Southwestern College was founded in 1885 by the Southwest Conference of Methodist Episcopal Church. It graduated its first class in 1889. SC is celebrating its 120th year in existence. SC earned its accreditation in 1917 from North Central Association of Schools and Colleges. In 1950 most of the main administrative building (at that time called Richardson) burned, but the four pillars that overlooked the Walnut Valley remained. With only three buildings at that point, one of which just burned and another condemned, the future of the college was very much in doubt. In June of 1950, the Central Kansas Conference of the United Methodist Church voted to continue the college and assure its future through "The Million Dollar Building Program." Richardson was rebuilt and christened as the now known Christy Administration Building.

One of the greatest mysteries of the history of Southwestern College is the 77 steps. They were built about the same time as Richardson Hall (now known as Christy Administration Building) around the early 1900s. They were first renovated in 1985 and then again this past year. The real question, however, is why 77 steps. When approached, many individuals and departments were stumped. Even former archivist, Jerry Wallace, could not explain such a number. Many stories were entertained, however. One such story was related to the alma mater, which happens to have 77 words to it. It can be concluded that in an effort to remember the alma mater each step was assigned a particular word for the graduates to recite as they approached the top. By far, the story that resurfaced the most was that it just happened to take 77 steps to reach the apex of the hill from the foot of the hill. So to this date, it will be maintained that the contractors of 1907 found out that 77 approximately 14-inch steps reached the apex of the hill from the bottom. This is why there are 77 steps leading up to the front of the Christy Administration Building.

Faces of Freshman Workday

By Drew Logsdon and Robert Leis

Saturday, August 21 brought about an early start for the freshmen of SC. Over 140 new freshmen participated in the 14th annual Freshman Workday, planned by Leadership Southwestern. The day is designed to bring freshmen together in service with the Winfield community. The freshmen were divided up into different groups and assigned separate work sites. Each of the 18 work sites had many projects, including painting and gardening. After a long day of manual labor and a short rest period, the workday volunteers were treated to a banquet with a Hawaiian theme. At the end of the day, new bonds of friendship had been built not only with fellow students but also with faculty volunteers and members of the Winfield community itself.

Faces of Rock Painting

By Kelly Burgar

Keeping with tradition, students and organizations got together to have the annual rock painting party. The rocks would be put onto the mound the next day. Everyone is encouraged to show their unique personalities by painting their rocks. Organizations, activities, and individuals can paint any rock that they can find. The school also provides spray paint, paint brushes, paint, drinks and popicles for everyone to enjoy. Rock painting is always one of the fun events that happen on campus during the first week of classes. It is a good place for friends to come back from summer break and get together to have some messy fun.

Faces of Moundbuilding

By Bret Bement

Adding another year to its history, the Moundbuilding Ceremony is one of the longest running traditions at SC. The 77th Annual Building of the Mound also recognized the 10th anniversary of the Professional Studies Program. Rocks were placed by both traditional and non-traditional students as well as alumni. The dreams of Dean Allen and Dean Haywood of a monstrous mountain of stones reaching to the sky grew a few feet as each member of the SC community became a Moundbuilder.

Faces of Fall Frenzy

By Szetho Shan Lin

Fall Frenzy frenzied from August 18th through 27th. This year kicked off with Builder Camp, where freshmen roasted marshmallows and bonded at Rock Springs. Freshman Workday followed that weekend, and the whole campus gathered for fun and food at the Welcome Back BBQ and Sunday Sundaes. The next day, Builder Frenzy was held at the bottom of the 77 steps and students let loose on games and rides at the carnival. The entertaining night also featured comedian Bernie McGrenahan and singer Shevy Smith on the guitar. Students let their creative juices flow the following Wednesday at the Rock Painting Party and SC traditions were upheld at the Moundbuilding Ceremony the next night. Fall Frenzy wrapped up with Matriculation Convocation on Friday.

Faces of Homecoming

By Pahri Hafez, Szetho Shan Lin, and Amber Stewart

Among the builder floats, the egg toss at the Crazy Olympics, and blazing bonfire, Southwestern students had a busy week to make Homecoming 2004 a memorable one. With a theme of "A Builder Storm is Brewin", many events including the Dedication of the renovated 77 steps, the Athletic Hall of Fame Induction, where past athletes were noted for their outstanding athletic performances, Campus Beautification, the upper classman trying to put out the Builder Flame on the freshman, and the unforgettable Lawn Art that also helps beautify the campus; these activities helped keep the students in a Southwestern spirited mood. The Builders ended the week by crowning Tia Leach and Joe Wood Homecoming Queen and Ugly Man and the Moundbuilder Football team beating the McPherson Bulldogs 24-14.

Faces of The Winter Formal

By Miranda Harris and Amber Stewart

Amidst the masks and masquerades was the annual Beta Sigma Phi Winter Formal with a unique theme this year of Mardi Gras. With the help of the hardworking Phi Delta Theta for decorating and cleaning up, the formal was a great success with a high attendance turnout. During the middle of the dance, they crowned the Winter Formal Royalty. Among the winners were Jonathan Leeper and Christy Hopkins as King and Queen and Brian Nickerson and Jennifer Chenier as Prince and Princess.

Faces of The Luau

By Amber Stewart and Miranda Harris

Switching things up a bit this year, Beta Sigma Phi wanted to change the way the Luau went down. Instead of the usual swim party being held in White PE pool, they decided to move it to the mud volleyball court for a messy tournament, provide more food for snacking and hire a professional DJ. "The change was amazing!" quotes Jenna Swisher. "So many more people showed up and it was a more relaxed atmosphere." The girls plan to continue with these changes for future luaus.

Faces of Theatre

By Szetho Shan Lin

Striking characters and imaginary worlds were created under the multi-talented theatre department. Heading department, Roger and Allyson Moon led the students to perform to the best of their abilities in acting, singing and dancing in shows such as "The Wiz" and "Eagerheart." The efforts of those behind the scenes also did not go unnoticed as extraordinary stage design, lighting and costumes boasted the hard work of the production crew members who spent countless nights slaving away on sets. The theatre department gives students the opportunity to express their creative sides while exploring dedication and having fun.

Faces of Honors Convocation

By Bret Bement and Kelly Bugar

Honors Convocation is the last gathering of the entire senior class before graduation. At the end of every year this ceremony celebrated by the entire student body who have endured the trials of scholarly learning. Most noteworthy of accomplishments are the Masterbuilder Awards that are given to six graduating seniors who have epitomized what it means to to be a Southwesterner.

Faces of SGA

By Josie Bartel

Student Government Association, or SGA, gave students an opportunity to discuss current issues affecting Southwestern College. They met every Tuesday evening at 5:30 in the student lounge. Every week there was anywhere from two to four bills introduced, discussed, and voted on by the members. Many of the bills dealt with funding for other organizations' trips and fundraisers. Student Government is designed for any students that are interested in how a government works.

Faces of StuFu

by Josie Bartel

Formerly known as Student Activities Association, Student Foundations (StuFu) continued several of the same activities that it did last year including Free Movie Night, bingo with late breakfast and Fall Frenzy events. They also co-sponsored many events this year such as Intersactum, the multicultural seminars and Healthy, Wealthy and Wise week. The Purple Storm was also sponsored by StuFu. StuFu worked hard at bringing many interesting events and activities to the Southwestern College campus.

Faces of The Moundbuilder

By Bonnie Haslouer

Throughout the year, while many of the campus students are asleep, there are a handful that are awake, creating the 2005 edition of The Moundbuilder. This group of creators include three student editors, approximately 15 student staff writers and one faculty advisor. Dedication, phone calls, photography, creative writing, and committing numerous hours outside of class are skills that are used to make the publication possible. Deadlines are set and are met, bringing memories that last a lifetime to the students, faculty and staff of Southwestern College.

Faces of The Collegian

Ashley Victoria Twyman

The Collegian is known around campus as the student voice of Southwestern College. It is a place to express the ideas that students embrace so passionately. The Collegian is published every two weeks and features editorial cartoons, student columns and articles about campus events. This year's student management for the paper consisted of Editor In Chief Christy Hopkins, Managing Editor Paul Farney and Business Manager Karen Klabzuba. The Collegian proves to be a staple organization on campus, bringing you college life news and entertainment two weeks at a time.

Faces of Ed Builders

By Kelly Bugar and Bonnie Haslouer

Throughout the past year, the biggest task for the Ed Builders has been arranging various fundraisers to help purchase a laminating machine needed by the organization. Interacting with the local elementary school students another important activity for the Ed Builders. They hosted a day at the pumpkin patch for the students during Halloween, and for the Christmas holiday, they read Christmas stories to help the children get in the holiday spirit.

Faces of International Club

By Szetho Shan Lin

International students from all around the world come together to form the International Club. Representing over eight countries, they speak different languages but they all share one thing in common - laughter and good times. This year the club took home 1st place for the Homecoming parade, cooked up a storm during their annual International Cuisine, volunteered at Eagles' Nest, camped indoors, and watched movies until the break of dawn.

Faces of Leadership

By Robert Leis

Leadership Southwestern is a team committed to changing themselves and the world around them through servant leadership. As a team, they commit themselves to making a positive difference and to leaving an impactful legacy. Leadership Southwestern emphasized learning and practice. Members learned about teams, ethics and styles of leadership, which were then practiced through service to the local community.

Faces of Ambassadors

Ling Liyen

The Ambassadors are a group of very important people who take time out of their busy schedule to give perspective students an insider's view of SC. It is very crucial that the Ambassadors work hard as first impressions may influence the decision of perspective students. Other obligations included Explore More Days, which is a day where perspective students could talk and meet faculties in their field of interests. Not only that, they also auditioned for scholarships in sports and music.

Faces of Math Club

By Janelle Renz and Bret Bement

Math Club helped students working for a Bachelors Degree in Education, Business and Industry, Law, Economics, Engineering, and Computer Science. During the year Math Club invited guest speakers, planned field trips, and promoted Mathematics as an important role in education. Voted in the top 20 innovative mathematics programs in the nation, they have been awarded first place prize in 1996, and first and second place prizes in 1997 for paper presentations. Math Club has also had a proud tradition of student speakers presenting on their budding knowledge of mathematics.

Faces of SIFE

Robert Leis

Entrepreneurship at Southwestern became ever more prevalent as the Students in Free Enterprise Team completed its second year. SIFE-SC was an entrepreneurship based team made up of students from all departments. Southwestern's team was part of a global effort to teach others about market economics, entrepreneurship, personal and financial success skills and business ethics. Students acquired teamwork, leadership, communication and project management skills in a unique way, by helping local residents develop their business skills. SIFE students made a positive difference in the lives of Cowley County residents. Small business owners, entrepreneurs and communities become more successful through SIFE as students took the lessons they learn in the classroom and applied them to help solve real-life problems.

Faces of Beta Beta Beta

By Bret Bement

Beta Beta Beta is a national honorary biology society in which students can get funky about everything involved with the study of life. If it is alive or dead, it is sure to be studied by the diligent scientists in this organization. Southwestern is home to the Delta chapter of Tri Beta and is proud to host the most popular fundraiser ever to hit campus - Jinxings. Jinxings began to take place on campus during the 02-03 year and retained their popularity on into the 04-05 year.

Faces of Dead Poets Society

Elise Eilts

Students of all academic areas gathered at College Hill Coffee to share their love of words as Dead Poets Society. With the leadership of newly inducted president Jesse Jones and the promise of caffeinated poetry readings, Dead Poets Society attracted several new members in its third year of existence. A topic chosen by the group guided the poetry read at each meeting but was frequently left behind in favor of writings members wanted to share. Word enthusiasts read famous verses, personal poems, and works-in-progress, as well as random bits of wisdom.

Faces of Communications

By Kelly Bugar and Ashley Victoria Twyman

The Communications department has many different areas of specialties such as SCTV and KSWC. Students interested in television production can film and edit all their own work for SCTV. Now students with an emphasis in film can enjoy working in the fun environment of SCTV. Students get to learn about the inner workings of a television station. KSWC is a fun and energetic group who always gets laughs on the radio air waves. The radio station is on air Sunday through Friday from 3pm-12am and the variety of music played is as broad as the staff members themselves. Almost anyone on campus can find some type of music they will enjoy. "After three and half years of radio I'm still enjoying it and can't get enough of it!" said Travis Phillips, KSWC Production Manager.

The Christian faith and ministry reached new heights on campus with the Campus Council of Ministry swinging full gear this past year. Along with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) and Intersanctum, another campus ministry was born: Women's Ministry and Prayer Group. Chapel relocated its Wednesday service to a bigger venue moving out of Wroten and into Messenger Recital Hall, while the Outreach teams shared their ministries to touch the hearts and lives of people in churches everywhere spreading the good news far and wide.

Faces of Pre-Law

By Bret Bement

Southwestern College's Pre-Law Student Association provides a means by which students may participate in curriculum that will help in their pursuits of a career in law. Activities include mock trials, debating activities, LSAT preparation, as well as an Attorney Alumni mentoring program. The Pre-Law Student Association is devoted to the Pre-Law community by providing opportunities to explore the law profession, develop courtroom skills, and prepare for both the LSAT and the law school admissions process.

aces of Campus Players

Szetho Shan Lin

Colorful costumes, exotic masks, and beautiful sets came alive under the skillful hands of Campus Players. They performed several productions this past year and among them was "The Wiz", "Top Girls", and "The Inspector General". Under the watchful eye of Roger and Allyson Moon, they carried out the annual Christmas morality play, "Eagerheart", which has been a unique tradition of the Campus Players since 1933. While it is custom for probationary members to complete a number of requirements before they can become part of this honorary organization, graduating seniors can be remembered by their caricatures that are hung in the Gallery each year.

Faces of SCATS

By Josie Bartel

Southwestern College Athletic Trainers Society, or SCATS, has several purposes and goals including gaining a better working knowledge of athletic injuries through a variety of activities. SCATS maintained a busy schedule attending several sporting events and held many fundraisers this year. Their most successful one has been the on-3 basketball tournament. The money raised through fundraisers go to their uniforms, membership dues, and assist seniors taking their national board of certification test.

For goals for this year's group of SCANS, or Southwestern College Association of Student Nurses included several fundraisers to help pay for their mission trip to work on an Indian Reservation in Chinle, Arizona, and to visit Salt Lake City, Utah for the National Nurses Convention. As part of their Policy and Politics in Nursing class, the seniors spent two days in Topeka at the Capitol Building, touring the various sites, and learning first hand what goes on in the Legislature and how a bill is presented and passes. Participating in and building a float for this fall's homecoming was another big event for the SCANS.

Faces of Phi Sheeba Phi

by Amber Stewart

Phi Sheeba Phi is an organization that supports the importance of sisterhood on Southwestern Campus. Although many people believe it, these girls are not an organization of African-American women that just get together to hang out. With a very dedicated Sheeba, Chelsea Hampton, spending second semester to study at the Urban Learning Center in Chicago, the girls stuck together, stayed strong and also helped out the Phi 54 Phi fraternity with the annual Halloween Bash. They invited anyone and everyone interested in being a part of their organization to feel to join them. They model themselves after great Nubian Women such as Alice Walker, Harriet Tubman, Sojourner Truth, and Mary McLeod Bethune.

Beta Sigma Phi, whose sorority motto is Life, Learning, Friendship, was certainly busy this year. Between group socials, holding the annual Winter Formal, Luau and numerous service projects for Southwestern and the Winfield community, they figured out what the meaning of sisterhood is. This organization sponsored two rushes this year which added to their numbers immensely.

Faces of Phi Delta Theta

By Amber Stewart

Holding a rush in the fall as well as the spring and adding many new members to their organization, Phi Delta Theta was a very busy group this school year. They held their annual Casino night, which is always a popular event, and also held a fundraiser to auction off a T.V. at one of the home basketball games. The Phi Deltas, as they are commonly called, held many activities for their rushes and the rest of the student body, like water polo in White P.E. and a barbeque in Wallingford lawn. The organization also helped the Beta Sigma Phi girls with the annual Winter Formal, and actually had 2 members, Jonathan Leeper and Brian Nickerson get crowned King and Prince.

Phi 54 Phi was founded in January of 2001 with the motto "Death before Dishonor." This organization deals with African American problems in today's society. The number 54 came about to represent the soldiers of the 54th Massachusetts, the first African-American regiment to be able to fight for their freedom during the Civil War. The goal of the organization is to let the community see that with all they have been through as a culture and a people, they are still standing strong and will never yield.

Faces of Band

By Ashley Victoria Twyman

From Concert Band to Jazz Band to Pep Band, members of the SC band were certainly able to fill up their schedules. They played in a variety of settings: concerts, football and basketball games, and accompanying choirs. Band members were sure to be seen at almost any basketball game rooting on the Builders. Band grew this year with more participants than has been seen in the last few years. It seems the up and coming classes of students are full of those with musical talents.

aces of Choir

Ashley Victoria Twyman

This year the Southwestern A Capella Choir was busy, to say the least. Between Sunday concerts, appearances at local churches, singing at basketball games, and practice, one would think there was little time for much else. However, the annual spring choir trip proved to be one of the most memorable moments choir members have had in a long time. The entire choir was invited to sing at Carnegie Hall in New York City, so that's where members, present and past, spent most of their spring break.

Faces of Volleyball

Despite a losing record, spirits were still high on the Southwestern Volleyball team. Losing only two seniors after last season, they gained six new faces on the team this year. With six seniors leading the team this year, they ended their season with a 6-21 record and lead the team to beat Tabor College, the number one seeded team in the league. After breaking the record last season for career digs, Kelli Koester continued to push the carrier dig mark up this year and ended it with 1086 while also being named player of the week in the KCAC in September. Lisa Broberg and Mindy Woydziak were named to the eight member All Tournament Team at the Jinx Jamboree held at Southwestern College in September.

"My experience with the SC volleyball team has been wonderful. I love the game and I've made friendships that will last a lifetime."

Kelli Koester

"I've really enjoyed playing volleyball here at SC. I never thought that I would play college volleyball and to not only play, but to become a starting player was wonderful. I will always remember my teammates and the great times that we had."

Faces of Football

By Amber Stewart and Miranda Harris

Beginning with a slow start, the Moundbuilders finished their 2004 season with a record of 5-5 and 5-4 in the KCAC. Southwestern had 19 players selected for the All-Conference team. First team selections were Adrian Johnson and Kyle Thomas. Second team selections were James Kelly, Chris Maguire, Kyle Jones, Antonya Bryant. Honorable mention included Oscar Guerrero, Phil Groter, Caleb Hartman, Blake Hemberger, Chad Jackson, John King, Davion Mitchell, Andrew Pearson, Dan Seeley, Braden Smith, Jarrod Tucker, Kareem Thompson, and Ta'Ron West.

Faces of Women's Soccer

By Josie Bartel

"This team set a strong foundation for the next season," said head soccer coach Roberto dos Santos. This year's women's soccer team had no seniors. Overall the team finished third in the regular season and advanced into KCAC quarter-finals where they met up with Bethany. Unfortunately that was as far as they got. Despite that loss, dos Santos believed that the most crucial game was not in KCAC quarter-finals, but the match-up with Sterling. The game was on the road, weather conditions far from perfect, and Sterling was a powerful team. It was in this game that dos Santos could really see the great potential in his team and the team's winning streak began.

"I learned (this year) that there are many differences between college ball and high school ball, including the fact that almost everyone in college possesses a high degree of playing ability. Coach dos Santos also taught me that foot skills and ball control can greatly improve one's game. Finally, I realized that it is the job of every player to encourage and strengthen her teammates."

"I do believe that we all joined together as a team and as friends. We all had to want to play, not just one player."

Faces of Men's Soccer

By Pahri Hafez

With a long season scheduled, men's soccer came out with a few struggles, along with many accomplishments. The team came together with many new players along with those from past years. It was a tough season, but did result with victories against Bacone College, Kansas Wesleyan, and Sterling College. The team will miss both seniors Joe Wood and Zack Paris, who were awarded t-shirts and a soccer ball signed by the whole team on senior night.

"This year, I felt that many guys really stepped it up to help out the team, but our captain Joe Wood was the man, he'll be missed. I hope that next year everyone comes back ready to play hard and able to stay healthy through the season. We had good players this year, we want to shoot to be great players next year."

Eloy Mendoza

"I loved everything about the season, especially the parts where I got to play. When it came to great leaders, I felt everyone contributed to being one. Now that I'm graduating, I will miss being around my teammates and competing in games."

A Quarter Century of Excellence

The 2004 Cross Country season was a banner year for Coach Jim Helmer. For 25 years in a row, Coach Helmer has trained his Moundbuilder cross country team to the first place finish in the KCAC. The Builders were ranked 9th nationally at the start of the season, but through individual hardships, eventually fell out of the rankings. The team strived through the adversity later in the season, and when it was time to qualify for the national meet, they pulled through. The 2004 season not only produced the KCAC championship, but was also the 21st season the men's team headed to nationals in Helmer's coaching career.

• Andrew Cherry

"The 2004 cross country season was one filled with both challenges and accomplishments. Cross country at SC is not only an honor for it's commitment to an exceptional program under Coach Helmer, but also an opportunity to challenge yourself and your teammates as you receive lessons that are far more important than an amount of gold medals."

With only two ladies competing throughout the season, the women were faced with competing as individuals, rather than as a team. New coach Brad Sexson coached the ladies though eight tournaments. The ladies look forward to recruits coming in next year to help build the women's golf team.

"Overall, this season was fun because we got a new and outstanding coach who helped strengthen our skills as individuals and helped prepare Kristine and I for next year."

The men had a successful year under the direction of new coach Brad Sexson. With a full team, they competed in 10 tournaments. The men placed first in the Southwestern home tournament and sophomore Ryan Rody took first individually. The team expects to lose Justin Kincaid and Dane Brummett to graduation. Kincaid's season average was 76.7, Brummetts totaled 80.2.

"Coach Brad Sexson has changed the golf program at SC. I believe he has changed the team's outlook completely. He has also helped me believe in myself and helped me to become a better player overall."

Faces of Cheer Squad

By Pahri Hafez

Cheerleading has gone through so many changes during the past year. New coaches, new ladies, new uniforms, and new rules are just a few of them. Thankfully, the team received a motivated coach who helped the squad to come together, work hard, and prove how well they can stunt, jump, cheer, and help keep crowds pumped up at both football and basketball games.

"Wow! What an amazing year this has been. Being on the squad has allowed me to get to know a great group of girls, have fun, and help keep school spirit motivated. I will miss cheerleading so much when I leave SC."

The Black Cats dance team had a busy year, adding technique and skills. The determination of the new members combined with the existing leadership resulted in a successful season for the Black Cats. The Black Cats danced to a variety of music ranging from country to hip hop.

"I enjoy Black Cats a lot as they not only boost my school spirit but also allows me to dance with a team to many variety of music. It also keeps me in shape!"

The Lady Builder Women's Basketball team had an interesting season this year. With a record of 19 wins and 11 losses, they ended their season with a loss at Ottawa. All of the girls tried hard this year to have a great season. This year's team has a lot of familiar faces welcoming a group of new ones. The team had fifteen returning players and eight freshmen this year. With the work ethic and experience mixed with the youth and exuberance of this year's team, work was to be rewarded one way or another for this squad. Whitney Corley was player of the year this season, making two different players from the same school to receive that honor. Many of the players are looking forward to next season and what it may bring.

"This year was definitely a learning experience for me, but it was a good learning experience. I had a lot of fun getting to know my teammates and I'm really looking forward to next season."

● Hayley Harvey

"I've really enjoyed the opportunity to play basketball at Southwestern College with teammates that are not only great players, but also great people, who have challenged me here. We've truly grown as a team and I cannot wait to see what amazing things we will continue to do together."

The Southwestern College men's basketball team had an amazing season full of hard work, unity, and team victories. The men kicked off to a great start with the first five games all ending in victories. The men beat Friends on their own turf and managed to bring down Sterling at both home and away games. "Although we didn't get to go back to Hawaii, I rank traveling to Natchitoches, LA, to play Northwestern State University pretty significant," says Lafayette Berry "My most memorable moment has to be the overall season that we have had."

"Really outstanding season," said the women's tennis head coach John Paulin and KCAC Head Coach of the Year. One of the most memorable moments of this season for not only the coach, but the girls from last year was beating Bethany. Bethany held the the 2004 KCAC tennis champion title and the Moundbuilders beat them this year 5-4. The girls also advanced to the Region IV tournament held in May. There they lost in quarterfinals to Dordt College from Iowa.

"My most memorable moment during the tennis season would have to be the practices. Every time Megan and I practiced our doubles skills someone always got hit. Thanks Megan and the rest of the team for a great year!"

cross the season, the men played some strong teams," said Head Coach John Paulin. Although, they didn't win any matches this year, ending the regular season with a 3-8 record, the men played some good matches against these teams and the experience will be beneficial for those returning next year. In KCAC tournament play, the men fell in the first round to Kansas Wesleyan 5-2.

"In a doubles match, Ramon and I played against Bethel College. They quickly beat us in the first set. We stepped up our game and came back to win the match. This was a memorable moment because it shows that if you don't give up on something and keep pushing, you never know what will happen."

The Southwestern track team had another good year with several athletes making it to Nationals, not only in indoor track, but outdoor as well. Both men and women had good squads this year. Andrae Harper and Stephanie Swanson received All-American Honors this season during indoor track. Several other members of the team competed at the indoor National in 2004. Outdoor track was just as successful in 2005. Many track members made it to the NAIA National outdoor track meet. The school was represented by the best that SC had to offer.
