BUILDER FAMILY

Moundbuilder 2013

Volume 102

Southwestern College

Winfield, Kansas 67156

August 2012 to May 2013

1. What does it take to be a family? Not all families are connected by blood. It has a much deeper meaning, especially to Builders. There isn't a specific time when you become a Builder. Sure, there's the time when you send in your application, the day you sign your letter of intent and, of course, the first day of class. But, actually being a Builder sneaks up on you. It's the discovery that you have this undeniable passion for Southwestern. You realize that the friends you made at Builder Camp are now people you can see yourself growing old with. You start to understand that the rock you placed on The Mound your freshman year is now a memory that you can cherish for a lifetime. One day you will show your children the small piece of granite that made you part of this family, a family that will stand together and give you a place to belong. This is the Builder Family. (Stalder) 2. Elle Nguyen, biology sophomore, tosses her rock onto the Mound. Students place their rocks during the Moundbuilding Ceremony to become part of the Builder Family. (Woon) 3. Students admire the assortment of rocks that were placed in the Mound on Aug. 23. Rocks as far back as 1927 can be seen in the Mound and represent students who make up the Builder Family. (Woon) 4. Anastasia Prokopis, business administration senior, and Jessie Riggs, liberal arts & sciences senior, show their Builder pride by taking part in the SC Breakdown. By raising a one and belting out "SC," students know they are part of the Builder Family. (Woon) Opposite. Hannah Podschun, English senior and Kaley Rodriguez, elementary education senior, sing the alma mater. Podschun and Rodriguez have been members of the Leadership Team for four years, giving them another Builder Family. (Woon, page design Stalder)

Builder Camp

1. Tanner Seidel, general studies senior, Austen Holloway, psychology junior, Emily Honsicker, athletic training sophomore, Rebekah Miller, biology sophomore, Christine Sheppard, chemistry junior, Trey Bruton, mathematics junior, Nolan Davenport, mathematics junior and Jaimee Grinstaff, athletic training junior, relax by the pool during some free time at Builder Camp. This was a good time for freshmen and orientation leaders to get to know each other outside of the assigned activities. (Woon) 2. Tania Espinosa, undeclared freshman and Gabby Gamez, biology freshman, canoe on the lake on the second day of Builder Camp. Canoeing was one of the numerous activities that students had the opportunity to enjoy. (Woon) 3. Raquel Grant, undeclared freshman and Katherine Keene, marine biology freshman, perform a skit

on behalf of the white squad. The skits were the last chance for each team to earn points and wow the judges before the final scores were tallied. (Woon) 4. Braeden Berger, undeclared freshman, Monica Gomez, athletic training freshman and Taylor Bleumer, biology freshman, set up for the tug of war competition. Teams fought in the Battle of the Builders for bragging rights at Builder Camp. The black squad took home first place. (Woon) Opposite. Nicklaus Watts, history sophomore, and Paul Mata, business administration sophomore, fight over the soccer ball on a make-shift field during some down time. Builder Camp took place at Rock Springs Ranch in Junction City, Kan. where freshmen got to know each other on a more personal level before the beginning of the new school year. Fall Frenzy

1. Zenas Lopez, theatre sophomore, aims at a target during one of the games at the back-to-school block party. Students were able to enjoy games, free food, and other activities with their friends before the school year began. (Woon) 2. Mallorie Coffman, athletic training junior, reaches for a paint brush during the rock painting party on the lawn of Wallingford. This event encouraged students to paint rocks and prepare for the Moundbuilding Ceremony which took place Aug. 23. (Woon) 3. Nikia Smith, theatre sophomore, belts it out while singing Kareoke as part of the block party. The block party was a way

Moundbuilding Ceremony

1. Chelsea Broyles, biology freshman, Jana Reichenberger, biology freshman, Bailey VenJohn, communication freshman and Lindsay Schumacher, chemistry freshman, work together to put the Lady Builder Basketball rock atop the mound. The women's basketball team came into this season with 13 newcomers while returning 13 players. (Woon) 2. Erin Resa, nursing senior and Kirstie Gronau, nursing senior, put in the Nurses Christian Fellowship rock for the last time. This was the last year for the nursing program at Southwestern. (Woon) 3. Kyle Killgore, communication junior and Jevyn Voss, communication junior, sing along to the alma mater at the end of the Moundbuilding Ceremony. Singing the historic song that has exactly 77

words was a way for students and faculty alike to join in and show their moundbuilder pride. (Woon) 4. Joey Tran, music junior and Nathan Bales, music freshman, toss the SC choir rock into the mound at Cole Mound Plaza. Students have gathered around the mound since 1927 to listen to Dean Leroy Allen's original speech and place their own personalized rock upon the mound to become a part of history. (Woon) Opposite. Eric Anders, business administration junior and Frank Adelman, psychology senior, place the men's cross country rock into the mound. The men's cross country team got back on top this year by winning the conference championship after a heart wrenching second place in 2011. (Woon, page design Stalder & Blackburn)

New Additions

1. The women's volleyball team breaks a sweat on the new court in Stewart Field House. After getting a new floor in the summer, the volleyball team was the first to experience and play on the newly redone court. (Woon) 2. The Lady Builder basketball team saw some new changes in their locker room. Not only did the locker room get a surround sound system, and a newly mounted television, but the women also acquired two new sets of uniforms that were different than anything they had in the past. (Woon) 3. The Southwestern College soccer teams adopted a new logo this year, taking part in the revamp of the athletic department. Both the women's and men's soccer teams sported the new logo on their uniforms. Both Builder Basketball teams, along with volleyball also unveiled new logos and jerseys. (Woon) 4. As part of the new additions to the athletic department, new chairs were also purchased. The new look using "The Jinx is On" with the Jinx' eyes is part of a logo development that has sparked a change from the old black cat, to a more fierce-looking feline. (Woon) Opposite. With a new court installed in a lighter colored wood and a brand new design, Stewart Field House had other embellishments added to increase its appeal. New banners were hung, a new scorer's table was installed and the gym was ready to host a roaring student section and devoted fans for the first games on the new court. (Woon, page design Stalder & Blackburn).

August

1. Connor Drendel, master's in special education, stretches out before a cross country practice. Drendel performed a major balancing act, as a graduate student, teacher and also continued his running career for the Builder cross country team. (Vadillo) 2. Maddie Chapin, biology junior, winds up for a pass during the purple and white scrimmage. Chapin earned First Team All-KCAC recognition along with three other Builders. Joy Reyes, athletic training freshman, earned second Team All-KCAC, Sierra Meyer, marine biology sophomore and Kaci Hutchinson, elementary education sophomore, received Honorable Mention for the second-straight season. The Lady Builder soccer team ended with a 10-9 record finishing second in the KCAC tournament.

(Carver) 3. Jordan Stalder, psychology senior and Chasity Clark, undeclared sophomore, cover as Kenzie Lewis, business administration sophomore goes up for an attack against College of Saint Mary. The Builders were swept by the flames of Omaha, Neb. in a hard-fought match. (Woon) 4. Jordan Hill, psychology junior, reads his script as part of his audition for "The Miser." The theatre department showcases major plays during each semester while putting on several smaller productions. (Noble) Opposite. Jordan Barrett, sports management senior and Brady May, sports management senior, drop back looking to pass during a practice leading up to the Builders' first game. The team ended with a record of 4-7. (Dick, page design Stalder & Blackburn)

1. Esther Oliver, biology sophomore, gives her personal testimony in Chapel Sept. 5 while Zoe Rea, undeclared freshman, Lindsey Graber, elementary education freshman, Esther Hoon, psychology senior, Keegan Huff, philosophy & religious studies freshman and Brandi Young, athletic training freshman, provide a musical presence. Students spoke about their personal life experiences while gaining the support of their classmates. (Woon) 2. Emily Tilton, music freshman, Jasmine Jackson, music senior, Kaitlyn Holler, music education freshman, Milk Xu, master's in education, sing at the Choral Festival Sept. 26. Many times throughout the year the music department performed concerts for students and the community. (Woon) 3. Nicklaus Watts, history sophomore, slidetackles an opposing player in a non-conference game against the Central Christian Tigers. The Builders came up short against the Tigers and lost 2-0. (Woon) 4. Zoe Rea, undeclared freshman, Julia Faust, theatre junior and Elijah Gutierrez, business administration freshman, act out their parts for "A Flock Flew Over Ohio" by Aron Pfingston, English senior. High school and college students combined forces to write, direct, and perform their plays all within a span of 24 hours. (Woon) Opposite. Kelsey Buffum, mathematics freshman, leads the pack during the WSU Gold Classic in Wichita. The women's cross country team finished the year second at the KCAC meet Nov. 3. (Dick, page design Stalder & Blackburn).

October

1. Sally McGuire, liberal arts and sciences senior, explains her Introduction to Sustainability class project. McGuire wanted to inform others about a green lotion that protects your skin and doesn't harm the environment. (Carver)
 2. Dave Denly, head women's basketball coach, discusses his team dynamics at the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference basketball media day. The Lady Builders were picked to win conference by the media and the coaches. (Dick)
 3. Jordan Giddings, sport management freshman, participates in a magic trick to cut a never ending string. Magician Dennis Watkins performed in

Richardson Performing Arts Center for an estimated 60 students. (Woon)
 3. Tendai Kwaramba, biology senior, works on her Physical Chemistry packet to prepare for an upcoming test. Kwaramba spent countless hours in the library for this course, earning a well-deserved A for the semester. (Jiao)
 Opposite. Rachel Vieyra, freshman setter, gives a signal to a hitter while Ashley Schoenhofer, freshman middle hitter, prepares to run her call to attack Ottawa. The Builders fell to the Braves 25-23, 25-16, 25-16 on Oct. 20. (Vadillo, page design Vieyra).

1. During the annual South Kansas Symphony Halloween concert, performers play songs such as the “Star Wars Epic,” selections from “Phantom of the Opera” and “Corpse Bride” while dressed in a variety of costumes. South Kansas Symphony Conductor Daniel Stevens, associate professor of music, said this is his favorite show because children love the way people get dressed up and play familiar songs. (Woon) 2. Brenna Truhe, accounting freshman, tees off at the South Central Kansas Fall Invitational. The men’s and women’s golf teams hosted this event at the Winfield Country Club. (Dick) 3. After a successful meet receiving 4th of 25 schools, the men’s cross country team comes in for a huddle and the SC breakdown.

Friends of the runners Kaley Rodriguez, elementary education senior, and Jesse Riggs, liberal arts and sciences senior, came out to support them in the Southwestern College NAIA Mid-States Classic. (Stalder) 4. Norman Ornstein speaks about politics during The Docking Lecture. Freshmen were required to attend the lecture for their First Year Experience class to get more information about politics before they voted for their first time. (Jiao) Opposite. Sierra Meyer, sophomore outside midfielder, goes in for a steal while playing against conference opponent Ottawa University. The women ended up losing to the Braves and ended their conference play 4-5 during the 2012 season. (Dick, page design Walker)

Homecoming

1. Dr. Cheryl Rude, director of Leadership Southwestern, and Rev. Ashlee Alley, director of Discipleship, show their Builder pride in front of the Mound wearing new service learning t-shirts for Discipleship, Leadership and Green Team. A photo booth was sponsored for Service Learning alumni after the football game. (Woon) 2. Austin Davis, marine biology freshman, and Zoe Rea, undeclared freshman, perform the opening scene as Valere and Elise in the play "The Miser." A scene from this play performed at KCACTF, a regional theatre festival in Lincoln, Neb. in January. (Woon) 3. Meeka Gentry, psychology senior, and R.J. Schnack, physical performance and sport studies senior, show their excitement for Discipleship's dodgeball match. The traditional Homecoming parade was cancelled due to rain, but the dodgeball match weathered the storm. (Jiao) 4. Anthony Sims, freshman runningback, jukes Friends' lineman during the Homecoming football game. The Builders defeated the Falcons 32-21 to earn Head Coach Ken Crandall's first win over Friends and the football program's 499th win. (Woon) Opposite. August September October November December January

1. Front Row: Alyson Sparkman, psychology senior, Sydnee Nelson, biology senior, Kaley Rodriguez, elementary education senior, Terri Young, donor, Georgianna Young, donor, Frank Adelman, psychology senior, Austin Sacket, business administration senior, Bobby Weidner, master's in business administration. Back Row: Rhea Rollins, physical performance senior, Melissa Roetzer, biology senior, Jessie Riggs, liberal arts and sciences senior, Brad Young, donor, Bill Young, donor, Jordan Barrett, sport management senior, and Michael Morales, accounting senior, were all nominees for the Outstanding Student-Athlete Award. Rodriguez and Adelman were awarded the 2013 Outstanding Student-Athlete Award, donated by the Young family in memory of their daughter, Tracy Young from the class of 1982. (VenJohn) 2. R.J. Schnack, physical performance senior, and Chandler Kirkhart, master's in business administration, battle during the SGA Block Party held on April 29. There were many different activities held at the block party for students to do to take a break from their studies before spring finals. (Carver) 3. During the employee recognition ceremony David Smith, chairperson of the board of trustees, gives Allyson Moon, associate professor of theatre, and Tim Shook, professor of music, awards for their 25 years of service. The ceremony recognizes all staff at Southwestern College. (Jiao) 4. During his senior project "The Complete Works of William Shakespeare: Abridged" Justin Tinker, theatre senior, tries to revive his partner Chris Cole, physical education senior. During this 90-minute compilation, three actors perform all of Shakespeare's 37 plays. (Jiao) Opposite. Greeted by Shelby Tucker, business administration sophomore, and Sara Blackburn, business administration junior, and escorted by her parents and husband Sara Yzquierdo, elementary education senior, is handed her gifts from the softball team during senior night on April 25. The women won the doubleheader against Saint Mary's 3-2 and 4-1. (Vieyra, page design Walker)

1. It all starts with a ceremony and eventually ends with a ceremony. The tradition that begins your journey as a Moundbuilder, starts the day that you place your rock into Cole Mound Plaza. You share experiences with the friends you made at Builder Camp and you walk the halls of Mossman, Beech, or Christy going to class. These buildings will be part of your memories when you look back on the years you spent at Southwestern College. You will remember the historic atmosphere of Stewart Field House and trekking up the 77, but most importantly you remember the family that was created at this beloved institution. The day will come when you walk across the stage and you take a piece of SC with you into the world. You won't remember the classes you took or the sleepless nights in Deets Library. What you will remember is the connections you have made and the friends who are now part of your Builder Family. (Woon) 2. Tashira Triplett, physical performance and sports studies senior, celebrates getting her diploma. The undergraduate ceremony took place May 5 with a temperature of 58 and a gusty wind. (Woon) 3. Amy Thornton, business administration senior, proudly accepts her diploma from Dick Merriman, president. Thornton was the first senior to start the conferring of degrees. (Woon) 4. Audra Mann, philosophy and religious studies senior, awaits the procession to begin the undergraduate ceremony. Seniors walked through a tunnel of supportive faculty before stepping into Richard L. Jantz Stadium. (Woon) Opposite. Derreck Carter-House, biology senior, Danielle Morford, marine biology senior, and Mariam Mamah, biology senior, locate their families before the graduation ceremony. Carter-House was one of two seniors who took home the prestigious Professor Fran Jabara Leadership Award which was decided upon by faculty. (Woon, page design Stalder)
