Lillian Cloud.

THE TEAM.

Every loyal student of Southwestern is a member of the Rooter's Club. It gives opportunity for all-around improvement in voice and body in chapel previous to the dates when Southwestern adds another stone to Builder's Mound. You will find this club at work in all the athletic games, debates, and oratorical contests.

GLORIFICATION

Once more the ever victorious ALL STARS have finished the season without once having known the sting of defeat. Though the odds were often great, yet for the tenth consecutive time the world famous ALL STARS, the brightest constellation in the galaxy of gridiron warriors, are able to proclaim themselves the triumphant undefeated champions of the world. For the tenth time they have met in the banquet hall in the college attic with their admiring guests to modestly recall the valorous deeds of glory of the past season. Their glory grows greater with each passing season; the shining luster of their wonderful deeds will never fade as long as a single ALL STAR remains to tell of the glowing splendor of their glorious deeds.

At the first call of the whistle, thirty husky men eagerly donned football uniforms and prepared to face the heaviest schedule to be played by any conference team. Among this number were five letter men who were to form the nucleus of the team. Eight letter men of '16 had joined the ranks of Uncle Sam's army and had begun the battle for freedom. Bates soon had the abundance of new material whipped into shape. Bravely they fought until every foe had fallen, save the Normals. The jinx seemed to be with the Normals for they succeeded in capturing all three games last year.

Too much could not be said of the personnel of the team. The Trio of Pass artists, Dalbom, Grimsley, and Cummings succeeded in turning many a game from defeat to victory. Dalbom received an unanimous vote for Captain of the First All State team. His broken field running has never been equalled on a Kansas gridiron. Roderick was a big husky line-plunging guard, and when he once started nothing could stop him. He was a wonderful combination of weight, speed, and accuracy. He was our other representative on the First All State team. "Snave" Grimsley proved to be a valuable asset to the team. In the game with C. of E. he not only raced across the field for two touch downs but also put an end to the Presbyterians hopes by drop-kicking a perfect goal in the last three minutes of the play. Grimsley was chosen as end on the Second All State team. "Curley" Cummings played his third year of football for Southwestern. Curley is a good tackler and ranks among the best when it comes to receiving passes. His consistent work won him the end position on the Third All State team.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE '18

Southwestern	44	Cooper	6
Southwestern	35	Chilocco	0
Southwestern	20	Bethany	7

We shall always remember the fall of 1918, not so much because we had an all victorious season, but because this season's schedule was fought under extreme difficulties and won. On the first day of October the Students Army Training Corps was organized at Southwestern. All of the football men were in the S. A. T. C. By government orders the football schedule was restricted to few games. This however, did not check the enthusiasm for football. Lieutenant Bates took the time for physical exercise to train the squad. Three games were played and won by large scores. Keyes, Roderick, Porter, Langston, Cummings, and Throckmorton were the most consistent ground gainers. The annual game with Fairmount was postponed on account of the "flu" breaking out in our camp. A post-season game was then matched with our Wichita rivals for Christmas day. The spirit of the jinx seemingly had disheartened the Wheatshockers and the game was called off. We hope that most of the men will be back next year to participate in a real clash for the state championship.

Girls' Basketball in Southwestern has been a great success, and S. C. has indeed been fortunate in having so many good players among the girls as well as among the boys. Although they played only one inter-collegiate game last year, it was because they were unable to schedule more games. This game was played with Friends.

The 1918-19 Girls' Team was an especially strong one. Several letter girls were back, and with the aid of some Freshmen talent, they had a winning team. One of the most noticeable things about this team was its wonderful team work. With Esther Bray (Capt.) to get the tip-off, Ruth Ralston to get the ball, Evelyn Boyle and Alice Hamilton to shoot goals, and Hansel Brooks and Lois Marshall to keep the other team from scoring, their opponents found that they had come up against something that they could not overcome. Out of the five games played, only one was lost and that one only by accident. Gladys Roderick, Winnie Ralston, Gail Roderick, and Emma Lou Messerly were very efficient subs, and heroically came to the rescue whenever needed and always played well. They also made letters.

The star forward, Alice Hamilton, will graduate this year and her loss will be greatly felt by the team. The rest of the team will probably all be back, and with Hansel Brooks as the new captain and the prospect of many Freshmen girls to help they will have a winning team next year.

Men's Basket Ball, 1917-18

During the 1917-18 season the Southwestern Quintette played thirteen games, winning eight and losing five. The season ended very satisfactorily in spite of the great loss suffered on the upstate trip. The team succeeded in winning all of the conference games played on the home court. Swede received an injury just before the trip upstate. They succeeded in ranking third in the conference with a percentage of .700. The city championship was lost to St. Johns.

Capt. Cummings played a remarkable game at guard. The work of McQuerry in defensive plays was excellent. Dalbom proved to be as fast a man in Basketball as in Football. Keyes played good ball at center and was able to bring in many counters for the team. Both Grimsley and Langston were hard fighters and played a good game at forward.

No All-Kansas Conference teams were chosen for this season.

The team of '18-'19 was the best scoring machine in the state. Gardner led the team by scoring 209 points. "Peg" Hamilton ran a close second with 191 counters. Every man on the team was a dependable point winner. McQuerry and Keyes played a strong defensive game. Captain McQuerry is a wonder at guard. He deserves the credit for the small scores of the visiting teams. Cummings excelled on floor work. Seaman and Kastor played their first season of college basketball. They could be relied upon to fill well any vacancy on the team. The team played promising ball from the first. Thirteen games were placed on the "won" column. The only regret of the season is that Southwestern had to play Baker during the latter part of the upstate trip. The game with the Northern Methodists was probably the keenest contested of any in the state. The teams were an even match in every way. This game decided the title for first honors. Baker won by a two-point majority. We can safely say that Bates placed, at least as good, if not a better team, on the floor than any other coach in the conference.

Southwestern placed more men on the All-Kansas teams than any other college. Gardner's work at forward gave him the undisputable right to that position on the First All-State team. Cummings was made the captain of the Second All-State team. Hamilton was granted the captaincy of the third team, and Keyes the guard position. McQuerry received honorable mention.

Of the ten colleges entering in the Kansas inter-collegiate track meet, Southwestern entered the best all-round team. The Builders won few first but the large number of second and third places gave them a lead of ten points over the closest competitor. Roderick won the only first for the team by hurling the shot forty feet, six inches. Keyes of Southwestern and Wilson of Friends, tied for first in the high hurdles, equalling the state record. Southwestern placed in practically every event.

Roderick won the shot put in all the inter-collegiate meets. He was always certain of winning some points in the discuss and javelin. Keyes was probably the best all-round athlete on the team. Keyes is a star in hurdling and he is a valuable asset to the team when it comes to the sprints and the jumps. He will lead the team of 1919. King made his letter in the dashes. He ran his best race in the 440 yard dash. Walker brought in many firsts and seconds in the pole vault, high jump, and shot put. Kastor excelled as a broad jumper. He also developed to be a good hurdler. Waddle made his letter in high jump.

In Bloxom, Powell, Riggs, Sutton and Capt. Scott, Southwestern had a quintette of distance men that were able to take practically every race.

No conference games were scheduled on account of the war conditions. However, eight games were played, seven with St. John and one with Chilocco. The Indians succeeded in capturing the first game by a score of 6—3. The game was characterized by an abundance of errors. The game showed that the Builders had a wealth of new material which with a little more "Bates" would make a better team than had represented Southwestern in the past few years. Mr. Baden again put up a cup for the winner of the games in the series against St. John. The fight for the city championship was contested eagerly by both teams. McQuerry pitched consistent ball and the team furnished strong backing. The machine proved too much for the Saints. Four of the games were won by Southwestern, three by St. John.

Capt. Cummings proved to be a worthy pilot as well as a dependable catcher. "Swat" Kendall played a good game at first and was a consistent hitter. Doc Langston improved his work of the previous season and brought in several scores for the team. Marteney showed a wonderful ability in covering the whole territory at short. Lewis entered the game with little experience, but he developed into a steady third baseman. The outfield was much stronger than the one of the year of '17. McQuerry pitched seven of the games, five of which were won. The team was the best all-round team which ever represented Southwestern.

Oratory

OLD LINE

For the past twenty-seven years, Southwestern has been represented in the Old Line Oratorical. Last year, Earl D. Myers won first place in the state contest, and represented Southwestern in the Inter-state contest. Albion King won the local contest this year. He will represent the college in the Divisional state contest which will be held at Southwestern in the spring. Merle Rymph is the vice-president of the State Association.

PROHIBITION

Prior to this year, the college has entered a contestant in the Inter-Collegiate Prohibition Oratorical contest. In 1918, Olive Hull represented Southwestern, ranking fifth in the state contest. The State Association was to meet at Southwestern this year, but, owing to the enforced vacations, and the lapsing of interest due to the attainment of its objective, nation-wide prohibition, no contest is to be held. Olive Hull is the State Secretary-Treasurer of the Association.

WOMEN'S

Oratory among the women has been fostered through the local and state women's oratorical contests held annually. Last year, Charlotte Burgett won the local contest, and won second place in the state contest. Esther Bray was the President of the State Association in 1918. Pauline Leidy, winner of the local contest, will probably bring added honors to the school in the spring.

ANTI-TOBACCO

A new oratorical association, the Anti-Tobacco, was organized last year. It is the first organization of its kind in America, and will doubtless assume a place in national reform similar to that which the Prohibition Association has held. Charles Pepoon was Southwestern's contestant, winning third honors for the school.

DEBATE

Under the able leadership of Professor A. J. McCulloch, Southwestern College has achieved, during the past thirteen years, almost phenomenal success in debate. The record of past debates speaks for itself. No men's debates are being held this year. Neva Drummond, Pauline Leidy, Faye Crawford, and Irma Thomas comprise the teams which will meet K. S. A. C. and S. M. T. N. in a triangular debate this spring.

The Southwestern chapter of Pi Kappa Delta was organized in 1915 by E. R. Nichols, the national treasurer of the organization. The purpose and aim of the society is to promote and foster high-standard forensics among the colleges of America. The requirements for membership in Pi Kappa Delta are participation in some form of inter-collegiate forensics. In recognition of their achievements, members of the society are given different degrees of merit, and are permitted to wear the official Pi Kappa Delta key.
