MEMORIAL ALBERT
 Santa Barbara
 Founded by Albert

School year '80 - '81 was filled with whirlwinds. All about us change had taken place. While every year is associated with some change, this year had more than would normally be expected. Two presidents resided; new football and basketball coaches were selected. With these winds of change a new era had blown into SC bringing us hope and sometimes anxiety.

Throughout the changes we sensed hope and expectation. Our lifestyles were revitalized, our traditions reinforced. Proud of Student participation in decision-making, SC, this year, went one step further bringing students still more closely into the decision-making process in the selection of the new president and coaches.

Change always brings uncertainty and sometimes anxiety brought on by impatience of what the future will bring. Our year held many changes the full extent of which shall not be completely felt for some time to come, so until then we drift with the "Winds of Change" . . .

Student Life

An untouched atmosphere lingers through the moundbuilder community even though the winds of change blow. The traditional events such as Freshman orientation, Homecoming, or Moundbuilding ceremony continue wearing the ties to our past. The memories of the cultural events of the year make this year unique to us. Such an atmosphere where friendships are formed, as we join in fun, help form the specialness of Southwestern.

Freshman Orientation

A Day Of Breaking In

Freshman Orientation was for all freshmen and new students. This program showed groups of these students around campus along with special activities and provided help with registration. Freshmen were introduced to many people, places and traditions of Southwestern. One special tradition was the mound ceremony which was held before the freshman banquet.

Wacky relays help freshmen Gail White and Curtis Smith get acquainted as they pass the orange.

Keeping toilet paper from breaking while unrolling requires skill in Freshman relays.

One slip of the water balloon could spell a wet disaster for either Betsy Merchant or Maria Frey.

The Mound Ceremony

The Mound Ceremony is an annual tradition at S.C. No other college or university has a ceremony like the building of the mound. Students, campus organizations, faculty, staff, and alumni are invited to place their rocks on the mound.

Robin Rivers places the volleyball rock on the mound.

Dell Shanahan and Karen McIntyre place the S.A.A. rock on the mound. Above: Dallas Hinds places Reid Hall's rock on the mound.

The band plays and the The-tas provide the light.

Tradition Reigns As New Era Begins

As usual, Homecoming was a happy time that brought a flurry of activities. But added to the usual activities was the introduction of the new president followed by a special announcement concerning Southwestern's coming centennial in 1985.

Several events involved many students, faculty and organizations. A bright sunny morning brought smiles, for so many organizations had worked hard on their special float for the parade. Sigma Iota Sigma took first place in the float competition and Wallingford Hall won second place. Dorm decorations were won by Sutton Hall with Wallingford taking second. A spirit contest at the game gave everyone a chance to join in the fun. Highlighting the game was the coronation of Debbie Goering as Queen. As part of the ceremony two special announcements were made. The new President Dr. Robert Sessions was introduced and the Centennial Scholars program was presented. In 1985 Southwestern will be celebrating its centennial; next year's freshman class will be the graduating class of 1985. In recognition of this event, Dr. Forrest Robinson announced the Centennial Scholars program which will make 100 tuition-free scholarships available to outstanding students in the 1985 class.

Although #1 McPherson scored first in the homecoming game, the Builders pulled ahead with the half time score 21-6. The visitors got two fourth quarter touchdowns but were unable to get within the final margin of 11. The Homecoming game was won by Southwestern 31-20. Climaxing this very special day a semi-formal dance was held in the cafeteria. The music was provided by a disc jockey.

Homecoming became a bridge in the midst of many changes that brought traditions forward and yet ushered in a new era.

Homecoming Queen: Debbie Goering and Theta escort, Bob Bean

With the tension over, queen candidates enjoy the homecoming game. Candidates: Sandy Williams with escort "Turk" Bruner, Tammie Bauer with Doug Trueman, Ronda Rivers with Kirk Jones, and Shelly (Day) Stinson with Merle Krug wait for the special announcement.

New President, Dr. Robert Sessions addresses homecoming crowd after Queen Debbie introduces acting president Dr. Forrest Robinson who in turn introduces Dr. Sessions.

To add extra "BEAUTY" to the homecoming festivities IPO sponsored the "Ugly Man" Contest. The search began to find the ugliest man on campus; and although competition was stiff, Steve Hobus was the campus choice. Running a good race were also Todd Conklin, Keith and Kevin Kurelich, Dr. Robert Wimmer and Dr. John Paulin.

"The pot of gold at the end of the rainbow", the theme of the winning float sponsored by Sigma Iota Sigma, captured the imagination of the judges.

Spirit posters added a flair to homecoming game.

Escorts, Merle Krug and Turk Bruner enjoy relaxing after ceremonies.

Camelot

As usual, the year started off with a boom for the Southwestern Drama Department. The classical musical "Camelot" by Lerner and Lowe was one of the highlights of the Homecoming festivities. Darnell Lautt starred as King Arthur, Bob McConnell as Lancelot and Cindy Mills as Guinevere.

The combined efforts of SC's drama department, St. John's drama department and Winfield's Community theatre made possible the hiring of a New York director Jack Eddleman along with costume & set designers. Volunteers throughout the community of Winfield made over 200 costumes.

"Camelot" played to thrilled audiences throughout the homecoming weekend.

To turn his dream of the perfect kingdom into a reality, King Arthur (Darnell Lautt) with his Queen, Guinevere (Cindy Mills) declares Lancelot (Bob McConnell) a knight.

The willing hands of Michelle Boucher and Elaine Brown in the costume shop helped make some of the 200 costumes necessary for the elaborate production.

The Lusty Month of May is celebrated by Guinevere (Cindy Mills), Sir Sangamore (Dennis Hodges) and Sir Lionel (Joe Nameg).

Dancers bring vitality to the song, "It's May, It's May."

The eccentric king who has lost his kingdom, King Pellinore (Ken Forsyth) is met by Guinevere (Cindy Mills), Sir Dinadan (Steve Hobus), and the people of Camelot.

In his first encounter, Lancelot (Bob McConnell) is humiliated after he discovers he has beaten King Arthur (Darnell Lautt), the king he has come to serve.

Two Fisherman, (Don Himpel and Doug Delaney) gaze out to sea and make excuses why their day would be better spent at the tavern than out in fishing boats.

Mrs. Owen (Molly Allen) enjoys telling Cherry (Steve Hobus) about the events of last night, events hazy to him.

Blind Captain Cat (Randy Juden) talks about the usual gossip at the well.

The second production, Dylan Thomas's "Under Milkwood" was quite a contrast to the pageantry of "Camelot." The play was performed in Theatre-in-the-round with each cast member taking on the personalities of 3 to 4 characters. This tale of a day in the life of a small Welsh fishing village was a unique addition to the company's performances.

Eagerheart

Shortly after the "Under Milk Wood" performance came the traditional Southwestern College Christmas special, "Eagerheart." Senior Ann Homan dazzled in the title role.

Eagerheart Ann Homan tells the King of Power (Steve Hobus), of the journey to find the Christ child that she is about to undertake.

Eagersense (Jana Nelson) berates Eagerheart (Ann Homan) for the folly of preparing her simple home for a visit by the Christ child.

To further demonstrate the flexibility of the SC Drama Department, "A Little Imagination is a Dangerous Thing" was both written and performed by SC's own. The play consisted of nine original sketches which were take-offs on the life and people at SC and Winfield. The play was performed on a special stage built above the seats of Richardson Auditorium. The audience sat on the existing stage and in the orchestra area and were served special refreshments. "Imagination" played to delighted and packed houses and will remain something special to all who have seen it.

The Finale of "Winfield" features the whole family (Sandy Weishaar, Bev Weishaar, Doug Delaney, Patty Davidson, Christa McKanna, Don Himpel and Paula Porter) as they celebrate the death of "that rat J.R."

The family listens to Miss Ellie describe the events of the day and then announce that her long lost illegitimate son will arrive at any moment.

Builder-Man (Kirk Vandegrift) with student handbook in hand rights all wrongs.

Miss Ellie (Christa McKanna) consoles her son (Don Himpel) as he laments the fact that he cannot get a job or do anything else right.

"Romeo And Juliet"

The first construction of the outdoor stage took the efforts of the cast and many volunteers.

A tender love scene by Romeo (Randy Juden) and Juliet (Dell Shanahan) bring an air of romance to the campus green.

Friar (Don Himpel) tries to assist the troubled couple.

The final production of the year acted as the cornerstone for the second annual Renaissance Festival. Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" once again reminded the college and community that Shakespeare could indeed be exciting and fun. Randy Juden and Dell Shanahan (In the title roles) spearheaded a tightly knit performance much to the joy of all who saw it. "Romeo and Juliet" was performed outside on an enormous stage (complete with buildings and balcony) built by the cast and designed by Darnell Lauth.

Throwing clay with great concentration, Keith Lowe demonstrates the use of the potters wheel. In typical Renaissance garb, Junior Jensen signals the beginning of the festivities. This little girl, as did many spectators, found the walk on the rope bridge harder than it looks. While checking the roast pig, SC Profs Larry Wilgers and Alfredo Rodriguez relax in the shade. They told Don Himpel that no one could possibly hit the target . . . too bad.

Spectacular and diverse entertainment was once again provided on campus during 1980-81 Cultural Arts Season.

The season opened with folk singer, guitarist and lutenist, George Britton. Then came the unforgettable production of "Camelot". Although it seemed like nothing could top the "Camelot" production, when Michael Palmer brought the Wichita Symphony Orchestra to Richardson Auditorium, the house sold out and the fantastic concert left the audience wanting more. First semester ended with actor-teacher, Ron Frederickson from Emporia State in a workshop.

An interesting blend of calypso, classical and contemporary music was presented second semester by the 21st Century Steel Band of Trinidad who played on discarded oil drums. Then came a bit of Dixieland with Paul Gray and his Gaslight Gang.

Of special interest to the Winfield Community, Bruce and Veda Rogers, former Winfield residents, presented "A Little Night Music", a musical with their touring company.

Austrian concert organist, August Humer, gave an international flavor to the next concert and Robert Reynolds closed the Cultural Arts season with a 3-day concert of seven recitals in which he played 32 Beethoven Sonatas.

The Cultural Arts Season is both funded through Student Fees and supplemented by the Kansas Arts Commission.

Sinister Sweethearts

For a very special event the gangsters and their sweethearts seem to have again invaded Southwestern. Pi Delta Sigma sponsored their annual Sinister Sweetheart dance, but this year in a new location — in Richardson Auditorium rather than the "usual" location — the cafeteria.

Following the gangster spirit and greed for money, the Sweetheart couple was chosen from the one who brought in the most loot. The couple worth the most was "Sinister Sweetheart" couple, Sarah Hartley and Tad Woofert, nominated by Sigma Iota Sigma.

Other nominees were: Krista McKanna and Kirk Vandegrift nominated by Reid Hall; Lessie Hallford and Marvin Diener nominated by Sutton Hall; Janeen Wolfe and Mike Hobus nominated by Iota Pi Omega; Loretta Biggs and Jeff Camp nominated by Pi Delta Sigma; Tracy Young and Roger Wolfe nominated by Beta Rho Mu; Debbie Goering and Greg Ballard nominated by Theta Phi Delta; and Joni Matthews and Jerry Howard nominated by Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Just You 'N Me

It takes personality, appearance and involvement in many extra-curricular activities to be nominated as a candidate for royalty at King Spice, a semi-formal dance sponsored by Gamma Omicron. A vote put to the student body chose Don Smith to reign as King Spice.

This special ladies-choice dance gave the ladies a chance to ask out their special guy. A little "spice" was added to life as the evening progressed under the special theme—"Just You 'N Me."

7th Annual Last Chance To Be A Stud Jock Day

The seventh Annual Unofficial Last Chance to be a Stud Jock day provided a break from school, as well as a wild and crazy time for all participants and spectators. For the fifth consecutive year the Betas won the Stud Jock Day Championship; this year they managed to win in a closely contested battle.

This annual event can be considered a unique part of SC. The day left behind many memories, from the Team Inner-tube Battle between SIS and the event-winner Betas to the sudden-death playoff in a new event, the Memorial Golf Tourney, at the Shriwise Golf and County Club with Broadhurst linksters, Mike Depoe and Larry "Fly" Williams and this year's Beta champions, Roger Wolfe and Dick See. Other event winners were Delts, Dave Clark in Pie Eating; Mike Gray in the Individual Inner-tube Race; Beta, Wade Cargilo in the Cookie Throw; the Betas in the Quick-draw Calculator Relay; the Thetas in the Egg Relay; and the Delts and Betas tying in the James Grandville Memorial Relay.

Stud Jock Day is sponsored annually by Theta Phi Delta fraternity and is held on "Dead Day" in the spring in order to refresh everyone before the anguish of finals.

Long hours of dancing do not slow Dick See and Dawn Kempf.

Using a little female charm, Lou Ann King resists the teasing of Curt Kauer.

Twelve hearty dancers lasted 24 hours to bring in $2,000 to go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Many long hours were spent by the Betas in lining up faculty chaperones, obtaining prizes from local merchants, and providing food, refreshments, and music to keep the energy level flowing.

Why Would Anyone ?

Why would anyone put a V.W. on Christy Hall Steps? Why would anyone wear a mop for a wig or wear stuffed pants three sizes too big? Why would anyone want to pin men's briefs in the cafeteria? Why would anyone risk their life on a innertube in dirty snow, or play pool by the hour? Why would anyone ?

It'd be great to be selected Who's Who . . . but in Men's Briefs? Bet St. Patrick would have been just as surprised as the many SC men were to see their underwear and name posted in the cafeteria at supper on St. Patrick's Day, Monday, March 17.

Special People Share

"You Dummy!" Insults that we delight in can be heard these days on SC's campus. Special people with special talents help to liven our campus whether it be a ventriloquist act or guitarist or barbershop quartet.

Wherever a group gathers fun can always be found as those among us emerge to share their special talents and interests. Not only are these talents enjoyed by the SC community, but they are frequently shared in the Winfield community and throughout the Kansas area.

Many of these gifted performers put in a lot of time and practice before they become polished enough to perform in front of an audience. Through the sharing of these special talents, audiences experienced laughter, good times and sometimes even a message. Whether performed formally or just sharing with friends, these special people helped to enrich our lives.

Patty Davidson and her friend teamed up several times over the year entertaining many students, faculty, administrators and alumni. Her ventriloquist act also helped earn her the Miss Kansas TEEN Crown for 1980.

Wow! They did it! Bert Large, Dallas Hinds, Sonya White, Diane McKnight, LuAnn King, Earl Brownlee and others safely sit down on each other's laps. What talent!

Organizations

Fun, thrills and companionship found through organizations help form a base while the winds of change are blowing. Working together, either in a fraternity, sorority, an academic organization or a special interest group helps give a sense of identity while life changes around us.

SGA Makes New Activities But Keeps The Old

Student Government once again did an excellent job helping run the campus. They handled matters from the serious to the silly- whether to have graduation before or after finals to how to prevent tobacco "spitting" in the Builder Room. As they do every year, SGA sponsored a steak fry at the first of the year, rented refrigerators, helped with Orientation, and had an SGA picnic for the members. But they also did some new activities, including sponsoring Black Heritage Week, and providing the students with the "Travelling Extravaganza," a form of Jan Term entertainment, and making a humanities course in Earth Awareness.

SAA Entertains Us All

The Student Activities Association once more provided excellent entertainment for SC students this year. They sponsored a variety of movies, including a number of science fiction features for Jan Term. Also, they co-sponsored all dances and some cultural arts events. Some special events were the Arne Brav and Michael Kelly Blanchard concerts, and Casino Night, SC's counterpart to Las Vegas.

SAA Officers: Molly Allen, Vice-pres.; Dell Shanahan, Pres.; and Rene David, Sec-Treas.

SAA sponsored the production "Under Milk Wood."

Betas Foster Athletics

Referred to as the athletic fraternity, Beta Rho Mu garnered this name through their support and participation of the SC intercollegiate athletic program. In their membership are of course several athletes, including: KCAC Champions, Richard Trice and All-American Steve DeLano, as well as many non-athletes. Besides involvement in competitive athletics, the Betas have annually entered a team in Stud Jock Day. This year marked the fifth consecutive time that they won the Stud Jock Championship.

This by far has been the most active year for the Betas. After more than five months of planning and preparation, they sponsored two community events. On April 3 & 4 the first-ever Winfield area dance marathon was held. The marathon raised over $2,000 to benefit victims of muscular dystrophy. Jerry Lewis himself sent his regards in a mail-gram thanking everyone for putting on the marathon. The Betas wish to thank all the dancers, SC students, staff, faculty, administration, friends, radio stations, KSWC, KWKS, KNIC and the many Winfield area businesses including: Wheeler's IGA, Boogarts Food Store, Lindly T.V. & Appliance, Otasco, Kaufman's Sporting Goods, Wychoff T.V., and others for their help in this successful project.

Later in the spring, Beta's annual softball tourney was held hosting teams from Winfield, Wichita, and Ponca City. This year 13 teams competed, making it the biggest turn-out in the tourney's history.

The Betas were run by officers: Kevin Bauer, president; Doug Smith, secretary; Dick See, treasurer; Kevin Seal, athletic director; Jude Dinges, pledge master; Tom Audley, academic chairman; Jerry Kill, historian.

This marks the last year that Bill Rinkenbaugh will be their sponsor for he accepted a job as admissions counselor at WSU. Many thanks to Bill for his help with the Betas for the last 5 years.

Sigma Iota Sigma

The women of Sigma Iota Sigma, in their third year of existence, were involved in various activities on and off campus. SIS participated in the Homecoming activities and placed first in the float contest. Four SIS actives were nominated for Homecoming Queen with Deb Goering receiving the honor of Queen.

In December, a group of SIS members went Christmas caroling in the campus area.

For an on-campus service project, members joined in painting trash barrels and benches. And, in May, for project beauty, SIS planted iris at Highland Cemetery.

Sis had a good group of pledges with a total of twelve new girls. Pledge week kicked off after Spring Break with a picnic at Island Park. The pledge class consisted of five sophomores and six freshmen.

The last SIS activity of the year, the second annual Country Western dance, was a great success. Wallingford Hall and SAA helped SIS in sponsoring the dance which was held under the grandstands at the fairgrounds on May 8th, featuring live music by The Outlaws.

Theta Phi Delta Fraternity Remains Active

The Theta Phi Delta Fraternity experienced one of its most active years. The fraternity followed the tradition of providing leadership and scholarship in the campus community, as well as promoting brotherhood among its members in many activities.

Thetas are most well known for sponsoring Stud Jock Day, the Annual Jan Term Basketball Tourney, its exceptional intramural teams and promoting campus spirits.

The fraternity had been active from the year's start first selling ads and holding their annual banquet for Theta alumni, continuing with 'road trips' to Wichita and Kansas City. In Wichita they attended the Crown Uptown Dinner Theater and while at Kansas City they saw the Chiefs, Kings and Royals play. When not 'on the road', chili feeds at sponsor, Max Thompson's, and other independent activities kept the Thetas busy. Next year promises to highlight the Theta existence when they celebrate their 15th anniversary.

Delts Spark Social Life

Delts: Barbara Tencleve, David Carroll, Steve Schmidt, Mary Kelly, David Clark. Back Rows: Charles Green, Payton Adams, Doug Delany, Paul Homan, Keith Lowe, Barbara Wilson, Scott Gill.

Fun-loving, Pi Delta Sigma brought another dimension to the social life on the SC campus. The Delts, the only co-ed social fraternity, sponsored many activities which livened the campus. The annual St. Valentines Day Massacre Dance, during which Sinister Sweethearts were named, was one of their major social activities. Delts also were active in Stud Jock Day and helped with the Renaissance Fair. A number of car washes were held throughout the year to help defray expenses.

While Delts are noted for their fun-loving spirit, they also showed a more serious side when they cleaned the grounds around Shriwise.

IPO: Small But Active

Working alongside of several other organizations, IPO kicked off a fairly active year for its dwindling membership of five by sponsoring the Jinx Trail (remember the scavenger hunt?) as a part of Freshmen Orientation. In October one of two yearly visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile comes to St. John's. SC's women's service organization, IPO, helped in the Red Cross effort by recruiting donors and publicizing the drive. When the Bloodmobile came in February to the SC campus IPO was ready. Aiding TriBeta they signed up donors, provided publicity, typists and workers. Both blood drives were very successful. The latter drive had to stay open an extra 45 minutes collecting over 100 pints of blood. IPO's big social event for the year was the Thanksgiving Dance. For Homecoming they held the annual Ugly Man Contest. Organizations campus wide nominate their ugliest man from which IPO selects five finalists to be voted on by the student body. The winner is announced at the Homecoming game. This year's ugliest was senior biology major Steve Hobus. Serving as faculty sponsor was Judy Charlton.

Iota Pi Omega members: Sandra Weishaar; Laurie Hagans, President; Tammie Bauer; Marcey Pittman; Paula Porter.

Although sponsoring few activities Circle K remained very active through their Big Brother-Big Sister program. This program matched grade school kids with Southwestern Students that became their big brothers and sisters. The SC students functioned as their role title indicates by taking their little brothers and sisters out to ball games, picnics, to play frisbee or baseball at the park or basketball in the gym. Occasionally all the big and little brothers and sisters got together for one big party. Circle K took responsibility for organizing the match-ups and saw that interests were similar which aided in setting up a smooth-going interaction. Some of the grade schoolers didn't have big brothers or sisters and for them this program was a real treat. The following students can be thanked for their sharing efforts: Laurie Hagans, James Hunter, Gary Gonzales, Kathy Braker, Molly Allen, Steve DeLano, Paula Porter, Sandra Weishaar, Jill Bowman, Nelida Aucar, Princella Manulito, Sheryl Biller, Crystal Pearl, LuAnn King, Sonja White, Angie Owens, Janelle Grinstead, Julie Humphries,

Gamma Omicron "Highlights"

Highlighting each month with a special project, Gamma Omicron provided many services to both SC and the Winfield Community. One of their first projects was to recruit new members from the incoming freshman and transfer students. At Christmas time this home economics oriented group made fruit baskets and sang carols to elderly persons staying in Winfield area rest homes. This brightened the holiday season for all they visited.

Highlighting their first semester was their first-ever fashion show. Many Gamma members modeled as well as several volunteers both men and women from SC. The show was held in Messenger Auditorium and the clothes were furnished by some of the downtown merchants of Winfield. Gamma Omicron wishes to thank the volunteer models, Mr. Gary Horn, and area merchants from the Hanger, the Wardrobe and the Gent's Shop.

G.O.'s biggest event of the year was the King Spice Dance and coronation held each spring. This is the only dance in the year that women ask out that special guy to dinner and dance. 'Just You-N-Me' was the theme for this semi-formal occasion during which King Spice is crowned. All campus organizations aided in selecting King Spice by nominating one SC man based on personality, appearance and extra-curricular activity. Gamma picked five finalists which were put to a vote of the student body. This year Don Smith reigned as King Spice.

A retreat to Oklahoma City with a visit to the Oklahoma City Zoo and the Omniplex Science Hall started a very active year for the Delta Chapter of Beta Beta Beta, an organization fostering concerns in the fields of Natural Science.

February found Mossman Hall shining brighter than it had for years. We called out the troops and had a full-fledged workday removing dirt, straightening shelves, and washing windows. In March we helped to host the Kansas Academy of Science which again involved much group participation. April again showed Tri-Betans in full spirit as we helped with the Red Cross Blood Mobile, many donating time and many also giving blood.

The year was wrapped up by another retreat. This time we went to the Chaplin Nature Center in Arkansas City for the afternoon and then we camped out at Camp Horizon. There, hikes, water fights, bird watching, herp hunting, wild flower identification and astronomy lessons were enjoyed by all. Probably the major accomplishment of the year, though, was the fact that we finally constructed our infamous cup rack which now hangs in the office of Mossman. This project had been in the planning for at least four years.

Pi Gamma Mu Raises Consciousness

Raising consciousness on important issues facing our country is one of the important goals of Pi Gamma Mu. Under the leadership of President Günter Angermayer, many stimulating programs were held throughout the year ranging from programs on ecological issues and the economy to awareness of international concerns.

Pi Gamma Mu began sponsoring "The Intellectual Fish-bowl" in February during lunch. Each of these luncheon discussions was based on an article on current topics put on reserve in the library. Discussion topics included: "The Wreck of the Auto Industry," "Was the Shah Bad for Iran?," "Amnesty International," "Breaking out of Sex-roles," "Colonizing Outer Space," "El Salvador," "Conflict Management," and an expose on TV Religion," "SC: the Campus with no Racial Problems?" and "Einstein for the Layman."

Most of the programs were open to the SC community and provided a stimulus which met needs not being met by other groups on campus.

Being a member of A Cappella Choir means more than learning and singing music. To produce music that inspires and thrills an audience, a blended sound must be produced that transcends the individual talents that each member brings. This special blend comes not only through technical perfection but through the psychological sense of togetherness that comes from working together every day. Southwestern's A Cappella Choir, a select choir of 60 members under the direction of Ken Forsyth, provides that sense of closeness especially during the tour and concert seasons.

The choir goes on tour every spring; this year's tour took the choir through northeast Kansas. The choir also performed in Fall, Spring and Christmas concerts, as well as for many groups in and around the Winfield area and other nearby towns. As the choir blended as a group, they also blended in their music making the year a very special year.

The basement of Christy Hall became the evacuation center because of tornado warnings during Baccalaureate; to help break the restlessness of the crowd in cramped quarters, Ken Forsyth, Tim McGuire and Randy Juden entertain although James Hunter wonders if singing will really keep the storm away.

In one of their many concerts Marla Tibbetts, Jill Matthews, Ethel Manuel, Chris Cobb and Betsy Merchant sing in unison with Shurma Milburn, Tim Otte and Kris Williams in background.

Pianist Don Smith along with SC singers Junior Jensen, Chris Cobb, and Glenn Klontz help provide another fine performance of the more contemporary music this group sings.

Some fun activities were a hayrack ride, a Christmas Banquet, featuring Sam Goodwin, Assistant Football Coach at WSU, a campfire and a first-of-the year camp-out on the SC hill complete with two hours of backrubs. CCCP and SCM Help The Community And The Campus

The crisis intervention service, Cowley County Chaplaincy Program, is completing its fifth year. A service designated to introduce upper division students in the helping professions to crisis work, the program has six participants this year. Besides learning to work with people in crisis the student chaplains also complete C.P.R. training offered by the Winfield E.M.S. staff.

The Student Christian Movement sponsored many forums this year, discussing social issues and world problems. They also did service projects, including minor repairs for the elderly and winterizing homes. Officers for the year were co-chairs Joe Cobb, Keri Alexander and Bob Bean, Sec-Treas. Carol Courter, and Publicity Director Gaille Pike.

Blacks On The Move

The theme "Blacks on the Move" exemplified the spirit of the Black Student Union this year. The first months were spent as a period of reconstruction, hence the B.S.U. did not have any school activities until midfall. To promote spirit around campus and at football and basketball games, as a money making project, Spirit Shakers were sold.

The main project of the year was Black Awareness Week. It was held February 23-29. The purpose of Black Awareness Week was to alert the campus to the struggles and success of Blacks in America today. Also to familiarize the campus with what Blacks have to offer to America.

Black Awareness Week started with two special guests on campus: Mr. and Mrs. Govan of Tabor College. There was a soul food dinner also held on the first evening of the week in Pounds Lounge. The Govans spoke in a rap session.

One of the highlights of the week was the crowning of Mr. and Ms. Black Heritage 1981. This was held in the chapel. There was a short church service followed by the coronation. The Queen, LaWanda Friday was crowned. The King is Tyrone Galbreath. An enlightening speaker for the service was Dr. LeRoy White from Topeka, Kansas.

Also during Black Awareness Week the movie "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman" was shown in the little theatre. The movie was a true story of an ex-slave woman who had lived to the early 1960's to tell her own personal story of what it was like to be a slave. She was then set free and had to live through all the struggles of being a freed slave in the South.

Black Awareness Week ended with a dance in the snack bar area of the student center.

Collegian Staff Institute Changes

The 1980-81 Collegian went through a couple of changes during the school year. The overall appearance was altered with changes being made in type styles and format. News coverage was expanded to include national news and cartoons, courtesy of the College Press Service. Beginning spring semester, the Collegian also took on a new appearance when the number of pages was expanded from four to six.

"On The Air"

Hey, hey! It's Todd (Conklin) and Chuck (Elder) live and remote broadcasting for KSWC-FM 100.3 at the 1981 Beta-Muscular Dystrophy Association 24-Hour Dance Marathon on the Stewart Field House stage.

Way up high on the Stewart Field House roof disjock Curtis (C.D.) Smith and KSWC Engineer Steve Brock reflect on the time and effort needed to put the new 10-watt antenna up during that one rare cold windy day in mid-January.

Southwestern owns and operates a 10-watt FM radio station, KSWC 100.3, in conjunction with the mass communications program. The station provides informative and entertaining listening for SC and the Winfield communities.

The 1980-81 year brought new life to campus radio. KSWC had over 40 people working on its staff and could be heard on the air for over 100 hours each week. This compares to less than ten students and 21 broadcast hours just two years earlier.

Internal improvement consisted of new furniture for the air studio, additional desks for the office and the introduction of a computer program that made the daily program logs required by FCC regulation.

KSWC aired all home games in football, and men's and women's basketball as well as an SC band concert and a Winfield Community orchestra performance. They produced their own version of Orson Wells' thriller War of the Worlds. They sponsored the first dance of the year and the SC Relays Victory Dance with Reid Hall. The management and staff would like to thank Benn Gibson for his persistence with the license renewal and his general support of the station. Earl Spidel, Gene Bonham, Bob Sparks and Carl Bricker are also recognized for their help with station improvement.

For the Beta-Muscular Dystrophy Association 24-hour Dance Marathon KSWC broadcast live and remote from the Stewart Field House stage. This brought listeners up to date on the marathon's moneyraising progress each hour and also supplied valuable experience in remote broadcasting to several disjocks.

SNEA Makes Impact On Education Issues

Whether a student's major is elementary, secondary, early childhood, special education, or other education fields, SNEA speaks out on the student's behalf. On a national scale, SNEA (Student National Education Association) is the largest advocate student organization in the world.

SNEA works to insure quality education and to improve training for all future teachers. This year the Southwestern Chapter sponsored a workshop on Classroom Discipline. The local chapter also sent representatives to the Kansas SNEA Representative Assembly, and two representatives to the State Commission Meeting. Southwestern was proud to have Kerri Hall as State President. Southwestern was also proud to have one of our students to be one of the two Kansas Delegates to be chosen to attend the National Representative Assembly.

Eager grade school children wait for instructions from Darnell Hamilton.

Debaters Challenge Nation's Best

A remarkable fifth place in the National Debate Tournament by Frank and Carol Tutzauer brings recognition to Southwestern.

Proud to be the only debate team to place in both debate tournaments at University of Texas at El Paso and at El Paso Community College tournament, Rick Horn and Robert Wilson display their first place trophy from the University of Texas and 3rd place trophy from the El Paso Tournament.

Debate Team: Gary Horn, Sponsor; Rick Horn, Teresa Norris, Kelly Rundell, Doug Pfalzgraf, Robert Wilson, and Dalvin Yager.

Southwestern debaters finished another successful season this year. SC teams travelled throughout the nation, returning with trophies from virtually every tournament. Moundbuilder debaters saw competition at many prestigious schools throughout the country: including Oklahoma Christian College in Oklahoma City; the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs; Northwestern University, Chicago; University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; Central State University, Edmond; Wichita State University and Southeastern Oklahoma in Durant.

As well, the Southwestern squad travelled to Gatlinburg, Tennessee to compete in the Pi Kappa Delta National Convention and debate tourney. Pi Kappa Delta is the National Debate Fraternity. Moundbuilder debaters also hosted a debate and forensic tournament Feb. 6 and 7, with more than 30 schools in attendance.

Seniors, Frank and Carol Tutzauer recently competed in the National Debate Tournament held in California. This was the Tutzauers' fourth trip to this, the most prestigious collegiate debate tournament in the nation. They returned to SC with a 5th place finish.

S-Club: Friends Of Athletes

Athletes work hard at SC and deserve special recognition. The S-Club helps raise money so that deserving athletes can be given lettermen's jackets and many other special awards.

The Southwestern College S-Club was very active in the school's concession stands this year. We worked football and basketball games and even worked during the Southwestern Relays. With over 100 members, it is very difficult to get everyone together for meetings so we usually don't have very many. This year was a good one and we would like to give our thanks to the coaches, players and others for a job well done. We are really looking forward to next year.

Phi Beta Lambda

Once again Phi Beta Lambda had a very active year. Throughout the year various guest speakers spoke on business topics such as economics, investments, insurance, marketing, advertising, credit ratings, and being a city manager.

The annual PBL state conference was held in Topeka on February 20. Several SC students attended the conference and many of them won awards.

As an added attraction PBL sponsored the HEMI Personal and Group Time Management Seminar given by Kay Newton and Todd Conklin. Other activities of the club include cleaning up the SC campus for Earth Awareness Week and a grad school seminar presented by Dr. Fay Nowka, Dean of Students.

Athletics

The winds of change gathered new force in the world of athletics. As two coaches resigned and two new coaches were recruited. The events left Southwestern both anxious and excited. Although the winds blew change, SC athletes still brought a dominant spirit to the KCAC sports world.

Builders Pull Average Record

Many thought the 1980 Moundbuilder football team was going to be one of the best in many years. Yet, when the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference wind and dust had cleared, the Builders had finished with a less than average 4-5 record.

What happened? What went wrong? To sum up the season in a nutshell would be the word injury, the bane of athletes and the fear of coaches. Unfortunately, for Coach Phil Hower, the season would start clouded with injuries and continue in the same fashion through all nine games. First, there were the pre-season injuries — All KCAC guard Darrel Drennan and All KCAC linebacker Jeff Camp sustained ankle injuries. Then All-American noseguard Steve Hobus was forced to quit due to a knee injury before the season was half over. Quarterback, Wade Cargile, missed four games with torn ligaments in his passing shoulder. Dave Clark missed several games after an appendicitis attack. Kevin Bauer was out with a hamstring injury . . . the list could go on . . . but there were some bright moments during 1980.

Defensive end Jude Dinges and fullback John Tuttle were named first-team all conference. Sophomore Tim Cargile led the conference in interceptions with eight and was eighth in the nation; he was a second-team all-league selection. Receiver Fred Hankerson was second-team all KCAC; defensive lineman Tom Audley was second-team all league; linebacker Camp was second-team all conference and offensive lineman Drennan was second-team all KCAC. Several SC players received honorable mention. Jerry Thomas and Rick McKinney received honorable mention as all-league defensive backs, John Homan as defensive tackle, Kevin Seal as second-team all KCAC kicker, Bill Gies as all-conference punter and Mike Rozel on defensive line.

The season started as the Builders edged a stubborn Alumni team 7-0. Bobby Hurd raced 76 yards behind a beautiful downfield block by Dave Clark for the only score of the contest. Seal added the conversion. The next two games proved disappointing as powerful Ottawa routed SC 26-0. Then the nationally ranked Swedes from Bethany squeaked by a pumped-up Builder team 12-6.

The next week the discouraged Builders found new hope when the offense and defense began to click, and SC walloped Sterling 41-27. Homecoming was the next game and the Builders hosted McPherson. Jumping out on top, the visiting Dogs enjoyed a 6-0 lead temporarily before the SC offensive cogs began to unwing. SC exploded for 31 straight points and cruised to another 31-20 victory.

A tired Ron Richardson looks on from the sideline.

Hillsboro was the next stop for the SC bus but the outing proved dismal as Tabor rallied for a 34-28 victory. The following week, however, SC took an important win over the front-running Bethel Threshers with a 27-19 win as the Builder offense churned out 433 yards.

Back at home the next week, SC hosted "Duke and the boys" a born-again Kansas Wesleyan team who rolled out their potent ground game and smothered SC 24-6.

Coming back the next week with an awesome offensive attack, SC rolled St. Mary of the Plains to 523 yds and a 45-21.

On a fake punt, Bill Gies (86) follows the blocking of Scott Cotton (54) and John Snyder (61) while Darrel Drennan (66) and Dick See (31) cover up from behind.

Going around a fallen opponent, Wade Cargile (9) looks up field.

The new addition to the coaching staff is offensive line coach, Vernon Goertz.

Coach Phil Hower congratulates a Builder player.

The season came to a sour close when the Builders played Friends on a rain-soaked field in Wichita. The Falcons scored a late TD to take an 11-7 victory and hand the once-hopeful Builders a 4-5 season mark.

After the disappointing season, head coach Phil Hower announced his resignation. The Builder mentor compiled a 22-13 record in his four years at SC. Hower cited lack of an athletic recruiter and a little on-campus help in the coaching department as reasons for throwing in the towel.

Lady Builders Show Promise

The Southwestern College Lady Builder Volleyball team ended its 1980 season with a 9 win, 22 loss record. The Lady Builders were led by two new coaches this year: head coach Becky Schroll, and assistant coach Kenna Utt. Both of these women were former Lady Builders themselves so they were not new to many of us. Our season started on a good note when we finished 2nd place in the Southwestern College Invitational Tourney. From then on we played powerful volleyball just ending up short of our opponents. Our three biggest wins came against Bethany, McPherson, and Marymount. Two of our teammates, Robin Rivers and Diana Miller, made both the KCAC all-conference and the NAIA all-district teams. They are both outstanding players and will be back again next season. Things look bright for the Lady Builders next season as the team isn't losing any players. We had no seniors on our squad, only three juniors, five sophomores, and seven freshmen. We are looking forward to another exciting year of Southwestern College Lady Builder Volleyball. — Captain Ronda Rivers —

SC Linksters Grow Stronger

Jerry Johns and Jim Borger exhibit the form which aided in an improved golf squad. Johns, a senior on the team, was a four year letterman. Borger produced the lowest stroke average of the team for the year.

Notably better than in recent years the Builder Golf team has most certainly grown stronger. The team faced stiff competition in the Crossroads of America Tourney at Joplin, Missouri. During Spring Break they traveled to Houston, playing at Waterwood National Country Club, site of the NAIA Nationals. Placing 3rd in conference play and 7th of 19 in District 10 they thwarted the Bethany team a final time to end the season on a good note.

Mason Jones finished with high honors for the Builders, tying for fifth place in the District 10.

Next year's team promises to be ever stronger with all but the senior Jerrys — Johns and Thomas — returning.

Trainers Increase In Depth And Experience

Trainers: Carol Bowman; Julie Hancock; Kris Jerome; Mike Kirkland; Keith Kurelich; Dallas Hinds; Cindy Ellmauer; Kevin Kurelich; Cheryl Lindly, Head Women's Trainer; Phil Carr, Head Men's Trainer.

In covering ten men's and women's intercollegiate sports and in being accessible to all of the intramural athletic programs which contain over 200 athletes, the Builder Training Staff stays very busy. With the help of good recruiting, SC was able to get not only a quantity of trainers but also trainers of quality. Two transfer students, Phil Carr and Mike Kirkland brought in trainer skills to add to skills possessed by Dallas Hinds, a 3rd year trainer for SC, forming a nucleus for next years' staff. Senior Cheryl Lindly will be the only upper-class Trainer to leave the staff; her absence will be greatly felt because of her contribution to the staff for four years. Others on the staff include: Junior, Cindy Ellmauer; Sophomore, Julie Hancock; and Freshmen, Kris Jerome, Gail White and Carole Bowman; and Emergency Technicians, the twins Keith and Kevin Kurelich.

Cheryl Lindly stretches Cindy Ellmauer before a basketball game.

Builders Capture KCAC Crown

Cross Country Team: standing, Coach Jim Helmer, Pat Flanigan, Jim Podschun, Terry Couch, Paul Adams, Dennis McNinch, Rick Cotton.

Kneeling, Mitch Bergkamp, Brad Hansen, Mike Lambing, Pete Amann.

After two years of building, the Southwestern Cross-Country team under Coach Jim Helmer has become a KCAC powerhouse. They proved this at the KCAC meet at Bethany by placing six in the top ten, and easily out-scoring runner-up Bethany. The team was led by conference champion Mike Lambing, with Dennis McNinch 4th, Pete Amann 6th, Pat Flanigan 7th, Terry Couch 9th, and Jim Podschun 10th. Placing in the top ten gives these runners All-KCAC merit.

The 1980 season started out slowly as the Builders lost a dual to Oklahoma Baptist 28-29. The Oral Roberts Invitational was also tough, but the 5th place team finish was respectful. Southwestern started to show promise in the next meet, as they finished third at Oklahoma Christian College. SC returned to dual action the next week at Emporia State University, where they won easily by a 21-40 score. Then it was back to the invitational schedule at Bethany and Marymount, where the Builders finished 3rd and 6th respectively.

After a month on the road, the team returned to Winfield to host the Kansas Intercollegiate Championships. The meet turned out to be a dual between SC and Bethany. The Swedes won the first two places, but SC runners bunched in tightly behind them to win the crown. The meet was a preview of what would occur at the KCAC race.

Following the KCAC championship win, the Builders finished a disappointing fourth at the District 10 meet. Mike Lambing, who led the Builders all year, qualified for the National Meet by finishing ninth in the district.

Lambing ran at the NAIA National Championships the next week. Mike ran an excellent race and finished 72nd out of 309 runners.

The outlook for next year's team is good, with the top seven runners all returning, and Coach Helmer has also picked up some excellent recruits. The Builders should move to be one of the top teams in the district next year.

Running together well, Mike Lambing, Pete Amann, Dennis McNinch, and Terry Couch lead the pack. Mike Lambing exhibits the intensity that it took for a KCAC championship.

SC's lone woman runner, Tina Lansing, ran some good races as she shows here. Struggling to cover the five mile distance are: Pat Flanigan, Paul Adams, and Brad Hansen.

Youth Pays Off: Women Netters Win KCAC, Take Second In District 10

The women's tennis team successfully defended their KCAC Championship over a field of seven other conference schools at McPherson, Kansas, October 15 and 16th, 1980. They defeated runner-up Bethany College 28-25. In so doing the SC team won its fourth KCAC Championship in the six-year history of the event.

The following week on October 21, 1980 the team traveled to the Riverside Tennis Center in Wichita to compete in the "first-ever" N.A.I.A. District 10 Women's Tennis Championship. SC placed second to a strong Fort Hays team with Brenda Narvaes winning the #1 Singles title and being named to the All-District 10 Women's Tennis Team. The second-place finish qualified the team for the "first-ever" N.A.I.A. National Women's Tennis Championships to be held in Kansas City, Missouri on May 26-30, 1981. At the National Tournament, Brenda qualified in the first round and our team tied for 20th in the nation.

In KCAC conference-competition for six years, SC has now compiled a win-loss record of 32-2. This years KCAC champions are: #1 Singles and #1 Doubles Brenda Narvaes; #2 Singles and #1 Doubles, Debbie Bennett; #3 Doubles, Gayla Dvorak and Carol Craig.

Tying for 20th in N.A.I.A. National Tournament, Brenda Narvaes brings honor to SC tennis team.

Cheerleaders

Without the spirit, loyalty, and enthusiasm of Southwestern's Cheerleaders, the athletic program would have a much harder time pulling the school together behind our teams. For, as crowds go, enthusiasm can be high when we are winning, but when we are losing then the cheerleaders are there lending encouragement and support.

Last August, the SC cheerleaders went to NCA Cheerleading camp at SMU in Dallas, Texas. As well as having a great time, and learning a lot, the cheerleaders came home with red and blue ribbons.

Young Team Shows Promise

The 1980-81 basketball season proved to be a building one for the Lady Builders. With a new coaching staff and a team consisting of four juniors, four sophomores, and four freshman, seven of whom were returning letter women, the Lady Builders completed the season with a 4-18 overall record.

The Lady Builders' performance was stronger than their 3-13 conference record suggests, as the average loss was a mere six points per game. The highlight of the season was an exciting 82-70 victory over Kansas Newman, champions of the Mid-America League.

The Lady Builders show great promise for the future. With the experience and leadership of those returning, the outlook for the 1981-82 season is a positive one.

Roundballers Face Rebuilding Year

ilton. Back Row: Jeff Anderson; Roger Scovel; Stretch Singleton; Ed Hatchel; Terrill Sweetwood; Mike Brown; John Young; and Mason Jones.

Watching the 1980-81 Southwestern basketball Moundbuilders was like riding a rollercoaster. Unfortunately for the Builders and their basketball faithful there were considerably more valleys than peaks.

Some preseason turmoil left the SC cagers with some unforeseen inexperience at some key positions. However, as the season progressed, so did the youth; and at season's end, the progress was obvious.

In fact, one of the brighter spots of the season was the progress of two young players who performed especially well, freshmen Johnny Quick and Terrill Sweetwood. Quick, a 6-foot-8, was a yearlong starter thanks to his inside prowess. Sweetwood and Quick were voted the team's outstanding freshmen.

Of course the 1980-81 season belonged to Eugene Cheadle. The 6-foot-1 guard from Kansas City, Mo., blossomed into one of the premier players in the state. He averaged 19.6 points per game, six rebounds per game, ranked third in assists and led the team in steals. Cheadle scored 32 points on three separate occasions and was the leading scorer for the Builders in all but four games. At season's end, Cheadle was a unanimous All-KCAC pick and earned a spot on the All-District 10 team. He is just a junior. In fact, the team lost just three seniors and no starters.

At the end of the year, Southwestern's coach for 12 years, Bill Stephens, resigned his post. He cited his family and a heavy workload as reasons for his stepping down. He will stay at Southwestern as Athletic Director, golf coach, and assistant football coach in addition to his teaching responsibilities. Mike Sandifar, was hired to fill the vacancy. He comes from Averett College in Danville, Va.

With the strong nucleus of talent that returns, the outlook is indeed bright for the Moundbuilders in the 81-82 season.

Turn-Around Year For Builders

1981 was a great turn-around for the Builder's tennis team. The record in dual matches was 7-1 compared with 0-10 the previous year.

At the conference tournament, SC finished second behind Bethany. Dave Lucas was selected to the All-Conference team. Randy Rowley was chosen honorable mention. Dalvin Yager and Clint Hankins was selected Academic All-Conference.

The Highlight of the season was Southwestern's two wins over Bethany at our own tournament. This meant taking No. 1 in doubles and No. 1 in Singles.

Returning letterman were: Ron Richardson, Randy Rowley, Clint Hankins, Steve McAllister and Captain Dalvin Yager. The new lettermen who helped to improve the team were: Dave Lucas, Mark Seville, and Barry Grey. Everyone on the team had significant wins this season.

The Builder team hopes are high for next year. Only one letterman is leaving, so many victories are expected.

All-Conference winners, Dave Lucas and Randy Rowley practice many hours to improve the team's record.

SC Track: Becoming A Powerhouse

The SC track squad, under direction of Coach Jim Helmer, has become one of the new powerhouses in track and field. The Builders scored over 200 points in this year's conference meet and were second to Bethany only because of lack of depth. Next year's team will be even stronger, as only four seniors will be lost.

Previews of the outdoor season were shown in several indoor meets, with four records being broken and the distance medley relay team finishing fourth at the NAIA Indoor Nationals. The team continued when the outdoor season arrived, breaking 8 outdoor records and producing 5 conference champions: Steve DeLano, Mike Lambing, Richard Trice, Steve Davis, and Dennis McNinch. Special recognition is given Steve DeLano who had 5th place finish in the NAIA Outdoor Nationals, and Mike Lambing, who made the finals in the 1500 with a school record breaking 3:51, but did not place. Not only did these individuals turn in outstanding performances but while doing so literally rewrote SC's All-Time Top Ten Best Performance List in their respective events.

Another highlight in the season was that SC had five persons listed on the final NAIA ranking sheet, and this marked the first time in recent years that anyone had made the list. Tracksters honored were: Steve DeLano, 5000 meters; Bill Gies and Steve Davis, Javelin; Pat Flanigan, marathon; and Rick Cotton, Decathlon. Other awards based on merit of individual performance went to Paul Adams, Most Inspirational; Bill Gies, Most Valuable Field; and Jim Podschun, Most Valuable Track.

Tyrone Galbreath leads Paul Homan and a host of others to the 100 meter finish.

Captains: Charlie Shobe, track; Rick Cotton, team; Anton Stewart, field.

A trio of distance runners, Paul Adams, Dennis McNinch and Steve DeLano lead the pack in the 5000 meters.

Mike Kirkland explodes out of the blocks on the first leg of the 400 meter relay.

Unleashing the KCAC winner in the javelin is Steve Davis.

Leaning for the next hurdle, James Hunter shows good form.

Terry Couch leads the pack in a heat of the 800 meters with Dave Low in close pursuit.

Craig Anderson leans into his start of the 800.

Tearing down the runway, Marvin Diener prepares for another vault.

Tom Audley begins a spin for his next toss of the discus.

Intramural Athletics Reorganize

Shortly after the intramural flag football and fall bowling seasons failed to materialize, the idea of revitalizing Intramural Council came about. In October, the council formed and immediately initiated the intramural volleyball season. Second semester, the council sponsored the most successful bowling program ever, as well as basketball, softball and several track events during the SC relays.

For the council, it was a year of innovation and change. A larger percentage of basketball games were played in Stewart Field House. In softball, two fields were used instead of only one. Using two fields allowed three double-headers to be played on Sunday instead of just three games. For the first time, each softball team was scheduled to play opponent twice instead of once; also the softball post season tourney was a double elimination tourney allowing all seven teams a chance to win the championship.

Intramural champions were: volleyball, Brenda's Invincibles; basketball, The Fantastic '7'; softball post-season tourney, E.S.A.D.S.; softball regular season (undefeated) Theta & SIS; bowling, Well-Laid Carpet, Inc. Other bowlers receiving trophies included team runner-ups: Yogi Follies; Tom Girard, Men's High Average; Keith Anglemeyer, Men's High Game; Steve Barker, Men's High Series; Mel Hardin, Women's High Series; Laurie Hagans, Women's High Game; Janet Crank, Women's High Average.

In the last few years, ribbons were awarded to the individuals of the championship teams. While in the past, money was available to buy T-Shirts no one looked into doing so. This year there was not even enough money to buy scorebooks, so IC asked Student Government to purchase T-Shirts. With the funding of SGA, 1980-81 marked the first time that individuals on the winning teams in basketball and softball received championship T-Shirts. I.C. extends a special thank-you to SGA for their support of the intramural program.

Theta and SIS player Marvin Diener pulls hard to get that base hit that helped his team become undefeated 12-0 regular season champions.

Becky Schroll and Chuck Elder of the KSWC-FM team, regular season runner-ups, eye the high fly that's coming their way.

Resident Life

For some, the hardest changes to adapt to are new living arrangements, from learning to live with another person to sharing a bathroom with three buddies. For others, dorm life becomes a home away from home. As we share ideas with those from different backgrounds, we gain new perspectives that may last a lifetime. Those who live off-campus must again adapt to a new life style and look for other areas that provide a sense of community. As our community shifts with the wind, our life together will form the special way we perceive Southwestern.

A Busy Year For Sutton

By Homecoming It became obvious that Sutton women would have a busy year. Hard work paid when Sutton came away with first place in Homecoming dorm decorations and Second place in Spirit Floats.

Much of the year's success is due to the hard-working leadership of many people. Jo and Blaine Orr were Resident Directors, flanked by Shawn Fanshier and Ethel Manuel as R.A.'s. Dorm President was Melanie Hickman with a fine back-up council. Council members were Gayla Dvorak, vice-president; Kathy Braker, Secretary-treasurer; D'Lise Yager, De Anne Hastings, & Christie Hughes representing their respective floors. Linda Pederson and Aimee Markel served as SGA Representatives.

Deep in thought, Sheila Tredway plans the organization of an assigned paper.

Life at Broadhurst Hall brings a strange mixture into the lives of Broadhurst men — a mixture of spirited enthusiasm, of seeming apathy and even a few rare moments of soul searching. They took first in the homecoming spirit contest and third in the float competition. They sparked such stupendous events as Rent-a-Man (and even made money) and enjoyed exploring the psychological implications of Love Boat. At a surface glance Broadhurst men may seem apathetic for, as the hostages were released they played Pente' and Dungeons and Dragons. As the president was being shot, they were in class (at least half). As the space shuttle lifted off they slept. But perhaps these "men" are not as bad as they sound. One can see some hope through their efforts to keep Winfield clean by participating in can-stacking. And checking up on each other's well-being with the use of stethoscopes is another sign of hope that some do care. However, through all the ups and downs that life at Southwestern College brings, the residents of famed Broadhurst find time to reflect on both their pasts and futures. Although sometimes it may be boring for them, they find that life without Broadhurst is like a day without rain — it really doesn't apply, but according to sources, it's something that Ken Goyen said to John Homan after he found out that he would be a "house-parent" in '81-'82.

Reid Hall

Known as the "jock dorm", Reid does indeed supply a large number of SC intercollegiate athletes including many All-KCAC performers and individual champions. The men of Reid play a big role in the spirit of the campus. Reid started a trend that excited SC through their sales of "Buildermania" and "Back the Pack" T-shirts.

Reid is the home for what started out as just another Intramural Council basketball team, the E.S.A.D.S. but became something much more. The E.S.A.D.S. painted and suspended from the rafters and balcony of Stewart banners which lifted a quiet Builder crowd to a roaring one and helped boost the basketball team to victory several times.

In the latter half of the basketball season, several other Reid residents would dress in purple and white and assist the cheerleaders in their routines. These men, yell leaders, added greatly to building enthusiasm and helped in pulling the fans together.

For the first time in years, Reid actively participated in Homecoming by decorating their dorm as a movie theater-The Reid Cinema. The Homecoming Decoration Committee, chaired by James Hunter, worked from supper Friday evening until early morning hours on Homecoming Day. Other committee members were: Jon Benham, Jeff Thompson, Bruce McGehee and Dallas Hinds. SC played McPherson for Homecoming thus prompting Reid's movie title, "The Builders That Ate McPherson."

Reid's parties, some spontaneous, others carefully planned, developed their own reputation throughout the campus. One ill-fated party officially was cancelled at Frazer Barn. But even official sanctions did not dampen Reid's thirst for "fun". However, even though Reid does have its share of "rowdies", Reid has gone two consecutive years with a perfect no-damage record for which the dorm would pay. This lack of damage can be attributed to the fine R.A.'s, R.D's and dorm council that served Reid Hall.

Non-Residential Students lack a common on-campus dormitory, but they bring to the campus a variety of backgrounds, age and lifestyles. Off-campus students must find different ways to feel a part of the school. Sometimes organizations or athletics provide this common meeting ground between dorm students and off-campus students.

Honor Dorm Lives In Style

Are you tired of cramped quarters, being confined by quiet hours and having to rely on the cafeteria for all your meals?

Honor Dorm Corporation offers you luxurious one bedroom condominiums, complete with kitchenettes, on the secluded side of campus. Not only will you enjoy piped in music, courtesy of Shriwise, but you also have the benefit of your very own wiffle ball court right in your front yard. For those of you who are socially inclined the opportunities available include hamburger cookouts, ice cream socials, and a grassy courtyard, ideally suited for mingling with your neighbors. A new addition just recently constructed is our famous Zuma Beach, situated in a perfect location for sunbathing and surfing.

Sandwiched in between studying, girls, and photography, Curtis Kauer finds time to dance in the MDA Marathon.

Academics

Winds of change blew from the top down through the academic community. Our interim president, Dr. Forrest Robinson, eased the transition between presidencies before Dr. Robert Sessions took hold in January. Through the anxiety of change, the challenges of new growth and learning continued to open our minds to the world around us.

Thank You, Forrest Robinson

The SC Community Says:

Dr. Robinson, as Interim President helped keep the college rolling while the search for the new president was on. Not content with a mere holding action, he approached the job with enthusiasm and quickly established personal contact by meeting separately with each division. He and Betty Jean are former Moundbuilders who have the feel of the place and belong to families full of alumni: twelve Robinsons and twenty-six Matthews, by actual count.

In 1981 we welcomed Dr. Robinson as our new Director of development. The SC family is happy that Forrest and Betty Jean elected to remain on the hill.

Dr. Robinson Says:

When I was a child, my father, who played football for SC in 1903, left no doubt as to my college future. He would say, "When you go to Southwestern . . ." That future long ago became the past, and now I am most grateful to be looking to greater tomorrows for Southwestern as a member of the team.

Welcome, President Sessions

James Hunter, Member of the Presidential Search Committee Says:

As a minority student member of the Presidential Search Committee, the task before us was both challenging and rewarding. The time and effort that the Search Committee put forth last spring and the fall of 1980 were well worth the wait.

After a search through numerous applications, the committee produced an applicant who is now fulfilling the needs of Southwestern College and the community of Winfield — Dr. Robert Sessions and his wife, Julia.

I feel as though the atmosphere of the campus has taken a positive step forward. It's a real pleasure to know that you have a leader, but even more to know that your leader is a friend. The family-type relationship that Dr. Sessions and his wonderful wife Julia have brought to campus life is rewarding in itself. I would like to express my congratulations to the Sessions family and the best of luck for their future here at Southwestern College.

Dr. Sessions Says:

The countdown has begun for the celebration in 1985 of Southwestern College's 100 birthday. Imagine — 100 years of helping some of America's finest young people achieve a Christian liberal arts education! This year's graduates join thousands of other living alumni in becoming responsible citizens and leaders in education, medicine, ministry, science, law, business, and other fields. I am proud to become a part of this fine tradition and to share in helping build for future students an even greater Southwestern.

Through student representation in SC's decision-making process, students have opportunities to affect decisions that are made. Students represent SC on most major on-going committees such as Curriculum Committee, or Parking Committee; and they represent student interests on special committees such as the Presidential Search Committee and Selection Committee for the two new coaches. Students are also represented on the Board of Trustees. As those in administrative positions hear the concerns of students, fairer decisions can be made that serve the best interests of the college as a whole.

Campus Council for Ministries is one student-faculty committee which coordinates programs concerning the spiritual needs on campus.

In response to students' concerns over the increase in the price of parking fines from $1 to $5, the Student Affairs Committee (made up mostly of students) voted to form a subcommittee to handle appeals for parking tickets. Faculty - Student Interaction Special

Getting to know professors personally is a very special opportunity students have at SC. While at larger schools students often become a number, at SC faculty often can be seen meeting in the student union talking with students, giving special instruction or interacting in labs or during special school functions. To grow to understand the values and life-styles of faculty and to interact on a personal level gives a very special kind of education which transcends the transmitting of facts.

Tri-Beta members and any other interested students were allowed to attend any of the lectures to learn more about specific studies in biology.

Walking across the United States the Peace Pilgrim, a kindly old lady, preaches peace wherever she goes. While staying on campus she talked several times to groups of students.

"I really think students learn as much from us in contacts outside of class as in formal class work," one SC faculty member stated.

Learning which deeply affects value systems and life choices often comes from those seminars, conferences, and guest speakers that are abundant at SC.

Each entering freshman brings to SC his or her own perspective limited in scope to the range of experiences from previous years. Gradually though, many opportunities come which stretch that perspective and open eyes to other points of view and awareness of the problems of living in a complex society.

Guest speakers from the Winfield area enhance intellectual growth by presenting real-life experiences to students. One such guest speaker delivers a talk on business to members of Phi Beta Lambda, National Business Honor Society, over lunch in Tri-D.

Perspective Grows Through Enriching Opportunities

Wider Winds Of Change Interpreted

Many visiting "firemen" come each year to raise our consciousness on such issues as ecology; racial and social justice; war, peace and nuclear energy; and theology as it applies to women's rights and other present-day concerns. Without such outside resource people, we at Southwestern could see our own little "straw in the wind" but too often would not be able to understand it in the context of the wider winds of change sweeping our nation and the world.

"Christology and the '80s" was the theme of the Parkhurst Lectures presented by Dr. Rosemary Reuther, professor at Garrett Evangelical Theological Seminary. Her March 19th appearance on campus provided thought-provoking lectures and discussions on topics such as Jewish-Christian Relations, Feminism and Ecology.

A Time For Travel And Change

Jan Term may be defined as a time for travel or change. Travel may be either foreign or domestic and change is the chance to get out of the subject area of your major and into another class to develop new skills. Very often it is easy to get locked in on one subject area and close your mind to the world and other people around you. Jan Term is a chance to break out of your shell and explore new areas; several courses offered just such a method to do this.

If travel has always been your thing, but you didn't have the big bucks to travel abroad, several trips in the States were the way to go. From skiing the high country of Colorado, to walking the beaches of Florida, to examining desert biology in Arizona, something was there to kill the travel bug.

For those wanting to stay home, skills new to some were taught in accounting, singing, cooking, aerobic dancing, and dulcimer playing and construction. And if that wasn't enough, the Jan Term Extravaganza sponsored by SGA was sure to keep you ticking, as several students took time to teach their skills to others. Jan. Term was truly a time to "break the shell" around you - and relax.

Taking a break on the slopes are Wade Cargile, Scott Cotton, Tammie Bauer, George Gangwere, and Tim Cargile.

Jan Term Finds SC Around Globe

Suddenly finding themselves in a strange land, hearing strange languages, experiencing different customs, and different life-styles had its effect on a total of 27 SC students who participated in two overseas tours during Jan Term. The differences in American values and life-styles came into focus for one group of 19 SC students as they experience the richness of the cultures of France and Italy. Another group, including 8 SC students, touring Egypt and Israel, gained new perspectives as they actually travelled the historical route of the journey of the children Israel in the Wilderness. Actually seeing the areas spoken of in the Bible brought new meaning to the written word.

While many travelers experienced some culture shock, most were heard to say, "I want to go back!"

The first impression a visitor to Southwestern gains will usually come from the staff of the school. The lasting effect of such a visit will usually depend on the efficiency of follow-up communication made possible by efforts of the staff. How smoothly problems are solved on campus will depend on staff knowing how to work through channels.

Though often thankless jobs are performed, these staff members help make Southwestern a special place.

Three "D's" Rise To Top

Discipline, Determination, and Drive are three basic ingredients found in those among us we honor who reach the top. For having the drive and determination to do their best and for being willing to discipline themselves, SC honors those who do outstanding work.

Members of the senior class earn honors annually based on outstanding academic achievement and extracurricular activity. These honored students have in their college careers contributed to SC greatly and in many different ways. There are several means through which students received these honors.

To gain entrance to the Order of the Mound one must have placed in the academic top ten percent of their class. Generally these students are announced at the honors convocation; this year they were recognized at graduation by the purple sashes they wore.

Valedictorians stand at the top of their class. The Class of 1981 had two such students both with GPA's of 4.0, which is perfection on SC's 4-point scale. These students were also considered the Scholars of the College.

Some of these honors were bestowed by peers and the student body. Seniors included in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities were chosen by a representative group of the faculty, administration and students. These seniors were chosen for their very active roles in campus events and affairs.

By nomination of SGA and the faculty many seniors were placed on a ballot, six of whom would become Master-builders. This ballot of seniors was brought before the entire student body who elected six seniors they felt displayed the highest standards of conduct and truly lived up to the ideals of a Moundbuilder.

Order of the Mound new members: The top 10 percent of each graduating class is granted induction to the Order of the Mound. This year's inductees are: Jana Nelson; Curtis Kauer; Carol Tutzauer; Sherry Nation. Back row: Julie Drake; Brad Bruner; Gunter Angermayr; Frank Tutzauer; Shirley Kindt; Jim Rollins; and Dell Shanahan.

Class of 1981 Valedictorians Dell Shanahan and Julie Drake flanked by President Sessions and Academic Dean Evans.

Selected for inclusion to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities are those seniors who throughout their college careers have shown great enthusiasm and involvement in their schools. 1980-81 Who's Who: Sherry Nation, Angie Owens, Tammy DeLano, Jeannie Baker, Jana Nelson, Curtis Kauer. Back Row: Kim Snapp, Frank Tutzauer, Rick Cotton, Kevin Bauer, Karlan Yager, Jim Rollins, Dennis Hodges, Julie Drake.

Seniors Tom Neely and Stretch Singleton take long walk up '77' in Honors Convocation procession.

Dr. Helen Wroten retired this year after 16 years of dedication to higher learning in English at SC. During commencement she received an award of appreciation for her devotion to service.

Don Smith, SGA President, presents the 1980-81 SGA Faculty Citation to Gary King, computer science instructor. This award given by the Student Government Association every year recognizes a faculty member that has displayed a great interest in students and in striving for quality education.

Academic All-Conference Athletes Honored

Fifteen SC athletes received the most prestigious award given at SC, the KCAC Academic All-Conference Award. To receive this award, the athlete must be a second-semester sophomore or above, must have received a varsity letter in a KCAC sport, and must have a cumulative 3.3 grade point average on a 4 point scale. In a school which places strong academic emphasis on the same scale with athletic excellence, this award recognizes the students who strove to achieve this important balance.

Dr. Robert Paul Sessions was inaugurated as the 15th president of Southwestern College on May 11. He served in that position since January 1, replacing Donald B. Ruthenberg.

Ben Oliphint, Bishop of the Kansas Area United Methodist Church, was the main speaker at the ceremony and gave Sessions his charge as president. Joe Riley Burns, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented Sessions with the presidential medallion and George McNeish, chairman of the search committee who recommended Sessions, officially presented Sessions for investiture. He was assisted by Academic Dean Robert Evans.

The event was held in Richardson Auditorium and attended by over 700 alumni, faculty, representatives of various colleges, trustees, students and about 20 members of Session's family.

Sessions was born in Hardy, Arkansas, on October 5, 1926. Beginning in newspaper work at the age of 16, he continued that experience as editor of the largest weekly newspaper in the Navy and then editor of a newsletter at Boston University. He spent two semesters at Brown University and three semesters at Dartmouth College under the Navy Officer Training Program (1944-45). He graduated from Southern Methodist University in 1948 with a Bachelor of Arts degree and went on to earn the Bachelor of Divinity and the Master of Theology degrees in 1950. In 1968, he was awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Boston University with a double major in sociology of religion and social ethics.

Inauguration Day

Joy Will, president of the Southwestern Alumni Association offers the best wishes of that organization for the success of Sessions in his new position.

As mayor of Winfield, Sterling Albertson welcomes the new president.

Dr. Laws, faculty representative, offers his vote of confidence in the task that awaits the new president of S.C. Left Lower: SGA president, Don Smith, presents his offer, on behalf of the students at S.C., to assist the president. Above: President Sessions and mother. Mrs. Sessions, take part in the b-b-q beef buffet in Sonner Stadium. Helping are Rose Bergann, Laurie Hagans, and Beth Chapman.

Above: Junior Marshals Kelly Rundell and Martha Wilson. Right: "Aprender sin pensar es como una cascada sin agua." Learning without thinking is like a waterfall without water. Dennis Hodges' contribution to the commencement address.

Newly inaugurated Robert Sessions was the speaker at this, his first graduating class' commencement. Sessions spoke on "sorting it out," the process of discovery in relation to finding one's way in the world. Sessions was introduced by Kenneth H. Hiebsch, chairman of the Board of Trustee's executive committee. The speaker's platform also contained the fathers of two members of the graduating class: Paul Leslie, father of Valera; and Robert Hobus, father of Steve.

Esther Overstreet Winkelman, M.D., of Kansas City, Mo., was awarded the honorary Doctor of Science degree in view of her outstanding contributions to the field of medicine.

Dr. Helen Wroten, retiring as professor of English and past division chairman, was cited by the president for her service to the college.

Degrees were conferred on 124 seniors.

Above: Esther Winkelman, shown here with Bob Wimmer, has been in private medical practice since 1935 when she received her medical degree from KU. In 1965, she was awarded Doctor of the Year by the Greater Kansas City Academy of Family Medicine. She has served as director of the American Medical Women's Association and holds memberships in the AMA, the American Academy of Family Medicine, Pan American Medical Assoc., Int'l Medical Women's Assoc. and American Medical Women's Assoc. She is also a free-lance writer, photographer, lecturer and world traveler.

Moundbuilder Staff: Darrel Drennan, Rick Cotton, Ann Channel, LuAnn King, Shelly Stinson, Dallas Hinds, Bruce McGehee, Rob Anderson.

Fearless leader of the Moundbuilder Staff Editor Dallas Hinds types copy for the yearbook.

Moundbuilder Staff Faces Problems

The 1980-81 Moundbuilder Staff had a rather frustrating year. Plagued with a multitude of problems, the staff had to decide whether or not to scrap the yearbook. A determined group of students voted to go on with the project which meant a large amount of work had to be completed in the final weeks of school.

In producing any work of this magnitude, there are many people that go seemingly unnoticed. Several volunteers helped in bringing this book to print. The staff would like to recognize and thank Maija Wilgers, Sarah Hale, Duana Elder, Victoria Wills, Wallace and Ina Gray, Carol Patrick, Jill Matthews, Penny Smith, Doug Delaney, Curtis Kauer, and Jim Rollins for their help from typing to printing, to writing. A special thanks is extended to Julia Sessions for providing the motivation and assistance needed to complete the yearbook.

Photography Editor, Ann Channel has spent a lot of time in the darkroom this semester seeing what would develop.

Bruce McGehee, head photographer, examines some negatives. Bruce insists that each of his photos is Pulitzer material.

Darrel Drennan and Rob Anderson try out the latest in printing paper from Kodak.

Rick Cotton examines prints.

Faculty Sponsor, Wallace Gray serves in both a support yet prodding role when the going gets tough.

Did The Winds Of Change Throughout The Year Cause The Class Of '81 To Lose Their Marbles?

Or, did seniors gain strength and solidarity as they adjusted, laughed, and faced new challenges? Seniors now leave Southwestern to take their place in a world where change is predictable. The Southwestern Community all join in wishing Seniors well and hope that ten years from now the class of '81 can return to reclaim their marble, and be able to say with pride "Southwestern is my Alma Mater"
