We are...

on the go

We Are Freshmen Workday

by Sarah Benton

"We are the freshmen who participated in Freshmen Workday 2003." On August 23, their first day of college, all the freshman were sent out into the Winfield community for a day of service. Organized by the Leadership team, over 174 freshman were divided into groups and sent to various sites in Winfield. As this was the twelfth year for Freshmen Workday, all sites were along Twelfth street. Freshmen Workday provided students with a bonding experience to get to know roommates and other students on campus. This year's service projects ranged from painting benches, windmills, houses, and other outside jobs like dusting, painting, polishing, and vacuuming indoors. After a hard days work, one group was able to go for a well deserved swim in a nearby pool. After a long exhausting day of labor, the freshmen were given a banquet in their honor. Homeowners were able to attend the banquet and share in the excitement of the days events.

How were you affected by Freshmen Workday?

"Freshmen Workday is a great time for incoming freshmen to get to know the community, their fellow freshmen, and the members of the community as well as helping out along the way."

Andrew Cherry

"It was a great experience. Although it was extremely hot, we had a great time and I made some really good friends."

Kim Lowerly

"Freshmen Workday is a time for students to create new friendships and also help out someone in need."

Justin Crowder

"Freshmen Workday was really tough but it was worth it in the end to lookback at everything we had accomplished and all the friendships we made."

We Are Painting Memories

by Elise Eilts

Each year, SC students leave their mark on the campus in form of a rock. Organizations, teams, and groups of friends gathered at Wallingford Lawn and created a symbol of their memories at SC, along with abstract designs on the grass. These rocks were as unique as the groups who painted them. Designs varied from a flaming soccer ball from the women's soccer team to the unofficial cross country logo to Alex Stong's detailed frog. These bits of earth helped embody our Moundbuilder nature.

Why do we paint rocks?

"It's a time for us to show our artistic work on a rock and for us to display it to the school."

Eloy Mendoza

"I had a really fun time painting my little Irish flag on my rock. A great way to express myself!"

Donna McMullen

"I painted a rock for Dance. It was a pink ballerina slipper covered in glitter. Good times."

Pahri Hafez

"I helped with the sophomore class rock and we tried to get everyone from the class' name on it."

Andrea Zanatta

We Are Building the Mound

Nicole Howie

This year marked the 76th annual Southwestern College Moundbuilding Ceremony. It was the second year for the ceremony to take place at several locations on campus, including, the Campus Player rock, Christy's pillars, the spooning rock and the jinx on the 77. Like the years of the past students from different clubs, organizations, residence halls and sports teams were invited to take their turn placing their rock on the mound. This year marked the first ever Lady Builder softball rock to be placed on the growing tradition.

We Are Fall Frenzy

by Lisa Broberg

This year's Fall Frenzy took place August 22nd through 30th. On August 22nd, the freshman began hauling moving into their new homes. That afternoon, all freshman attended Playfair where they were able to meet new friends and other students from SC. On Saturday, Freshman Workday was held around the community, an activity where freshman students took part in helping homeowners with odd jobs. Returning students moved in on Sunday, and all students enjoyed the Welcome Back BBQ, followed by the annual Sundae Sunday that evening. Monday night brought comedian Tim Young and Gooding Band to the bottom of SC's 77. Tuesday night was Bingo night when students were able to win fun prizes for their dorm rooms. On Wednesday, the annual Rock Painting Party was held on Wallingford Lawn. On Thursday, each rock was placed on the mound at the Moundbuilding Ceremony. Students attended the Matriculation Convocation on Friday. Fall Frenzy concluded with Kick Back Day's mud and sand volleyball games.

We Are in Paradise

by Janelle Renz and Elise Eilts

Homecoming activities at Southwestern College took special interest in students and ranged all the way from Crazy Olympics to a Spirit Contest to a Bonfire. Activities began on Sunday with decorating the campus with Lawn Art. Hammocks and palm trees dotted the school grounds. Students pitched in around campus with Campus Beautification. The Spirit Contest saw dance routines by the cheerleaders, Beta Sigma Phi, and the girls of Women's Hall. Crazy Olympics preceded the bonfire on Friday night at the soccer field followed by the Builderdash and the Parade on Saturday morning. All in all it was a fun and exciting couple of days.

What is Homecoming?

"Homecoming is time for every person associated with our college to show their school spirit."

Evan Pollock

"It is a time for all SC students past and present to celebrate all the joys of being an SC student."

Ann Chartier

"It is like a family gathering, even though I am far away from home, I feel a sense of belonging."

Andrew Singh

We Are at Winter Formal

by Tia Leach

Starry Night was the theme for this year's winter formal. Held in the dining hall at SC, the girls of Beta Sigma Phi put on a dance that was unlike any other. This year was the first year the girls decided to crown royalty at the formal. There were two candidates from each Greek organization on campus and the voting was open campuswide. This year's nominees were Chelsea Hampton and Angelina Brunson from Phi Sheba Phi, Vince Degrado and Brant Littrell from Phi Delta Theta, Tia Leach and Rachel Ferguson of Beta Sigma Phi and Demont Burdine and Anthony McKissic from Phi 54 Phi.

"The formal was fun! I really found out what it was like to be part of a sisterhood."

Sarah Jrab

"This was one of the best events we've put on all year! I had a blast!"

Amber Bratcher

"Getting dressed up and seeing all of my friends made the night worthwhile!"

Pahri Hafez

"Winter formal is a time for us sisters to get together and build our friendships."

The annual Luau was a big success! It was the second all school event Beta Sigma Phi held this year and everyone had a great time. The girls held the Luau at the indoor pool in White PE. There was lots of food, games, and prizes for everyone to enjoy. The ladies are looking forward to hosting the event again next year and they are coming up with some new ideas. The Luau may be held at the beginning of the year at the public swimming pool giving everyone a chance to enjoy the summer one last time before classes start up again.

What is the Luau?

"I had a great time especially when I won the cannon ball contest!"

JR Massey

"I loved getting to see all of my sisters and create a bonding experience."

DeAndrea Holt

"The Luau is a time for everyone to get together and kick back before finals."

Leslee Bennett

"I had a fun time seeing everyone before the end of the year! Luau rocks!"

We Are Performers

by Rachel Ferguson

This year the theatre department stayed very busy with all their performances. They had four major performances during the year. The first one, Anything Goes, took place on a yacht built in Richardson Auditorium. Another performance that SC actors took part in was The Last Kansas Exit, written by English professor Troy Boucher. During the second semester, the theatre students acted out characters in the play As You Like It, a Shakespeare play where two young individuals fall in love and have to convince their families they should be together. The final production of the year was The Shape of Things. In this play, a woman seduced her choice male, then used suggestion to change his personality.

What are theater events?

"It can best be described as pornography without the sex and marginally better plots."

Nick Sparacino

"A chance to use your skills to entertain people."

Ehren Penix

"Those that involve acting and whatever else the playwright desires."

Jeremey Wilcoxson

"Plays to workdays, strikes to picnics, but what theater events really are is a bunch of people hanging out and having fun."

We are...

Organized

Government Association

by Amber Stewart

Student Government Association, or otherwise known as SGA, is an organization where a student body senate meets to discuss current issues regarding the college. SGA is a great way for the students themselves to become involved and to speak their concerns and opinions on what needs to be done. Many students believe that they can make a difference and that SGA is "the voice of the student body." At least two or three bills come through a week to get passed or opposed, so there is a lot of time and commitment in SGA.

We Are SAA

by Miranda Harris and Tia Leach

The Student Activities Association went through numerous transitions this year, working with three separate advisors at different times. But they ended up pulling through in the end. They had many successful events! They brought in comedian Tim Young and a concert that showcased the Gooding Band. SAA also put on many educational workshops including some on self defense. The traditional activities like free movie night, bowling night, mini golf also seemed to have a great turnout. This next year, SAA is looking forward to becoming a part of the new organization, Student Foundation.

What is Student Activities Association?

"An organization that not only builds friendships but builds a family."

Tia Leach

"It appeals to every student in order to make campus life more enjoyable. There's something for everyone."

Jonathan Leeper

"It is a combination of everyone's activities and personalities."

Jarod Beneke

"A chance to make your voice heard about campus events that you want."

We Are T

by Lindsey Harold

Before classes even began in late August, the Moundbuilder yearbook staff was already hard at work constructing a portfolio of all the events that made the 2003-2004 school year memorable. Because of the many hours outside of class that the staff put in work inspite of some difficulties that were encountered along the way, the yearbook was able to be completed on deadline. "It has been a definite learning experience considering I have never done pages before but rather just taken photographs," Janelle Renz said.

"A good reason to spend the evening on the computer. I'm a worknight junkie!"

Bonnie Haslouer

"It's really neat being on staff that can capture memories for years to come."

Rachel Ferguson

"Fun times calling into Leeper's radio questions! Call again!"

Lisa Broberg

"An opportunity to expand my talents and to work with others."

We Are The Collegian

by Lindsey Harold

The Collegian welcomed the many additional staff members that joined the staff at the start of the second semester. Because of the overabundance of bodies, juniors Editor-in-Chief Christy Hopkins and Managing Editor Paul Farney were able to expand news coverage and were also able to evenly distribute who wrote these stories. "Having a bigger staff gives us the resources to cover more stories and allows us to go more in-depth with them," Farney said.

What is a newspaper staffer?

"Working hard and being a good sport while also sacrificing your time."

Tim Sentz

"Getting to struggle through journalism, trying to find what real truth is."

Kate Hutchens

"Late nights, early deadlines, spelling errors and midnight runs to Wendy's."

Christy Hopkins

"The opportunity to express yourself and your ideas to the student body."

We Are Education Builders

by Sarah Benton

Ed Builders started the year with three main goals in mind: to increase membership, gain recognition, and become involved in the public schools. All of these goals were accomplished. Membership doubled in attendance from last year. Ed Builders were able to achieve campus recognition through involvement in Homecoming activities. They pulled off a second place finish in Crazy Olympics and a first place finish in Window decorating. Ed Builders became involved with the public schools by being pen pals with fifth graders at Whittier Elementary School. This organization has experience lots of changes with in the last year and hope for continued expansion in years to come.

"Being an Ed Builder means being part of a network that strives to help each other through the trial and tribulations as an education major."

Claire Myers

"Ed Builders is a place where we we can all come together as one and focus on a common goal of education excellence."

Brian Givens and Chris Rinehart

"Ed Builders lay the building blocks to make better teachers. We become informed on educational issues and getting the most of our SC education and taking it into the real world!"

Melissa Barkus

"Ed Builders is like a support group and prep club for education majors. It's nice to know that you can have people to talk to who have gone through the teaching program."

Meg McGuire

We Are International Club

by Janelle Renz

Founded in 1996, the International Club at Southwestern was dedicated to educating faculty, staff, and students on the importance of cross-cultural experiences and language study. It provides orientation for foreign students to Southwestern college and the community. Also facilitating the preparation and re-entry of students who have studied abroad. It still has the same fundamentals today. The club holds regular bi-monthly meetings and participates in many campus activities.

What is International Club?

"It's all about diversity and different cultures."

Szetho Wei Shen "Z"

"International Club is great. I have so many friends from all over the world, it makes things really interesting and fun."

Donna McMullan

"International Club is not an organization but a family, where people have a voice and are accepted regardless of their color."

Andrew Singh

"I see this club as a group of people who have decided to support and love each other. This group accepts differences."

We Are Leadership

by Janelle Renz

If you are self-motivated and have the ambition to learn, then Leadership is the club for you. Leadership is an organization that develops people into leaders as a team. Students immersed themselves in projects and the opportunity to learn. People got involved to achieve long-term leadership skills, grow as an individual, serve others in the community. "Leadership is a great way to give back to the community through service, and the team is also a great way to meet new people," said Hayley Holthus. Last but not least its a great way to achieve preparation skills for life after college. With the skills achieved in Leadership, you can go far in life.

The Southwestern Ambassadors gave tours to potential students, called and e-mailed students who have visited campus and they hosted students who are staying overnight. They are involved in Scholarship Day and Explore More Days. They are also in charge of Scholarship Day, a day when prospective students visit campus and are able to meet with financial aid and general advisors. The students are able to ask current students questions about college life without parents present. They also eat lunch and are interviewed for the main scholarships Southwestern offers.

What are Ambassadors?

"A SC Spirit and passion-filled student that shares their love with prospective students."

Mollie Foster

"Someone who is a leader here at SC and is a role model for incoming students."

Chelsea Hampton

"Someone that is the face of SC. We are the first people incoming students meet, so it is important that we make a good impression."

Vince Degrado

"Ambassador is not just a long word. It has a true meaning of friendliness, character, and leadership."

We are Psychology Student's Association

By Amber Stewart

Psychology Student's Association, or more commonly known as PSA, is a club for students majoring or minoring in psychology. PSA meets monthly to make sure all participants and other psychology majors are sufficiently passing their classes and to offer help to those who may need it. Many of the undergraduates take part in research studies, and they will be attending a large conference in Reno to present their data in front of a large group of undergraduates and graduates from all over the United States. PSA will also attend other conferences to gain research knowledge. PSA will be making donations to the Habitat for Humanity Fund.

Students in Free Enterprises, or SIFE, was in its first year of existence on the SC campus. The organization's main purpose was to teach others the tools they needed to achieve their dreams. This goal was attained by the members attending competitions throughout the school year, with the most notable competition being regionals in New Orleans, Louisiana. "We are getting the chance to prove ourselves not only to other schools but to our future employers," president junior Tara Revell said.

We Are Beta Beta Beta

by Janelle Renz

The four goals for the Delta chapter of Tri-Beta are: the promotion of scholarship in the biological sciences, the dissemination of biological knowledge, encouragement of research, and the nurturing of fellowship among biology students and faculty. Some of the many events that happened throughout the year for Tri-Beta were the Dutch Creek Cookout, regular speakers at meetings, Mud Volleyball and the Volleyball Challenge, Pumpkin Carving, visits to the Humane Society, and last but not least Jinxing. An annual event such as the Dutch Creek Cookout includes swimming in the creek if you're brave enough, cooking hamburgers and hotdogs on the camp fire and enjoying the evening.

We Are Mass Communications

by Rachel Ferguson

The Mass Communications students have had a busy year working to get all the news on campus displayed on camera and through the airwaves. The SCTV crew has spent several hours filming and editing different activities, lectures, musicals and athletic events that have taken place here on campus. KSWC continues with a morning show every weekday, something that was started last year. Students also spend time on the air in the afternoons and evenings.

What is Mass Communications?

"An opportunity to learn various types of media, while building great friendships with your peers."

Tia Leach

"Learning to communicate well in everything you do. It provides endless opportunities in various types of media."

Rachel Ferguson

"Mass Communications is learning what I need to know to get a good job in Hollywood."

Ashley Twyman

"Mass Communications is learning all the essential skills necessary to run a radio station."

Jonathan Leeper

CCOM showed worship practiced in many forms both on and off campus. It consisted of many Outreach Teams, like the World Witness Team who demonstrated the word of God. Another group, Selah, used contemporary music styles to encourage the body of Christ, often performing in chapel on Wednesdays. Keynotes built the experience of faith through music and celebrate his faith in concerts in churches across Kansas and in home churches of the members. Fellowship of Christian Athletes included students who may or may not be involved in sports. Through Campus Ministries, students had the chance to get involved in prayer groups and chapel. The Nuture Group encouraged students and reassured them that God loves them. For students without weekend plans, Friday Night Praise is offered to praise God. CCOM was actively involved in fundraising and helping the community.

What is CCOM?

"FCA is a blast!"

Brandon Smith

"FCA is a chance to spend focus on glorifying God while relating to excellence in athletics."

Brae Johnson

"Selah is a word in the Psalms intended to inspire meditation, but we play really loud music in churches and that's fun too."

Brandon Cunningham

"FCA is an opportunity for Christians to meet and discuss issues that deal with sports and their lives."

We Are Dead Poets Society

by Elise Eilts

A meeting began with a lit candle and a quote from Henry David Thoreau: "I went into the woods that I might live deliberately." Inspired by the love of words, students, faculty, and community members gathered to share thoughts, works in progress, and favorite poems with others. Poets could be found wandering around campus or to the coffee house with notebooks, books, computers, and loose pieces of paper in tow. "A Dead Poet is someone who is cool and totally down with their bad self and words," said Nicole Gurthrie. Part of the attraction of Dead Poets was the lack of limitations. With few rules, members read anything from rambling poems written with a friend to a bitter love poem in an affectionate fasion.

Below: Jesse Jones pauses during a poem. Many members of Dead Poets brought their own poems to meetings. (photo by Josiah Chieng)

"A Dead Poet is a lover of words and life; a seeker of thoughts unspoken and a singer of songs immortal."

Kyle Garst

"A Dead Poet is a poet who got hit by a car."

Zach Martin

"A person whose life is sustained eternally through words on paper."

Ashley Boucher

"Linguistic lovers lapping luscious lyrics."

Few campus organizations give students the chance to argue about global and national issues and let their multiple personalities shine like Pi Kappa Delta. Though its formal in name and stature, the members have humorous and various personalities. Students poured all their energy and spare time into award winning performances. The team walked away with several medals after every tournament to show for their hard work. The nation convention is the "cream of the crop". It's where the best of the best are on display and the great debates take place.

What is Pi Kappa Delta?

"Good for my profession in educational. I get to learn different styles."

Elizabeth Danforth

"It's a good opportunity to get to meet other people from different schools with the same interests."

Megan Otto

"Opportunity to get well connected with students from other walks of life."

Melissa Martin

"Pi Kappa Delta provides a great opportunity to grow as a person."

We Are Math Club

by Amber Stewart

Math Club was more than sitting around and playing with numbers and calculators. As one member stated, "Aside from counting fingers and some occasional toes when things get rough, Math Club is all about having fun with members and logic in any sort of way or form." When the math club got together they liked to play lots of games and even had a lot of speakers come and teach them the imperatives about many of the famous mathematicians. They are really hoping for Donald Duck to come and speak soon and teach them all about MathMagicLand.

"Well all I have to say is, the first rule of math club is we don't talk about math."

Natalie Terry

"The answer is four. Four, ah ah ah! I always loved the count!"

Bret Bement

"Math club is a place where you walk in thinking about how much you hate math, and then you leave thinking that you had a pretty good time."

Amber Bratcher

"A fun club for people who like math to come together; eat pizza, play games, etc. For anyone to enjoy."

Nurse's Christian Fellowship is an organization of student nurses that are there for each other through difficult times, and whenever the work load seems unbearable. They also helped other Christian nurses become aware of how to integrate their faith into their practice. Over the past year, they have worked together to promote healthy relationships between themselves and God, as well as offer support and advice to fellow students. They attended monthly meetings, where they learned about a different Christian nursing topic, and how to apply that to their work profession.

What is Nurse's Christian Fellowship?

"NCF helps us use our Christian faith in nursing."

Kim Roberts

"It is helping others with the help of God."

Bonnie Haslouer

"We are there to offer support to those who need it."

Pam Jones

"It is saving lives with a Christian perspective."

We Are SCATS

by Bonnie Haslouer

The Southwestern College Athletic Training Students maintained an active agenda during the year. Aside from attending all of the college's sporting events and working with the athletes, they held various fundraisers in order to send students to the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA) Convention. After all of the fundraising, they managed to fit in other activities such as the Midnight Madness 3 on 3 basketball tournament, "Big for a Day" with Big Brothers & Big Sisters, and hosted a softball tournament. SCATS also participated in National Athletic Trainers' Month in March.

What is an Athletic Trainer?

"Athletic trainers are a part of the allied health field."

Parker Wells

"It's our responsibility to keep our athletes healthy and treat their injuries so they can perform well."

Kyle Jones

"We are the backbone of the sports. We have to take care of the athletes in order for them to succeed."

Dustin Holly

"Being able to help people and have fun at the same time."

We Are SCANS

by Bonnie Haslouer

Throughout the past year, the Southwestern College Association of Student Nurses worked together to raise money for their annual spring break cultural mission trip. This year, they raised enough money to go to Chinle, Arizona where they worked closely with residents on an Indian reservation to promote healthy lifestyles. Besides fundraising, the SCANS also attended the Kansas Nurse's Convention, held in Kansas City, Missouri in October. Some students also attended the National Nurse's Convention in Nashville, TN in March. SCANS donated much of their time and expertise, working throughout the community to assist with blood pressure clinics, blood glucose tests, and eye screenings over the past year as well.

We Are Phi Sheeba Phi

by Erick Byrd

The girls of Phi Sheeba Phi are not technically a sorority, they are just an organization of girls. It was formed to bring Nubian sisters together. They were simply an organization that promotes the importance of sisterhood, not only with African-American women, but in multicultural races as well. The organization was formed in 2003 by four girls. Their motto is to perform sisterhood. The girls have no designated time to meet, so they discuss their business in the cafeteria. Chelsea Hampton said, "This is something that has made a positive aspect for African American young women here at SC. Southwestern has never had this high of a minority population, so I hope we will be able to start a tradition of forming sisterhood here."

Beta Sigma Phi means life, learning, and friendship. The sorority sisters participated in many campus events this year to further their growth in these areas. The girls hosted the annual Winter Formal, posted student responses all around the Java Jinx expressing the negative effects of alcohol use, helped with campus recycling pickup, Bowled for Kids' Sake, babysat children while the new playground was being built, and also hosted the annual Luau in White PE. The sorority had two rushes this year with fourteen girls pledging.

We Are Phi Delta Theta

by Tia Leach

This year the Phi Delts have been very active in the local community. They have held and participated in many benefit events including casino nights, highway clean-ups, Bowl for Kids' Sake, alcohol awareness week and building wheel chair ramps for handicapped and the elderly. Phi Delta Theta has also hosted a homecoming banquet for alumni and a Founder's Day banquet with Secretary of the State speaker, Ron Thornburg. The men of Phi Delta Theta have been busy this year with all of their service projects and still found time for fun during their Hump Day Phi Days every Wednesday.

We Are Discipleship

by Lindsey Harold

Discipleship was busy throughout the school year trying to raise money for its trip to Louisiana over Spring Break. They visited New Orleans to help minister to the less fortunate by remodeling tarnished housing, so that is more suitable to be lived in. The organization's biggest fundraiser was during the month of October when members of Discipleship took turns working, and even sometimes sleeping at the Pumpkin Patch here in Winfield.

Since 1919, Campus Players has been a part of the Southwestern campus. Graduating campus players are honored by having their caricatures hung in the hallway in the Little Theater. Campus Players have helped produce several shows this semester like Anything Goes, As You Like It, The Shape of Things, several scenes and one acts, plus the annual Christmas play Eagerheart. Their fundraisers this year included raking leaves and singing telegrams for Valentine's Day. All the money raised helps send students to the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival. There the students compete for scholarships, attend workshops, and view shows from all around that region.

What is a Campus Player?

"A way to recognize the achievements of students in theatre and to have fun."

JJ Marafioti

"A group of students that do more for the school that just put on shows."

Julie Sapp

"An honorary organization that produces all the shows on campus."

Tim Tate

"Campus Players has some of the most hard working, talented and talkative people on this campus."

We Are Choir

by Janelle Renz

Choir at Southwestern College is best described as having fun while doing something you love. SC's choir offered the chance to travel and meet new people. A Capella choir performed in local concerts and different churches around town. SC Singers sing different varieties of music and are a smaller group than the A Capella choir. The Global Voices bring different cultural music to SC and the Keynotes who bring Christian singing to campus, combining music and worship together as one. Any of the groups choir students chose to participate in was a great learning experience as well as being fun.

An experience that lasts a life time, band gets students involved with different people from all over the world. From the concert band who held regular concerts for the community to jazz band and pep band who play "outside the standard repertory." These different style of bands play at different activities and athletic events around campus. Whatever you feel like playing, there is a group for you here at Southwestern College. The more the merrier, band is open to everyone on campus so come and give it a try.

We Are Volleyball

by Tia Leach

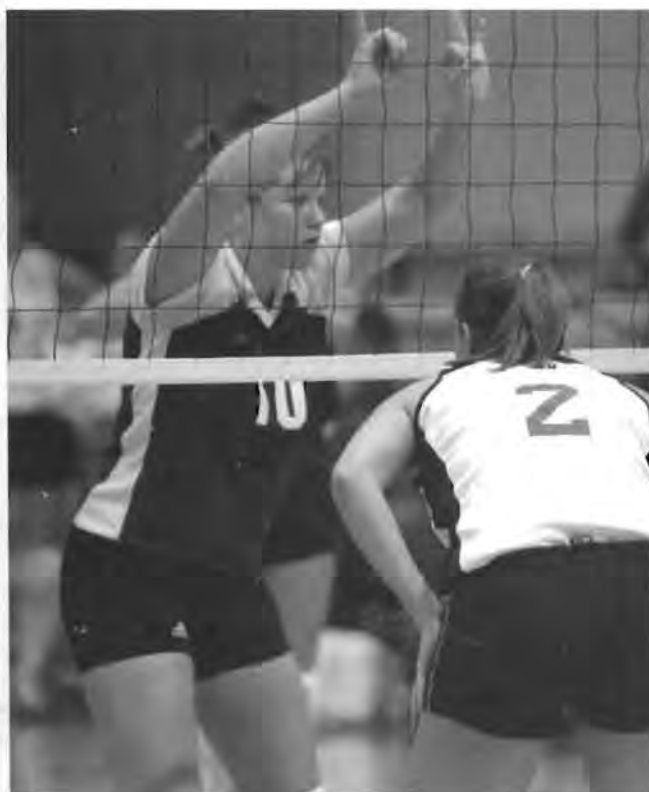

The volleyball team, coached by Julie Konrade and Sara Pond, had a very challenging season. The team consisted of twelve girls, eight of whom were returning and four freshman. Unfortunately, Coach Konrade was unable to fulfill all of her coaching responsibilities due to the joyful arrival of twins, although she was still proud of the girls' accomplishments throughout the year. Kristen Baalman said, "Our team is working hard and I have high expectations for next season." The team had a lot of fun this year on and off the court, having the chance to play in Kentucky. Freshman DeAndra Holt stated, "Kentucky was a blast! We had a wonderful bonding experience that really brought our team together. I am very excited about next year and I am looking forward to seeing all of the girls' improvements." The team finished their season with a positive outlook and a willingness to work hard next year.

"This team proved how strong we can be in unbearable situations. We have a lot of heart and determination, all of which puts an awesome outlook on next season."

KRISTEN HOUK

"We showed a lot of determination to fight through all the rough times and we came out stronger in the end. I am going to miss all of the girls next year!"

JENNA SWISHER

"SC Volleyball showed me a new meaning of teamwork. They are really a good group of girls."

We Are Football

By Nicole Howie

The Moundbuilder's record was 5-5 as they were lead by Coach Chris Douglas in his second year as head coach. Wins for the Moundbuilders included Friends, Bethel, Bethany, University of St. Mary and Sterling. Builders receiving KCAC honors this year included, seniors Luke Seeley and Jeromy Jones and junior Blake Hemberger, first team. Second team included Zac Smith and James Kelly. Players receiving honorable mention were, Ta'ron West, Kurt Burkhardt, Jimmie Tagg, Matt Williams, J.R. Massey and Wes Crosson.

We Are Women's Soccer

By Sarah Benton

As the season began, the outlook for the women's soccer team was shaky. Due to a number of injuries on the team, they were forced to play short in the preseason matchup with Cloud County Community College. However, as the season progressed, the team grew stronger. The team realized what it meant to be a true Moundbuilder soccer player. The Lady Moundbuilders were able to edge into the KCAC tournament as the number six seed. The team continued to make history through defeating the University of St. Mary's in the regional playoff game. This marked the first time in Southwestern College history for the women's soccer team to make it to the semifinal round of the KCAC tournament. Although they were beat out in the semifinal round, the team ended with six wins, seven losses, and two ties, four of those being conference wins. "This season was the best season I have had so far. We made SC history and had great fans that helped push us all the way and next season we will be just as good or better," said Lauren Rood.

LINDSEY HAROLD

"To be an SC soccer player means to be part of an extended family, one in which you can rely on for encouragement and support on and off the field."

TERESEHA HARDEN

"Playing on the soccer team at SC means being a part of a family, having a bunch of friends that you can creep with, go to haunted houses with, eat tostados with, watch movies with, roll on the ground and cry when we win, have nicknames like Steve, Steve, and Steve with, but most importantly of all, kick ass with!"

AMANDA WILHITE

"I think that it was a privilege to be a part of the soccer program this season. We are a group of friends who have become sisters. I could never ask for anything better. I will really miss our seniors next year, but I'm looking forward to see what we can accomplish over the next few years as we grow and learn."

We Are Men's Soccer

by Lindsey Harold

The men's soccer team added to the growing success of the Southwestern soccer program by making it to the KCAC conference playoffs for the first time in school history. The Moundbuilders faced the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes in their first round match. Kansas Wesleyan found the back of the net first midway through the first half but the Moundbuilders quickly answered with a goal from junior Zack Paris. KWU would go onto score once more before the end of the half, making the score 2-1. However, it was all SC in the second half. The Builders would end up getting two goals from freshman Nick Mattingly and sophomore Munya Madeyi. The 3-2 victory gave Southwestern the opportunity to face Friends University in the second round. Unfortunately, SC was not able to get their offensive game going against the Falcons and ended up being shut-out, 5-0.

We Are Cross Country

By Miranda Harris and Amber Stewart

Southwestern's cross country team "gets it done, when it counts". Since 1983, the women's team has won 14 of the past 20 KCAC championships, which includes 8 of the past 9 years. They have qualified for 7 of the past 9 years and have top 20 finishes in 3 of those years. In the past 20 years, their record is 353-48. The men's team on the other hand has won 23 of past consecutive conference championship meets. The men have finished top 10 in 11 of the last 19 years. They have not lost to a KCAC opponent since 1980. Few programs in America can match the success of the Moundbuilders. They have 23 straight championships, 113 regular season and championship titles, 174 All-Conference runners, 118 All-District 10, and Region IV runners, and 12 NAIA All-Americans.

"It makes you a well-rounded person because you have to learn obedience, trust, and self-discipline."

CASEY ABERNATHY

"It is not just another sport to compete in. Golf is a game that develops your mental skills, physical abilities, and teaches life skills."

JENNY SAWYER

"Golf is a game you play the game based on how well prepared your mental game is."

The women's golf team experienced much success in both the fall and spring seasons despite only being able to compete individually rather than as a team due to injuries sustained throughout the season. The team was lead by seniors Jenny Sawyer, Shawna Cain and Casey Abernathy, who all brought four years of experience competing at the college level to the team. The remaining two members of the squad were freshman Kristine Fowler and senior Steph Sawyer, who had participated in basketball for the past three years but opted not to play last season.

The men's golf team was not able to compete in as many tournaments as they would have liked due to budget cuts. In spite of this obstacle, the team experienced many successes throughout their three month season. One of these successes was the camaraderie that was formed amongst the six members that comprised the team. This camaraderie helped make competing at the tournaments enjoyable along with the long trips that were required to compete.

We Are Cheerleaders

by Tia Leach

Who says cheerleaders only wear skirts? The once all-girl team doubled in size with the addition of the strongest men on campus! They brought the squad to new heights as they underwent many changes for the next year. The squad learned a lot about teamwork while trying to create new stunts, exciting routines, and getting the crowd involved. The cheerleaders decided to officially take on the new name of Spirit Squad, to reflect the diversity of their team and show support for SC. The squad looks forward to next season as they keep making improvements, adding new members and having fun!

The Black Cats dance team had many hard working individuals willing to give their all this year. Their hardwork and dedication showed a lot this year through their performances. The team met a few nights a week and practiced into the late evening hours in order to perfect some of their high skill moves. Along with their busy practice schedules, the girls also participated in the Homecoming Parade, a dance clinic for youth girls, and volunteering their time at the local animal Shelter.

We Are Women's Basketball

by Rachel Ferguson

The Lady Builder women's basketball team had a very successful season this year. Their record for the season was 26 wins and 6 losses. The team lost in the KCAC semi-finals to Ottawa but were a draw pick into the National tournament. The team also broke several records this season, including the most three pointers made in a game. This year's Lady Moundbuilder varsity roster consisted of four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and five freshman. Three of the team members were transfer students. The team's motto is to be strong and do not give up, for your work will be rewarded. Senior Niki Nicholas said, "We had the best chemistry on the team that we have ever had since I've been here at SC. We had people who could do wonderful things. We had so many different threats that we were a real challenge for our opponents to handle."

We are Men's Basketball

by Rachel Ferguson and Erick Byrd

Whether it was the fast break speed of junior Brett Annis, a slash to the basket by sophomore Rico Marquez or a dagger three-pointer by senior All-American Kalan Powers, the Builder men's basketball team were able to use viable weapons against opposing teams. The Builders came off a 17-12 season from a year ago and were looking to capitalize on the major strides that were made during the 2002-2003 season. The coaches were able to recruit players who added size, speed and were a threat on the offensive end. In spite of the acquisition of these talented freshmen and transfer students, the men's team struggled throughout the season and thus, concluded the season with a 15-14 record overall and 10-8 in the conference. Southwestern lost Brian Holthus, David Freivogel, Chris Rinehart and Kalan Powers to graduation but the players and coaches alike are still optimistic about next year's team and are looking forward to making a run at winning the KCAC conference tournament.

We Are Softball

By Lisa Broberg

The first year of Southwestern softball has quickly come to an end. The year ended with a 15-17 record and a second place finish at the KCAC Conference Tournament. Southwestern made it into the tournament as the eighth seed, beating out the number one seed Friends University and the number four seed Kansas Wesleyan. While playing Sterling in the championship game of the winners bracket, the rain came and the girls were unable to finish the game as well as the tournament. Four Southwestern players made the KCAC All-Conference Team: Karah Covey, Amanda Melander, and Jennifer Tattershall made first team while Leesa Rosebrook landed a spot on the honorable mention team. The Lady Builders plan on coming back stronger than ever next season.

We Are Track

By Erick Byrd

The men's and women's track team dominated the KCAC in 2004. With eight All-Americans on the team, the men captured their 23rd consecutive KCAC crown and the women captured their 12th consecutive KCAC title. The teams competed hard throughout the year and came up big when it counted the most. They continued to dominate the KCAC and bury the opposition to continue their historic streaks. The KCAC Championships were held at Southwestern's newly resurfaced track. It was nice for the team to be at home and compete in front of classmates and peers. In the end, the seniors went out on top at home. The seniors will be missed, but the streak is sure to continue with the solid core of freshman in tack.

ANDREA MOHR

"Track at SC has been so much fun. The members and teams before us have established such an outstanding legacy and its very special to be a part of."

T.J. HARRIS

"This season has been full of adversity for me and the team, but I have lived by these words: "Do it big or go home!"

BRANT LITRELL

"This year has been as much fun as the last four years. We've been winning for 22 years and we aren't stopping now."
