

Advanced Measure Two: Satisfaction of Graduate Students Fall 24-25

Are you using your graduate degree in your current position?

3 responses

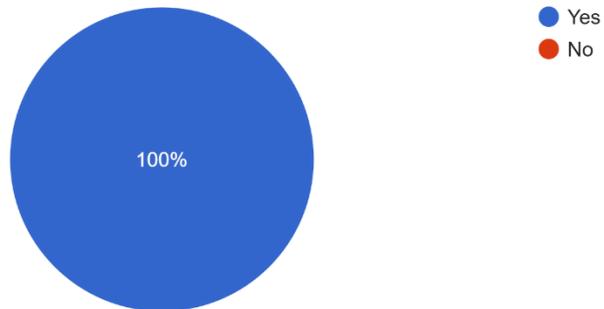

Are you employed by a school district or a higher education institution?

3 responses

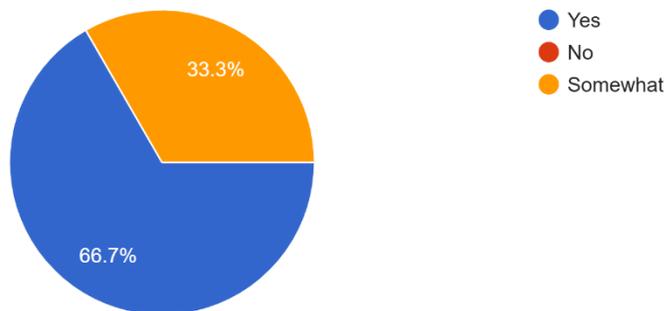

Did you receive a promotion or use your degree to obtain a new position?

3 responses

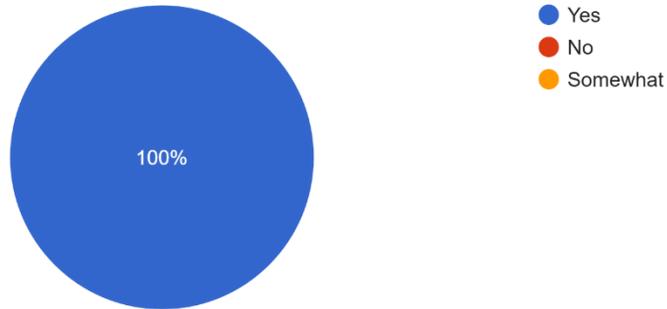

Did your degree adequately prepare you for your position?

3 responses

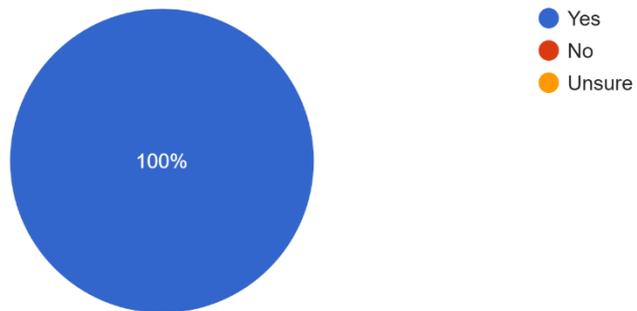

Are you satisfied with the preparation you received at Southwestern?

3 responses

Based on your interactions with your supervisor, do you believe he or she is satisfied with your work?

3 responses

Please add any information below about your level of satisfaction with the doctoral program at SC.3 responses

From my experience, the level of customization and personal attention at Southwestern is what made it stand out. The coursework and support allowed me to leverage my previous district level experience to enhance my scholarly research and writing, eventually leading to the completion of the dissertation. This allowed me to not duplicate previous coursework at other institutions and provided a robust experience that led to the publishing in ProQuest of my dissertation.

I sell the SC program as much as possible. I do not go through a day in my current position I do not use something I learned from SC.

Overall, I am satisfied with my experience. Most importantly, my professors and program director were incredibly supportive and played a key role in helping me complete the program. I appreciated having the opportunity to share feedback throughout the process, and it was well received. I look forward to seeing how the EdD redesign evolves.