Foreword

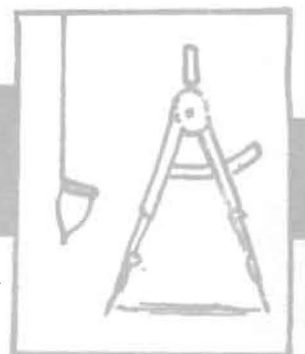

The academic hill of Southwestern College is adorned with many beautiful, contemporary buildings. In fact, the past 15 years have seen an almost complete change in the appearance of our campus.

Christy Administration Building replaced Richardson Hall which was destroyed in the fire of 1950. Since then, Mossman Hall, the science building, has taken the place of the condemned North Hall on the lower campus. The Roy L. Smith College and Student Center is the scene of many of the campus social affairs as well as the campus dining room.

Wallingford Hall provides housing for 150 women. Two new residences for men have been added, Broadhurst Hall and Sutton Hall. The Memorial Library houses the book collection and is a study and research center for students. Married students and men enjoy the facilities of the Shriwise Apartments. The modern president's home located by Kirk Drive has replaced the old structure.

Of great meaning this year has been the building of the new fine arts center, north of the administration building, overlooking the Walnut Valley. The ground breaking for the building was on Founders' Day, 1964, and the laying of the cornerstone was celebrated on Founders' Day, 1965. Although they will cherish fond memories of termite-ridden barracks which have been their habitat for the past few years, the fine arts students look forward to the fall of 1965 when they will move into their new center.

The new structures and the old present a visible picture of the growth of Southwestern College. The staff of 1965 takes great pleasure in presenting the MOUNDBUILDER to you as a record of the building of our campus as well as a record of the memories we have shared here.

The dream that the trustees and friends of Southwestern would transform the vision of a new fine arts center into reality was a faith well-founded. Ground was broken. Bids were received, opened, and a decision reached. The earthmovers began the transformation of the hillside north of Christy.

Persons involved in fine arts on campus have had an acute awareness of need for the new center. When the University Senate reported on its recent survey of the Southwestern campus, it wrote: "Now the college is ready for the final physical breakthrough. Still needed are a fine arts center, a swimming pool, additional dormitories, and warehouse and workshops. When these have been achieved, Southwestern will have one of the finest small-college plants in the nation."

Students view large machinery around the construction site.

President C. Orville Strohl

Dr. Strohl looks over plans for another new building.

As the 13th president of Southwestern, C. Orville Strohl has certainly been responsible for much of the progress on our campus. Born on September 18, 1908, in Meade County, Kansas, President Strohl received a bachelor's degree at Southwestern in 1931 and attended the Iliff School of Theology to receive his bachelor of divinity and master of theology degrees. His honorary doctorate is from Iowa Wesleyan. In 1933, he married Helen L. Burgner and has three children and several grandchildren. President Strohl was ordained to the Methodist Church in 1935 and, before his inauguration in 1954, served as a pastor, instructor, lecturer and executive director of Christian Education, all in Iowa. We, as Builders, should feel fortunate to have as a part of our college a man as dedicated to Christian principles as President Strohl. His personal, vital interest in not only the campus, but also each student as an individual has marked him as a man well-qualified to lead among peoples.

The administration of Southwestern College seems to meet student expectations. Whether freshman or senior, the warm bond of personal friendship between student and administrator is real. How well one remembers the sincere and honest interest in the student's adjustment taken by these people! To have the president call one by name, the academic dean to share a joke, and the counselor's help with a problem--these give the student an incentive to answer the questions, "Who am I?" and "Where am I going?" with a goal toward the better Christian life.

Southwestern has within the division of social science a well-trained staff whose interest in helping the student to understand the world around him often extends beyond the classroom. For instance, Albert Dimmitt directed a seminar on politics, Rev. Robert Kysar guided the committee in charge of Religious Emphasis week and Dr. Wallace Gray has worked closely with an interested group in the Civil Rights movement. Other programs such as the humanities course, the Smith-Willson lectures and the various exchange programs were offered in part with the efforts of these departments.

Dr. Charles Kerr, Dr. Earl Dungan and Guy Lackey instruct in elementary and secondary education to help our students meet the challenges of modern teaching. Rev. Robert Kysar and Rev. Harold Parker, Jr., teach courses related to religion, such as New Testament and Survey of the Bible. The department of history is under the leadership of Albert Dimmitt, Dr. Robert Haywood and Dr. Garry Hays. Dr. Wallace Gray directs courses in both religion and philosophy while Dr. Roland Haynes and Dr. Douglas Moore teach in the area of psychology. The business department includes Will Walker, Dr. James Davis, Mrs. John Lowe and Mrs. Viola Schwantes. Instruction in the area of sociology is given by Murrel Snyder.

Natural Science

The division of natural science offers a large variety of courses in the fields of biology, chemistry, mathematics, physics, home economics and industrial arts. Good instruction and well-equipped labs provide students with an excellent opportunity to learn. Division members are Dr. Leonard Laws, Manly Huber, Leo Folck, Lee Dubowsky, Genevieve Howe, Mrs. Mildred Skinner, Dr. James Hutchinson, Orland Kolling, Robert Wimmer and James Altendorf.

LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Menno S. Harder
Associate Professor of English

Jimmie L. Sole
Instructor in English

Arthur T. Tees
Instructor in Speech and Theater

The influence of the division of language and literature is widespread over the campus of Southwestern College, for the ability to write and speak well is a necessity for all courses. Because of our more than adequate program in English, foreign languages, speech, drama and journalism, the students of our campus may more readily meet the challenge of other courses through the well-expressed idea.

Instruction of English and literature has been under Charles Gale, Jimmie Sole, Dr. Menno Harder, Mrs. Gleva Hanson, Mrs. James Vincent and Clare Kiskaddon. The foreign languages offered include Spanish, under Mrs. C.Z. Ballard and French, by Mrs. Elmer Douglas. Journalism is taught by Vernon McDaniel.

Forensics and dramatic productions reached a new height this year as exemplified in "A Thurber Carnival" given in November and "Pygmalion" in March, both under the guidance of Arthur Tees. The spring play and Shakespearean scenes were presented under the direction of Mrs. Gleva Hanson. The debate teams, coached by J.L. Martin and Bill Todd, placed first in the kick-off debate at Omaha.

With the division's far-reaching program, our students have once again become Builders in seeking and expressing ideas and thought that might one day be no longer theory or hypothesis but proven fact through the efforts of all those within these departments

Fine Arts

Grace Sellers, Associate Professor of Piano

With the new $600,000 fine arts building almost completed, the division of fine arts under the chairmanship of Dr. W.B. Wooldridge has reached a new height. The superior facilities this building will offer should improve Southwestern's already excellent reputation in this area.

On tour this year, the a cappella choir traveled to Colorado Springs, Western Kansas, St. Louis and Chicago. Likewise, the orchestra, under Ross Williams, made its way through a snow-covered Kansas in November. Instruction in piano and organ, provided by Marie Burdette, Grace Sellers and James Strand, was highlighted the past year with many excellent recitals. The Southwestern band, conducted by Albert Hodges, presented a concert in January as well as a marching display in the fall. Also, Dr. Joe Sims returned from Colombia to resume teaching after establishing a program of music education in that country.

The art department, of which Southwestern can be justly proud, is headed by Dennis Akin. His extensive study both at home and abroad has given the art students on campus a personal insight to this always contemporary mode of expression.

Library

Of the buildings on the campus of Southwestern, perhaps our memorial library is the one building where all students become drawn together.

Completed in 1951, the present $181,191 building has a capacity for 50,000 volumes, an improvement over the previous libraries in old North Hall, in Christy Hall and even the basement of the Stewart Field House. Built in memory of the men and women who served in war from Cowley County, the library faces expansion in the very near future to accommodate the growing interest of our students in the various fields.

Now under the supervision of Richard Reich, with assistance from Mrs. Ruby Gary in reference and circulation, Mrs. Katherine Stone as order clerk and Mrs. Gladys Dennis as cataloguer, Southwestern's library has served well the needs of the students. The importance of its role in our campus life cannot be overly stressed.

Physical Education

Opportunities within the department of physical education are indeed widespread. However, among all these areas of physical development stands the one basic element of physical fitness. To become strong academic students, we must build not only upon the foundation of knowledge but also upon our health.

With instruction in health education under Lillian Cloud, the student learns what he must do for good physical fitness. Under Harold Elliott, Mrs. Dennis Kunkel and Robert Hower, he does that which he has learned through physical education classes. The preservation of health is a duty and major responsibility of both the student and the instructor, for a sound mind in a strong body makes a solid Builder.

In Memoriam

Dr. Jean L. Throckmorton, chairman of the division of languages and literature and associate professor of English, died in November, 1964, after a short illness. She had been a member of the Southwestern College faculty during the 1963-64 school year.

Dr. Throckmorton was known for her radiant smile and willingness to help any student. She believed in the small college for developing close rapport with her students. A practical person, Dr. Throckmorton applied her teaching in such a way as to provide students with the opportunity to acquire an education which would apply to their daily lives.

Dr. Elwood Stone, associate professor of English, died in the spring of 1964 after serving on the Southwestern College faculty from 1960 to 1963.

Dr. Stone was well known for his ability and helpful attitude. He believed in the college student and his search for individualism.

Ralph McCann, a member of the Southwestern College staff, died in August of 1964 after serving in the maintenance department for four years. He was born in Moline, Kansas, and worked in the oil fields before coming to Southwestern.

Mr. McCann was always ready to help in any way that would result in a better college and more comfort for students and faculty.

and treasurer, Orville Barrett, are congratulated by President Strohl.

Mr. Snyder, senior class sponsor, advises graduating senior.

The senior class of 1965 looks back on its four years at Southwestern with pride. The tradition of the bonfire was established during their freshman year. As sophomores they began to take an active part in campus activities, participating in social clubs. Many of the class represented Southwestern in its exchange programs, during their junior year. Now as seniors, the class of 1965 looks forward to taking its place in the world.

Two Southwestern seniors planning for one of the many conferences in which the college participates.

Junior class officers: president, Dick Swindler; vice president, Dick Strano; secretary, Kathy Wilkey; and treasurer,

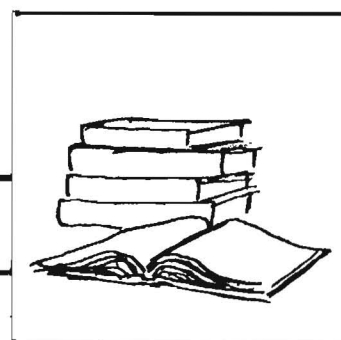

Janice Moore, find the library helpful in their studies.

Class sponsor, Vernon McDaniel, peruses through newspaper.

The class of 1966 looks with anticipation to the activities of its senior year. But the memories of its previous three years gives it satisfaction of achievements already gained. Among these was the winning of the first place award for their homecoming float when they were freshmen.

TRADITIONS

Some of the most meaningful experiences that a student has during his college life are the traditions of the campus. Southwestern College has many traditions. The Building of the Mound ceremony is a tradition known only to Southwestern College. The freshmen are welcomed to the campus by being "orientated." At Southwestern this includes wearing beanies and kissing the Jinx. Following their orientation, the freshmen attempt to build a bonfire that will surpass the bonfire of the previous class.

The Roy L. Smith College and Student Center is a popular place with Southwestern students. Here students stop for a snack, a game of pool, or just a chat with a friend or a prof. Traditions are a part of every campus, and Southwestern is no exception.

Another scared freshman kisses the Jinx.

The freshman class broke the record with its bonfire which was over 36 feet high.

The flames from the bonfire soared high into the night sky.

It seems that every semester the endless line to the business office becomes necessary

The majority of the students always spend a large portion of their time the first few days of school waiting in the union to buy their books.

SMITH-WILLSON LECTURES

Dr. Gerald Kennedy, the Methodist bishop from the Los Angeles area, was the Smith-Willson lecturer this year. Bishop Kennedy presented five lectures in three days. He is a well-known author, traveler, and leader in the Methodist Church. In addition to the lectures, Kennedy was the central figure at firesides and luncheons during the week.

"Don't live for tomorrow but right now," says Bishop Gerald Kennedy.

RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK

Dr. Everett Tilson, the Parkhurst Bible lecturer.

Religious Emphasis Week was highlighted by the Parkhurst Bible lectures presented by Dr. Everett Tilson, professor of Old Testament at Ohio Methodist Theological School at Delaware. The Parkhurst lectures are new this year and will be sponsored annually by Dr. and Mrs. George Parkhurst of Woodward, Oklahoma. These lectures should provide information as well as inspiration while giving deeper insight into the Bible.

The main theme of the week was "The Prophets in Dialogue with Modern Man." In addition to Dr. Tilson the speakers were Rabbi Judea B. Miller of the Temple Emanu-El in Wichita, and Dr. Carl Eklund, a Methodist minister from Russell.

The main events of the week were the Parkhurst lectures, symposiums, firesides, informal discussions and classroom lectures.

Dr. Carl Eklund, Dr. Everett Tilson and Rabbi Judea B. Miller converse in Hamilton Lounge with regard to the events of Religious Emphasis Week.

A participant in the Spelman program was Beth Gore.

Barbara Bondurant and Beth Gore were Southwestern's representatives in the Spelman program this year. Spelman College is an all-Negro girls' college in Atlanta, Ga. This program provides an opportunity for students to gain a broader understanding of people of diverse geographical and ethnic backgrounds.

Barbara Bondurant is honored at a going away party for the girls going to Spelman.

The UN building is a familiar sight to Susan Broadie, UN semester student.

Southwestern's participant in the United Nations semester at Drew University was Susan Broadie. In this program, the student is involved in activities on the campus of Drew University and at the United Nations headquarters. This program provides an opportunity for students to become aware of the importance of the United Nations as it functions in international affairs.

Four Southwestern students participated in the Washington Semester program at American University in Washington, D.C. First semester participants were Bill Olmstead and Reg Stephens; second semester, John Ploger and Ranny Tomson. The Washington Semester program has students enrolled from all over the nation who spend one semester studying American government. The students are chosen on the basis of scholarship, achievement, interest and leadership activity.

The Capitol provides a background as Bill and Reg discuss some vital issues.

WINTER ON CAMPUS

Smith Hall's Christmas party produced this beautifully decorated Christmas tree.

After the snow, sledding and skiing went on from early morning until late at night.

Christmas decorations adorned much of the campus--Christy, dormitories, and office windows.

A bit chilly, don't you think?

Whee-e-e-e!!

Homecoming Day

Our queen and her attendants anxiously watched the Builder team as it surged forth to victory.

"Touchdown!"

Southwestern's marching band did its part to make the homecoming parade a success.

The men of Broadhurst Hall took first prize in dormitory decorations with their "wild" laughing monster.

The dedication of the newly remodeled Helen Graham Theatre was enjoyed by those who attended the ceremony following the game.

Homecoming, 1964, began Tuesday evening, Nov. 10, with a pep rally and the crowning of the homecoming queen, Sherry Urban. All week, dormitories and clubs worked many long and hard hours on dorm decorations and floats. The week's activities culminated on Saturday with the judging of the decorations and floats, the parade, and numerous luncheons welcoming alumni. In the afternoon, following a delay awaiting officials, the Builder football team was victorious over the College of Emporia Presbies. A big highlight of the day was the dedication of the theatre to Helen Graham Scott, Southwestern's drama director for 40 years. The evening events which capped homecoming included an alumni dinner, a reunion of the 1934 football team, Campus Players' homecoming play, "A Thurber Carnival," and the "Twilight Zone" dance.

PYGMALION

George Bernard Shaw gives us a good account of the rise of a poor flower girl from Lesson Grove to the fashionable company of London. Professor Henry Higgins takes Eliza Doolittle, the flower girl, into his home on a bet with Colonel Pickering that he can, in six months, pass her off in high society as a duchess. The problem of what is to become of Eliza after she has been transformed is the concern of everyone but Professor Higgins. After she has won the bet for the professor, she is disturbed because no appreciation of her is shown for the work that she had done, and Higgins had not changed in his attitude towards her. He still treats her as a flower girl. Whether Eliza comes back to Professor Higgins or marries Freddy Eynsford Hill is left up to the audience.

"You could adopt her, Mrs. Pearce."

"Well, you have both of them on your gramophone and in your book of photographs."

"Good-bye all."

"Oh, I know what's right."

"Higgins, did you bully her after I went to bed?"

SCHOLAR OF THE COLLEGE

Jana Brickham receives the Scholar of the College trophy from President C. Orville Strohl.

Jana Brickham, senior from Denver, is the Scholar of Southwestern for 1964-65. Jana is an elementary education major. She is the president of Phi Beta Tau social club and a member of the College and Student Center Board, Christian Vocations Club, and Southwestern Student Teachers Association.

CLASS SCHOLARS

Susan Broadie

An elementary education major from Ashland, Susan Broadie has earned the honor of junior class scholar. Susan served as a co-chairman of Campus-Y and committee chairman of Southwestern Student Teachers Association. She is a member of Alpha Sigma Omega social club. During the spring semester, Susan represented Southwestern in the United Nations program at Drew University.

A society in which mediocre work brings as much recognition as does excellent work will become a mediocre society. The same is true of a college. It is, therefore, the responsibility of Southwestern to recognize and call attention to extraordinary achievement. In the first study of this year's humanities program, Pericles in the Funeral Oration explains:

We are called a democracy for the administration is in the hands of the many and not of the few. But while the laws secure equal justice to all alike in their private disputes, the claim of excellence is also recognized; and when

Jean Miles

The sophomore class scholar is Jean Miles, an English major from Winfield. Jean had a straight "A" average. She is a member of Kappa Delta Kappa social club, Southwestern Student Teachers Association and Religious Life Council. She serves as co-chairman of the Methodist Student Movement and accompanist for the chapel hour choir. Jean also served as chairman of the Christmas on Campus committee.

a citizen is in any way distinguished, he is preferred to the public service, not as a matter of privilege, but as the reward of merit.

Recognition of the Scholar of the College at the matriculation convocation is one of the efforts made by Southwestern to acknowledge "the claim to excellence." The award is given to the individual who has the highest accumulative grade average for the first three years of college work. Recognition is also given at that time to the sophomore and junior who have the highest accumulative grade average for their respective classes.

WHO'S WHO

Ten Southwestern College seniors were named to membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The names of these students will appear in the 1964-65 edition of this book. This is a national honor that is awarded annually by a student-faculty committee to those seniors who are selected for their leadership, scholarship, campus activities, contribution to campus life and future promise.

FOUNDERS DAY

Bishop W. McFerrin Stowe, of the Kansas area of the Methodist Church, presented the address at the Founders Day convocation. An honorary doctorate of humane letters was conferred on Bishop Stowe following his address. Bishop Stowe autographed copies of his new book, It All Began With God, following the Elijah performance on Sunday.

Dr. Clarence Borger of the Board of Trustees presents Bishop Stowe to receive his honorary doctorate.

Kansas Lt. Gov. John Crutcher was the first to place mortar on the cornerstone.

The highlight of Southwestern's 80th Founders Day was the laying of the cornerstone for the fine arts center. This modern structure, to be completed in the fall of 1965, will house the music and art departments. Lt. Gov. John Crutcher, representing the state of Kansas; Darwin Wells, Board of Trustees; Dan Branine, student body; Mayor George McNeish, city of Winfield; and fine arts faculty and students participated in the laying of the cornerstone.

The fine arts center will be ready for next fall's classes.

Gene Gruver and Dan Branine present the flag of Southern Rhodesia

The flag of Southern Rhodesia was presented to be added to Southwestern's avenue of flags. The avenue of flags was established on Founder's Day in 1964. These flags represent the country of each international student who has graduated from Southwestern College.

Dr. Louis Sudler was the featured soloist in the Elijah.

The 31st anniversary performance of the Elijah was presented at Stewart Field House on Sunday, February 28. Dr. Louis Sudler, baritone, sang the title role, assisted by Gwendolyn Hallenbeck, soprano; Lorraine Dungan, contralto; and Richard Fawley, tenor. Over 350 chorus and orchestra members from Southwestern College, St. John's College, Winfield High School, and Winfield and surrounding communities were conducted by Ross O. Williams of the Southwestern College faculty. Following the Elijah performance, open house was held in the new fine arts center, Helen Graham Theater, language laboratory, Wallingford Hall, Sutton Hall, Mossman Hall, and Memorial Library.

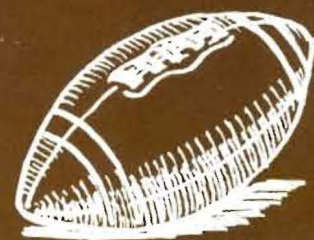

Ross O. Williams conducts the 31st performance of Elijah.

SC 6--Kansas Wesleyan 0

A touchdown on the first series of plays by the Moundbuilders later proved to be the only score of the game, as Southwestern defeated the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes 6-0 on Sept. 18.

The game was a hard fought battle all the way with SC threatening often. The Builders, however, just couldn't gain the momentum to score.

Southwestern took the opening kick-off and immediately looked like it would have little trouble handling the Coyotes. Leon Burtnett, fullback, started it off with a 52-yard run on the first play from scrimmage.

After three short gains and an SC first down, Eddie Powell crashed over for the touchdown. Bill Cox's try for the PAT failed.

For the remainder of the game, Southwestern dominated play but just couldn't find the range to score. The Builders were penalized only 45 yards, but they seemed to have been called at most inopportune times. Total offense for the Builders was 287 yards; the Coyotes had 98.

SC 32--Friends 6

Southwestern extended its record to 2-0 by defeating Friends 32-6 on Sept. 26.

Leroy Blackwell scored the first TD. Bill Cox added the PAT. Eddie Powell scored on a 14-yard run for SC's second TD. Terrill McBride picked up 52 yards and Leon Burtnett then scored. Cox converted and the score was 20-0, Builders. Terril McBride and Ron Daerr picked up the other two TD's. Friends scored in the third quarter.

SC 14--McPherson 7

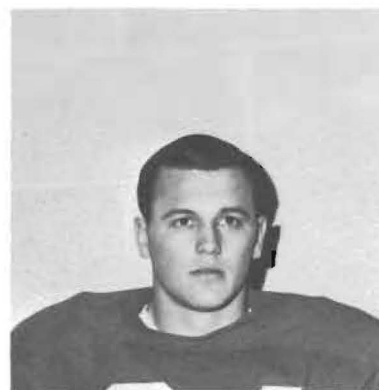

The Southwestern College Moundbuilders ran their season's record to 3-0 by defeating the McPherson Bulldogs there 14-7 on Oct. 2. The victory kept Southwestern in a tie for the Kansas Conference lead.

SC 7--Bethany 6

Southwestern won its fourth game of the year by grinding out a 7-6 victory over the Swedes of Bethany Oct. 10. The victory helped the Builders remain in a tie for first place in the Kansas Conference. The win also proved that they could come from behind to win.

Bethany scored first early in the fourth quarter. Larry Brown passed to Ed Biggs for 6 yards and a TD. Southwestern came right back with Leroy Blackwell passing to Howard Babb for a 16-yard TD. Bill Cox added the ever important PAT and the Builders had the victory.

SC 20--Baker 7

Southwestern took to the air Oct. 17 to defeat the mighty wildcats of Baker University, 20-7. The win made the Builders the only undefeated team in the Kansas Conference, with a 5-0 record. Baker had previously defeated C of E.

SC 35--Ottawa 41

Although SC played one of its finest games of the season Oct. 24 it fell to the Ottawa Braves 41-35 and was placed in a four-way tie for first place.

Ottawa took an early lead of 21-0 with only 7:18 gone in the first quarter. The Builder spirit suddenly came alive with SC scoring three quick TD's by Terril McBride, Ron Daerr, and Jim Beam. The score was then 21-19. Ottawa came back to score another TD to make it 27-19. The Builders' LaPoint hit Jim Beam with a 28-yard TD pass to end the half with the score 27-26 in favor of Ottawa.

The second half was started by SC fumbling into Ottawa's end-zone with Moose Robinson recovering for the TD. The score: 32-27 SC. Ottawa then scored after a series of plays making it 34-32. The Builders' Bill Cox kicked a 25-yard field goal, but Ottawa scored another TD to cinch the victory.

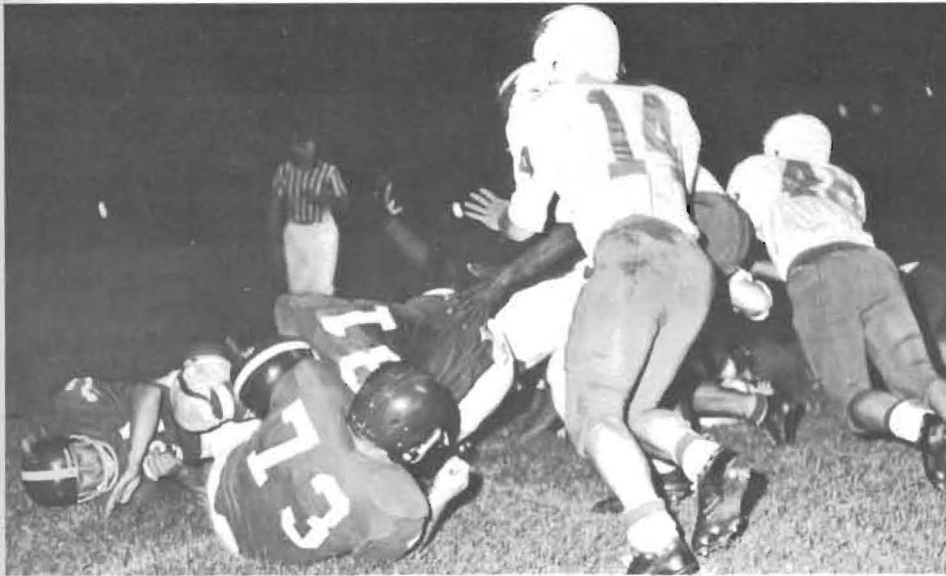

SC 34--Bethel 0

Southwestern ran its record to 6-0 Oct. 31 by defeating the Bethel Threshers at Newton, 34-0. The win kept SC in a tie for the Kansas Conference lead.

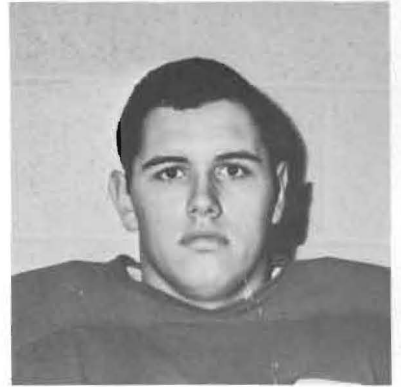

The Builders' defense had little trouble with Bethel as the Threshers didn't penetrate into Builder territory until mid-way in the third quarter. SC handled the Thresher defense with apparent ease as the Builders rolled up their largest total offense of the year.

The Builders scored in the first quarter on a 17 yard run by Terril McBride. In the second quarter SC added two more TD's on Ron Daerr's 30-yard run and a 65-yard pass play from Jim LaPoint to McBride.

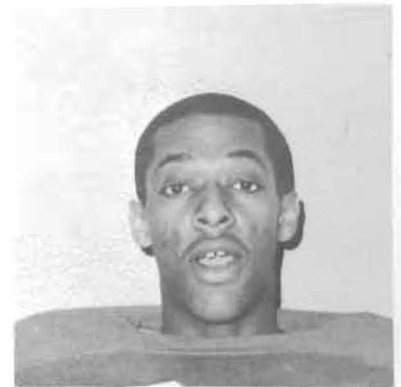

The Builders didn't score in the third quarter, but added two more in the fourth on a 55-yard pass from LaPoint to Jim Beam. Eddie Powell went over for the TD. Bill Cox kicked four out of five PAT's to give the Builders the win.

SC 47--Sterling 7

Southwestern ran its Kansas Conference record to 7-1 Nov. 7 by defeating Sterling 47-7. The Builders waited until the first half was practically over before they exploded for 20 quick points to lead at the half 20-0.

Terril McBride scored the first TD after taking a lateral from Ron Daerr who had received a pass from Jim LaPoint. Bill Cox added the PAT. While on defense, Cox intercepted a Warrior pass and scored on a 37-yard runback. Just before the end of the first half, Dick Morrison snagged a LaPoint pass and scored from 5-yards out.

Starting the second half, LaPoint hit Burtnett for a 22-yard pass for a TD. Jim Davie later intercepted a pass and Bill Cox scored the TD; he also added the PAT. The score was then 33-0.

Eddie Powell, Gene Kissman, Kelly Bender, and Jim Beam figured in the other Builder TD's. All the Builders played and they had one of their finest days by having 453 yards total offense.

SC 32--C of E 7

Southwestern defeated C of E, the 1963 KCAC champs, 32-7 to share the Kansas Conference championship with Ottawa.

After passing up several early breaks, SC came alive late in the first quarter to start its scoring attack. C of E hiked the ball over the head of its punter on their own 10-yard line. SC took over on downs, and Burtnett went the last 2 yards for the TD. In the second quarter, SC took the ball on its own 20 and Terril McBride ran 80 yards for the TD. Just before halftime, Dave Wells intercepted a pass and returned it to C of E's 18. Burtnett took it over for the TD.

The third quarter was scoreless. Early in the fourth quarter, C of E scored its only TD of the game on a 1-yard plunge.

McBride picked up all the yardage on runs of 32 and 18 yards for another Builder TD. SC then led 26-7. With two seconds left in the game, Eddie Angus fired a long pass to Tom Pettey for the last SC score. McBride had his finest day by rushing for 238 yards.
