Open to the Public: New Science Center Dedicated at Special Convocation

*T*he Beech Science Center and Mabee Laboratory Complex was officially opened for classes on January 16, 1998. A convocation ceremony was held for students, faculty, staff, alumni, and friends of Southwestern. 779 contributors provided the 4.2 million that went into the construction of the 35,600 square foot complex. The center is named for Mrs. Olive Ann Beech and Mr. and Mrs. John Mabee, whose funds were essential to the project. Keys to the complex were presented to Mr. Steve McSpadden on behalf of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Stephen White on behalf of the alumni and Science Advisory Council, Mr. Max Thompson on behalf of the faculty, and Ms. Karissa Wright on behalf of the students. To conclude the ceremonies, the cutting of four ribbons draped across the science complex commenced.

*T*he Student Government Association had a new outlook with a program entitled 'Wake Up.' This program was designed for students, faculty, and administration to push awareness on the topics of alcohol and academics. 'Everyone is excited about what the future holds for student governing at Southwestern College, and the outcome of effective communication is a more unified campus,' said President Kyle Woodrow. The Student Activities Association has never failed to provide entertainment for students at Southwestern. Some of the events held were the Jinx dance at the bottom of the 77, a free car wash with a concert by O'Phill, mud volleyball, and bi-weekly movie nights. Some special events included formal dinners, dances, and comedians. This organization provided a cure for the common boredom.

Ambassadors and Tutors - - Delegated Students

The SHARP Ambassadors and the Cooperative Learning Center (CLC) Tutors finished another year of lending a helping hand to Southwestern students as well as future SC students. The Student Host and Recruitment Program (SHARP) played an important role in recruiting new students. SHARP Ambassadors provided prospective students with a personal look at Southwestern through campus tours, luncheons, and sharing their own personal experiences. Another asset to the campus throughout the year was the CLC Tutors. The duty of the tutors was to offer knowledgeable information about computers, proofread papers, and administer tests for specific classes.

Lonna Summers took time out from helping students to peruse the Collegian.

Kicking off its 102nd year in print, the Collegian once again did a wonderful job of reporting all the happenings around campus. An issue of the Collegian would come out every two weeks. This gave students the opportunity to keep up on the current issues that were happening at SC. With combined efforts, the large staff met three times a week to produce an interesting and enjoyable newspaper. Lonna Summers, Jeana Clark and Chris Burley served as Collegian editors. Tava Jo Ingram was the assistant editor.

Freedom of the Press

With the combination of well-qualified newcomers and a handful of experienced and skilled veterans, this year's Moundbuilder staff provided great coverage of campus events, organizations, and activities to the student body of SC. Three times a week the staff would meet to put together a book full of memories that we can cherish for a lifetime. The staff consisted of eleven students and editorial responsibilities were divided among Tava Jo Ingram, Stacey Robbins and Maryam Sarhangi.

The International Club: Erasing the Boundries

*T*he International Club of Southwestern College was designed for any individual involved with the college who was looking for a cross-cultural experience. The club's purpose was to educate SC faculty, staff, and students of the importance of cross-cultural experiences as well as language study. The club provided orientation for foreign students to SC and the Winfield community. The organization also facilitated the preparation and re-entry of SC students who study have studied abroad or take participated in domestic cross-cultural experience.

Eighteen individuals were involved in the International Club during the 1997-1998 school year. Reza Sarhangi and Sandy Feinstein sponsored the organization while Jesus Munoz served a President of the club. Amos Angkasa held the position of Vice President, Hubert Dutton served as Secretary/Treasure, and Thyrza Mucambe was Historian.

Taking the Stand For Leadership

The leadership development program at Southwestern College had a lot to live up to during the 1997-98 year. On July 10, 1997 the leadership development program was named top in the nation by the Association of Leadership Educators. Cheryl Rude, director of leadership development, and students Stephanie Sharp, Stacy Robbins, and Kyle Woodrow were responsible for writing the application that led to the award.

The success of the program has been due to the number of students interested in being a part of the organization. The students are responsible for shaping the organization. They complete both individual and group projects to meet goals through class workshops, meetings, and mission trips.

During the past year 32 individual projects were completed. The members of Leadership Southwestern also participated in a group service project at a Southern Baptist camp in Missouri. There they took part in repairing the camp and participated in ropes courses.

*B*lack Student Union (BSU) was an organization devised to provide an atmosphere to assemble a supportive team for minority students on campus. Throughout the year, BSU attended St. Mark's United Methodist Church in Wichita. The group also went to the Multi-Cultural Conference at Tabor College in February. They met with other minority students in the Kansas Christian Athletic Conference, and discussed cultural diversity as well as their different cultural campus experiences. Associate Dean of Students Dawn Pleas-Bailey served as the group's sponsor for the year.

In God We Trust

Campus Council on Ministry has provided Southern western students chances to grow in their Christian faith and values throughout the years. This CCOM group completed its sixth year on campus. Several groups, including a praise team, worship team, mission team, publicity team, special events team, and small groups offered opportunities to serve in a "world without boundaries." The worship team traveled to several area churches spreading God's word through song, and the small groups provided Bible studies that furthered students' growth with God. The CCOM praise team continued to offer Chapel every Wednesday for all students. Freshman Chris Ruhoff commented, "Chapel is a place people can go for an hour out of their hectic day to be rejuvenated with the peace of Christ in order to face the challenges demanded of them, plus it's a lot of fun!"

"...proclaiming the excellencies of the One who calls us out of darkness into His marvelous light."

During meetings, members participated in Bible readings and played games. FCA officers were Captain, Ashley Alley; Co-Captain, Joel Smith; Treasurer, Lindsay Haynes; Secretary, Kellie Powell.

Film Department Explores the Freedom of Others

Members of the Southwestern College Film Department had another busy year writing, producing, directing, and editing various film assignments. At the beginning of the semester, the nine person department split into groups of three and worked on movie trailers and a visual production of Edgar Allen Poe's The Raven. Each of the three groups had their projects aired on a special section of SC Magazine on cable channel 39. One of the major assignments for the department was to take the styles of a famous director and incorporate them to tell the story of Goldie Locks and the Three Bears the way the director would. One group chose to explore the directoral styles of Quentin Tarantino with their production of Pulp Porridge. The other group chose to imitate David Lynch with their production of Lost Porridge. These short films were also aired on a segment of SC Magazine. The final project for the year was a Mocumentary. One group did their mocumentary about the life of a Southwestern College Mass Communications and Film student. The other group did theirs on the relationship between two roommates. Members of the Film Department are Alex Thomas, Chris Burley, Danna Shepard, David Boyd, Richard Malone, John Richmeier, Mike Shaw, Shane Batchelder and Tim Tiegreen.

*F*ounded in 1993, Gamma Lambda Upsilon has been a campus tradition for five years. The Gammas are a social and service fraternity. This year they helped with Freshmen Work Day and put together a Variety Show that raised money for Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Cowley County. In conjunction with Hunger and Homelessness Action Awareness Week, the Gammas' hosted a benefit concert featuring OPhil and P.O.S.

The fraternity was also involved in many school activities. They painted the rocks for the Mound Building Ceremony and sponsored the Halloween Costume Ball with Campus Players. "Gammas have definitely offered me a group of brothers that I can trust in for the rest of my life," said Matt Percival.

The Right To Assembly...

Pi Delta Sigma, founded in 1968, started as a male fraternity. In 1973 it broadened its horizons by allowing women to join, making Pi Delta Sigma the only co-ed Greek fraternity on campus. The Delts, as they are commonly referred to, celebrated their 30th year on Southwestern College's campus in January. The primary purpose of Pi Delta Sigma is the promotion of the loyalty to the fraternity and the firm conviction that the examples set by Pi Delta Sigma will facilitate stronger loyalty of the entire campus community. The ideals of the organization are symbolized by 3 Greek letters which make up the name of the organization. Pi means noble spirit; Delta means alert mind; and Sigma means vigorous body. The Delts co-sponsored the Valentine's Day Dance and also did the Highway clean-up. The 1997-1998 officers include Ginger Wilcox, president; Molly Schulte, vice president; Amy Schwartz, secretary; Jenni Crispin, treasurer. The Pledge Masters for the 1997-1998 pledge class were Sarah Ferguson, Mike McWhirt, and Dina Suarez.

*S*igma Iota Sigma celebrated their twentieth year of existence. Sigma's main goal for this year was to build sisterhood throughout the members. Gift wrapping Christmas presents at Tisdale Methodist Church and the Winter Formal were projects the group did together. Second-year member, Angela Tran, reflected on the past year, 'All of our projects brought us together as a group and encouraged development.' For a fund raiser, Sigma did an activity titled 'Kiss The Pig.' The lucky pig-kisser, Kim Mercer, was chosen by faculty and students and puckered up at half-time of an SC men's basketball game. Ten percent of the money raised went to the Winfield Community. Jennifer Benevento expressed, 'I had fun in Sigma this year! We had a rough beginning, but we worked together and did activities that brought us closer as sisters.'

Phi Delta Theta was very busy during the 1997-1998 school year. Among the activities they participated in were the Activities Fair held at the beginning of the year and the SC Homecoming Parade. With a strong commitment to their organization and to each other, the Phi Deltas were a visible force on the SC campus.

*P*hi Delta Theta is the only national and international Greek organization on Southwestern's campus. Phi Delta Theta has been an active organization at Southwestern since 1995. This year the Phi Deltas held two pledge sessions and accepted fifteen new members. This year they held the first Parent's Day Banquet and other brotherhood building activities.

'With such growing numbers, Phi Delta Theta has been able to concentrate on more services outside the fraternity and the school,' said Rob Taylor, secretary. The fraternity cleaned up during and after the Walnut Valley Festival, held the fourth annual 'Casino Night' with SAA, and cleaned their portion of the Kansas Adopt-A-Highway program. They also held a campus convocation on cultural diversity.

For the past 30 years Southwestern students have enjoyed the music brought to them by SC's own radio station, KSWC. It can be found by tuning into 100.3 on the FM dial. KSWC, a ten-watt radio station located in the basement of Christy, was run by students. Each student was given a three-hour shift in which they played songs off the KSWC Top 30 Playlist, as well as songs they thought would entice their listeners to tune them in.

This Week at Southwestern College continued on the air for another exciting year. It was an informative half hour program produced by SC students who were in the Television Experience Class. Shows were taped in the TV studio in the basement of Christy and aired Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 3:30 p.m. and on Thursday at 8:30 p.m. on local cable. Each show recap events at SC and also gave news on upcoming events.

SC Magazine, a student produced television show was produced by Chris Burley. Kim Okeson served as on screen personality and videographer and Jason Teubner was the other videographer. The show featured stories about community and area happenings and points of interest.

The Psychology organization has been on Southwestern campus for four years. The organization has taken numerous trips to mental institutions throughout the school year, and performed different Psychology experiments on fellow members or SC students, who are willing to participate. The organization consists of students who have Psychology as a major or a minor and students who are interested in Psychology. The organization is primarily student run, although faculty member Prof. Claudia Geer is also involved in this organization.

Campus Players, a select theatre organization, has been part of Southwestern for several years. The group was founded in 1919 by Miss Martha Lee to honor creative theatre students. The organization allowed members the opportunity to participate in plays and shows that did not involve the whole department. Throughout the 1997-98 school year the Campus Players sponsored various events including 'Underground Theatre', participated in the American College Theatre Festival, and hosted various performances. The students who are in Campus Players enjoy the organization and are dedicated to the Theatre. The co-sponsors for Campus Players are Allyson and Roger Moon, they are proud of all the work the members did.

Tri-Beta

This was a year of transition for BSA," stated President Seth Leeper. Seth was elected after former President, John Helsel, graduated in December. "Our membership grew considerably this year and we hope to continue growing in the years ahead." A new addition to the organization was their involvement in the Make-A-Wish Foundation, which earned them the bragging rights for being the first Kansas college or university organization to help with the foundation. In addition to designing and selling buttons and old college sport uniforms at Homecoming, Beta Sigma Alpha also sponsored jars in the community and on campus in order to raise money for the foundation.

Since 1957, Tri-Beta honor fraternity has been an active organization offering its membership to Southwestern students who are biology majors. Beta Beta Beta furthers the members' knowledge of the study of nature and how it relates with different species. Senior member Kristen Sauer stated, "Tri-Beta has provided a great opportunity for me to get the hands-on experience I need for a future career."

The Society of Physics Students, better known as SPS, completed their second year as an organization found at Southwestern College. The club is made up of individuals who are physics majors or students who have an interest in the field. The club held weekly meetings lead by officers Steven Graham, President; Vice President Jenni Crispin; Treasure/Secretary, Bart O'Brien.

The Southwestern Math Club took part in several activities throughout the year. One such activity included various math competitions they attended throughout the semester. The members of the organization also worked as tutors for students who were struggling in the department. They made a point to encourage students not to be afraid of math and that it can and is fun. Though the club was small, they had a big impact on those in need of assistance when it came to numbers.

For 3 years the Southwestern College Association of Nursing Students has promoted professionalism in nursing and acquainted students with professional nursing organizations. SCANS, as they are commonly known, are part of the National Student Nurses' Association (NSNA) and also part of the Kansas Association of Nursing Students (KANS). During the 1997-1998 school year members of SCANS attended Nationals in Cincinnati and the KANS Convention in Wichita. This year's officers were Calvin Waits, Tracy King, Polly Voth, Tracy Stapelton, and Jeanne Buckles. SCANS member Jason Bruce served as a National Officer this year and attended the Mid-Year Conference in Atlanta.

Education Builders completed their third year as an organization at SC. They participated in several community service projects. "The Education Builders had a very active year and I was pleased with the involvement of everyone in the organization," said Rachel Douglas. The Education Builders won first place in the SC Homecoming Parade. The officers for Education Builders were Rachel Douglas and Jill Petrie, co-presidents; Heather Schermerhorn, Vice-President; Carrie Cook, Secretary; and Erin Galliart as Treasurer.

SC's 1997-1998 Debate Team consisted of only four members. Most would groan at the handicap of low membership, but the debators prided themselves on what they accomplished. Jon Helsel earned first place in individual debating at the Southwestern Tournament and also a third place at the Cowley County Tournament. Chris Hibbert received Top Speaker award at tournaments in team debating; he also placed in the quarter finals of the Southwestern Tournament with his team partner, Nadia VanDorn. Nadia expressed, "We knew we couldn't place high with cumulative team points, but our individual accomplishments exceeded our expectations." With three out of four members having previous experience, they did not find tournaments or rules unusual. The team traveled to many schools and competed in tournaments, including ones in Illinois and South Carolina.

Politically Correct Social Work & Debate

The 1997-1998 academic year marked the end of an era for the Social Work program at SC. Despite being devastated from the loss of their program, club members were determined to have a memorable final year. They raised money selling snacks at Art in the Park to pay for a trip to Chicago. Touring Jane Addams' Hull-House--the American roots of social work--was just one of the many things they experienced during their stay. They also traveled to several ethnic parts of the city to get a grasp on the diverse cultures. Locally they participated in the Homecoming Parade, Homeless Awareness Week, and a variety of other campus activities. Amy Slingsby expressed her feelings toward the end of the program in the words of a song by Chumbawumba, "I get knocked down. I get up again. You're never gonna keep me down!" Amy also went on to say, "As long as there are SC Social Work grads working in the community, I don't believe the program will ever die." Just as the final Social Work rock was placed on the Mound, also the final Social Work majors flipped their tassels for one last time at SC.

Pi Gamma Mu/ S.H.A.R.

*T*hrough a class, this team of community servants was taught the skills and knowledge to efficiently impact the organization in which worked, the community in which they resided, and the world in which they lived. Project SHARE operated SC's coffee house, Le Chat Noir, where students could sit back, relax, and enjoy themselves. Entertainment ranged from playing cards and watching movies, to live bands on nights. SHARE met once a week on Mondays at 11:00am. This allowed the group to discuss the latest happenings and future service trips. dedication to service was carried out through service trips to Boys and Girls Homes, Indian Reservations, and the annual COOL Conference. Volunteerism was also displayed in the Winfield community through Operation Volunteer. Such opportunities included tutoring students at public schools, visiting nursing homes, delivering meals to homebound senior citizens, gardening and mowing, and serving as a Big Brother or Sister to a needy child.

Pi Gamma Mu was founded in 1924 at Southwestern College in Winfield, Kansas. The organization is an international honor society in the sciences. Students must have the status of a junior or higher, be in the top 25% of their class, have 20 hours of social sciences, and have at least a 3.0 grade point average. Students become eligible if they meet these requirements.

Pi Gamma Mu was sponsored the Go Far Award again this year. This award is given to a campus organization with the highest grade point average.

*U*nder the direction of Dr. James Schuppner the Southwestern Vocal Department has consistently supplied the community and surrounding areas with solid vocal performances. The department consists of three music groups, A Cappella Choir, Southwestern Singers, and Women's Chorus.

This year the A Cappella Choir had the privilege of performing in Europe. The group spent May 6-17 touring venues across Austria, Germany, and Switzerland. The Southwestern Singers performed various numbers across the state this year. The Women's Chorus sang at numerous events including Homecoming. Martin Rude, Director of Campus Life, led the Keynotes Choir. The group sang in numerous United Methodist Churches across Kansas. Martin said, "Students participate in key notes for the ministry experience, not necessarily for the class experience."

The Concert Band made up the core of the department and supplied the Jazz, Pep, and small ensembles with members. The Pep Band supplied solid sounds during most of the football and basketball home games. The Jazz band performed various numbers during concerts held in conjunction with the concert band. The department has continually been growing the past few years and the 1997-1998 school year was no exception. Charles Yingling said, 'The SC Concert Band is a joy to work with and I appreciate all of the students who take time to participate. It is growing each year in numbers as well as with enthusiasm.'

SC Sports:

The 1997-1998 Southwestern Cheerleaders and Pom Squad combined unity, spirit, and fun for their performances during football and basketball games. This was the second full year the Pom Squad was recognized as an organized sport separate from the Cheerleaders. The coach, for both the Cheerleaders and Pom Squad, was Nancy Lewis. The Cheerleaders' assistant coaches for the year were Pam Ireland and Angie Horstmann. Jessie Brass was the captain of the SC cheer squad. For the Pom Squad, Joyelle Pickett assumed the responsibility for the squads with the help of co-captains Dina Suarez and Holly Mitchek. Both squads were actively involved in Big Brothers and Big Sister. They held a fall picnic, Christmas party, and spring picnic. Coach Nancy Lewis felt that both squads were talented and very enthusiastic throughout the entire year.

Helping with almost all sports, the Southwestern Athletic Trainers did it all. Dedicated to taking care of the total health of athletes, they evaluated, prevented, and rehabilitated any injury that arose. In order to be a head trainer an individual had to complete 1500 hours of a Clinical Internship (on-the-job-training), take classes, and apply to take the National Athletic Trainer's Association Certification (NATA) exam. Most trainers stayed with the program four years. The whole program was very community oriented, they provided care for the surrounding high schools' athletic events. All of the Senior Trainers, Janet Walton, Lisa Ashenfelter, Leslee Gibson, and Amy Alley, plan to go into Physical Therapy occupation. Ashlee Alley has opted to go into the counseling field.

The Moundbuilder Volleyball team had a face lift this year with two new coaches. Kris McMullen was the head coach with Rhonda Gaschler as her assistant. Also new to the program was required training during the off-season. During their three month season, the volleyball team ended up with 5 wins and 25 losses and they were 4-12 in the KCAC. "The record was a disappointment, but overall we improved a lot through the season and we had fun," said Carmen Doramus. Tiffany Granzow and Carmen Doramus were the teams' Seniors.

"We learned a lot this year, and next year we will definitely have a chance to be ranked in the top three in the conference, because everyone is basically returning from next year," said Amy Honeck.

*F*or the first time since the 1920's Southwestern had a soccer team. The men's and women's soccer team went through a rough season. Coach Hickam said, 'I am pleased with the firm foundation of the team even though we did not win a game this season. We will be looking forward to having a good recruiting class to help us achieve our goals in the future.' Michael Schell said, 'It was a hard season to deal with but hopefully the program will go forward.' Both men's and women's teams went 0-16 for the year and 0-8 in the KCAC. On the men's team Michael Schell received 2nd team all-conference honors.

Builder Cross Country: Running Harder Faster, Longer than the Competition

The Cross Country team finished a stellar season with both the men and the women winning the KCAC meet and thus the right to travel to nationals in Kenosha, WI. This was the eighteenth consecutive KCAC title for the men and the fourth straight title for the women. The KCAC meet culminated the season when the men's team finished with seven runners in the top ten. The women also did remarkably, as all five runners placed in the top ten. Senior Pam Richert felt "the conference meet truly demonstrated the ability and determination of the women's team."

Both teams worked hard all season running upwards of sixty miles during a week's time. The grueling practices paid off when it came time for the conference awards to be announced. All five women runners Pam Richert, Tori Helmer, Carrie Cook, Misty McWilliams, and Stacy Kahrs were All-KCAC. The men's team had nine runners who were voted All-KCAC: Mike Granning, Mike Shaw, Chris Knapp, Shawn Papon, Greg Bomhoff, Jonathan Conard, Josh Wheatley, Jimmy Rambur, and Eric Hunt. It was not only the runners who took home honors. Coach Jim Helmer was selected to receive the KCAC Coach of the Year Award.

The athletes also received national recognition for their ability on and off the course. The men's cross country team won the NAIA Team Academic Award based on the team's GPA. Southwestern also had runners earn the NAIA Cross Country Academic All-American Award. SC runners were Carrie Cook, Misty McWilliams, Chris Knapp, Shawn Papon, and Mike Shaw.

Coach Helmer said, "These outstanding accomplishments and honors were once again a fitting affirmation of the quality student athletes we have in our program and at Southwestern College."

Men's Basketball To The Top

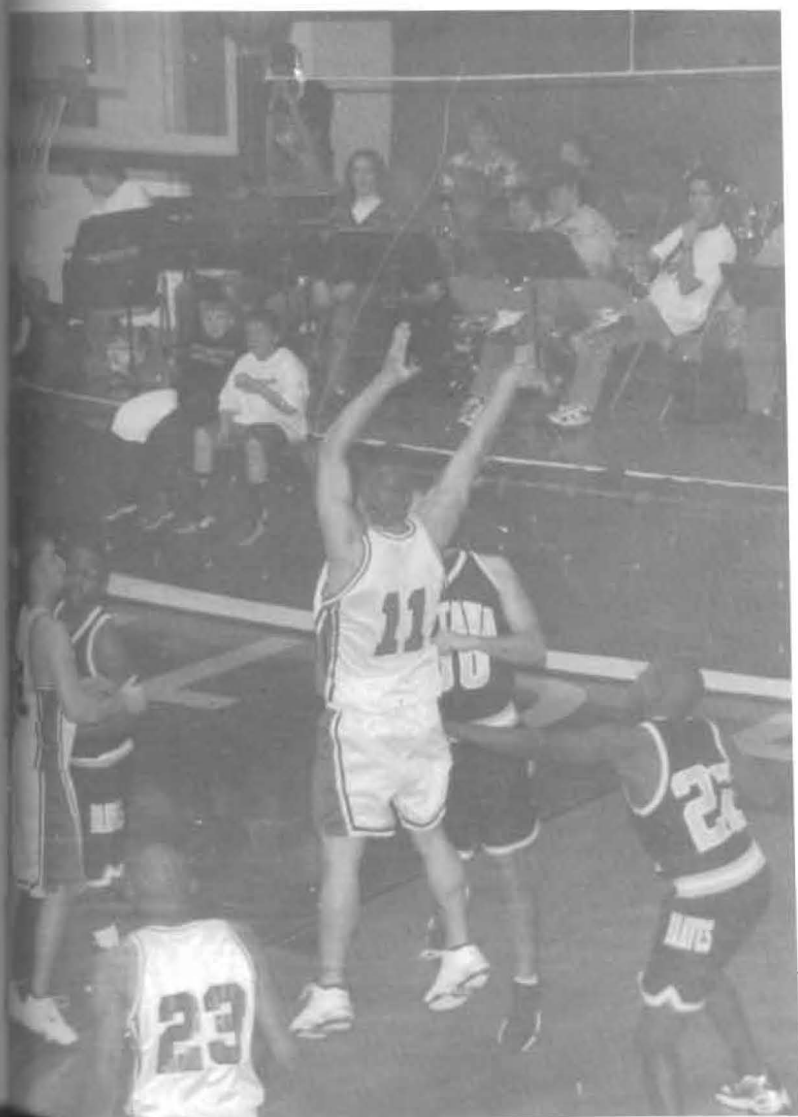

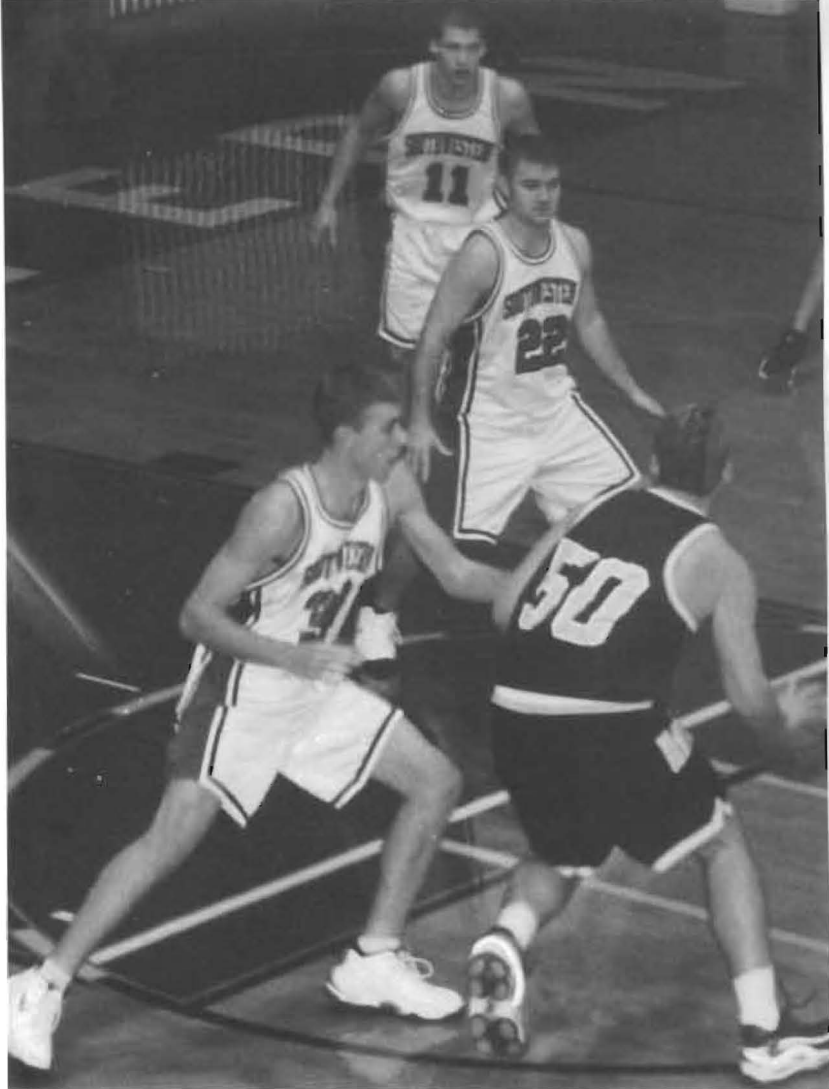

The 1998 season proved to be a very memorable one for the Southwestern Men's Basketball team. The Builders finished as Champions of the KCAC, with a 10-6 record, by defeating the Bethel Threshers. The win placed them in the NAIA Division I National Basketball Tournament in Nampa, Idaho. This marked 43 years since the Builders last went to Nationals. Although the team lost in the first round, they came home with an All-American in Donald Carter and an All-American Honorable Mention in Kyle Wollenberg. Donald Carter was also named KCAC Player of the Year.

In Pursuit of Victory

The women's basketball team had a satisfying year. The varsity team, with more experience than last year, had a record of 20 in the regular season, and 5-10 in the KCAC conference. "The main difference this year from last year was we did not have a person to rely on making the shots, we all had the goal of scoring points," said Melissa Burdett. The Junior Varsity team did not play as many games as did the Varsity. The JV had a 5-10 record. "We had a lot of fun playing together," said Jana Wallace. The team was coached by Traci Henley and assisted by Jana Wallace.

The Southwestern Moundbuilder women's 1997-98 tennis team brought new faces to the courts of SC in addition to the experience of three players from last year's team. The team held a fall record of 6-3. The Lady Builders finished third in the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference (KCAC) tournament. The number one doubles team, Jessie Brass and Kellie Powell, went undefeated in the conference. The ladies also had the honor of participating in the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) Rolex Tournament. Brass was SC's number one player

The Southwestern Men's Tennis Team sought Moundbuilder glory throughout the season. After going winless last year, the 1997-98 team was much improved. "To say they were better than last year's team is the understatement of the year," reported member Jason Speegle.

The team's returning players were Seth Lindberg and Jason Speegle. Lindberg held the position as SC's top player throughout the season. Josh Ewert, Matt Romero, Nathan Eckert, Jason Siemens, and Chad Roberts were new to the team and proved to be impressive additions.

The Men's Tennis Team had a positive season with some stellar play out of all members. The team pulled through the year with numerous wins and positive attitudes.

Freshman Work Day

Freshman Work Day often proves to be one of the most memorable experiences throughout most students' years of college. It is a way for the students to work together, have fun, and become more comfortable around each other. It not only benefited the students of Southwestern, but also the people in the community as well.

The 1997 Southwestern Homecoming Ceremony took place after the tailgate party in Sonner Stadium, Friday, October 18, 1997. The voice behind the loud speaker proclaimed Senior Holly Mitchek, a Business Leadership and Computer Information Systems major from Cheyenne Wells, Colorado, SC's Homecoming Queen. Then, SC's Ugly Man was announced to be Senior Burt Humburg, a Biology and Bio-Chemistry major from Wichita, Kansas. Other Queen candidates nominated by the student body included Senior Amy Alley from Augusta, Ks., Senior Carmen Doramus from Clearwater, Ks., Senior Tiffany Granzow from Herington, Ks., and Senior Kellie Powell, from Liberal, Ks. SC men competing for the Ugly Man were Junior David Muttiah from Sri Lanka, Junior Jason Pond from Andover, Ks., Junior Joel Smith, from Newton, Ks., and Junior Jason Speegle from Liberal Ks. After the coronation, the crowd and the candidates settled in to watch the Moundbuilders bring their opponents to their knees.

The annual tailgate party and luncheon was once again held in the parking lot at Christy. The tailgate party brought families, friends, and alumni together for food and conversation. The SC food service cooked a lunch of hamburgers and hot dogs for the event. Members of the faculty and selected alumni were responsible for serving the meal.

Students, families, and alumni enjoy the weather and good food at the annual homecoming tailgate party and luncheon.

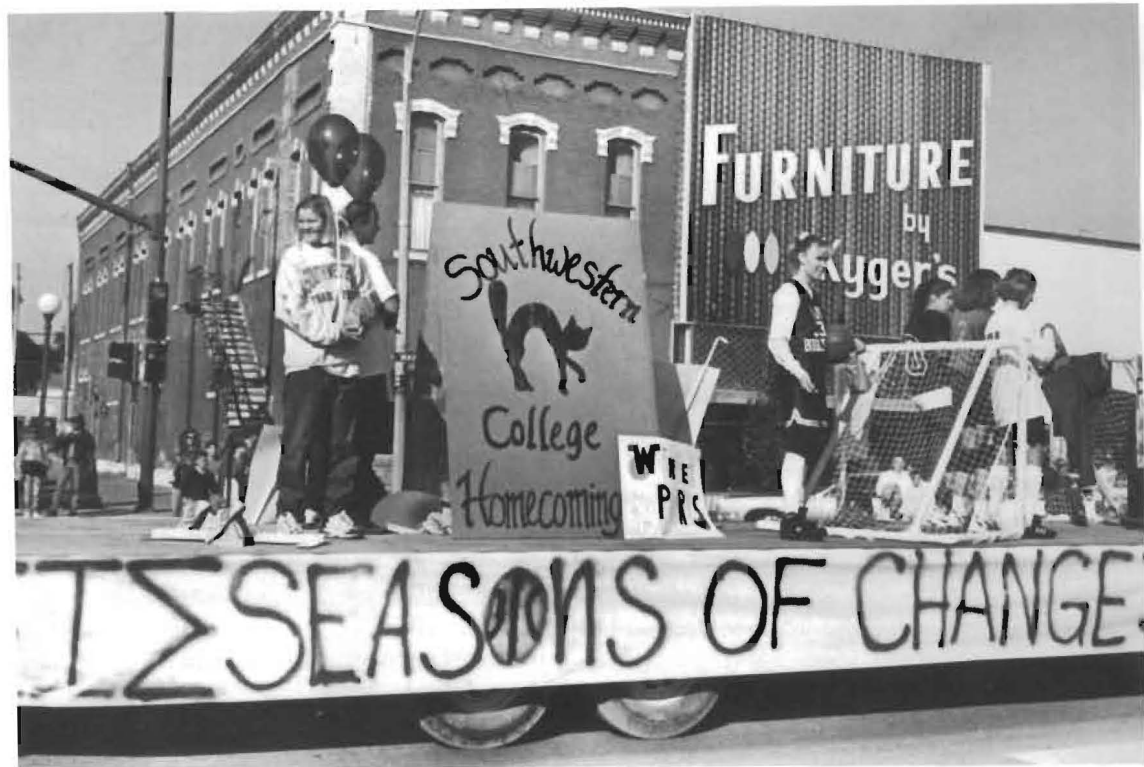

Homecoming Parade Marks Season of Change

"Seasons of Change" was the theme for this year's homecoming. Cheryl Rude and Dan Bowker served as the parade marshalls for this year. Campus organizations as well as Winfield Schools and community businesses participated in the parade. The Education Builders received first prize for their float entry. It depicted classrooms from different periods in time.

Clockwise: SHARE, Sigma Iota Sigma, the Maytag Man, Campus Players, and Education Builders were some of the entries in the 1997 Homecoming Parade.

Service And Fun

Serving as a volunteer is an integral part of student life at Southwestern. Working to paint, sort and clean at Joseph's Storehouse (a thrift store) provided a fun day for 25 students, staff and faculty. Along with the fun, a lot of work was accomplished.

"Tape before you paint. Tape before you paint." Calvin Waits used about a mile of masking tape.

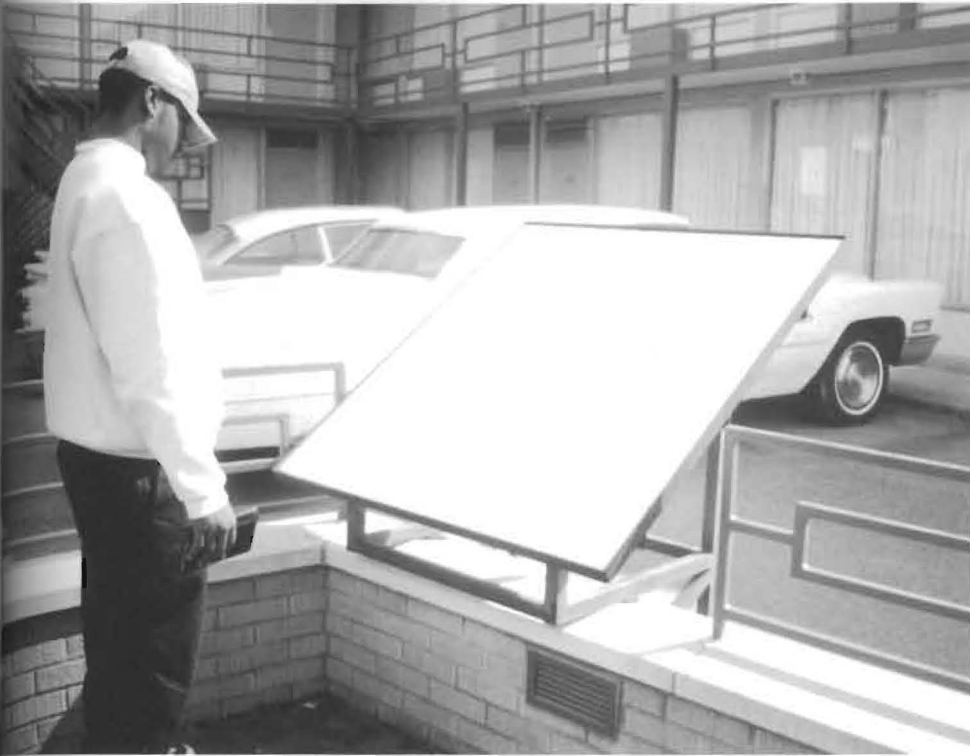

Who knew sorting clothes could be this much fun!

Amy Butler and crew fill the Food Pantry with paint fumes.

Serving the Nation

Below: Gerald Gray takes a moment to read the plaque at the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr Memorial in Memphis, TN.

The S.H.A.R.E. team along with Tava Jo Ingram and Rick Gregory attended the COOL Conference in Columbia, South Carolina. The conference, sponsored by the Campus Outreach Opportunity League, is the Annual National Conference on Student Community Service. Each year over 2,000 students from across the nation gather to empower themselves with ideas and skills to strengthen their own campus community service programs. While at the conference they had participated in 'Into the Streets' a volunteer project that took them to different organizations in Columbia for a day of service, attended workshops and sessions, and participated in an Oxfam Hunger Banquet. 'I think the COOL Conference is a great way to motivate students to promote community service in their lives and community,' said Tava Jo Ingram, former S.H.A.R.E. intern and three-time COOL Conference participant. On the way to South Carolina, the students stopped in Memphis, TN and Birmingham, AL. In Memphis they visited the site where Martin Luther King, Jr. was assassinated and in Birmingham they went to the Civil Rights Museum.

Annual Leadership Banquet

The Student Government Association honored leaders in Southwestern College organizations with their annual banquet. Most organized groups were represented. Kyle Woodrow presented the Purple Heart Awards to those organizations completing the prescribed criteria. A special award was presented to Kim Mercer for her work with the SGA.

This year, only three teams represented Southwestern College at the annual Big Brothers/Big Sisters Bowl for Kids Sake. Members from Tri-Beta, Education Builders, and SCTV/KSWC enjoyed a night of bowling and pizza. Many prizes were given away throughout the night. The three teams raised nearly $800 for Cowley County Big Brothers/Big Sisters. Michael Raschen raised over $300 of that himself.

The Dream Lives On...

Above Monday January 19th, SC celebrated the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. with its annual convocation. Presenters embraced ideas such as liberty and equality.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was honored around the country and at Southwestern College on Monday, January 19, 1998. SC students and faculty met at Richardson Auditorium to hear 17 of SC's own remember the goals and achievements of Dr. King.

Students and faculty then spoke about topics such as nonviolence, racism, and civil rights. Highlights of the convocation included a speech by Kim Mercer, Assistant Professor of Social Work. Mercer spoke out for freedom and justice and reminded the audience that "We all have options." She also discussed "...opening the door for dialogue" as a way of reaching a better understanding among us all.

Senior Michael Baldwin shared stirring excerpts from Dr. King's last speech 'I've Been to the Mountain Top'. Silas Robertson's rendition of 'Although the Storms Keep on Raging in My Life' left much of the audience in awe.

The event concluded with Dawn Pleas-Bailey, Assistant Dean of Students, sharing a few quick comments before Keith McGovern gave the final remarks. The Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. convocation was not only a celebration of his memory, but also a call to action. Freshman Amy Govert said, 'The individuals who attended the event gained a renewed interest in the ideals set by Dr. King. The next step, acting on those ideals is ours to take.'

Chapel members worked overtime to spread God's message to the SC community. Students came alive every Wednesday to the songs and actions of the SC Praise Team. Praise Team was the group of students who planned and organized chapel every week. Tim Putnam, Robin Walker, and Martin Rude provided music while Steve Rankin gave the sermon. The Praise Team reached out to SC students through prayer, song, and testimony with a different member of the team leading activities. Michelle Douglas enthusiastically stated, "This year we had a lot more students attend chapel. We averaged about 60-65 people each Wednesday." Praise Team members included Michelle Douglas, Maggie LaVine, Tim Putnam, Robin Walker, Emma Lambrecht, Stanley Merideth, Lily Mattix, Nadia VanDorn, Marlies Buchmueller, and Daniel Buchmueller.

Benefit for the Nation

Gamma Lambda Upsilon sponsored a benefit concert during Hunger and Homelessness Action Awareness Week. The concert, held on the Richardson Auditorium stage opened with P.O.S., an alternative band from Winfield. Headliner's for the benefit was OPHIL. OPHIL is a midwest ska-punk band. Four of its members are Southwestern College students and the other five of the nine-piece band are from Winfield and Wichita. A large crowd attended the concert and over $500 was raised for hunger relief efforts.

Applied Creativity

The LAS Applied Creativity class held the annual project presentation. The projects ranged from juggling to ceramics. Lots of creativity!
