Crusaders

Other ages, other fashions,
Other tongues and
other manners;
Yet the same impulses moved them
As now moves our myriad peoples—
Love of life and burning passion;
Selfish strife and high endeavor
All have thrilled or held men captive,
Sent them out to great adventures.

In the days of plumed warriors,
Trampling horse and fluttering pennon,
Came the call of distant places,
Call of God and far adventures,
Call to wrest from unbelievers
Sacred places that were hallowed
By the presence of the Master.
Thus the first crusades were started.

Hear the call of Hermit Peter.
Golden tongued, he filled with fierceness
All the multitudes that thronged him
With their cry for blessed crosses,
"Give us crosses and we'll follow
Where so e're the Cross may lead us."
Kings and Knights whose crests were blazoned
On the breasts of many soldiers;
Simple Knights whose only estate
Was the armor that they carried;
Humble squires and lowly peasants,
Men from busy marts of commerce,
Heard the call and donned the symbol,
Borne on blazoned shield and surcoat,
Of the chivalry of Christendom.

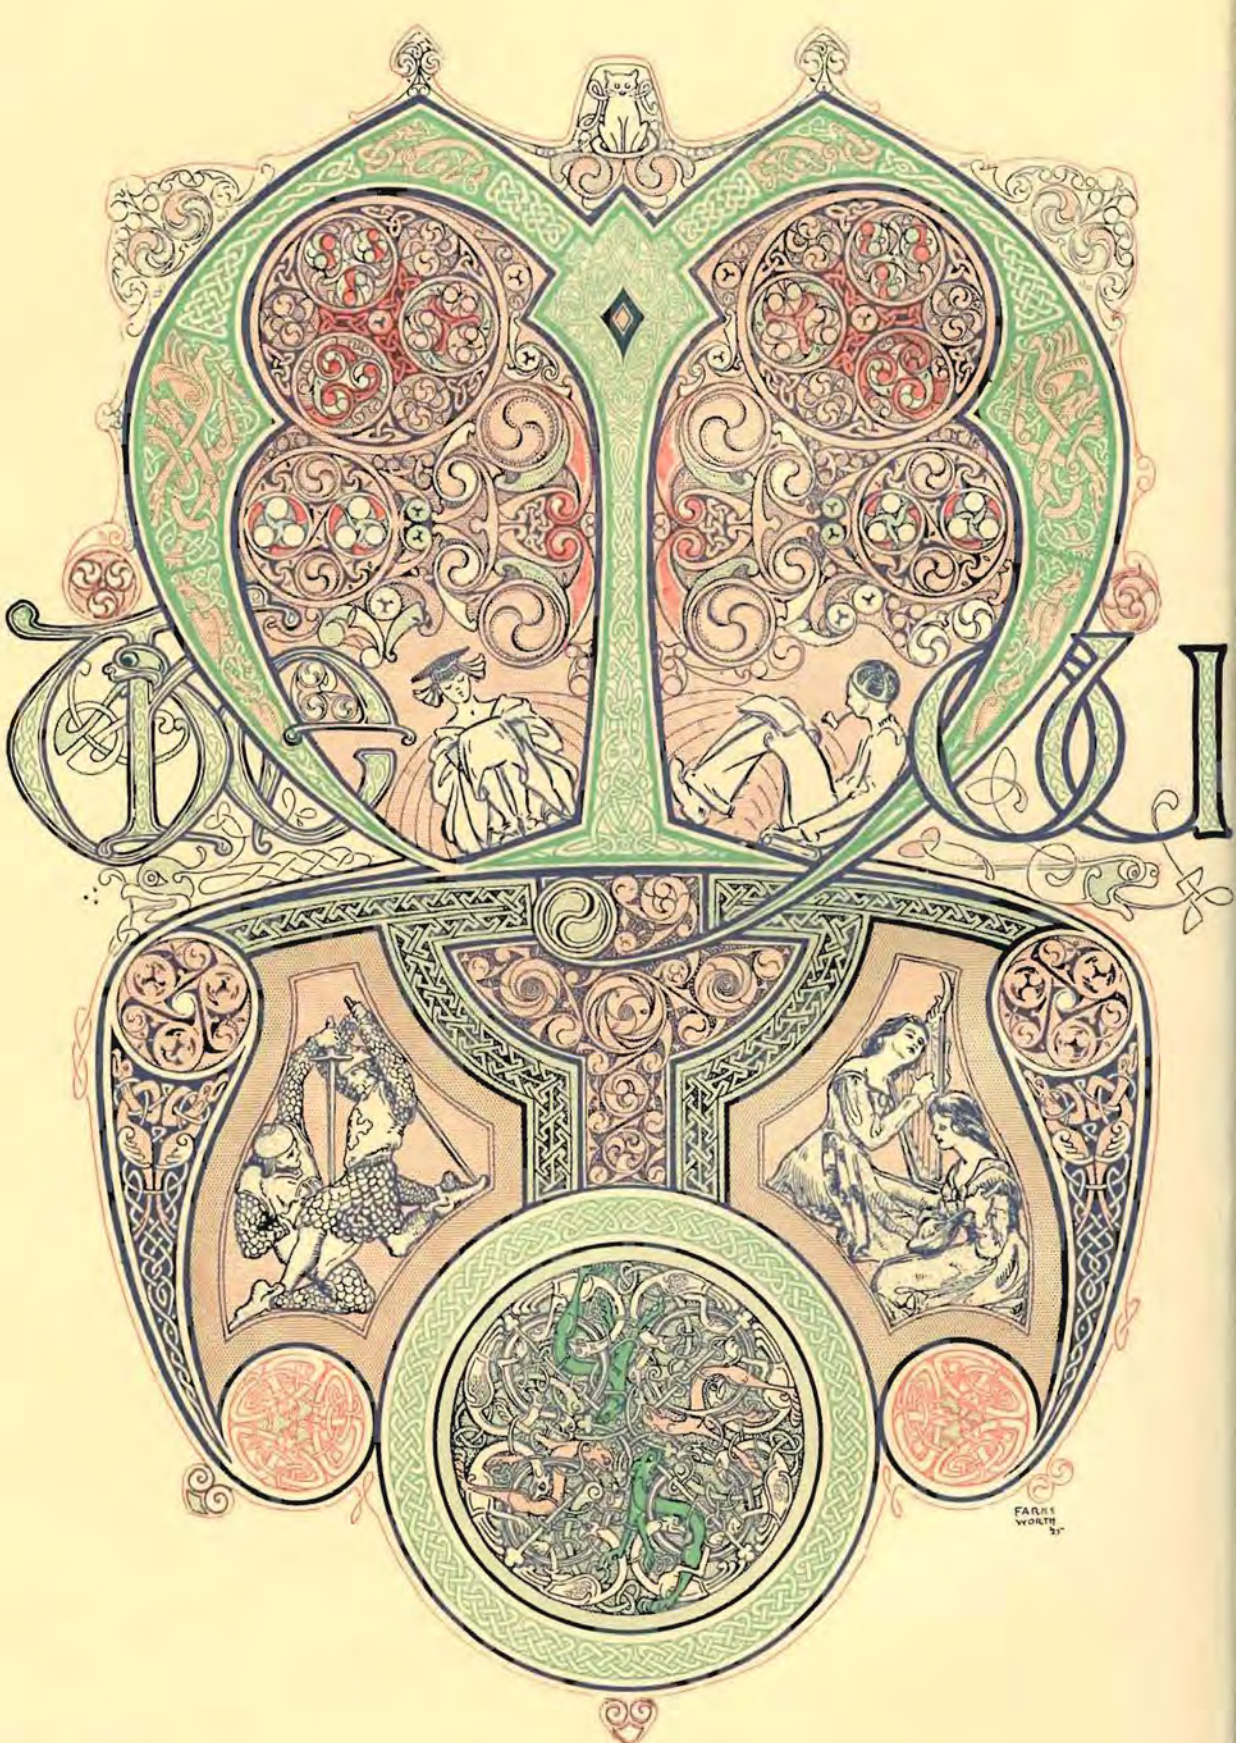

So we see them as they journey
From their moated, turreted castles,
Down the undared shores of Europe,
On the flaring red sails drifting
To the burning sands of Asia;
Watch them as they meet in battle
Mighty warriors of Saladin's,
Leader of the Moslem armies.
And we see the turbaned horsemen
Rally neath the crescent banner;
Cross and Crescent rolled together
In some hard faught melee;
Fought to break the crimson Crescent
With the Cross of Christ the Savior,
Shouted loud the Name triumphant,
"Christ the Lord," their mighty slogan;
Soaked the golden sands with scarlet,
That His Name might have great honor.

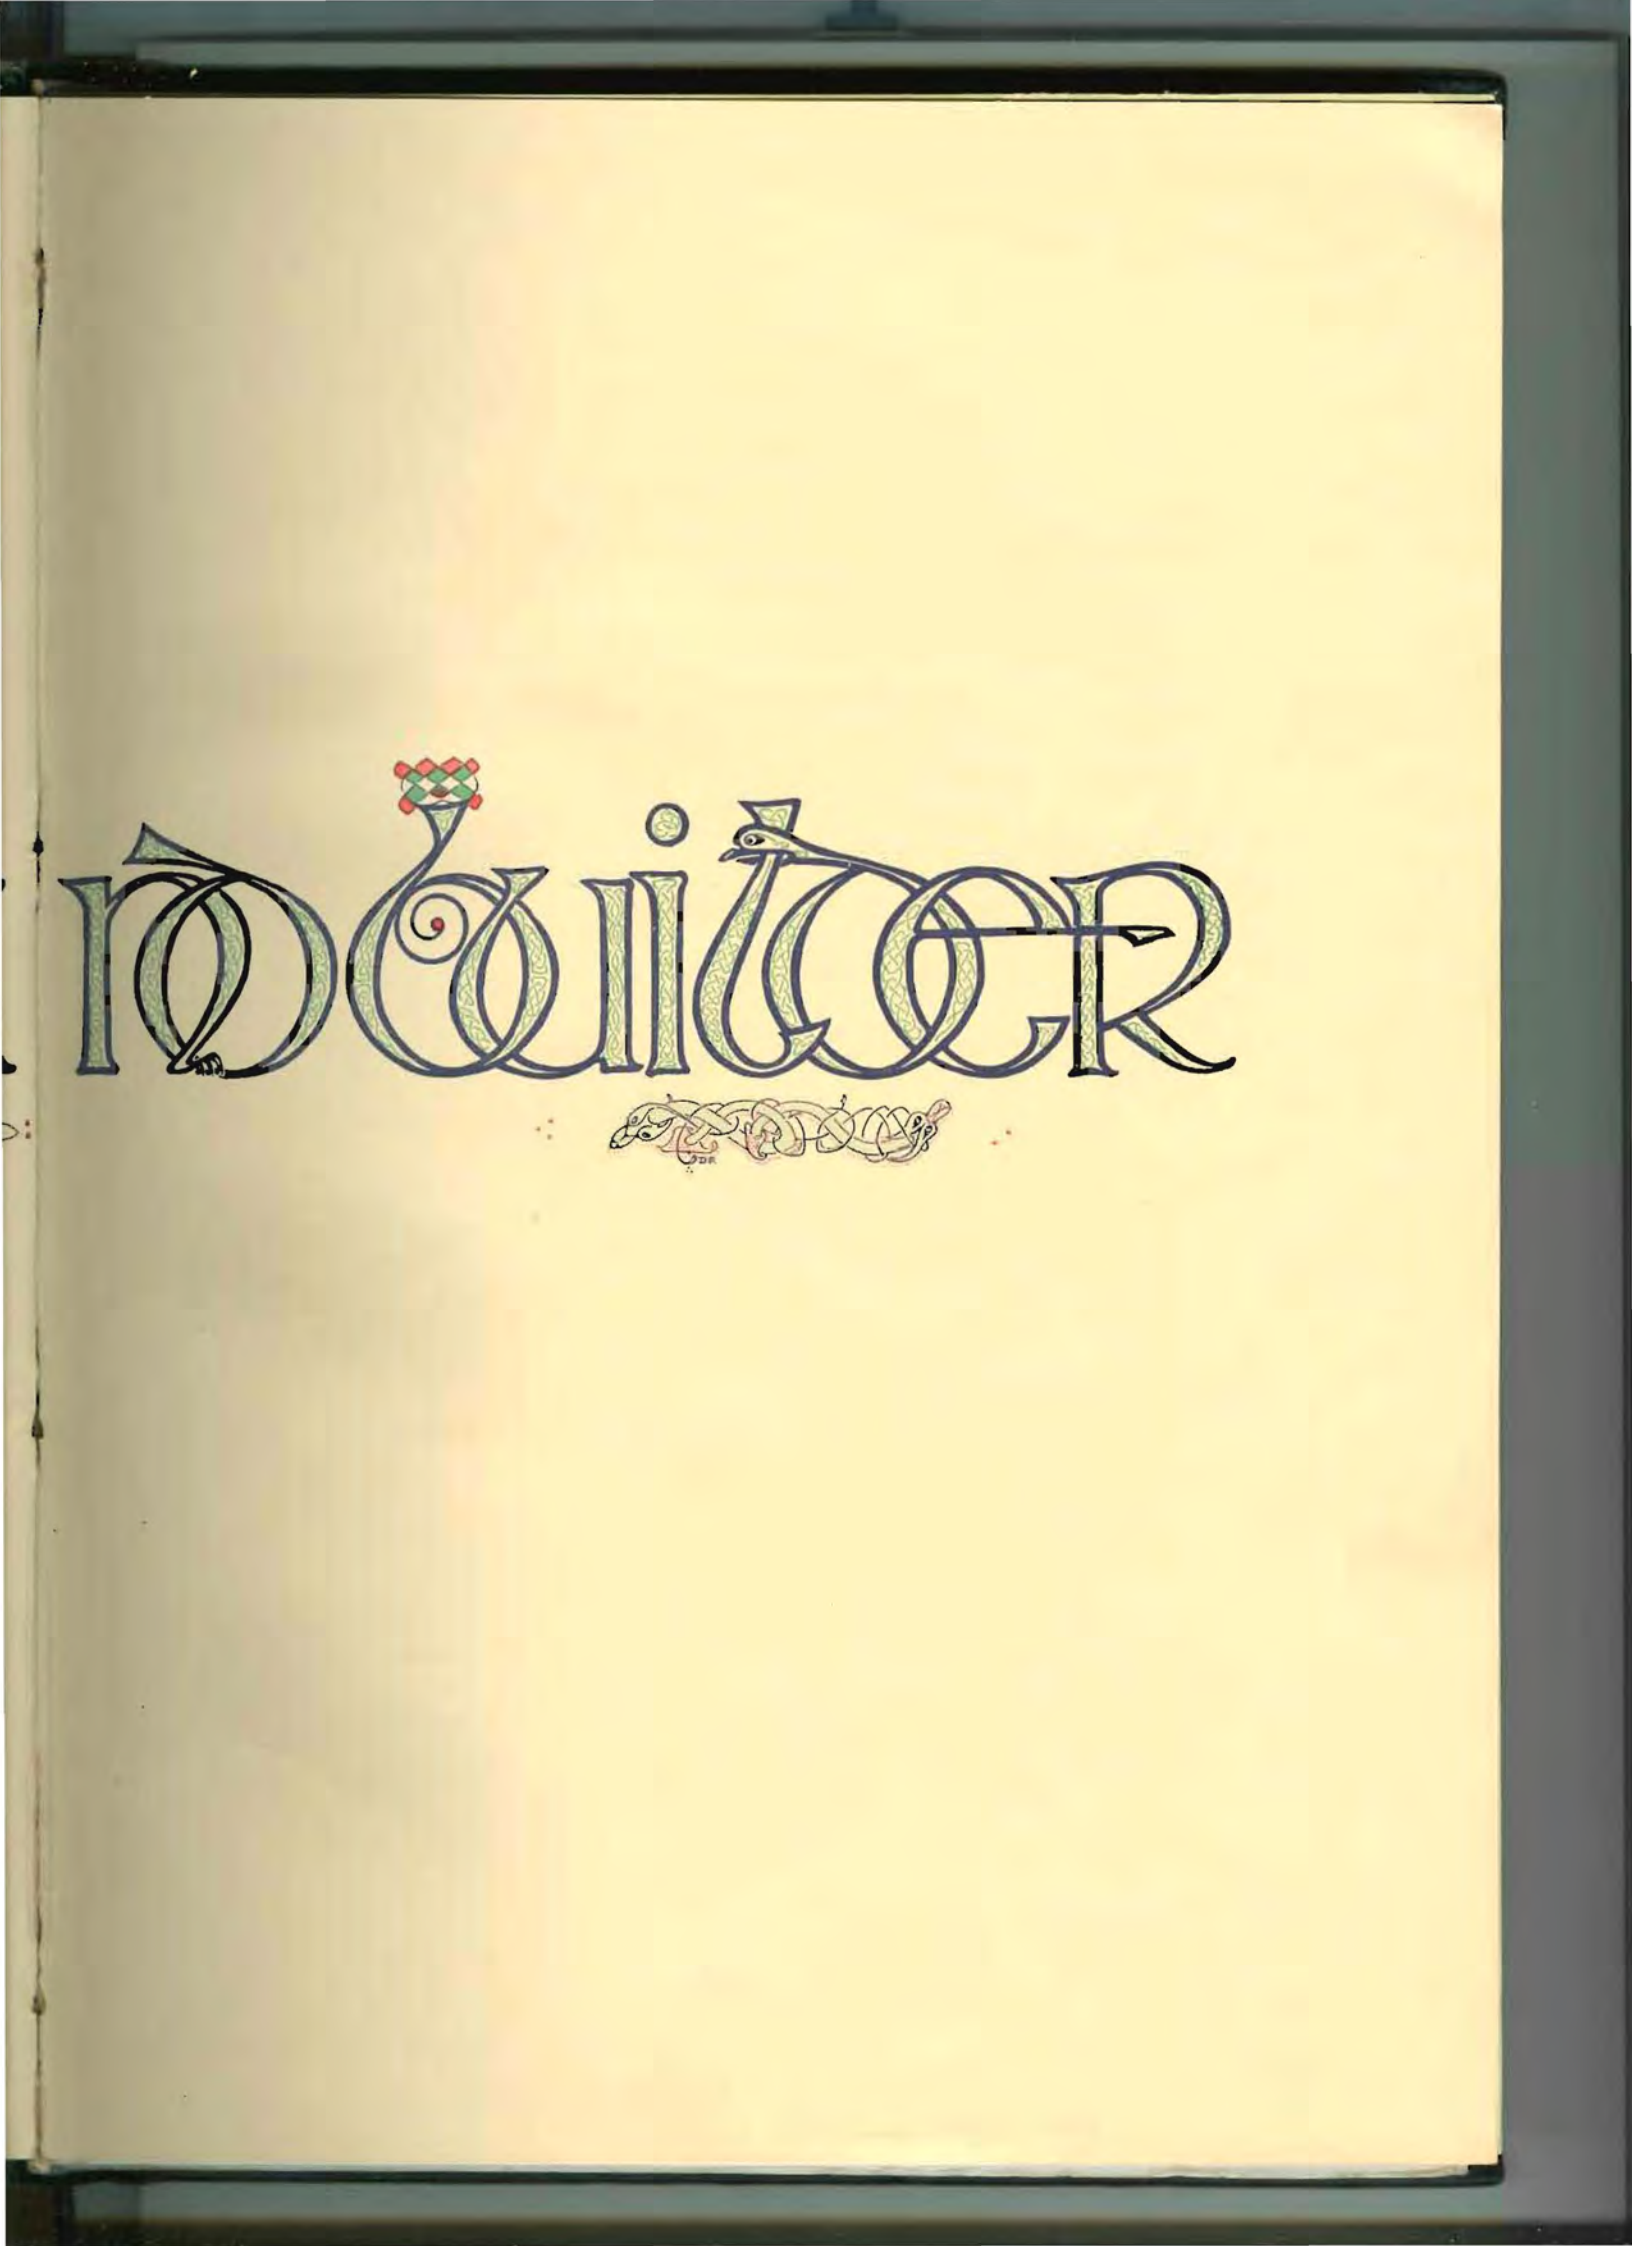

So today we find a crusade,
With the varied ranks of fighters,
Listed not for bloody conquest
Of a tomb still cold and empty—;
But for high emprise and guerdon,
In that Holy Name that ever
Led the first crusaders onward.

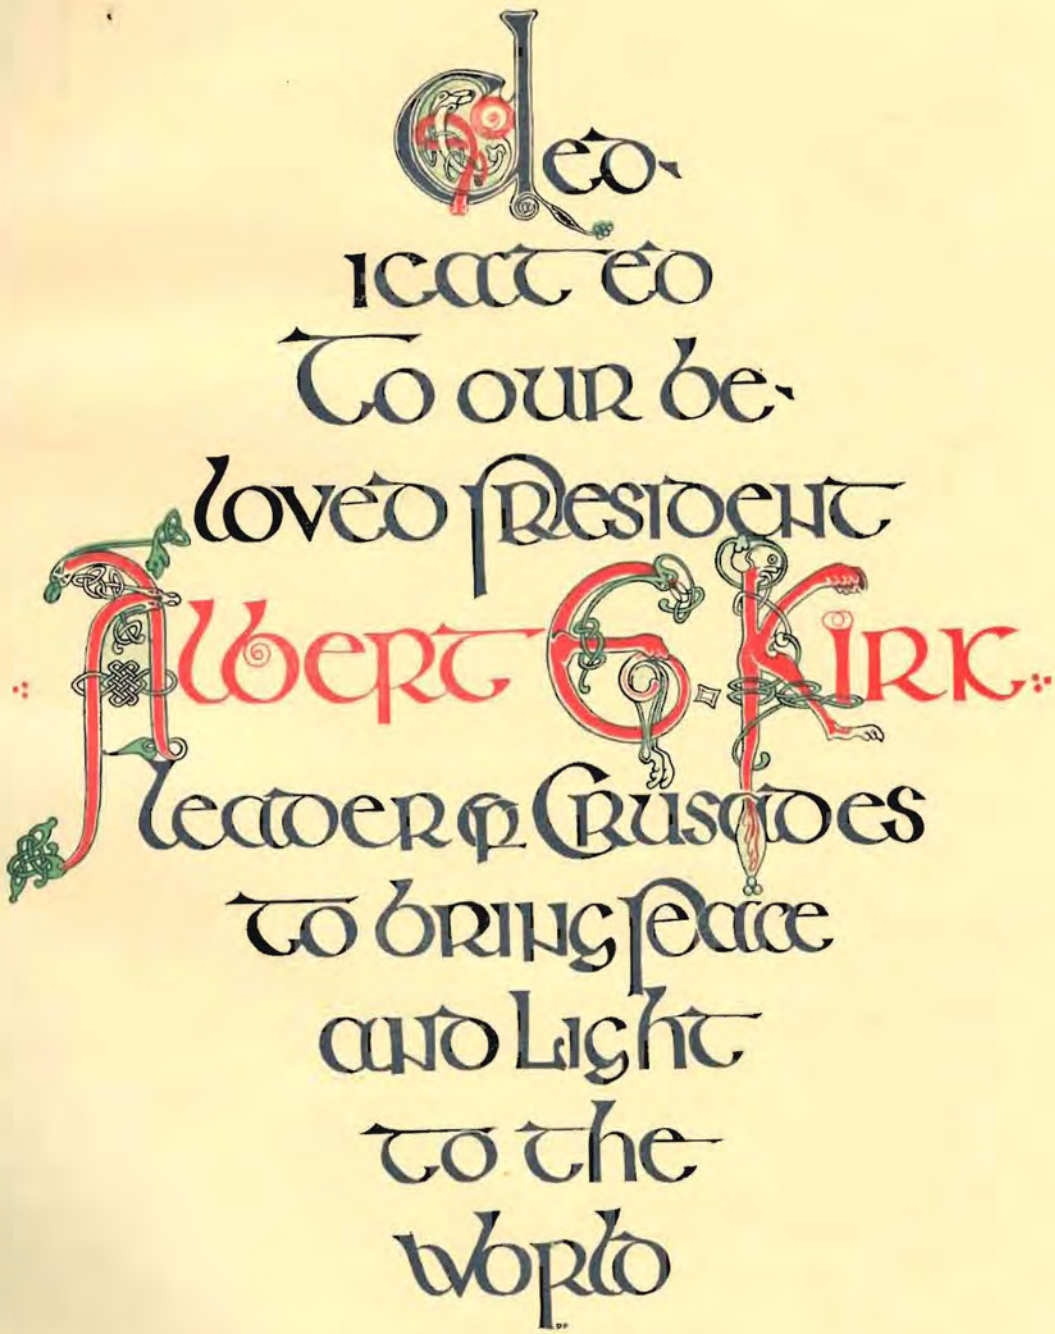

Not from ivied hall and castle
With the pomp of feudal trappings;
But from ivied halls of learning,
Sober-clad and bearing weapons,
Not of war, but of compassion,
That shall lead the warring nations
Into everlasting peace and friendship.
In that crusade are we listed;
To that cause we're dedicated;
That on earth may come the healing
Of the Prince of Peace, our Leader.

Preface

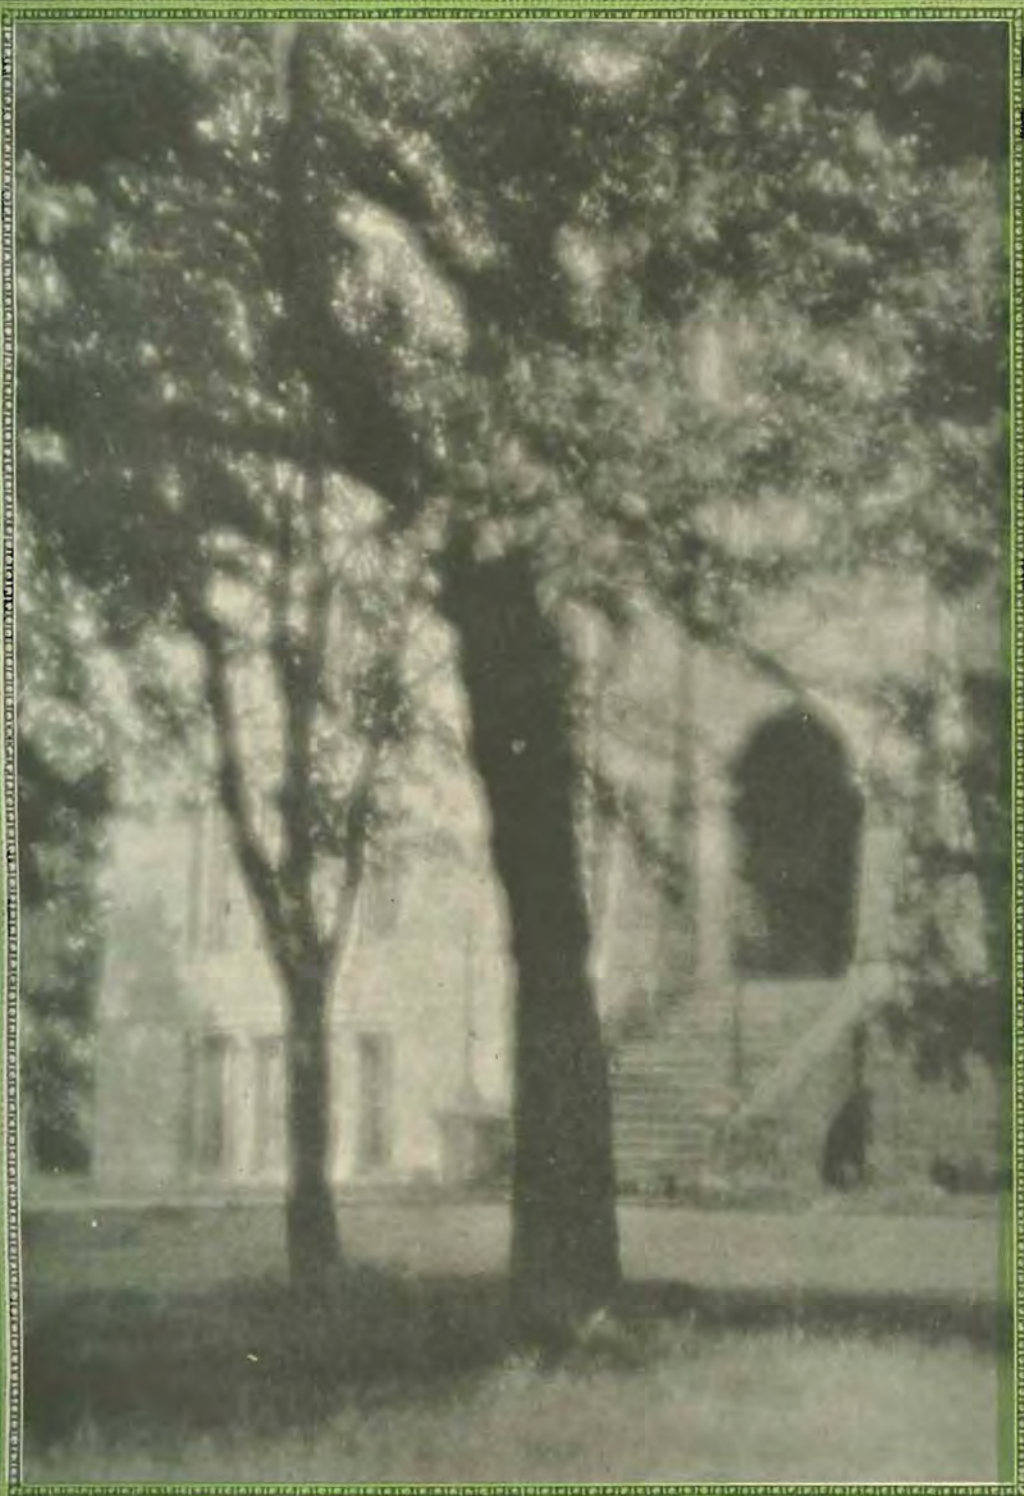

With grateful appreciation of the hearty co-operation and unfailing support of the faculty and student body of our college the staff presents the 1925 Moundbuilder.

Perhaps some explanation as to the theme should be given. Because the world has reached a place where civilization might be wiped out at any moment were two nations to engage in combat, the time has come when all thinking men and women of intelligence must fight against this impending disaster. And so the 1925 Moundbuilder was woven about this idea. Just as the Knights of old journeyed on Crusades in order to save Christianity, so must the colleges journey on a Peace Crusade to protect humanity.

In order to keep the theme of the book and the decoration uniform, the art work was based on medieval art. The lettering, illuminating, and design is taken directly from Celtic manuscript of the eighth and ninth century, going to the source, thereby, of the chivalric movements. The Irish embellishment consisted characteristically of spirals, interlacements, and strange inter-woven conventional animals and birds of Ireland, done by the artist monks.

To Dean Farnsworth belongs the credit of carrying this Celtic Art throughout the book, and the staff is greatly indebted to his efforts in making the 1925 Moundbuilder a success.

The book is divided into three main divisions, namely Faculty and Classes, Activities, and Organizations. Under Activities come athletics and forensics, and under organizations come societies, clubs, Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A., publications, favorites, and features.

Old North Hall in a pensive reverie,
Recalling traditions of the years,
Musing upon romances woven here.

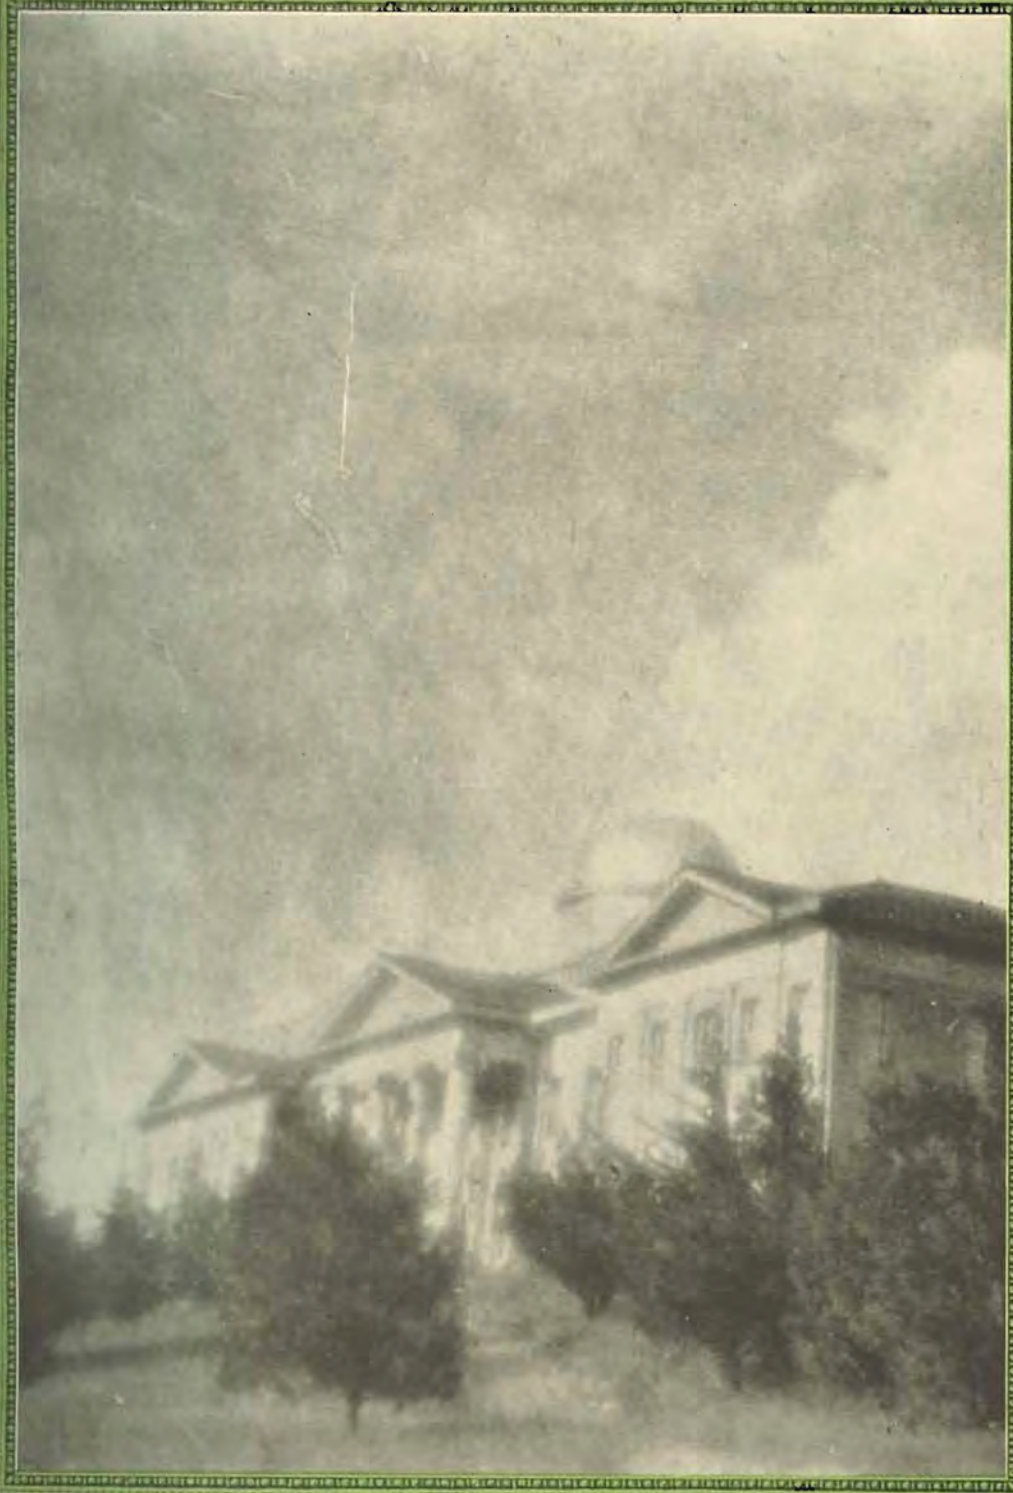

A fragment of stately poem—
An elusive rhythm
That haunts the memory.

Before the gaze of Old North Hall,
Two gay tree sprites
Dance and sway
To autumn's symphony.

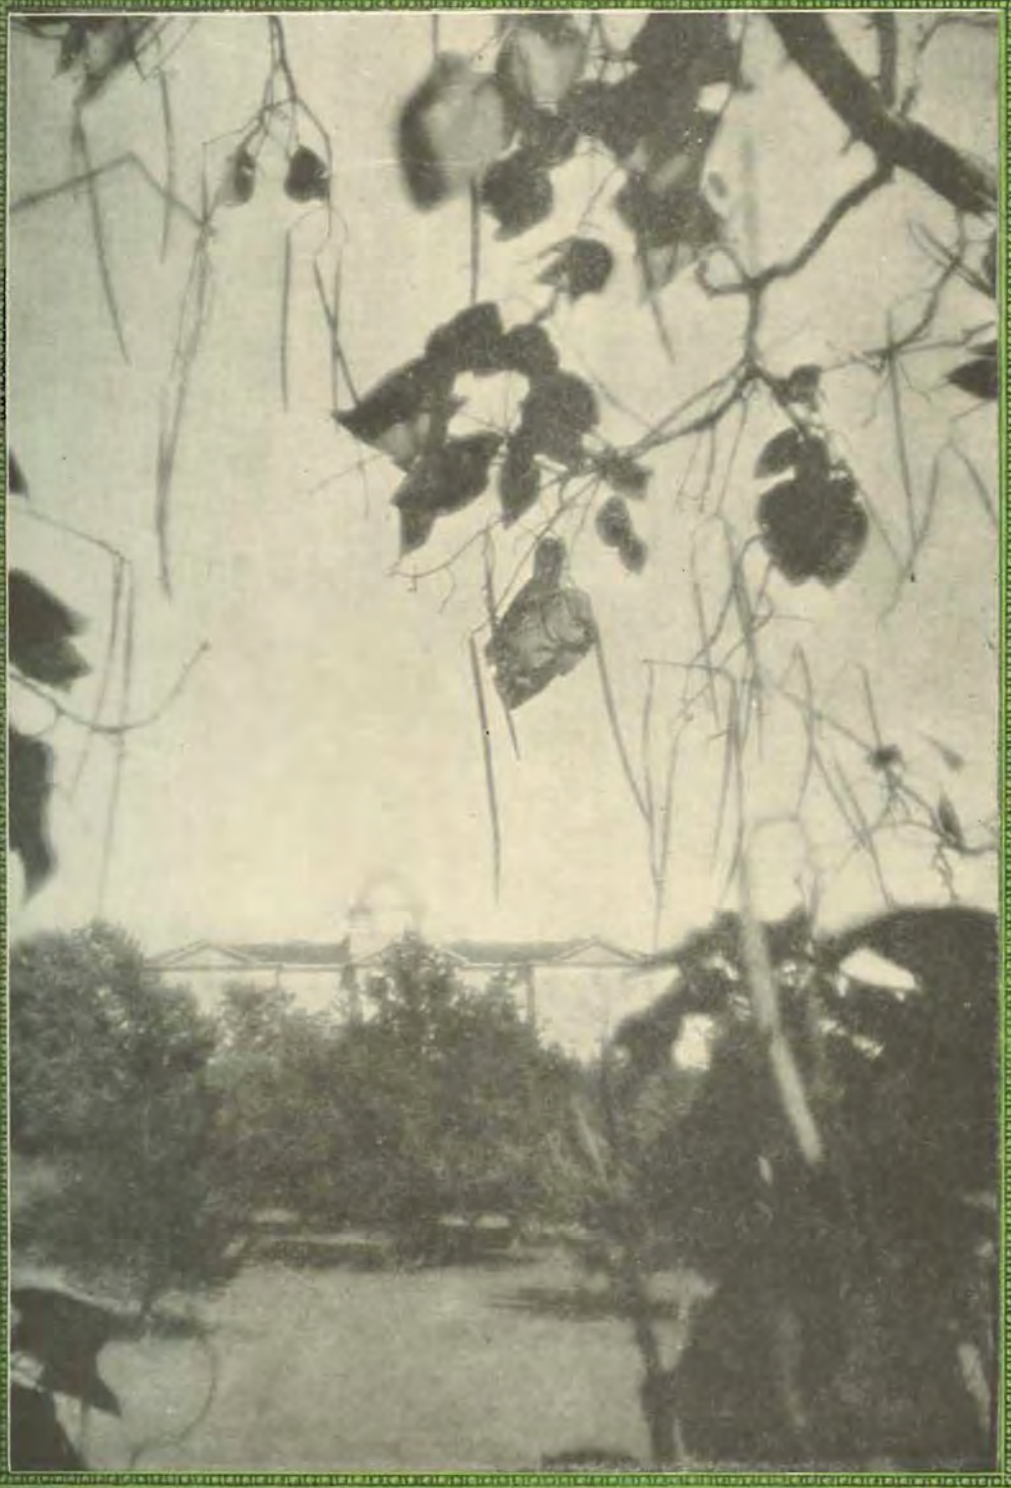

Our Gymnasium—
Not yet touched by the traditions
That time alone can bring.

Rising in glory above the evergreens—
Richardson Hall
Whence truth has dared stalk forth.

Thru the shadow's leafy pattern,
We glimpse the friendly doorway
Of the President's home.

Afar, in the vista of sunlight,
The classic facade of Richardson
Graciously gleams.

'Tis here
In this sylvan lure
That Aphrodite smiles in spring.

First it shall be told how the faculty is composed of learned men and women, and the classes of seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

Then it shall be told how
Southwestern students participate in every activity which makes for a well-rounded life.

VARSITY SQUAD

RESERVES

FOOTBALL

Southwestern finished at the half-way mark in standing in the Kansas Conference. The team won four games, lost three, and tied two. The Thanksgiving game was not played, but the dope was all in favor of Southwestern. The team was far better than the scores indicate and deserved a higher standing in the conference. Hard luck kept them from getting the place they deserved. Next year the team should be even better as few of the regulars are seniors and there is a world of young material.

Bill Bates should be able to draw from his reserves next year as they made a wonderful record. The reserves ended the season with an uncrossed goal. They rolled up a total of 189 points in seven inter-school games.

CARROL "RED" SMITH..... Blackwell

Captain and unanimous choice for all-state center two years in succession. A phenominal diagnostician of opponents plays. A roving center, powerful at both offense and defense.

EDISON OGROSKY..... Winfield

Captain-elect. Ed was a player of wonderful ability and his ability to gain ground will be missed next year. His sacrifice will ever be remembered by his team-mates.

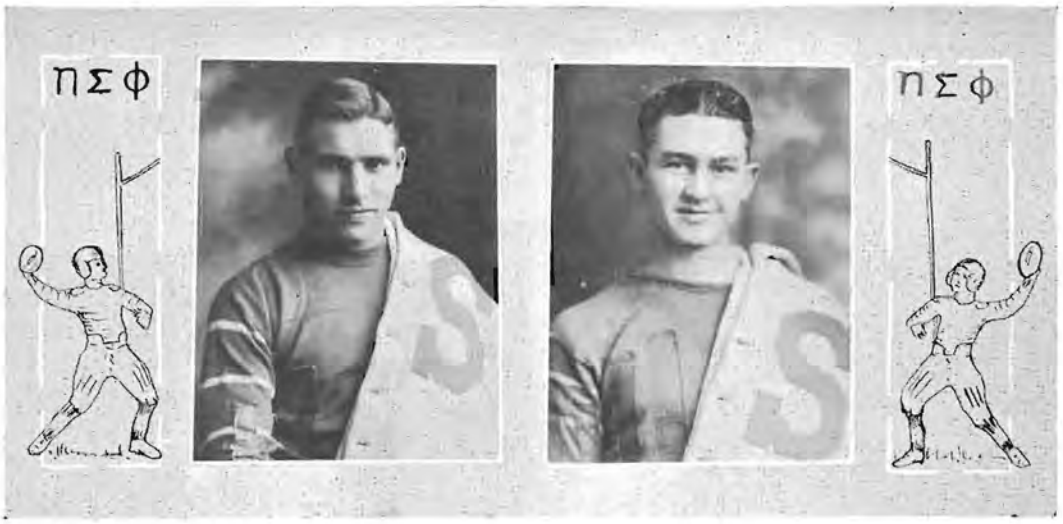

BOYD RODERICK.....Attica
A four year man who has won a name in the conference by his steady, hard, and reliable playing. A man feared by opponents and loved by his team-mates.

WILLIAM CLAY.....Douglass
The Right wing of the line, a sure tackle and one of the best receivers of passes in the Conference. He fought for the ball and hung on till the play was ended.

FENTON MCALLISTER ..... Blackwell
A four year man: a dependable place kicker; a sure passer and a strong force on defense. He always had a word of cheer for his team-mates.

CHESTER BROWN .....Caldwell
A chunky, plunging half back that squirmed and twisted till he could not move any farther down the white ribbed field.

WILLARD KISER..... Sedgwick

A consistent ground gainer and always ready to give his best. Kiser has one more year to spend with the builder squad.

ARTHUR SCHUPP..... Plainville

The most dependable tackle on the builder field. He can heave the longest pass of anybody on the quad. He will undoubtedly be a candidate for all state during his next three years here.

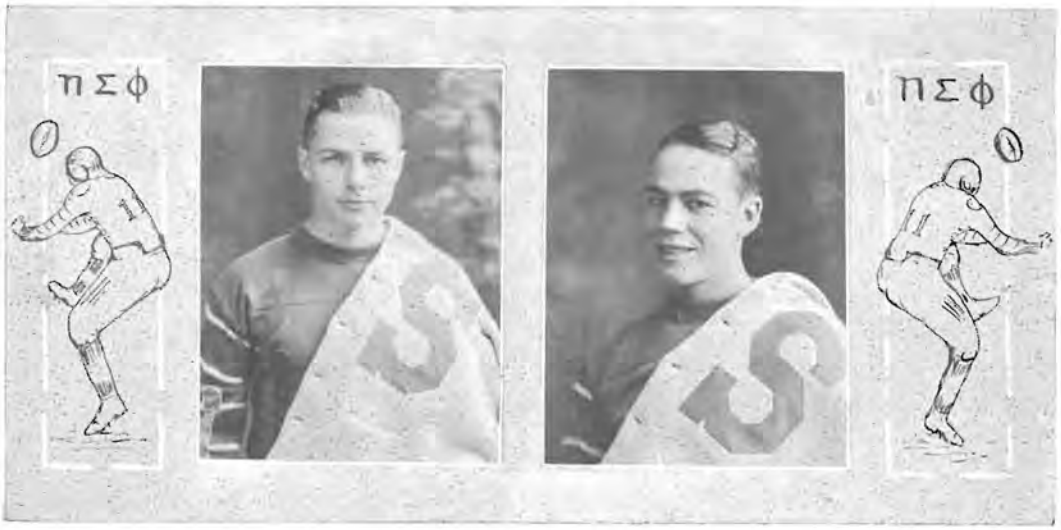

PAUL HENSHAW..... .....Winfield

He weighs 196 pounds and used it in every play. This is Paul's last year in Southwestern. He is a scholar as well as an athlete.

IRA MADISON.....Kingman

The swiftest and smallest half-back in the conference. One of Bill's best defense men, a good interference runner and a splendid ball lugger.

JAMES GARDNER.....Arkansas City

A left wing man that could snag passes from out of the air and never miss. This is the second letter for James.

MERRILL HAMBURG.....Bison

A center with a perfect pass; "Red's" only utility man who could play just as well at guard or tackle. He has one more year.

DONALD COOPER.....Winfield

A real quarter back. He always called the right play at the right time. One of the best punters in the conference. He is quiet, reliable and not afraid to play the game.

VERNON WIRTH.....Greensburg

A most powerful man at defense and offense. He could always open a hole for the backs and charged through on defense and stopped many plays behind the opponent's line.

JOHN ROSENBAUM.....Pratt

A utility man who had the fight of a regular. He never gave up, but scrapped to the end of the game every time.

GEORGE MARKLEY.....Atlanta

He is a hard hitter with lots of speed. He is also a good receiver of long passes. He caught the 60 yard pass from Schupp that lead to the tie with Fairmount.

VERN SNODGRASS.....Douglass

Snodgrass is indeed a brilliant and trusty player. This was his first year with the Builders, but he played like a veteran on the field.

MARSHALL BRYAN.....Greensburg

"Tubby" could lug the ball for gains through the toughest of lines when called back. This is Bryan's first year on the builder squad.

BASKETBALL

Third place in the Kansas Conference was Southwestern's record for 1924-25. A defeat to the Hillyards Basketball team, last years National Champions, added another laurel to the Southwestern team and caused the fans to agree that S. C. was still the same as of yore. The prospects for next year are indeed bright as only one member on the team is a senior. Coach Bates will have experienced men around which to build his team for the coming year and the fans are expecting a conference championship to come home to roost at the college on the hill.

JAMES GARDNER..... Arkansas City
Picked as forward for all conference team. He is a wonderful goal shooter and shoots phenominal goals when in a pinch. He will be back another year.

JOHN ROBINSON..... Winfield
Played his first year of varsity basketball, but was given credit for being one of the very best guards in the conference. He was the steadiest player on the team.

FLOYD BURK.....Hooker, Okla.

Played his first year for Southwestern and made good. A popular player not only with the students but also with the team. Next year he should make a bid for the conference team.

DONALD COOPER.....Winfield

Nothing ever rattled "Don" and he played with a coolness that a four year man might envy. He could grab the ball from out of almost hopeless situations.

EDWARD NOLD.....Newton
Eddie didn't join the squad till the second semester, but he made up for it with his playing. His height enabled him to get the tip-off most of the time.

WILFRED JOHNSON ...Ponca City, Okla.
"Peacock" is fast and clever. He delighted in tipping the ball into the basket after some other fellow had missed. They don't make them any scrappier than he is.

JESS LOCKERT..... Pratt

A diminutive forward who is mighty fast on his feet. He was able to lead any guard a merry chase. Although only a freshman he was a valuable utility man.

Cross Country Team 1924-'25

The cross country team had an unusually successful season. They succeeded in defeating Friends, Fairmount, and the Kansas State Normals. All but two of the squad will be back next year. Ploughe and Griffith are seniors and their place will be hard to fill. It takes hard and consistent training to make a good cross-country man while there is nothing spectacular in the event. The student body should appreciate the work that each of these men has done in winning for his college.

Coach Leslie Bryan coached the squad for the first time this year and proved himself a successful coach and trainer. Next year his prospects should be as bright as the past year and another string of victories should be added to the cross country team's record.

Track Squad 1924

Because the track team is picked at such a late date it is impossible to have the pictures of that years squad in the Moundbuilder, so a compromise is made and the pictures of the squad of the preceding year are used. Few appreciate the hard work that it takes on the part of the team members and the coach to mak e a successful team. Due credit should be given to these men for the honor they have brought the college by so ably representing it in track. Some of the members leave the team this year and it will be a hard matter to fill their places.

Base Ball Squad

The same is true of base ball as of track. The squad is picked too late to get their pictures in the Moundbuilder so last years team is used. This year's team has a chance for a great record as Bill Bates has three good pitchers to rely upon. They have played only two games thus far but have broken even on those two, losing one to Chiloco and winning one from St. Johns. Let us hope that they will continue the good work.

Girl's Basket Ball Team

Although few colleges have girl's basketball, it has been Southwestern's policy to have a team each year and try to keep alive a dying sport for girls, at least in Kansas. The team is forced to play Oklahoma teams or industrial teams. The girl's lost only two games the entire season, one to Phillips here and one to Phillips at Enid, Oklahoma.

"Gladiators of S. C.
Hold their tourneys as of yore."

HOW the College of Southwestern stands in that form of activity known as forensics.

LEROY ALLEN, A. M.
Coach of Debate

J. THOMPSON BAKER, Ph. D.
Coach of Oratory and Public Speaking

Forensics play an important part in the college life of Southwestern, and are becoming more and more prominent each successive year. This year there have been two coaches, one for debate alone and one for oratory and public speaking. Both the boy's and girl's teams in debate have been very successful in their contests having won the majority of their debates.

Oratory has almost as important place in the school as debate, there being a girl representative and a boy. So far neither one has had a chance to orate for Southwestern in a contest.

Interest in forensic contests among the students has been growing steadily stronger, and it is hoped that in a few years as many students will attend these contests as gather to see a basketball or football game.

PLANK HEADRICK MOODY

Oratory

Southwestern was represented by Clifford Moody in the State Old Line Contest, by Isa Ruth Plank in the Women's State Contest, and by Cecil Headrick in the State Peace Contest.

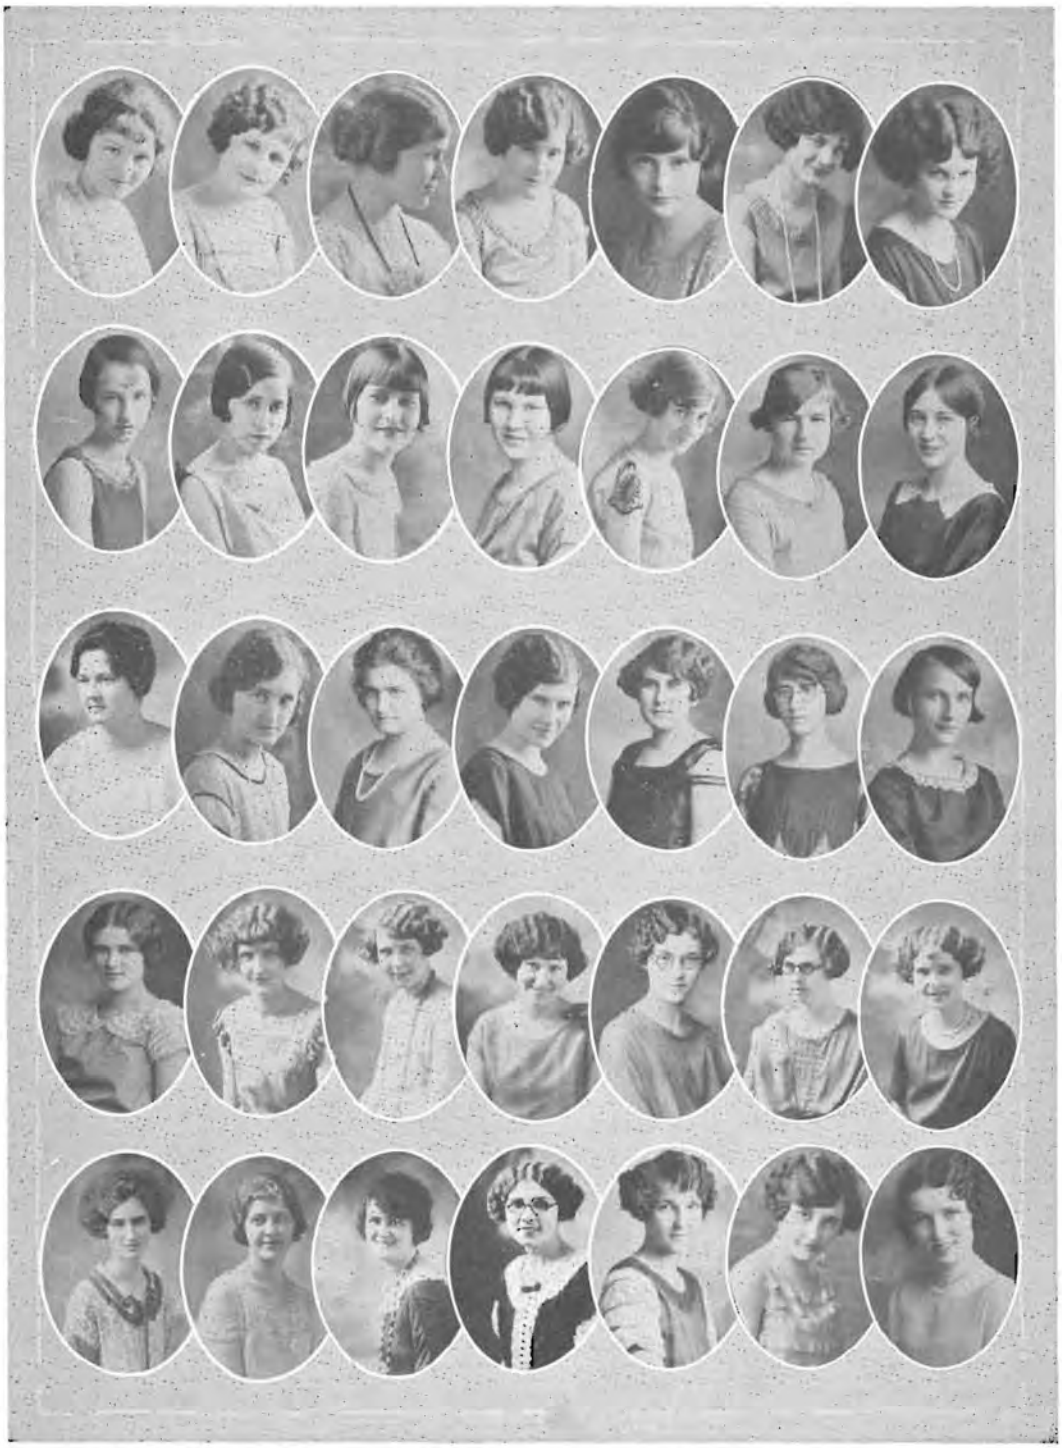

These three students are worthy contestants, and rank high as orators. They were coached and trained by Professor J. T. Baker.

Girl's Glee Club

A girl's glee club should be one of the most important things in the college life. The Southwestern glee club is composed approximately of forty girls who class glee club work as one of their most interesting activities. They have proved this statement by their good attendence at rehearsals, both regular and irregular; the latter being called anytime from ten to eleven-thirty P. M. This seemingly impossible feat has been performed because of the girls devotion to their beloved and experienced director, Professor C. O. Brown.

The glee club has cheered the hearts of thousands of people by local appearances, before the schools and townspeople, and before many audiences in other towns throughout the state. Concerts were given in Peabody, Burton, Newton, Valley Center, Marion, Augusta, Halstead, and Florence. The program was varied, consisting of secular, dramatic, sacred, and humorous numbers. Rounding out the program were readings by the regular glee club reader, solos, a one-act play, and a real college scene consisting partly of live songs taken from the campus.

Grand Opera Ensemble

No where can there be found a more popular group of singers than those which compose the Grand Opera Ensemble. They are met with deafening applause whenever they appear and besieged with offers to appear again and again.

Due credit should be given to Professor Fioramonti for the success of this organization for it originated with him, and was so formed in order to take the place of the sextette. He has had adequate training for such an undertaking and his natural ability as a singer aids him greatly in the training of this ensemble.

The members of the Grand Opera Ensemble are picked from Professor Fioramonti's most advanced classes and are able as a group to sing practically any description of song, rendering it in a beautiful and pleasing manner.

The members of the Grand Opera Ensemble are PERCY BECK, FLOSSIE SULLENS, WILTON ALLEN, WAVA BACHMAN, PHYLLIS KIRK, ROBERT FRIZZEL, ALBERTA HAYNES, and Joe Van Cleve. They are accompanied by MAUDE DUFFY.

FLOSSIE SULLENS, ALBERTA HAYNES, PHYLLIS KIRK
Accompanist, MAUDE DUFFY

Ladies Trio

This group of girls work in connection with the Grand Opera Ensemble. They are used for the purpose of adding variety to the programs given by the Grand Opera Ensemble, and all are members of the group.

Each member of the trio is an exceptional and pleasing singer, while the combination is very worth while listening to.

Violin Quartette

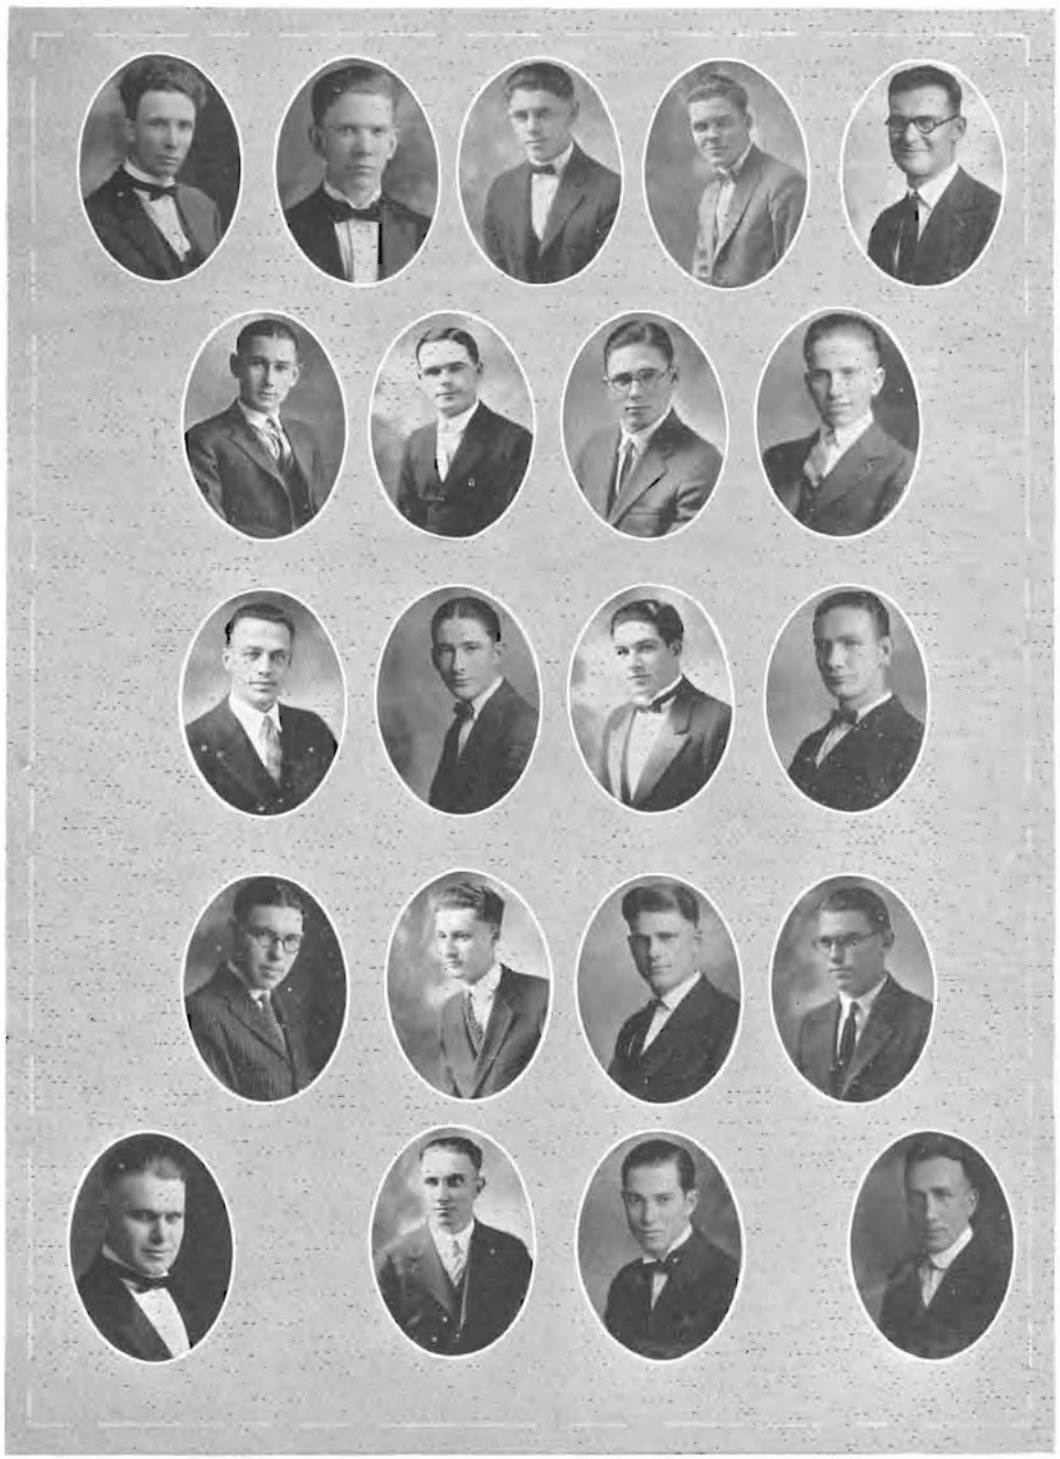

The members of the Violin Quartette are GRACE COMPTON, MARJORIE BENEDICT, ALAN WATROUS, and PAULINE BEACH. They are accompanied by GRACE SELLERS. These people are musicians of unusual ability, and are chosen from the violin choir. This is the fourth year for this organization and each year they grow more popular and are in greater demand.

The Violin Quartette has made many trips this year to nearby towns and from all reports have been received with great enthusiasm. They have played in chapel on special occasions and have been loyally received.

Violin Choir

The Violin Choir is composed mostly of Professor ALTVATER's pupils and is under his direction. They are a talented group of musicians and work together in complete harmony. The Violin Choir plays not only at home but also in various local towns. This group is a wonderful advertisement for Southwestern, and especially for the Fine Arts department.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

Men's Glee Club

What is more enjoyed than a group of men's voices properly trained singing in unity and harmony? That is what the Men's Glee Club represents in Southwestern. Under the leadership of Professor PERCY BECK, the group has developed to the point of perfection along the lines of group singing.

The club is an all school organization. It is organized as any other club would be with a president, vice-president, and secretary and treasurer. Any man is eligible who has the required amount of musical ability which enables him to be of benefit to the club.

The Men's Glee Club makes trips the same as the Girl's Glee Club, but usually not so extensive. This year they have gone to a number of different towns, and have been received with enthusiasm.

The Men's Glee Club has worked up numbers of different selections representing almost every type of chorus work. They include religious selections, humorous selctions and the regular songs which every glee club, college I should say, has on its program. The Men's Glee Club also sang in connection with the opera "Cavaleria Rusticana". They furnished the necessary chorus work in the mob scenes composed of men.

The Band

It has been said that half of the school's loyalty is the band. While we cannot entirely agree with this band enthusiast, we do admit that the band does its share in winning football and basketball victories for us. They are always on hand, and when the team is behind and the crowd is losing heart, Professor C. O. BROWN raises his baton and the strains of "On Southwestern" ring out. The stirring strains urge the team on to fresh efforts and another victory is added to S. C's long string.

The college can be justly proud of the band's appearance. Uniformed in white monogramed sweaters, with purple trousers or skirts, and white overseas caps, the band makes a perfect picture of what a college band should look like.

But the band has other services to perform besides playing for games. They are always on hand at special chapels, when needed to entertain out-of-town guests, and have filled several engagements in other places. The members have given their time cheerfully and willingly on these occasions, and also the time which is required for practice.

The band finances itself by giving each year a benifit concert and selling tickets to the students and down-town people. This group deserves the hearty support of the college as no other group ever has, and we are glad to see the students stand behind the band.

And then it shall be told how Southwestern students are so organized that each student appears to be a vital part of the college machinery.

HOW the College students are banded together in groups known as societies.

Belles Lettres

The Belles Lettres Literary Society was founded thirty-four years ago, and has grown and prospered ever since. Each year finds the society one step in advance and moving onward and upward. Each year there are additions made which add to the attractiveness of the Belles-Athenian Hall. This year the society can boast of new curtains and draperies.

Through a ruling of the inter-society cauncil there has been a limitation of members, but it is not quantity that counts, but rather quality.

Belles-Lettres who particpate in school activities are too numerous to mention, but it is safe to say they are represented in every phase of school activities, from debate to basketball.

Belles-Lettres has one distinctive feature all its own. This is Belles-Athenian day, and signifies the great place that Belles-Lettres occupy in Southwestern College. One whole day is set aside as Belle-Athenian Day. In the morning, the two societies have a joint picnic, followed by a pageant in the late afternoon, and then in the evening occurs the Belle-Athenian Minstrel.

The society has worked and is working for the school, and the members have banded themselves together in order to uphold Southwestern traditions.

Athens

Way back in the year 1889 when Southwestern College was still an untried school, a group of young men got together and decided that they might be able to help the college by forming a literary society for the advancement of the ideals of the college. They called this society Athens, and it has remained so through the years which have followed. It holds a place of honor in the college, and this year as never before, the society has maintained this place.

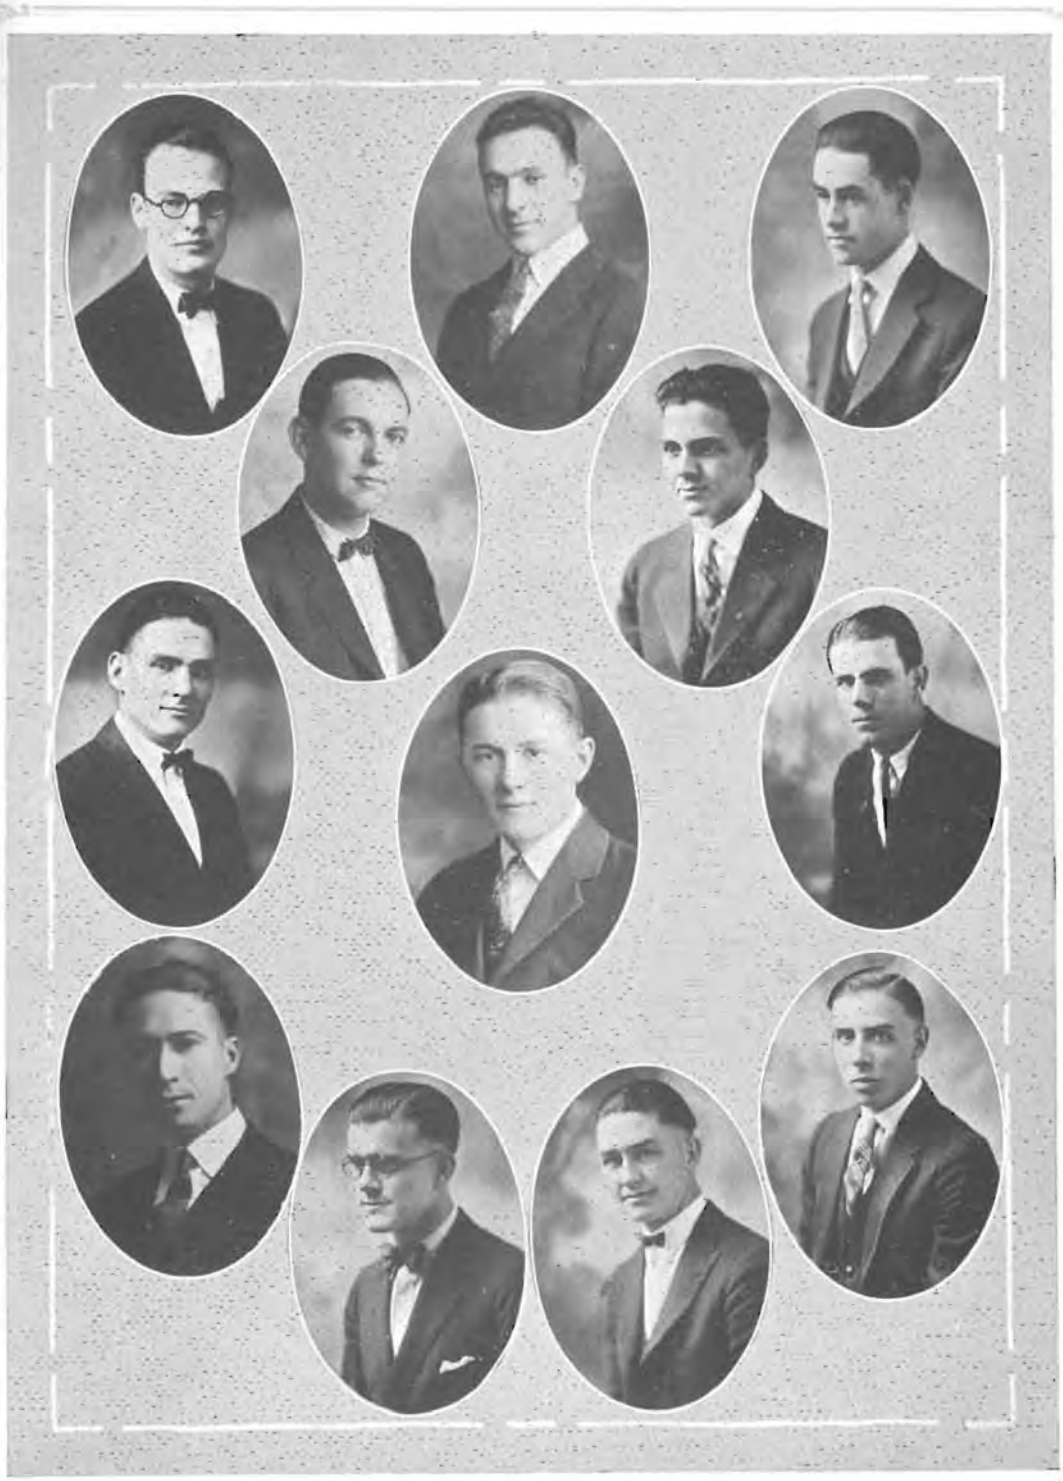

Athens succeeded in getting its share of new pledges this fall, and here a word of commendation should be given to the new members. They have added new life to the society, upheld the traditions of the society, and have contributed to the school, through the society, innumerable services.

In order to show its appreciation of the work of its members, Athens offers each year a gold medal in oratory, debate, dramatics, music, and a silver medal for a second place in oratory and debate.

Were the members of Athens to get together and propose a toast to their society, it would be something along this order: "Long may Athens remain honored and beloved, doing her very best for her Alma Mater. Hail Athens!"

Sigmas

In old S. C. there is a certain group of girls, peppy, jolly, yet thoughtful girls; Sigmas they are called, I believe.

Eeveryone knows of them for all year long they have been giving of themselves to better, not only their society, but also their Alma Mater. They cooperate with a group of equally fine young men in staging a play "The Witching Hour," and a light opera, "The Bohemian Girl". Sigma has contributed much to the life of the school. The first four on the varsity debate squad are Sigmas; also Southwestern was represented in the Woman's Oratorical Contest by one of the group. The society is ably represented in the Double Quartette, the Glee Club, Basketball, Collegian and Moundbuilder Staffs, Student Council, Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, and life Service Group, and in fact, any other activity which might be mentioned.

In order to give a true conception of Sigma there is one thing which cannot be omitted. It is that something which permeates the whole society, that something which thrills us as we think about it, that something causes us a twinge of pain as we think bidding farewell: it is the spirit of Sigma Pi Phi. All Sigmas recognize it and can never forget it. It has spurred us on to heights of achievement and endeavor. It has crowned our college days with their most sacred memories.

Through all the years to come the associations, frendships, and above all, the spirit of Sigma will remain with us ever as one of our threads of golden memory. Sigma Pi Phi, Hail.

Delphi

The Delphian Literary Society was organized thirty years ago. Though not as old as some of its brothers societies, in its principles, working methods, and accomplishments it carries its share of the responsibility in the development of S. C. students.

Its Moral standards have, as their foundations, the teachings of the Master of Men. Quite naturally and appropriately, Delphi looked to Ancient Greece for its motto, and selected the favorite maxium of one of its most noted sons: "Know Thyself."

Its working methods conform to the basic principals expressed in its motto, so that both in the election of students to membership, and in its attitude of its members, it aims to find latent talent, and to develop such talent, as a literary society alone is peculiarly fitted to do. The society not only gives opportunity for development in oratory, debate, dramatics, and music in its regular programs, but has special programs which it features. The annual "Fakulty Program" and the opera are annual events traditional to Sigmas and Delphians. Medals and other trophies are awarded annually by the Society and by individuals for excellence in various fields.

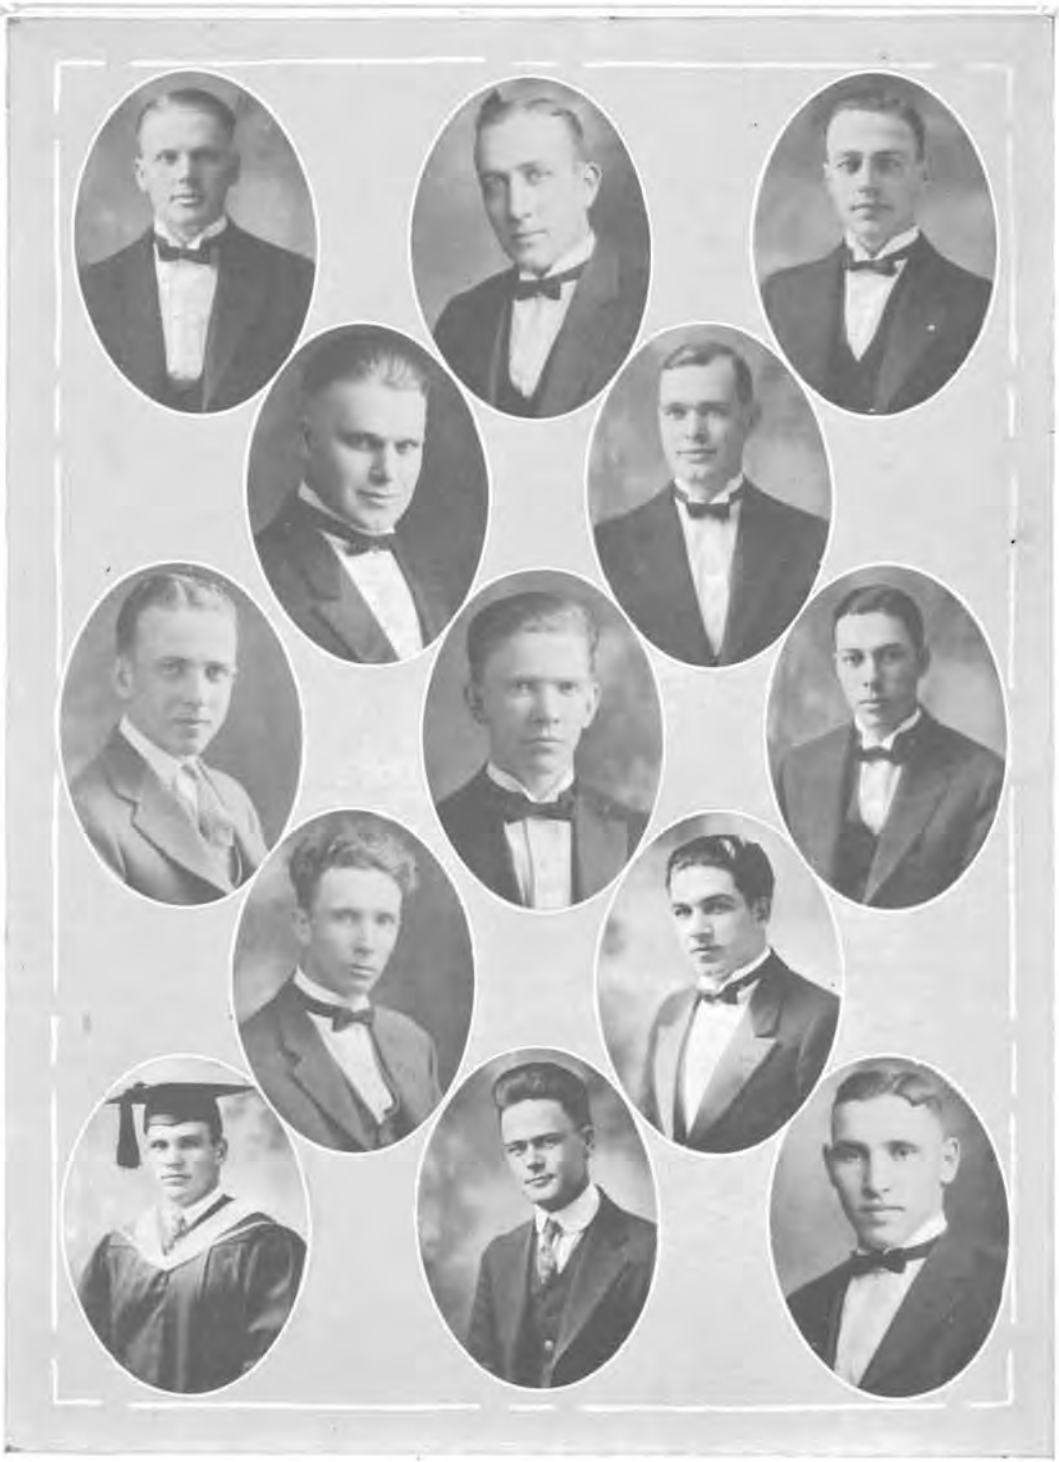

The application of the Delphian Motto to the individual alone is not considered sufficient, so social life development is worked out admirably through the various social activities fostered by Delphi.

May it ever be said of Delphi: "Her loyalty to her school has no death; her devotion to mankind, no end."

Beta Gamma Epsilon

Beta Gamma Epsilon has lost the distinction of being the youngest girl's society in Southwestern, but we are glad of it. Our years of probation are over and we now hold, and have held, a prominent and respected place in the minds of the student body of Southwestern. It is now time that another society learn the ropes, so to speak, and let us join the ranks of our sisters as a well seasoned society.

Our work as a society has proved beyond a doubt that we rank with the best. Beta Gamma Epsilon is represented in every school activity. They are well represented in basketball, forensics, music, and Y.W.C.A. work.

Special recognition is given to the members which are judged to be the best in several different departments. Contests are held in the spring, and gold and silver medals are given for first and second places. Besides these, a jewelled letter 'B' is given each year by MRS. A. E. KIRK, to the senior woman who has been, in the judgement of the society, the best all-around society member.

This year the society in connection with Alpha Beta Alpha have staged two very successful plays, for the dramatic talent in Beta Gamma is exceptionally good.

Alpha Beta Alpha

Alpha Beta Alpha is the newest of the Men's Societies, this being the fifth year of its existence. It was formed to fill a need for a new society in Southwestern, and is based upon the idea that students do not get the special training along literary lines they need. Altho the membership of Alpha Beta Alpha has not exceeded that of its brother societies, this fact is looked upon with satisfaction as its members are given greater attention in individual training.

Alpha Beta Alpha is unique, in as much that her infomal initiations, Christmas, and Hallowe'en parties show that her members have not forgotten the play instinct. On the other hand, the frequent formal receptions and the Annual Banquet gives her members training in social etiquette. These factors are considered the essential life of the college graduate.

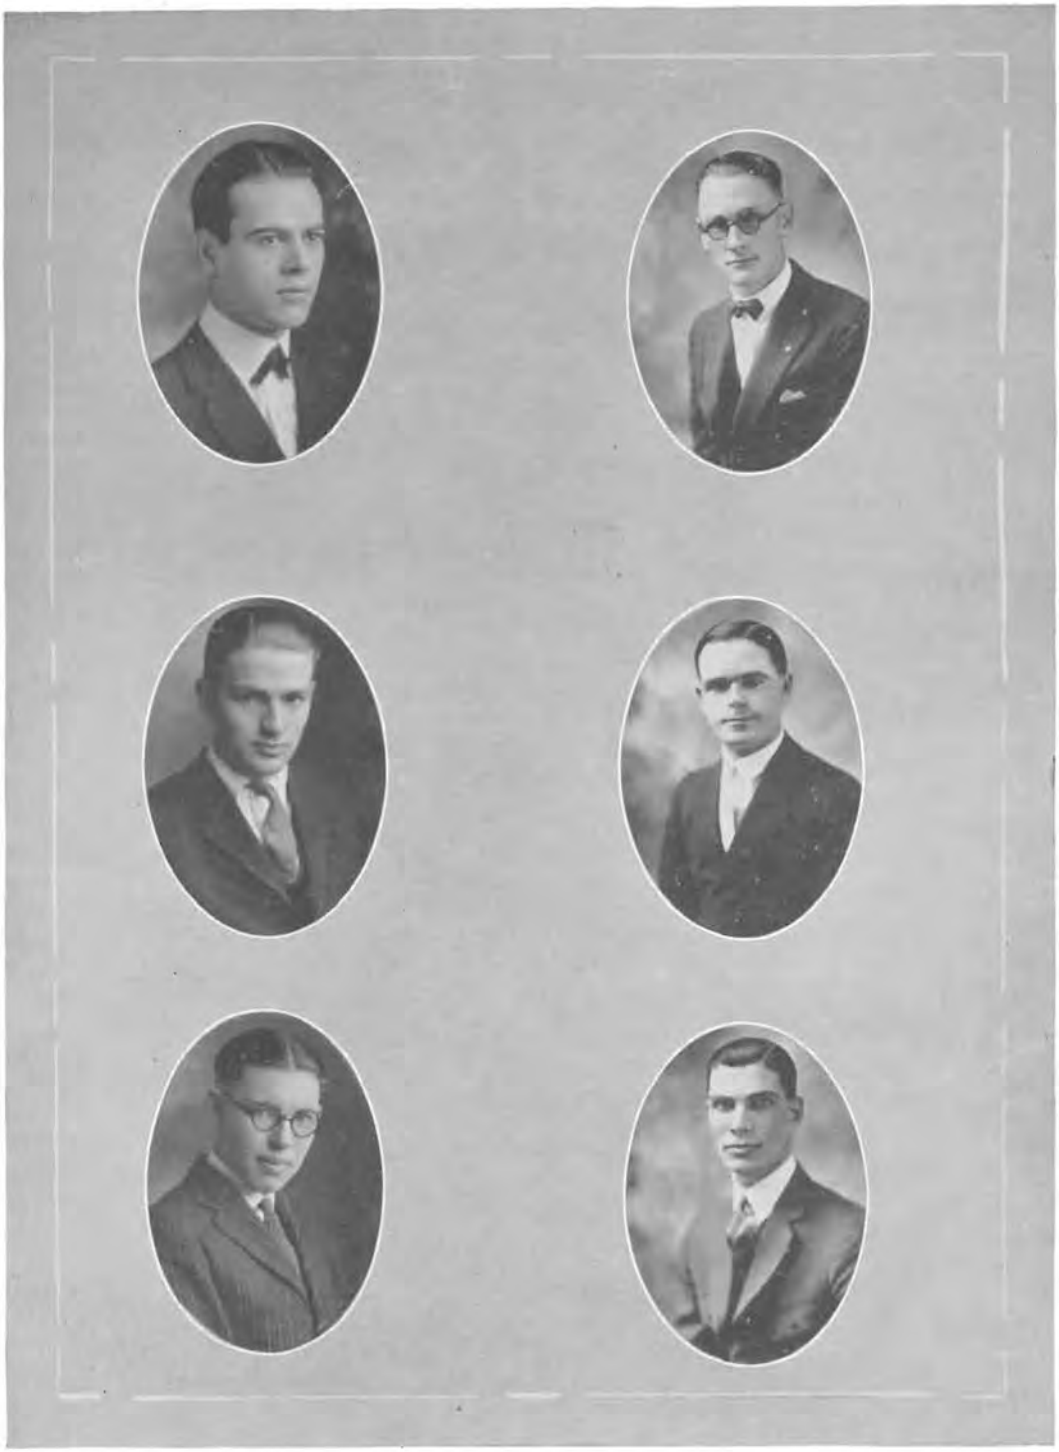

Alpha Beta Alpha gives awards for society activities, but the most desired reward is the Chancellor's key, which is given by the old Chancellors for the member who does the most original research work for the year.

We look with pride upon the Alumni who have gone out from our society. Their success, we can say without boasting, is due in a great measure to the training received in society work. One of the greatest honors that has come to Southwestern was the naming of RAYMOND CAREY, an Alumni of Alpha Beta Alpha, as a Rhodes Scholar from Kansas. Individuals such as BERTHOFF, SCOTT, HULPIEU, and others have brought honor to their school and society.

Delta Kappa Chi

When the need equals the demand, there is always a remedy. It has been the history of the societies in Southwestern that when the school felt that the societies were becoming too crowded, and the students demanded an outlet for the overflow, a new society was formed composed of students who belonged to other societies, but who were willing to sacrifice their membership for the school.

Again the need for a new girl's society grew strong, and this year Delta Kappa Chi was formed. However, it was not formed from old societies, but the freshmen. Girls who had never belonged to any society! Twelve girls banded together and organized the new society. It grew with leaps and bounds until the membership had reached a total of forty members.

As there was no fit hall for the Delta Kappa Chi girls to meet in, they had to make the best of their opportunities and use any available space. The Pi Sigma Phi men acted as brothers for the new society, and will continue to do so until the need for a new boy's society is apparent.

Delta Kappa Chi has the same high ideals which the other societies uphold, and its aim is the same. The members organized themselves into Delta Kappa Chi to further the traditions of the school, and to provide literary training for the young women of the college.

Student Council---Second Semester

An advance step in student government has been taken this year since the president is now chosen from the student body rather than from the faculty. According to the new ruling only one-half the council is elected new each semester.

Besides the ordinary business carried on by this student organization, an attempt has been made by the council to advance the school. A school betterment committee is in charge of suggesting new things to the council. Under the auspices of this committee, several organizations have been placed in charge of chapel programs. At their suggestion also, a Campus Day, and all school clean-up day has been fostered.

Although the council is not yet perfect, it is coming more nearly to be truly representative of the student body.

Inter-Society Council

The Inter-Society Council was organized a year ago this spring, thus being a comparatively new organization. The purpose of this body of students is to make rules and regulations for the literary societies. It was originally formed for the purpose of governing the rushing of new members by the different societies, however its duties have spread until it now is in a position to regulate the societies as it sees fit. Through the Inter-Society Council, the pledges receive their invitations to join a society, and the individual's acceptance is sent through the same source.

The council is composed of the president from each society and one other member which is elected by the society at large. Besides these representatives, there are two faculty advisors; Professor McFarlane and Professor Phillips.

The Inter-Society council has accomplished its purpose, and has denoted a step up in student government and society friendship. When seven societies can meet together and settle their disputes and desires to the satisfaction of all concerned, the student body is fast becoming an independent body.

The Young Women's Christian Association in Southwestern has done more for the girls in the college than any other one organization, and those who have graduated and gone out in the world can easily testify to this fact. It is the aim of this organization to promote the best interests of the girls in Southwestern. By so doing, it is preparing them to be good citizens in a world of democracy.

In order to accomplish this aim, the Young Women's Christian Association holds a meeting every Wednesday. These meetings are devotional, and the programs are carefully prepared so that every girl may get some help and guidance from each meeting.

The Y. W. C. A. tries to make every girl feel that Southwestern is to be her home for four long years, and that her troubles are the concern of every girl in school. In order to create this impression from the very first, the new girls are met at the depot on their arrival, taken to their boarding house and welcomed by the older girls. During the early part of the new school year, the Y. W. C. A. plans a number of entertainments in order to drive away that first home-sickness. A Y. W. hike is given followed by the Y. W. and Y. M. mixer.

This is what the Young Women's Christian Association means to Southwestern College, and it stands as a strong foothold for any girl to cling to.

The Young Men's Christian Association does for the men what the Young Women's Christian Association does for the women. Their aim is to develop a strong moral character in order that the world will receive the right kind of citizens from the colleges, for it is the college men who will be the leaders of the world in the future. The Y. M. C. A. meets every Wednesday morning, and at these meetings the problems that are confronting the young people of to-day are discussed. A closer relationship between the men is obtained through these meetings, and each member's vision is made broader.

The Young Men's Christian Association has brought to Southwestern College men of national prominence, connected with the Y. M. C. A. and otherwise. They gave the student body at large a chance to hear these men, and also arranged for private interviews for those who desired it.

Each year a special effort is made to secure students to go to Estes Park to the conference held there. This conference is for the purpose of discussing plans for the coming year, trading ideas and plans, and bringing a closer relationship between the different schools over the country.

Gospel Teams

The Southwestern Gospel Teams are composed of those who wish to go out to different communities and conduct services. The teams do a splendid work and have accomplished more than they realize. Each group goes to a different community, and under the leadership of a student chosen from the group, holds religious services. These young people give their time freely and gladly, spending their Christmas vacation this year in this manner.

Life-Service Group

The Life-Service Group which was organized the spring of 1924, is a body of earnest young people who are striving to find the vocation in life where they can best serve humanity. The members meet once a month on Wednesday evening after prayer-meeting. The program consists of talks and discussions on the different phases of life work. Chance is given for practical service in the poor-farm, settlement, and social service work.

The officers for the year 1924-'25 were, President, RAY COOK; Vice-president, EMORY King; Secretary-Treasurer, GLADYS ROBERTSON; Program Committee, WANNIE CONDIT, ALFRED HAWKEY, and IRENE MURPHY. There were between forty and fifty members in the organization this year. The purpose of the club is aptly expressed in its pledge which recognizes the domination of pagan principles and lack of brotherhood in world affairs, and realize that the young people can do no less than give their lives to the task of reforming conditions by finding where they can do the most service.

The Chemistry Society was organized for the purpose of promoting an interest in the development of higher chemistry. Only those who are deeply interested in this subject are eligible to membership.

The society is under the leadership of Mr. Merle Suter. It is evident by the roll that the men of Southwestern College are far more interested in chemistry than the women. There are only two girls at present in the society. The club is larger this year than before, and it is hoped that interest will continue to grow.

The French Club is an old organization in Southwestern College, and has been one of the most successful clubs of its kind. Its purpose is to create an interest in the romance language by giving practical experience in talking french and in writing french. The whole program is carried out in french thus making it necessary for every member to secure a practical knowledge of french in order to participate in the club program.

The French Club is different from other small organizations as it is more on the order of societies. Each spring, the club holds a banquet. To MISS FLORENCE CATE belongs the honor of starting the club and promoting interest in it.

Mathematics Club

The Mathematics Club is made up of advanced mathematic students who are interested in the subject. Most of the members are majoring in mathematics of some sort and are therefore very much interested in the club.

The membership equals a total of twenty-four students and the two advisors, Professor John F. Phillips and Professor Homer S. Myers. As they are the mathematic instructors, they were responsible for the starting of such a club.

The Mathematics Club meets once every two weeks, and a program of interest and value is always presented. The programs vary, dealing not only with mathematics but also with other subjects of interest to the students. Music is a prominent part of the program furnished by the members of the club.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club was organized in October 1921 in order to develop a closer union among the members and give training in social poise, and instruction in the field of Home Economics, not usually obtained in the classroom. Any Sophomore, Junior, or Senior Major is eligible to membership, provided her grades in school work meet the requirements of the club.

Pi Sigma Phi

Pi Sigma Phi was organized with the idea to promote the highest standard of morals and scholarship among the athletes, to maintain the high standard of sportmanship that has always been a part of Southwestern's athletics. It preserves the tradition and history of the athletics of the college. The membership is limited to those to whom the purple 'S' has been given. This organization has done much to promote the feeling of honor and responsibility toward the wearing of the purple 'S'.

The Pi Sigma Phi organization has, in connection with their athletics, performed for the student body in various ways. Each year it has become a custom for the organization to give and conduct a carnival or circus. These performances have been very successful, and besides creating amusement, they have shown the skill of the athletes in acrobatic stunts.

Each year the Pi Sigma Phi stage a banquet which is perhaps the biggest social event of the year. This year it was held at the Winfield Country club, and the invited guests haled it as the most successful banquet of the year.

Pi Gamma Mu

Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Honor Society, was established in August 1924, by the cooperation of some twenty standard colleges and universities located in every section of the United States. Additional distinction and honor is attached to one's election into the Kansas Alpha Chapter because the idea of the society originated here at Southwestern with Professor ALLEN, thus giving Southwestern the mother chapter. The charter colleges elected the following national officers: Professor LEROY ALLEN of Southwestern, National President, Professor D. O. KINSMAN of Lawrence College, National Vice-President, and Dean WILLIAM A. HAMILTON of the College of William and Mary, National Secretary-Treasurer.

The special aim of Pi Gamma Mu is the encouragement of the study of society and of social problems in the light of scientific truth and by the scientific method. As soon as practicable, a magazine will be published and prizes will be offered for research and study in various phases of social science.

The membership consists of those college seniors, alumni, and instructors who have obtained to a high degree of scholarship and have distinguished themselves in social studies; and secondly, members at large who are distinguished teachers of social science in leading colleges and universities.

Each local chapter decides upon its own activities. The constitution of the Southwestern Chapter provides for an informal affair in the fall, a formal banquet in the spring, a play dealing with some social problems, and one lecture by an outside speaker.

The fundamental purpose of Pi Gamma Mu, that of encouraging and rewarding the undergraduate study of social science, will help train our college students so that they will be more capable of influencing public opinion and legislation along social lines.

Campus Players

With the production of Shakespeare's tragedy, "Macbeth," another year in the life of the Campus Players has passed into histroy. Organized in 1919 under the direction of Miss Marthe Lee, Campus Players has become one of the noteworthy organizations in the school.

This honorary dramatics club is composed of those on the student body of Southwestern who have displayed exceptional talent, and marked interest in things dramatic. Each year new members are elected to fill vacancies made by the graduation of the seniors in the club. Certain requirements are made of a candidate. One must have had a minor role in a campus Players production, or a major role in a class or society play. A petition for membership is then made to the members of Campus Players by the candidate. He is voted upon by the members.

Each year two plays are produced by the group. "Captain Applejack," "The Skin Game," "Adam and Eva," are some of the recent successes of Campus Players.

ALL STARS

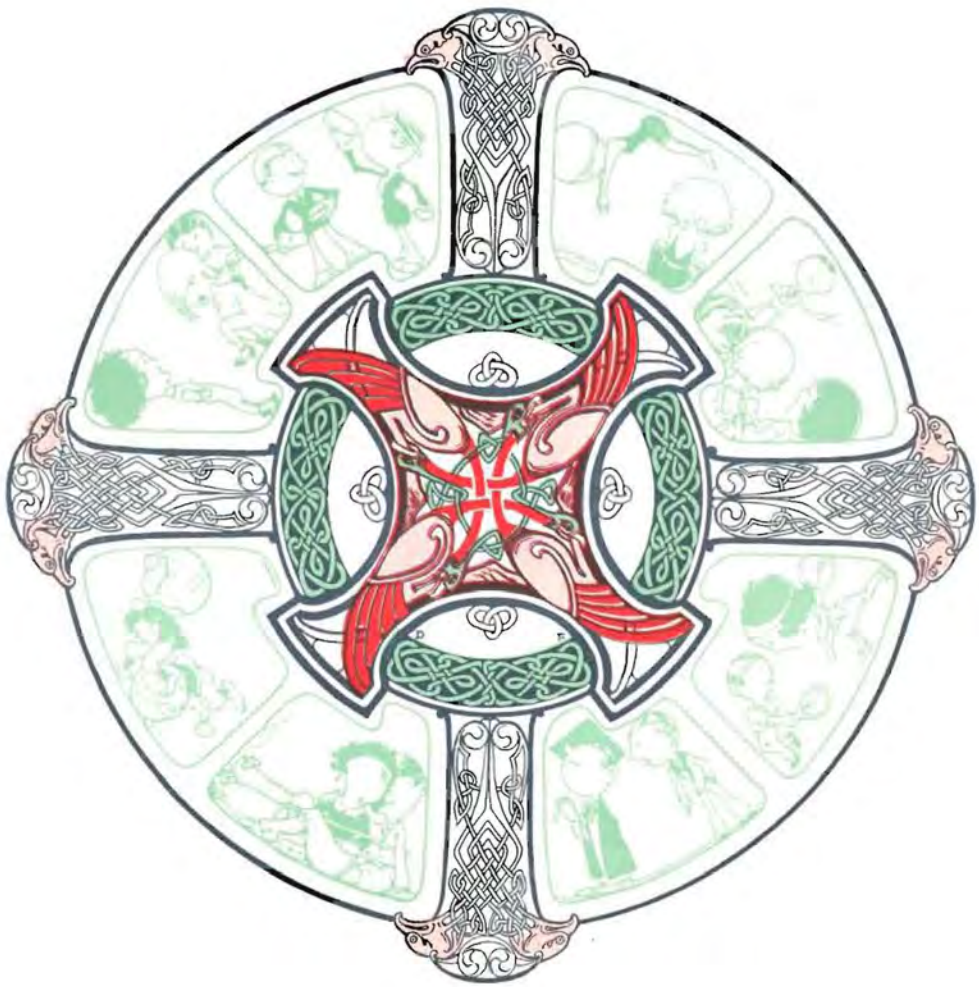

The most glorious season ever played in has just closed itself with a lovely rain. The ever victorious All Stars have had the most immortal, illustrious, dazzeling, gorgeous, and magnificent season-record ever compiled in the annuals of history. For the fist time in two weeks the opposing teams have not crossed our goal line. Our total season's score is six million times larger than the opposing team. This record is especially noticeable when we take into consideration the fact that Harvard, Yale, Oxford, and Princeton combined their teams in a last dying attempt to defeat the undefeatable All Stars. The final score in this game was 71-0 in favor of the All Stars. Of the 71 points, ROACH MCFARLANE made one point while Captain WITHERSPOON, playing mud-guard, made the remaining 70 points. (Guess who wrote this).

On a dark and stormy night of April 23, 1925, in the deep depth of Richardson Hall basement the Annual All Star Banquet was staged. The Butcher's Banquet Menu consisted mostly of the enemies' remains, and was enjoyed by all especially the beautiful attired All Staresses. Following the banquet, ROACH MAC was elected for another year at his own demands. However his salary was reduced as the family economic productive power has increased. Then came the Annual All Star Ride of Fame. Bitter-End MARVEL was elected captain for the next year, and Moss-back LAWRENCE sec-treasurer. We look for a greater record than this next year if that were possible, after you look over our present record.

CECIL HEADRICK DONALD KITCH

Southwestern Collegian

The Southwestern Collegian is the official weekly publication of the college. This year's staff has striven to make a departure from the usual style of college newspapers by pursuing an editorial policy of fearlessness and merit. Original poetry and free verse have helped to make the paper very interesting. Special issues have caused the paper to gain a reputation for laying emphasis in good measure upon the important events of the year. In carrying out this policy, there was a Grand Opera issue, a Hi-Y issue, two pep issues for athletics, and an issue devoted mostly to forensics. The make-up of the Collegian this year has kept pace with the best and latest journalistic styles and has had a great deal to do with the success of the paper.

The editor and manger of the paper are elected by the student body at large, and the entire student body subscribes for the paper through their activity fee.

The 1925 Moundbuilder has been created, and soon will be a thing of the past. The objective of the staff in producing this year book has been to make a permanent record of the events which have occured in the years 1924-25. Special credit should be given to the members of the staff who gave their time cheerfully and willingly that the book night be a credit to Southwestern College.

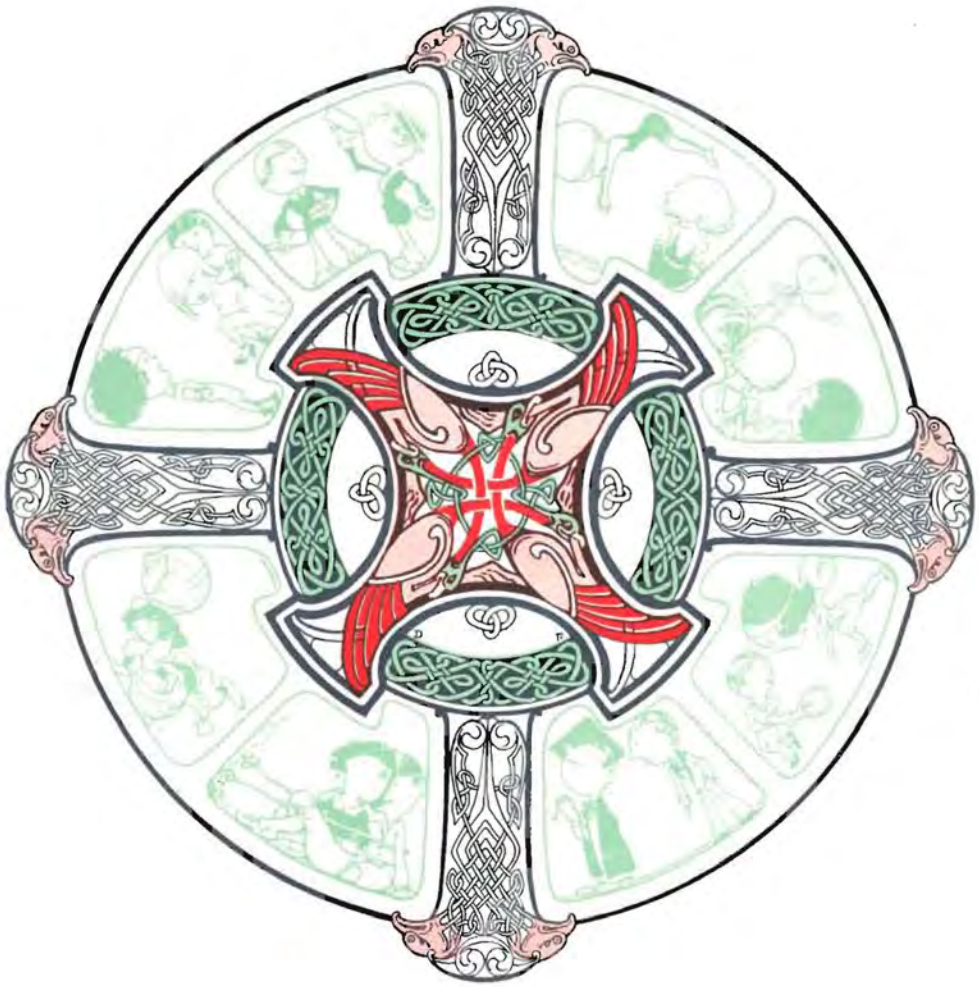

It is the hope of the Moundbuilder Staff that the 1925 Moundbuilder will be acceptable in the eyes of the student body, and they also wish to express their appreciation of the cooperation of the student body in publishing this thirteenth volume of the Moundbuilder.

CAMPUS LIFE

A "Birds" Eye-View Of The Campus Life

The Moundslinger

Published by the Stewed-eats

(FOREWORD)

The Moundslinger wises to express to the student body their heart-felt appreciation of your cooperation in furnishing us with ammunition for our sling. We have exerted our very last iota of intellectual effort—yea, even sacrificed our aspirations toward making the Order of the Mound that we might make the Moundslinger a work that would merit your approval. We sincerely hope our efforts have not been in vain.

In as brief a manner as possible, we will endeavor to permeate your innocuos regions of undulating convolations with an atmosphere of potential realities and truths. Bear with us gentle readers in our undertaking.

The nature of our department is largely a discussion and portrayal of various phases of campus life, however, as an additional feature, we have endeavored to bring you a picture of Southwestern activity during the Middle Ages, the age of Chivalry. By cooperating with such researchologists as Goldsmith, Darwin and LaFollette, we have been able to ascertain to a fair degree of accuracy, the nature of college life during the Middle Ages. In the persual of our pages, the reader will note a vein of comparison throughout.

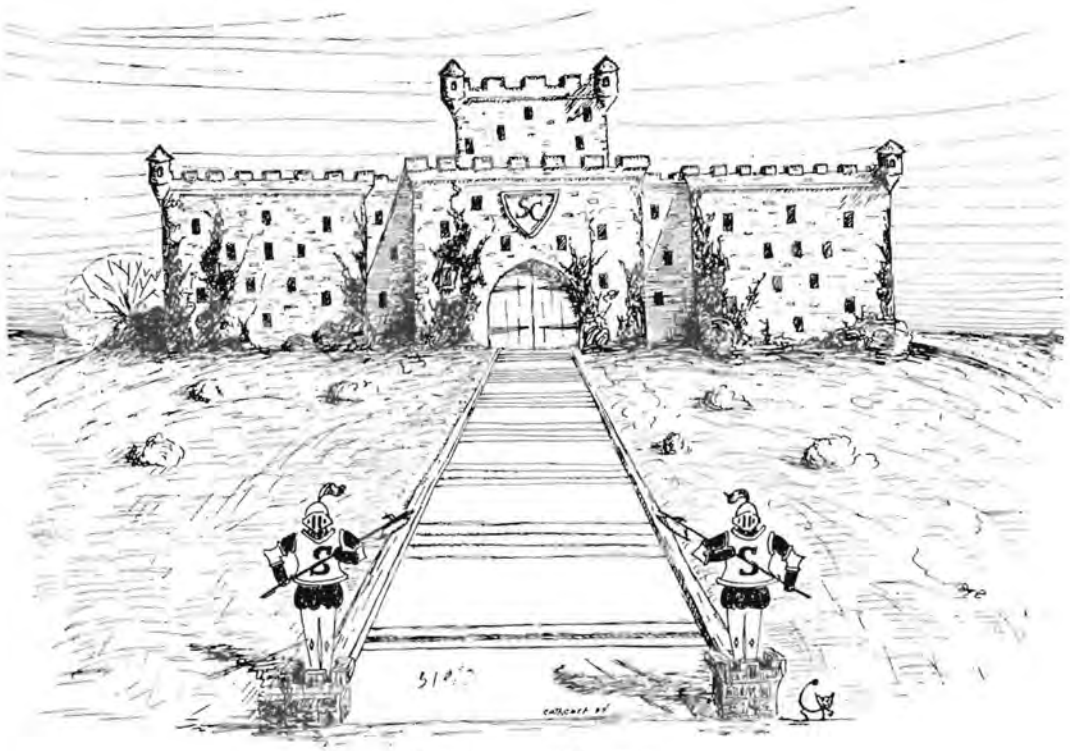

The art featured in this department is of a most signifigant character and conveys a historical setting of brute-strength and agility. During the Medieval times, the art of bull-throwing was considered an achievement of no small renown. This art has since been immortalized in poetry and song, and is in fact, the theme of some of the world's best literature.

Feeling that art of such medieval beauty and chivalrous fascination would be becoming to our pages, the art editor has succeeded admirably in bringing it before you in its pasturized sublimity.

Yours for Deserts,
The Moundslinger Staff.

COLLEGE OF DARK NIGHTS AND BULL-FIGHTERS

RICHARDSON CASTLE

In days of old
When Knights were bold
  And sheet-iron trousers wore
They lived in peace
For then a crease
  Would last ten years or more.

In those old days
They had a craze
  For cast-iron shirts and wore 'em
And there was bliss
Enough in this
The laundry never tore them.

Gallant Knight: Dear Lady fair, the darts of your eyes have punctured the armour of my heart.

Lady Fair: Oh, never mind that old dear—just mix a little "never leak" with your coffee.

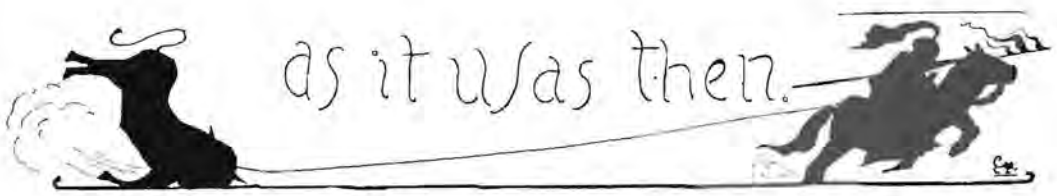

Story of S. C. in Medival Age

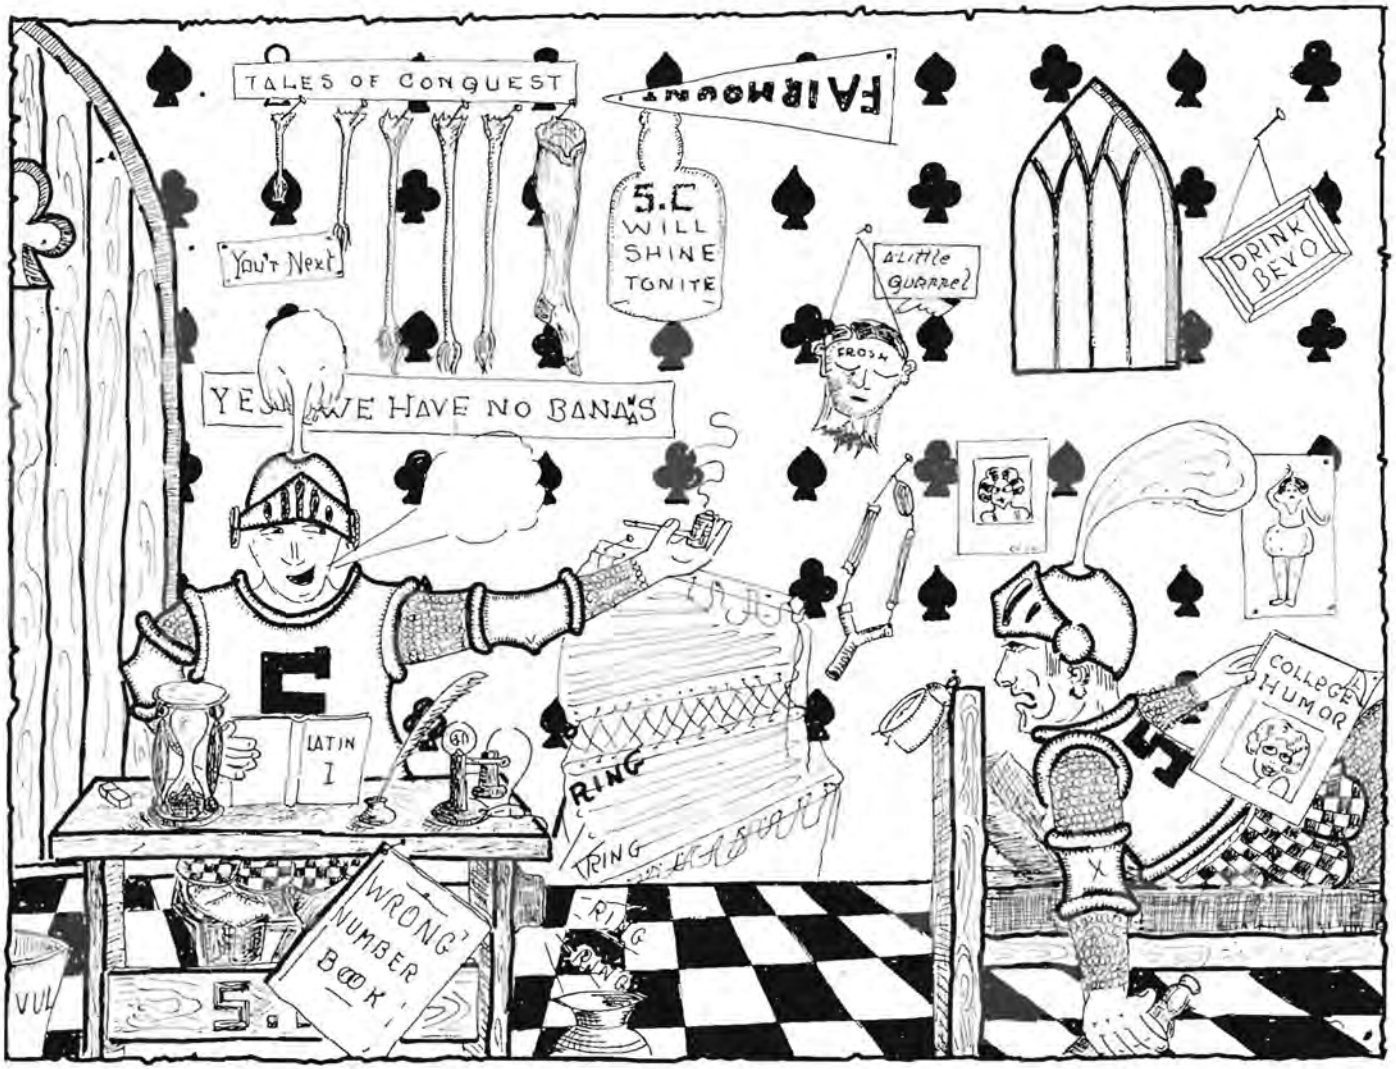

It is not definitely known for what reason Richardson Castle was established. Many cling to the theory that it was built by Richard the Lionhearted as a successful culmination of an anti-dancing crusade. It seems to us that a more logical and sane conclusion would be that it was ordained and established for the purpose of educational and scientific advancement. Evolutionists point out that this theory does not hold water for that it would be impossible for an inanimate organism, so constructed, to evolve into a broadcasting center for the matrimonial opportunities of a missionaries career, in the brief space of three hundred or four hundred years without depositing fossils that would give evidence of such a transition.

Information concerning the faculty of this time is extremely unreliable, although it is commonly accepted as authentic that they were held in great esteem by the students.

It is interesting to note a few of the celebrities that have gone out from S. C. and made worthy contributions to the world's progress. The great Charlemagne started to Southwestern but was expelled at the beginning of the second semester for attending a New Year's dance. This is supposed to have caused a meeting among the students as a result of which, the dean was cast into a den of lions. The school was placed under martial law and order was ultimately established.

Joan of Arc is reported to have graduated with high honors and a bad reputation. Her most worthy achievement was the creation of a militarist organization known as the "Order of the Mound". In order to be eligible to membership, the gallant knight was required to demonstrate his prowess of "throwing the Bull." This organization still flourishes in our midst, and though of a slightly different nature, qualifications are about the same for membership.

STUDENT'S ROOM

Legion of the Mound

I will tell you a little story,
'Tis a story I have heard,
Now you may think its fable
But it's gospel, every word.
'Tis a story of Southwestern
Of the college of the Mound,
And how its site was chosen
From all the world around.
Started back in Xerxe's time
When on his wedding march,
Here upon this lonely site
His sweet bread, he did parch.
And then came King Darius,
A brazen warrior bold,
Who pitched his tents upon these grounds
For protection from the cold.
After Darius, came old Alex,
He was close upon his trail,
The Caw got him for bootlegging
And gave him forty years in jail.
Now ere this awful episode
Had been shorn of burning scandal,
Along came pretty Cleopatra;
'Twas here she lost her sandal.
Scarcely was the scent dispersing
When across the Walnut river,
Came old Julius hotly pressing
In his rambulating flivver.
Right up ninth street he did ramble,
With many a knock and pound,
And Cleo he did overtake
By the Oasis of the Mound.
He built for her the spooner's bench
And they would sit and spoon,
And hug and kiss and everything
'Neath the melancholy moon.
But some ungainly Campus shiek
Thru jealosy, it is said,
Stabbed poor Julius in the back
And stained the bench with red.

Charlemagne called out his troops
When he heard this dreadful tale,
And came marching ore the Kansas plains
To put Cleo safely in jail.
Instead he built a home for her
On the hill just north of town,
It since has grown to simpler heights
And become of state renown.
In 1806 Napoleon came
With his sundry coalitions,
'Tis rumored he built North Hall
To make his war munitions.
The sun was slowly sinking
When from out the Golden West
Came the Sultan and his Harem
With many a shout and jest.
They crossed the raging torrent
Just below the whirlpool dam,
Many perished in the water
In the awful swirling jam.
The unlucky Turks were buried
On the heights below the mill.
The Sultan stood in reverence sad
And termed it Maus-Leum Hill.
The Sultan held unceptured sway
Until Teddy Roosevelt
Fixed his gaze upon the west,
And strapped on his cartridge belt.
A look, a word, a sharp command,
And forth o'er hill and plain
Clamored a hundred charging steeds
To disrupt the Sultan's reign.
Charged on the Mound, the riders rough,
The Turks were unprepared,
And e're they gained a safe retreat,
Young Teddy had them snared.
Now my story's not yet finished
I would tell you all I know,
But some old white-head geezer
Might say it isn't so.

Big Cheese:
The students call him Prexy,
He signs his name as Kirk
His daughter calls him Heek-sy
But his middle name is work.
"A savage chief of still more savage professors."
Vice-Cheese:
Commonly known as Prof. Jawn.
"Champion of student's rights."
Cheese Registrar:
Heartless grabber of tuition.
"His brows are shaggy with the fruits of wisdom."
He looked so darn disconsolate
As he peered upon the floor
And seemed to frown and cogitate
As he searched from door to door.

The students began to wonder
At his melancholy france,
"Oh, pardon me," said he at length,
"I've lost the creases in my pants."
English Cheese:
Patient proponder of Freshman Rhetoric.
"The hands of the maker did not tremble when he moulded her frame, and he breathed a wonderfully vital spirit into her clay,—but oh, the irony of her soul."
Scotch Cheese of History:
A wise old bird is Prof. Mac,
At fooling people he has quite a knack,
But confidentially
Between you and me
I think he's something of a quack.
Spanish Pimento Cheese:
"The languages of the world dismember one another in their struggle to gain exit from the burning theatre of his brain."
Cheese Bates:
"Were he to leave, even the pines would pine."

NO MAN'S LAND

Oh East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet,
Till girls from each stand presently at S. C.'s judgement seat.
But there is neither East nor Smith, Holland nor Allison Hall
When two co-eds sit side by side in a term examination pall.

ODE TO SMITH HALL

I love to kiss Sarah
  And Freda and Clara,
I love to hug Pheobe and Ruth
  Far better than death
Is joyriding with Beth
  Or being with Guen in a booth.

A ride on the trolley
  With Gladys is jolly,
Anita's my pal in the main,
  Tho when hunting of fishing
I find myself wishing
  I'd brought along Dorothy Jane.

For a virginia reel
  I pick on Lucile
Her step is so lively and free,
  With quick-witted Olive
And a cake of Palmolive
  Shore dinners are heaven to me.

Tho Vera's embraces
  Leave 'liptical traces,
Her company is pleasing 'tis true
  But always there's Ted
And with Pheobe 'tis said
  Is the Laddie that's known as Lou.

When I go to the race
  I enjoy taking Grace,
With her I never am blue.
  Both Gertrude and Aileen
Are quite the cat's spleen
  At preparing a picnic for two.

I go out with Helen
  To eat watermelon,
I love to go strolling with Mary,
  And you should see Julia
Do the french hulu-hulu,
  But with Alma I do love to tarry.

About Ruby I'm crazy
  And Faith is a daisy,
In fact they're all darlings for true
  But of all the sweet misses
That sample my kisses
  The one that I'd marry is you.

Hey Skipper! What's the fare?

What is worse than raining cats and dogs?
Hailing this creeping street lizzard.

First Stewed: "I heard there was an awful commotion in the street car this morning."
Second Stewed: "Yeah, the skipper cracked a smile."

(Dedicated to those we love)
Under the swinging street car straps
The homely co-ed stands,
And stands and stands and stands and stands,
And stands and stands and stands.
(Morale—reserve your seats early)

"That isn't fare," said the skipper as Dobbie dropped in a lead slug.

The STRAP

See the student on the strap; trolley strap.
What a lot of exercise and kick it gives a chap;
See him caper, caper, caper,
In a melancholy plight,
While each rude unfeeling gaper
Grins amid the smoky vapor
With a fiendish wild delight.
Keeping tabs on his jabs—
On his wild and futile grabs
At the strap.
As he scoots and lands abruptly in a pretty co-ed's lap;
Too much horrified to speak
At her palpitating shriek
Of despair—
In her mad exposulation as he clutches at her hair.
Oh, from out his frenzied ire
Wells a desperate desire
For a scrap,
In the swelling and compelling of his fury at the strap,
At the swaying and betraying of the strap.
