

2005 Homecoming in Our Town

Our Town seemed the perfect choice as the Campus Players' Homecoming offering in October. Thornton Wilder's classic play about a small town that goes about its business was an apt parallel for Southwestern's annual get-together. We went about our regular business of living and learning and of building and celebrating relationships (maybe with a touch more panache than usual) as we spotlighted special classes and ◆ philosophy and religion programs.

From top clockwise, photos show the Tri-Beta parade entry; Ugly Man Joel Wilke and Queen Kaely Podschun, both of Winfield; dean of students Dawn Pleas-Bailey in a four-wheeler parade appearance; Builder Games; and the 77 Steps overlooking the Walnut Valley. At left is Norman Callison '63, who played the Stage Manager in Our Town.
