Organizations

SAA: Focus on Campus Life

Social life is an important part of the student experience. At Southwestern the Student Activities Association attempts to avoid the age-old complaint that there is nothing to do around campus. This year S.A.A. planned and executed such regular activities as the back-to-school carnival and dance, and the bi-weekly free movie nights at the Winfield theatre. The Omega Virtual Reality machine in which students could experience a virtual roller coaster ride and the annual Winter Formal were just two of the special activities sponsored by S.A.A. to provide a break from the rigors of being a student. The organization provided an attractive remedy for boredom and promoted a sense of campus community.

SGA, Negative No More

Presenting a more future-oriented organization was SGA's aim during the 1996-97 school year. In order to accomplish this, meetings were run more efficiently, which helped with the new policy requiring senators to be present at 90% of the meetings. Senators worked toward gaining mutual cooperation between themselves, the faculty and administration.

SGA was fortunate to have enthusiastic committee heads to keep members actively involved. One committee goal was to improve the lighting on campus. Other committees were responsible for the successful food drives and homecoming activities. Surveys were distributed to try and cooperate with student concerns about housing. On much the same note, the constitutional revision committee was working to constantly revise the constitution to better benefit the student body as a whole.

Officers for the 1996-97 school year were: Preston Richert, Chris Holt, Kristin Sauer, Holly Mitchek, Leigh Donaldson, Kyle Woodrow, and Pam Richert.

This year a new era began for the Collegian by completing its 101st volume. Editors for the first semester were Amanda Finch and Merlin Swink. For the second semester Jeana Clark and Lonna Summers became editors and Tava Jo Ingram assistant editor to finish another admirable year.

The accessibility of the Collegian increased this year by going on-line. This way students, faculty, and alumni can view past issues of the paper. Adding to the diversity of the paper were photo essays, which used more pictures to depict current events. The photo essays made the coverage of events more in-depth and thought-provoking than ever before. The 1996-1997 Collegian exhibited the talents and hard work of the dedicated staff kept the student body up-to-date on important issues and events throughout the year.

Developing Minds Want to Know

The Moundbuilder has a long history of bringing the student body great coverage of campus events, organizations, and activities. This year was no exception. The staff worked very hard this year to compile a plethora of pictures and stories that made up the backbone of the yearbook.

The 1996-1997 yearbook staff started with nine students under the watchful eye of faculty advisor Kathy Wilgers. For the second year editorial responsibilities were divided among three co-editors: Stacey Robbins, Lisa Phillips, and Tava Jo Ingram.

Debate Puts it in Black and White

Janie Carballo and Rob Fry prepare for an upcoming tournament.

Heather Norton, Rob Fry, Janie Carballo

The S.C. Debate Team took on a new outlook and a new assistant for the 1996-1997 season. Heather Norton assisted the debate students in joining the National Educational Debate Association. NEDA consists of 50 colleges and universities across the United States. The program's purpose is to prepare students to express their opinion in a non-confrontational manner.

The team had the privilege of attending seven tournaments this year. The first semester topic focused on values. The second semester topic discussed whether or not the CIA should be eliminated. The debate team was required to argue both sides of an issue, despite their personal opinion.

"I used to be a very single sided person," said team member Rob Fry. "but having to debate both sides enables me to see two sides of a situation."

Pi Gamma Mu was founded in 1924 at Southwestern College in Winfield, Kansas. The organization is an international honor society in social sciences. Students must be of junior or higher status, in the top thirty-five percent of their class, have twenty hours of social sciences, and have at least a 3.5 grade point average. Students are automatically eligible to become members if they have these requirements.

Pi Gamma Mu sponsored the Go Far Award, an award to the organization with the highest grade point average. Stacey Robbins had this to share, "This year has been pretty laid-back, but I am looking forward to more group activities next year. This is an organization with the potential to really get things accomplished." Claudia Geer and Philip Schmidt were sponsors for Pi Gamma Mu.

CCOM Focuses on Christianity

Campus Council on Ministry was open to all students. The many facets of CCOM included Chapel services, praise team, worship team, music ministry, Institute for Discipleship, mission team, and the international team. The praise team organized Chapel every Wednesday. Stacy Houlden felt that Chapel was the most important part of CCOM because, "It lifted up my spirits when I'm down." The worship team, music ministry, and mission team involved students in activities that went beyond Southwestern College. This year a new group called Institute for Discipleship was formed. Once a week, this group met to study the Bible and come together in fellowship. "I like Bible study because it gives me a chance to learn more about the Bible and share my views with the other people in the group," said Sarah Cox.

FCA stands for Fellowship of Christian Athletes. It is an organization for anyone interested in athletics with a Christian emphasis. The organization is not limited to just athletes. "We try to make everyone feel welcome, athlete or not," said Michelle Powell. FCA meetings were held once a week and consisted of fun activities like basketball, volleyball, as well as guest speakers, personal testimonies, and group fellowship. The meetings were completely student led, and lasted about an hour. Ashley Alley said, "We are pleased with the attendance. This year our average turnout was around 25 people." This year FCA sponsored activities like Powder Puff Football and Trick-or-Treating for canned goods.

Each meeting a hat is passed around to collect money for the child FCA sponsors.

Below: Christina Hurtado explains the history of the Mound to a group of perspective students and their parents at the Explore More Day during Homecoming.

When potential students visit SC for the first time, having a friendly person to talk to and answer questions is a big help. That's where SHARP ambassadors shine! The Student Host And Recruitment Program boasts eight enthusiastic Southwestern students to help in many areas of recruiting new students. They make phone calls, send out postcards, and work on and off campus to promote SC. Their biggest and most prominent job is giving campus tours and having lunch with potential students. Those interested in becoming an ambassador fill out an application and are interviewed by a committee. The group is then carefully narrowed down to eight students.

People Helping People

SH.A.R.E. was a student volunteer organization committed to helping the Winfield community, environment, the less fortunate, as well as making SC students aware of social issues. This has been the first year for the "S.H.A.R.E. Team." This team has been in charge of organizing many events such as Habitat for Humanity work days, the Hunger Banquet, youth concerts, Earth Awareness Days, as well as placing students in volunteer opportunities throughout the community. Amanda Finch, a S.H.A.R.E. intern, said, "We are very impressed with the student involvement and the willingness to accomplish our goals this year."

Lights, Camera, Action: SCTV

SCTV entered its second year in its own studio, and its eleventh year of broadcasting. Sixteen students controlled the operation, with shows that aired Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 3:30 p.m. and Thursday at 8:30 p.m. This year SCTV featured some special productions, including O'Phil in concert, a Halloween special, and original movies produced by SC film students.

At KSWC, 100.3 on the FM dial, listeners can enjoy three hour shifts by 23 deejays and can even call in requests seven days a week. The format is college rock and alternative but the music varies, depending on the deejay and requests they receive. The station provides news, weather, and public service announcements for the Winfield area. Management includes: Deanna Housh, Station Manager; Christy Grealis, Assistant Station Manager; Chris Burley, Programming Director; Jared Bastion, Production Manager; Tava Jo Ingram, Assistant Production Manager; and David Boyd, News Director.

Exposure to Numbers

Math Club continued its second year as a Southwestern organization. The club's main purpose is to promote interest in math and to tutor math students. "Math Club members are here to help any Southwestern student excel in math," said Travis Etheridge. Jennifer Benevento had this to say about being a part of Math Club, "I joined because I wanted to be with other people who think math is fun and interesting." The club is planning to invite guest speakers for convocation and a trip. Officers were President Jennifer Crispin, Vice-President Travis Etheridge, Secretary Ginny Seaman, and Treasurer Roumen Vragov.

Tri-Beta Focuses Their Goal on Nature

Tri-Beta Honor Fraternity was a club for students who are biology majors. The club's goal was to further the members' knowledge of the study of nature and how it functions and relates with different species. Tri-Beta was one of the oldest groups in the U. S. It has been active at Southwestern since 1957. Charles Hunter is the sponsor of Tri-Beta. The club puts together activities by the students' choice and took biology-related field trips. This year a trip to Springfield, Missouri was planned. In Springfield the group took a field trip on the surface of Ozark Underground Laboratory, and toured the Tumbling Creek Cave. The purpose of this field trip was to encourage education and understand the proper uses of resources. "What I like best about this club are the field trips," said Amber Rucker.

Focus on the Psyche

Southwestern's Psychology Club has completed its third year on campus, and has made progress throughout the year in accomplishing its goals. The Psychology Club consisted of a group of Psychology majors, minors, and students interested in psychology. They gathered and shared information on topics that correlated to the organization's interests. Psychology Club discussed the initiation of a Psi Chi chapter. The group traveled to Osawatomie, KS to enhance their understanding of mental health in a clinical setting. Gathering information for graduate school was also a main priority. They put their best foot forward when they bowled to raise money for Big Brothers and Big Sisters in February. Professors Claudia Geer and Katharine Snyder served as the sponsors for the organization.

Social Work Club Exposes Itself to the Community

The Social Work Club is for people who are interested in social work or are social work majors. They take pride in helping the community. Their main goal for this year was to earn the Purple Heart Award which is given by Student Life for community service and campus involvement. As part of their work to achieve this award the group had a float in the homecoming parade, a booth at the activity fair, and put out a brochure.

BSA Tests Their Competitive Edge

BSA members mingle after their workshop at the Diversity Conference.

Beta Sigma Alpha has been active on SC's campus since 1994. Better known to students as the Business Students Association, this organization held weekly meetings which encouraged and recognized the scholarship and accomplishments of the students in the Business Leadership Program. BSA encouraged its members to develop both professionally and personally.

Members remained active throughout the school year. During the fall semester, BSA entered a float in the homecoming parade, held luncheons, and revised their constitution. The spring semester was loaded with events like SWC Skate for Big Brothers and Big Sisters, a dinner fund-raiser, and conducted "A Virtual Trip to Mexico" for the Conference on Diversity.

BSA was open to all students of Business Leadership and continued to play an integral role in the Business Leadership Department as well as on SC's campus.

SCANS: Focus On Nursing

Southwestern College Association of Nursing (SCANS) was founded in 1995. SCANS is a part of the National Student Nurses' Association (NSNA) and the Kansas Association of Nursing Students (KANS). The purpose of SCANS is to promote professionalism in nursing and to acquaint students with professional nursing organizations. All current nursing students including RN-BSN students, are invited to join. Throughout the academic year the organization holds monthly meetings that focus on the interest of the students professionally and personally.

Leadership Develops Skills

The leadership team was designed to assist students in understanding the different aspects of servant leadership through personal growth from individual projects and service toward others. If students successfully pass these classes, they will graduate with the honor of Distinguished Student of Leadership Studies.

Members explored different aspects of leadership by taking team trips, being involved in individual projects, and attending seminars. One mission trip was to New Orleans to work in a Methodist childrens home. The members re-painted rooms, spent time with the children, and helped with their Christmas celebration. James Rosenthal enjoyed "being able to make a difference in peoples' lives."

The leadership team continued to be an important aspect to SC. "Without the leadership team, SC would be losing a very important aspect through the services of leadership that is becoming mandatory in the world today," said Christy Grealis.

On The Road With BSU

The 1996-97 Black Student Union had a busy year. Not only did they participate with on campus functions, but off-campus functions as well. BSU participated in several recruiting trips, including trips to Dallas and Tulsa. The group also went on a Spring Break trip to California. Along with recruiting, they also sponsored two parties, a pajama jam and a Halloween party. Participation in "Bowl for Kids Sake" and many other charity functions kept this organization on the move.

Gamma Lambda Upsilon continued their tradition of community service work by painting the house and rebuilding the patio of Judith Charlton's house. All money was donated to charity for the Grace house and Grace United Methodist Church.

The Gammas also held the annual date rape seminar with the guest speaker being chief of security, Mr. Dan Bowker, who gave students current information about date rape.

The Gammas also co-sponsored the "Retro" Valentines Day dance. The new Upsilon pledge class turned out to be successful with a gain of five new members.

Upsilon pledge class: Travis Ethridge, Robin Walker, Jason Teubner, Shannon Clements, and Timothy Myers.

Pi Delta Sigma Focuses Inward

Pi Delta Sigma continued to be a presence on campus this year. The Delts were active in a number of ways including sponsoring a team for the mud volleyball tournament, a booth at the activity fair, a recruitment party, and a float in the Homecoming Parade. Also, the organization held a "Summer Delt Reunion" where over 50 current members and alums met to socialize and catch up on old times. The group's main focus this year, however, was inward.

Pi Delta Sigma decided to not have pledges this year in order to turn our attention inward -- to strengthen our group and learn to work together to accomplish established goals," said Tava Jo Ingram, the Delt's Vice President. "We wanted to regroup and rebuild after a huge dent was put into our membership due to graduation."

Pi Delta Sigma: Lindsay Marshall, Tava Jo Ingram, Jenni Crispin, Amy Schwartz, Sarah Ferguson, Molly Schulte, Ginger Wilcox

Sigma Focus on Community

Community service was the main focus for Sigma Iota Sigma. The members had Halloween, Christmas, and Easter parties for Phone Pals. They also wrapped presents at the Tisdale Church and planned to help with Big Brothers and Big Sisters. Sigma co-sponsored the Winter Formal with Student Activities Association. Stacy Morgan said, "I have really enjoyed being in Sigma this year. We have had some great projects and it was really exciting to be a part of a group that works so hard to make a difference."

Phi Delta Theta Focuses Inward

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity focused on sixteen new pledge members who joined first semester during pledge week. "We decided to have no rush second semester. I feel we need to focus more on each other and provide the community with our service." said President Matthew Scholfield. Their community service consisted of cleaning up after the Walnut Valley Festival and holding the third annual "Casino Night" to collect cans of food for the hungry.

Bands Expose SC to Great Music

Above: Emma Lambrecht, Jill Gragert, Jason Ellison, Ginny Seaman, and Lily Mattix practice for one of the concerts for the Jazz Band.

Many people put a lot of effort and time into bringing great music to the Southwestern community through the three bands SC has - concert, jazz, and pep band. Under the supervision of Charles Yingling, the 30 members of the concert band make up the core of the department from which the other bands are supplied with members. The jazz band has 17 members and works on several pieces for performances including some from the big band era. They rely more heavily on the brass and saxophone sections. The pep band has about 12 members who went to all the home ball games to provide some school spirit through music. The concert and jazz bands performed several concerts during the year as well as a special pre-commencement concert and during commencement. When asked about the band, Charles Yingling said, "In the five years I've been here, we've grown 3 or 4 times. I'm really pleased with this year's band. We are better balanced which makes us stronger."

Southwestern Choirs Expose

The Southwestern College Vocal Department includes the A Cappella Choir, Southwestern Singers, Women's Chorus under the leadership of Dr. James Schuppener. The A Cappella choir performed four concerts this year, and they had the privilege of taking a one week trip around Kansas singing their hearts out. "I enjoyed meeting new people in A Cappella and experiencing different types of music," said Bryan Wilson.

The SC Singers spread their musical talent all around Western Kansas, and the Kansas City area in Methodist churches and high schools. Women's Chorus presented three concerts in Southwestern College auditoriums, and a special Valentine's Day performance in the cafeteria.

Keynotes consisted of 13 vocal students with Martin Rude as their coordinator. Keynotes performed 18 concerts in Methodist Churches across Kansas. Keynotes performed "Swinging with the Saints" at SC's Homecoming. "Keynotes gives us a wonderful opportunity to go out and tell others about the love of God. We are able to share our values and our message of Jesus. We have been extremely busy this year with concerts almost every weekend. Every experience is different and meaningful, but what is most important to me is the time we spend in fellowship and prayer," said Deanna Housh.

Campus Players is an honorary organization designed to recognize outstanding Southwestern theatre students who exhibit commitment, perseverance, cooperation, and participation. The group was founded in 1919 by Miss Martha Lee to honor theatrical leadership, talent, and dedication. Campus Players has four offices to manage the organization. They are President, Executive Assistant, Probationary Contact, and Historian. Respectively, Angela Mayorga, Carman Costello, Jennifer Loomis, and Merrill MacQueen served in these four positions for the 1996-1997 year. The co-sponsors were Allyson and Roger Moon. Campus Players had an exquisite year. They presented seven productions. They included the following: Nice Goin', Mary Martin Memoir, A...My Name is Alice, Mother Courage and Her Children, Eagerheart, Celebrations, The Taming of the Shrew, and Putting It Together: Acts of Consequence.

Future teachers saw a need for an organization to talk about ideas and do service for the community. Leigh Nihart said, "I believe this organization was greatly needed. Not only does it contribute to the community, but it also helps those of us who are majoring in education to share ideas and concerns." The Education Builders completed a number of service projects. "Service in the community is one of the main reasons Education Builders was formed," said co-president Kym Cleary. They participated in Bowling for Kids Sake, did face painting in Art in the Park, and did a clean-up day at Countryview Elementary School. Also, each member did eight hours of mentoring in schools around the Winfield area. For fundraising, they sold suckers. The Education Builders had a momentous year.

Pride led by SC Cheerleaders

The pride in sports at SC starts with the cheerleaders. The team was made up of five returning cheerleaders and four new people. Each of the members brings energy and dedication when cheering during football and basketball games with the help of head coach, Nancy Lewis. Kari Roswurm says, "The best thing about cheerleading is the friendships I have made." Amy Williams gives this insight, "The Cheerleading Squad this year is a very experienced group. The squad's main goals are to grow together and raise student spirit."

Southwestern College's Pom Squad returned for their second year. Commitment and hard work showed in all home performances. "Pom Squad shows support and spirit for SC teams," said Carrie Plumley. Four members from the previous squad and five newcomers made an impressive team. "Even though the team is smaller then last year, we are still fun to watch," said Joyelle Pickett. Nancy Lewis starred as head coach and Dawn Pleas-Bailey as assistant coach. Team captain was the talented Joyelle Pickett.

Wheat Bowl Develops from Great Season

1st row: Heath Nixon, Heath Laetari, Gerald Gray, Gerry Strange, Sherman Duncan, Stacy Thomas, Amon Turner, Darin Dulin, Chris Bussey, Michael Schell, Pat Johnson, Jared Bastion, Rob Bennington, Chad Johnson, Silas Robertson, Eric McCormack. 2nd row: Jonathan Lemuel, Dan Rice, Derek Long, John Manley, Jason Pond, Shawn Creason, Sean Strickland, Chad Lampson, Brad Easterling, Ulysses Wright, Doug Winn, Jason Nichols, Tray Dunkerson, Joey Peltz, Brandon Starnes, Darryl Brooks, Alvin Every. 3rd row: Ryan Wallis, Curtis Meeker, Justin Hurley, Jeff Rahm, Scott Low, Dustin Donley, Shane Armstrong, Damion Walker, Monty Lewis, Ben Brass, Shane Batchelder, Chris Asmussen, John Leary, Jim Hunt, Tim Clark, David Boyd, John Nelson. 4th row: Tyree Myles, Shane Eidson, Matt Biehler, Chris Shields, George Espinoza, Darren Hornback, Richard Malone, Michael Raschen, Chris Rankins, Chris Holt, Burt Humburg, Chris McCurry, Josh Bradford, Rusty Snyder, Dennis Abington, John Brannon. 5th row: Brian Norton, Jason Brandenburg, Leslee Gibson, Jayson Hill, Pat Farmer, Howard Spencer, Dave Denley, Billy Beard, Vernon Goertz, Phil Hower, Matt Welch, Chris Douglas, Jeff Stine, Rick McNerlin, Steve Roberts, Ashlee and Amy Alley, Nicole Ledbetter.

Purple pride was overflowing this year and with good reason. The football team began the season picked 3rd in the KCAC pre-season Media Poll. These were big shoes to fill but the Builders met the challenge with some pretty exciting games. Led by Monty Lewis, the team ended up 6-2 in the KCAC and 7-3 overall. This year's team boasted the most returning seniors since Lewis began coaching here four seasons ago. This gave the team a strong model for newer players to follow. The team braved all kinds of weather including a very cold, muddy game in Sterling and, the crowning glory of the season, the second annual Wheat Bowl game against Baker in extremely cold and windy Ellinwood.

Young Volleyball Team

The Moundbuilder Women finished their volleyball season with a pretty even record. They were 8-8 in the KCAC conference and 13-14 overall. Team member Rhonda Gaschler was unanimously chosen to be on the KCAC team. Only twelve people are picked from the KCAC schools to be on this team. Junior Tiffany Granzow and Senior Janaye White were in the top five of all KCAC players for passing. Gashler was also among the top four players to have the most kills. Being a young team, the freshmen and sophomore girls gained a lot of experience. The team graduated only two seniors, and look forward to next year as more experienced players.

Women's Tennis Develops Winning Spirit

The 1996-1997 women's tennis team returned a very experienced team. There were three seniors, juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman. This season they had a dual record of 9-1. They completed the KCAC tournament with a strong second place finish which geared them up for their spring season with a 5-4 win over Emporia State. Jessie Brass was selected for the First All-Conference team, and Amanda Folck, Amber Martin, and JoAnn Lind were selected for the Second All-Conference team. Amanda Folck was also selected for the sportsmanship award.

Men's Tennis Shows Courage

The Men's Southwestern tennis team had a rough season. They had one returning player who was injured in the second match of the season and six new recruits. The team was inexperienced, but they all seemed to have positive attitudes and strong minds. Senior team member Aaron Stucky highlighted the season by saying, "At a meet in Emporia, Tim [Tiegreen] served a ball that flew over the fence and hit the window of a nearby house. That is how the whole season turned out."

SC Golf gets the Picture

The returning team for the 1996-1997 season was somewhat fewer in numbers compared to previous seasons. Quail Ridge Golf Pro Mike Fluty, returns again to help long time coach Bill Stephens. Both coaches share the responsibility and look for the maturity and experience from three seniors Ryan Kygar, Terry Petterson, and Aaron Iverson and two juniors, Kevin Colvin and Jay Wycoff to bring the team to a good finish at the KCAC tournament. They have high expectations of making it to the National Tournament, which will be hosted in Tulsa, Oklahoma during the third week of May in 1997.

Athletic training is an internship program at SC. In order to become a certified athletic trainer, the students have to serve 1500 hours in four years, and pass a required test. Nicole Ledbetter joined the program because she found it interesting and it relates to her major, sports medicine. The student trainers and their new leader, Brian Norton, attended practices and games in all sports. The trainers help athletes to heal and prevent injuries. Amy Alley finds athletic training a great experience and helpful to her future job as a physical therapist. "The trainers keep us on the field. Without trainers it would be impossible to play," said Chad Johnson, football player.

Cross Country expose

The Southwestern Men's and Women's Cross Country Team had a highly successful year. The team set high goals for themselves based on their past successes at the conference and national levels. "We had an excellent season," exclaimed Coach Jim Helmer.

The men's team won five meets including their 16th consecutive KCAC Conference meet. Although the women's team struggled with injuries, they won the KCAC Conference for the third year in a row.

Both teams qualified for Nationals which were held in Kenosha, Wisconsin. At Nationals, the men's team won the NAIA Cross Country Scholar Award for the second year in a row. This means that they had the highest grade point average of all the teams competing. The women won 12th in the 5000m category. The team had four Academic All-Americans this year: Pam Richert, Jeff Prothro, Mike Shaw, and Danny Wollard.

Men's Basketball Shoot Their Way Into KCAC Playoffs

The 1997 basketball season was a successful one for Southwestern. Although the team was picked to finish 8th in the KCAC, the Moundbuilders actually finished their season ranked 4th with a cumulative record of 12 wins and 17 losses. The SC hoopsters beat Tabor in the first round of KCAC tournament play, but were defeated in the second. The team looks forward to a strong group of returning players next year and are hopeful about the teams prospects.

The women's basketball team had a developmental 1996-1997 season. "Underestimating our potential caused more losses than wins," said Kenisha Bell. The team was young this season with seven freshman, two sophmores, two juniors, and two seniors. Throughout the season the women seemed to pull out at least one good half, but not an entire game. Sara Peterson said, "We had a young team, which contributed to our inconsistancies. It was a learning experience for the team, and next year our skills will be more developed."

Shoot For Two

Both the men's and women's 1996-97 Southwestern Track teams began with a headstart. At the end of the indoor season, Carrie Plumley was a national champion and the teams had broken 12 school records.

The teams participated in 8 outdoor meets, traveling to three different states which included Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Georgia.

The Builders hope to build on a 14-year winning streak for the men and a 4-year winning streak for the women in the KCAC.

69th Moundbuilding Ceremony a Rockin' Good Time

The highlight of the 69th Moundbuilding Ceremony was the dedication of the Dean Allen podium outside of Wroten Hall. Dean of the college from 1925 until 1938, Allen began the annual ceremony during his last year at Southwestern. His idea was to build a mountain in Kansas big enough to vacation on. Following the dedication ceremony and rock tour, students, organizations, faculty, alumni, and administrators were invited to place their decorated rocks on The Mound.

Working 9 to 5

Freshman Work Day, now in its fifth year, is a great learning experience for all of the freshmen and exchange students. The students get to know each other, as well as help the community. This year 100 students participated by building a barn, painting houses, scraping and staining a house. The experiences that are gained at Work Day will never be forgotten. "Work Day was a learning experience never to be duplicated," said Ephany DeBey. Brent Kasper stated, "I tried to work as little as possible, but they were forcing me to work anyway". "I enjoyed getting to know everyone," said Tobie Henline.

SC Students Dodge Summer Boredom

May Modules for 1995-1996 took place from coast to coast for interested students. Students interested in Marine Biology studied in the Pacific Northwest. Desktop Publishing was offered on campus, and Theater students discovered New York City.

Dr. Hunter took 15 students to Monterey Bay, CA, and to Puget Sound, WA. While traveling the West Coast, they studied the Rocky Intertidal Zones and its organisms, as well as birds, marine mammals and marine vegetation. "I enjoyed all the new experiences I had," said Freshman Kelly Wesley, "even though we were in the rain all the time."

Kathy Wilgers and Alan Moore took on the task of teaching 15 students the fundamentals of Desktop Publishing. Students were taught how to use computer programs such as Pagemaker and other graphics programs. One student in the class, Michelle McGowan, said, "I learned a lot through this class, even though it did not directly correlate with my major." By the end of the class students were expected to apply and use these techniques in various publications.

Roger and Allyson Moon and Donelle Bergeson ventured to New York City to experience the theater. While visiting the "Big Apple" they saw many productions, on and off Broadway including: Rent, Master Class, How to Succeed in Business, Seven Guitars, Stomp, and Cats. "Not to be trendy, but Cats is my favorite because it is my generation," said Bergeson. "I waited outside all day for tickets and sat front row center! They spit over me and I loved it!"

Leadership Banquet Enlarges Perspective on Student Organizations

Student Government Association took over the responsibilities for the Leadership Banquet this year, which was on April 23rd following the Honors Convocation. The banquet was held in Wroten Hall and Southwestern College Food Service catered the event. This was an opportunity for all organizations on campus to be represented and tell their own year in review. The organizations who earned the Purple Heart award were also recognized. Kari Roswurm, chair of the SGA activities committee, and Marlana Roberts organized the event.

Student leaders and organization sponsors enjoy a soup and sandwich meal at the 1997 leadership banquet.

Jason Brandenburg represented the Sophomore class. He reported their class has a large number of leaders in charge of many of next year's organizations.

Kari Roswurm and Marlana Roberts were in charge of organizing the leadership banquet. Marlana and Kari are leadership team members and Kari is also the activity committee chair for SGA.

Crossing Boundaries: Conference on Diversity

Cheryl L. McAfee Mitchell gathers her thoughts during her address to the student body and the faculty.

Out of concern for the importance of diversity in each of our lives and on our campus, Crossing Boundaries was born to celebrate and appreciate our diversity. The conference finally became reality on February 19, 1997.

As students at Southwestern College, we learned we live in a world without boundaries. In order to realize our true potential in such a world, we must achieve beyond our limitations and seek to cross the boundaries of religion, sex, race, and social class. The conference provided the Southwestern campus the opportunity to do just that, by providing five workshops, a panel discussion, and a keynote address by Cheryl L. McAfee Mitchell. She was the Senior Manager of the construction and planning of the Olympic sports projects in Atlanta last summer.

The lunch hour consisted of a plethora of activities. The cafeteria was decorated with balloons and red check tablecloths, and the meal was a variety of Mexican, Italian, and American. There were displays from 15 different countries sponsored by the International Club; and Binney & Smith donated Multicultural crayons.

Beverly Sharp, Angie Busch, and Stepanie Sharp, coordinator of the conference, listen attentively during one of the workshops.

Sharon Shetlar and Dawn Pleas-Bailey conduct a workshop on "Sharing Our Personal History".

SHARE Students Sample Cleveland Color

From March 13th to March 16th, students involved in the SHARE program took in the sights and sounds of Cleveland, Ohio as part of the organization's participation in the Campus Outreach Opportunity League. The purpose of the conference was mainly to encourage volunteerism. Specifically, it encouraged focus on the student volunteer, quality of community experience, inclusiveness of differing perspectives in the volunteer experience, and actualizing change in society. The conference included seminars and volunteer work in the community. SC's SHARE members picked up trash, worked at a child day care center, and painting as part of the experience. "It was inspiring to see so many people trying to make a difference and so many people actually making a difference," said Lonna Summers.

A speaker makes a presentation during the conference.

Kasie Johnson, Amanda Finch, Alycia Griffin, Tava Jo Ingram, Kelly Wood, and Lonna Summers were SC's representatives to the conference.

Students Develop International Perspective

Members of SHARE and the SC Spanish classes got an opportunity to experience a foreign culture over Spring Break. The group visited the Mexican cities of Monterrey and Saltillo. Students visited a discotheque, attended a Catholic mass, and had an opportunity to see an authentic Mexican bullfight. The group also got a chance to participate in more traditional sight-seeing activities. "Seeing how people live in Mexico made me think how lucky I am to live in the United States. We have those problems here too, but we just ignore it," said Kasie Johnson. The experience was significant according to Joan Caldwell. "Your view of things is distorted by what you experience," said Caldwell.

Convocations Shed Light on Topics

Right: Amy Slingsby, Jennifer Fisk, and Eve West add wry humor to the student led and produced convocation on sexual harrassment.

Below: William Davis demonstrates to the Southwestern students the finer points of playing the bassoon.

Chapel: A Spirit Fixer

Chapel came alive during the school year. Every Wednesday at 11 students took time from their busy lives to enjoy fun, laughter, worship, and fellowship with other students and faculty. Musical pieces added a new flair to the service. These selections ranged from traditional hymns to contemporary Christian, including jazz and soul. In order to bring new insights to enlighten the groups, ministers and speakers from around the area were invited to share their messages with the attentive audience. Steve Rankin contributed much time and energy to maintain the level of accomplishment. His willingness to help has encouraged the students to grow in their respective paths.

Discipleship students Robin Walker, Tobie Henline, John Connors, and Tim Putnam are captivated by the speaker's message.

ILFORD MOMENTS

Richard Malone has what it takes to be an assistant coach. A clipboard!

Chris Burley concentrates on finishing his yearbook page so he can go have a much deserved cigarette.

Kathy Wilgers looks suprised that the phone is actually for her!

Shane Batchelder and Christy Grealis prove that work-study can be fun!

"I am the Una-bomber!" No, really it's Merlin Swink showing his serious side.

Burning Images

Amanda Folck and Tava Ingram work on producing their radio show, Changes in Latitude, Changes in Attitude. Creating a radio show was one of the assignments in the radio production class.

Coach Bill DeArmond looks at the camera saying, "Don't take my picture when I have my glasses on!"

Pat Johnson squeezes his eyes shut hoping a genie will appear to do his work.

Alex Thomas looks around the room to make sure no one catches him reading Country Now.

Steve Ruggles bows down to the computer begging it to cooperate or else.

Student Exposure

Brandon Smith realizes how hard it is to be a lady while he plays "Kate" in Taming of the Shrew.

Skye Perkins dressed as "Gremio" for Taming of the Shrew attacks an innocent member of the audience, Shane Lind.

Below: Jason Teubner concentrates on winning the computer version of Tetris.

Molly Schulte enjoys selling corn at Bluegrass a little too much.

Students Dodge Homework with Campus Activities

Below: Skye Perkins and Tara Ghre could often be found skipping out on responsibility in various fast food places around town.

A large group of people turned out for "Le Chat Noir's" opening night. Many people enjoyed listening to live music provided by Terry Qulett. Others enjoyed playing games and visiting throughout the house.

Hans Judd entertains the guests of "Le Chat Noir" with his guitar and his voice.

Students Focus On Getting

About 200 students received their degrees during the commencement exercises held in Sonner Stadium at 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, May 4. A concert by the SC Concert Band was performed at 3:30 p.m. before the ceremonies began. 1990 Southwestern graduate, Scott Hecht, was the guest speaker. Hecht, hailing from Coldwater, Kansas is practicing law in Kansas City. Sonner Stadium was nearly full with families and friends of the graduates.
