THE MEMORIAL LIBRARY
Southwestern College
Winfield, Kansas

Foreword

The yearbook staff of 1962 presents, as its creation, The Moundbuilder. A yearbook is a child, born slowly and in pain. Like the time it depicts, a yearbook is a transient effort, and another year will give way to the flash of other flash bulbs and, again, a child will come forth.

But our 1962 Moundbuilder will live and become timeless in the way any yearbook becomes timeless. It will reach out and catch, suspended in shapeless form—time—and will give to the passing moments a measure of immortality.

For what is a college year if it could be measured by the mathematician's slide, the chemist's tube?

It is an autumn moon over Christy as the old building presides over the valley, a Moorish castle of another day.

And the Ezekiel-the-prophet countenance of Dr. Morrill looming majestically over 30 beanies.

The singing of "On Southwestern" as dirty uniforms file off the field.

And the serious face of Dean Skinner, who listens to a tale of woe from a tear-filled face and has heard it all before . . .

And the light burning late in a dormitory window . . .

Steps covered with ice and a frosty morning on the cedars.

These appear and pass as a vapor, but for one fleeting second they have stood still for our photographers, and we hope that in future years the moments will again live for you, the reader and viewer.

dedicated to . . .

Dr. Miron A. Morrill

He came to Southwestern six years ago, a man rich with a background of experience and responsibility. With a real belief in youth, and dedicated to the task of their education, he did enhance the curriculum of the college for one and one half years. Then, in a manner common to men of great worth, he responded, resolutely, to share in answering an oriental plea for educators. In Taipei, on the island of Formosa, he taught the English language and was an academic consultant for Soochow University. Last year he returned from China to head the department of language and literature in our school.

Naïve Freshmen meet him in the rather impersonal classroom, to realize how much less than perfect were their previous studies in English literature. Others might meet him in the halls, on the walks, or in the auditorium as he brings to us some symbolic words of language arts.

To Dr. Miron A. Morrill, in gratitude and with appreciation, we dedicate the 1962 Mound-builder, realizing that, perhaps, it is a wasted thing to proclaim tribute to some men.

The New Year's Eve We Did The Town . . .

The Day We Tore The Goal Post Down . . .

We Will Have These Moments To Remember.

The Quiet Walk . . .

The Noisy Fun . . .

The Ballroom Prize We Almost Won . . .

We Will Have These Moments To Remember.

When Summer Turns To Winter . . .

And The Present Disappears . . .

The Laughter We Were Glad To Share...

Will Echo Through The Years . . .

And Other Nights And Other Days

Will Find Us Gone Our Separate Ways . . .

We Will Have These Moments To Remember.

MOMENTS TO REMEMBER

Some months ago a brochure came to my desk entitled "THE GREAT MOMENTS OF YOUR LIFE." I reflected upon two words: "GREAT"—"MOMENTS."

Great is a word used to describe bigness, vastness and elements of power. A Moment is so tiny, so fleeting so full of movement and passes so quickly.

How could it be that these two very different words should be linked together to describe some experience that would never be forgotten? We cannot recall most of life's moments. They are described by an anonymous writer who said:

"Lost, one golden hour!
Set with sixty diamond seconds.
No reward offered
For it is lost forever."

But I can remember those great moments in college that changed my life. They include:

- The first time I was elected to a responsible position by my classmates.
- When my favorite professor expressed confidence in me.
- The sense of joy and wonder that came from quiet worship.
- The first time I knew "I could."
- The time when the Dean asked me to assist him in a program.
- The clean, good feeling within when I refused to cheat even though I could have gotten by with it.
- The time when the President called me by my first name.
- The moment when I was presented my college degree.
- The moment I realized that I had found the girl of my dreams.

When the artist, Charles M. Russell of Montana was at the height of his fame, he was asked by a reporter just what he considered to be his greatest picture. Russell considered the gallery of his magnificent scenes of the early West. Then, he answered, "I have not painted it yet." In that spirit we realize that life's greatest moments have not yet been experienced.

Let us accept the Moments to Remember and build upon them for the future.

Activities

Homecoming '61

"The Spirit of '76" mirrored in retrospect 76 years of progress as alums returned to College Hill for traditional homecoming activities. Queen Sharon Means reigned over a day which featured dorm decorations, floats, marching bands, and renewed acquaintances of old friends. Co-operating were the Builders, who stopped Bethel 12-7, Miss Helen Graham and her Campus Players, who entertained with a contemporary satirical farce, Gore Vidal's "Visit to a Small Planet," and, last but not least, the weatherman, who held back the rain clouds till the last notes died from the evening dance and the last mum was pressed between book pages for other years and other memories. The "day after" brought only torn crepe and ruffled decorations, but Homecoming, 1961, served as a preview of a school year to remember.

Visit to a Small Planet

by
GORE VIDAL

HOBO DAY . . . is a day of frivolity and nonchalance . . . It is a day filled with old hats, patched pants, and holey sneakers . . . It is a day for slouching, yawning, screaming, and much loud laughter. It is a day to play the role of . . .

vagrant . . .
derelict . . .
madman . . .
sackrat . . .
clown . . .
or . . .
comedian.

IN SHORT, Hobo Day is like most other days at Southwestern. Only the costumes are changed to protect the innocent!

A MOMENT TO REMEMBER.

Being a student at Southwestern involves more than attending classes and participating in the organized activities on campus. There is a certain amount of living which is also part of being a student: knowing someone, roommate or girl friend, enjoying a wild moment of progressive ping-pong or battling a hand of bridge, studying, eating, talking, relaxing . . . sleeping.

Kissing the Jinx—whitewashing the “S”—wearing his beanie—the lowly freshman was hard pressed to prove that he could co-exist with his lofty upper-classmates.

Traditions

On Friday, Sept. 29, Dr. Miron Morrill decreed the Great Autumn Fire with the pronouncement, “At this fire we shall warm our hearts and light our minds.” And so a new tradition joined ranks with an old and memorable one—the Building of the Mound.

"Christmas on Campus" arrived on Dec. 5, and the warmth of the yuletide season was reflected in gift exchanges, class parties, worship services, and fellowship.

Christmas on Campus

Eagerheart

Coralee Marshall enacted the role of Mary as Miss Helen Graham's Campus Players presented, for the 29th year, Eagerheart, Christmas morality play. Mrs. Gwen Huck was Eagerheart.

Debate

SC's debate squad, under the capable direction of Coach Marguerite Schriver, compiled a record of 95 wins in 163 decisions for the first semester and acted as host to the Southwestern Invitational Debate Tournament. In February, the highlight of the year came when Coach Schriver and four debaters, Jo Pat Johnson, Bill Hill, Jim Patterson, and Dave Dolsen, attended the Northwestern University Invitational Tournament and won 9 of 16 decisions. Debate topic for the year was "Resolved: that labor unions should be placed under the jurisdiction of anti-trust legislation."

Miss Helen Graham's Campus Players performed as true thespians this year as a diversified selection of drama was offered to satisfy every taste. In the first semester, one-act plays were cast, produced, and directed by the dramatics acting class.

In March, the all-school play, Kaufman and Hart's comedy, You Can't Take It with You was well received.

The Campus Players culminated a year's activity with King Lear, the classic Shakespearean tragedy of a king and his three daughters. The title role was played by Mr. Mike Alexander, graduating senior.

Drama

The Purple Panorama script-choosing committee at work. Bill Minturn, Joanna Scott, Gary Phillippi, and Norman Callison.

Formal dances and not-so-formal dances: both were well attended this 1961-62 year. Among the sounds heard in the dining hall-dance area were the Blue Barons. Formal dances were also held at Homecoming, Christmas, and in the spring. Various clubs, such as Kappa Rho, held dances for their members. The clubs also sponsored informal dances after the games. One of the most unusual dances was the "Heaven and Hell" dance, at which time Miss Connie Shenk was crowned Miss Southwestern. The King Spice dance in February was under the direction of Gamma Omicron.

However, a lot of dancing on campus was done informally and during "off-hours." The twist and the slop were two new steps which were carefully practiced in the Builder room before trying them on the dance floor.

Originality, versatility, and variety were key words as the year witnessed a number of unusual and entertaining assemblies. Talent seemed abundant, not only in the entertainment world outside the college, but also in the class-produced assemblies, which proved thoroughly pleasing as students unveiled a series of skits, satires, musical presentations, and dance routines.

As school began, the Matriculation Convocation recognized the academically talented. Individual numbers to follow were highlighted by the appearance of Joe and Penny Aronson, folk-singing duo. The SC Band returned from tour to present a varied program of musical selections, and Stephen Kovacs thrilled the audience as his talented fingers demonstrated a mastery of the piano keyboard.

Students returned from Christmas vacation to hear organist Robert Anderson, and on March 17, the Dallas Symphony entertained in Stewart Field House.

Perhaps the most thoroughly enjoyed assemblies were the class presentations, characterized by the Junior Class' depiction of ROCKPILE-TV, directed by Gary Phillippi. Script writers included Becky Hays, Norman Callison, Gwen Huck and Glenn Wooddell.

Dr. Benjamin Spock would undoubtedly approve as Miss Eileen Watt, director of the Johnston Child Development Center, plans an active day for pre-school children. A typical day is replete with story telling, finger painting, parties and all the essentials to making a young heart happy. The Johnston Child Development Center also gives college students in psychology courses an opportunity to observe the three to five-year age group at work and at play.

Gone from the campus this year was Dr. Leonard Laws, on leave of absence doing graduate work in the field of statistics and probability at Stanford University. Dr. Laws received a National Science Foundation fellowship for the 1961-62 academic year.

Mr. Dennis Akin of the Art Department—still painting on the mural.

SC's Fine Arts Department was active in developing the college's cultural activity in a year characterized by organ recitals, a band tour, student recitals and a pursuit of artistic expression.

Steve Kaufman runs through a belt line formed by the SC Band at Meade during its recent high school tour.

Rogene Bahm and Marilyn Stanton—a piano recital.

Mr. James Strand at the organ.

Brent Matzen, Judi Watson, and the human anatomy.

Club activities were many and varied this year. The social clubs held rush, sponsored dances, dinners and fun parties, with the ever-present inter-club rivalry Campus-Y, like many of the other clubs, had their own money-making project, a concession-stand in Stewart Field House. Campus-Y also held a series of programs on "Two Sides of the Coin," which included a challenging session with Mr. Love of Wichita, a member of the John Birch Society. CSC Board sponsored movies for the student body which were shown in the Tri-Dining Area. WUS was active in promoting assistance to needy students abroad under the leadership of Chris Hughes. And the MSM Retreat-planning session was a riot.

Religious Emphasis Week

"Christianity on Main Street" was the theme chosen by guest speaker Dr. Douglas Ewing Jackson for RE Week, February 18-23. Assisting Dr. Jackson with discussion groups, dorm devotions, and in individual conferences were the Rev. Charles Curtis, Anthony, and the Rev. Joe Riley Burns, El Dorado. Other activities during RE Week included sermons by Dr. Jackson at both the Grace and the First Methodist Churches, dinner meetings, vesper services, a faculty meeting, and special chapels. Many classes during the week welcomed Dr. Jackson as guest lecturer. The RE Week committee, under the guidance of Rev. Harold M. Parker, Jr., SC director of religious life, was co-chaired by Dennis Maack and Cecile Williams. Barbara Johnson and Norman Callison were in charge of publicity.

Dr. Jackson counsels with SC student Charlotte Roberts

Dr. Frank L. Countryman

During Founders' Day, March 13, Rev. Frank L. Countryman received the degree Doctor of Divinity, conferred by Mr. Carroll McLaughlin. Mr. Countryman was graduated from Southwestern in 1939 and is Superintendent of the Chicago Southern District of the Methodist Church. Also S. C. Registrar Murrel K. Snyder presented a Moundbuilder citation to Levi B. Rymph, class of '23 and a former mayor of Wichita. The President of the Board of Trustees, Mr. George Templar, gave highlights of the annual report during an evening banquet.

Founders' Day

Old North Hall, now gone from the S.C. campus scene, remains in the memories of past grads. But the dreams of today and tomorrow are materialized in the floor plans for the new Fine Arts Center. Two new residence halls are also being planned, keeping Southwestern abreast of the times.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman

The Smith-Willson Lecture Series presented Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, the dean of American Protestant ministers. Dr. Sockman gave a series of lectures October 10-12, and autographed copies of his books during an informal session in the Student Center.

Artist and Lecture Series

The 1961-1962 Artist and Lecture Series featured a variety of appeal to the aesthetically and intellectually inclined. To the delight of the lover of drama, our stage was graced with the return of Mr. Philip Hanson, Shakespearean impresario. Arlio Diaz, Venezuelan classical guitarist, made a December appearance on campus.

The second semester featured three additional presentations of extremely high caliber. The College Musicum, a University of Illinois ensemble, utilized an array of antiquated musical instruments and a repertoire of ancient music. Perhaps the most noteworthy name on the roster of personalities was that of Vance Packard, author of The Status Seekers and The Hidden Persuaders. He presented a vital commentary on the "Changing Character of the American People."

The Artist and Lecture Series culminated in an elucidation of "The Revolution of Western Thought" by Dr. Huston Smith, the first professor of philosophy to be appointed to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

May Queen

Miss Connie Shenk

Her Majesty, Miss Connie Shenk, reigned over the 41st annual May Fete celebration, held May 5 on the May Queen Green. According to Miss Lillian Cloud, who has organized the May Fete since 1923, the tradition was given to the school by the Belles Lettres-Athenian Society in 1921. Queen Connie and her Master of Ceremonies, Roger Lungren, reigned over the dances and other festivities.

*Master of Ceremonies:

Three Southwestern students, Maridene Witter, Bert Rinkle and Diana LeBosquet, went to Washington, D. C., for the spring semester, to participate in the Washington Semester Program. Under the auspices of the American University, chosen students from all over the nation spent one semester studying American Government. They are chosen on the basis of scholarship achievement, interest, and leadership ability.

"Our girl in Atlanta" this year was Constance Kellogg as Southwestern College embarked upon a student exchange program with Spelman College, Atlanta, Georgia, an all-Negro girls' college of approximately 600 students. In turn, Bernette Joshua, Spelman sophomore, spent a semester on the Southwestern College campus. She arrived one snowy day in January to enroll in social science courses. Among the courses taken by the S.C. coed was one in Negro History.

For both girls, it was an enjoyable, beneficial experience with Connie witnessing the trial of ten Spelman girls arrested in a sit-in demonstration. Combined with the Washington Semester program, the Spelman exchange offered Southwestern yet another opportunity to expose its students to a broader understanding of peoples of diverse geographical and ethnic backgrounds.

Who's Who

The names of nine S.C. students will appear in the 1961-62 publication of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. This national honor is awarded annually by a student-faculty committee to those seniors who have contributed most to the social, recreational, and intellectual areas of campus life. Selected this year were Chrystal Kellogg, Gene Miller, Burce Birch, Beverly Reynolds Bennett, Mark Arthur, Martise Conway, Jim Glenn, Mike Alexander and David Dolsen.

Mike Alexander, Bruce Birch, Chrystal Kellogg, Jim Glenn, Roger Lungren and Connie Shenk (not pictured) were chosen as the 1962 Masterbuilders. This award is given on the basis of popularity, contribution, leadership, and academic achievement. The six seniors were chosen by popular ballot from the student body.

INVOCATION AND DECREE

(Establishing the great autumn fire)

Thee, cleanly-burning fire we invoke,
Thee that hast burned on the altars of mankind through ages untold.
Now the busy year of planting and harvesting is nearly spent,
And we the neophytes, the freshman class of Southwestern College,
At Winfield on the Great Plains, amidst the Flint Hills
In the Blue Stem country of Kansas,
We, freshmen, in the autumn of the Year of Our Lord
One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-one,
We do renew, ordain, and establish the custom of the Great Autumn
Fire . . .
We are not unaware that, in thus ordaining, we appeal to the Spirits of autumns past,
To the mighty heroes of gridirons gone by.
We summon them to share with us in this ceremony of the great burning.
Therefore, be it ordained, that now, in this fruitful year,
And in all years to come whether fruitful or barren,
As the Great Spirit of the Land shall decree,
We and all freshman classes to come,
Do glean this and every autumn from our broad streets and avenues
And from the fields and hills,
The fragments remaining from another year of toil and industry;
That we pile them high in preparation for the holy holocaust.
Be it ordained that we gather at some central spot
Before one of the great portals of our beloved campus on the hill;
That we do proceed with leaping and dancing
And spirited invocations,
Unto that sacred circle of the Autumn Fire.
Then those appointed for this priestly task,
Shall approach the sacred pile and shall apply their torches thereunto.
High, high, shall the flames leap up.
Into this great fire we hurl all cast-off things—
All failures in our past, all small and trivial dreams,
All partialities unworthy of the Sons and Daughters of the Mound.
This fire shall be our pledge of victory:
Victory over the opponent on the football field,
Victory over all opponents of the year which awaits us,
Victory on field, and hardwood floor, on hill and alley,
And on the mark'd courts of encounter with the tensioned racket;
Victory in the realm of ideals and ideas, victory over the dark tides of fear and uncertainty.
At this fire we shall warm our hearts and light our minds;
This flame shall be our pledge of security and safety in the darker valleys
Of months and years to come;
Its circle the symbolic center to which, returning,
In imagination and memory,
We shall renew our pledge to Thee
O Alma Mater, Fostering Mother dear.
